and serue the kyng of Bablon, so shall ye remaine styll in the lande, that I gaue vnto your fathers. * If ye wpll not do this, nor heare the voyce of the Lorde your God, to serue the kyng of Bablon: I shall destroye you in the cyties of Iuda wpthin Ierusalem & wpthout. I wpll also take you from the voyce of mythe, and the voyce of ioye, the voyce of the bydegrome and the voyce of the bride, & there shal no man dwell moze in the lande. But they wolde not hearken vnto thy voyce, to do the kyng of Bablon service: & therefore hast thou performed the wordes that thou spakest by thy seruantes the prophetes, namely, that the bones of oure kynges and the bones of our fathers shulde be translated out of theyr places. And lo, now are they layed oute in the heate of the sunne, & in the cold of the nyght, & deed in great mysery, wpth hunger, wpth weard wpth pestilence, & are clene cast forth. As for the temple wherein thy name was called vpon, thou hast layde it waste, as it is to se this daye: & that for the wyckednes of þe house of Israel, & the house of Iuda. O Lorde our God, thou hast intreated vs after all thy goodnes, & accordyng to al that great louyng merce of thine, lyke as thou spakeste by the seruante Moyses, in the day when thou dydest commaunde hym, to wryte thy lawe before the chyldren of Israel, sayinge. * If ye wpll not hearken vnto my voyce, then shal this greate multitude be turned into a verie small people, for I wpll scater them abrode. For wpthstandyng, I am sure þe this folke wpll not heare me: for it is an hardened people, but in the lande of theyr captiuyte, they shal remember them selues, and learne to know, that I am the Lord theyr God, wher I geue them an herte to vnderstand, and eares to heare. Then shal they prayse me in the lande of theyr captiuyte: & thynke vpon my name. Then shal they turne them from theyr harde backs, and from theyr vngodlynesse. Then shal they remember the thynges, that happened vnto theyr forefathers, whych synned agaynst me. So I wpll bring them agayne into the land wher I promysed wpth an oth vnto theyr fathers. Abraham, Isaac, & Jacob, and they shal be lordes of it: yee, I wpll increase them, and not mynyshe them. * And I wpll make another couenant wpth them: such one as shal endure for euer, namely, that I wpll be theyr God, & they shal be my people: and I wpll nomoze dryue my people the chyldren of Israel, oute of the lande that I haue geuen them.

The. iii. Chapter.

The people contynue in the prayer begin for theyr deliuerance. The prayer is wrytten vnto the people, shewyng that so great a delusioun came vnto them for the dyspysing thereof. And by God was the spoure of wisdom, of þe seruatioun of chylde.

Hear now the prayer of the deed Israelites and of thy children, which have sinned before the, and not hearkened unto the voice of the Lord thy God, for the which cause these plagues hange now upon us: O Lord, remember not the wickedness of our forefathers, but thy name upon thy power and name now at this time: for thou art the Lord our God: & the (O Lord) we will praise. For thou hast put thy fear in our hearts, to the intent that we should call upon thy name, and praise thee in our captivity, and that we might turne from the wickedness of our forefathers, that sinned before thee.

their wickedness, and departing from thee.

O Israel, heare the commandmentes of life: ponder them well with thine eares, that thou mayest learne wisdom. But how happeneth it Israel, that thou art in thine enemies land thou art waxen olde in a strange country, & defyled with the deed. Why art thou become like them, that go downe to their graves: For because thou hast forsaken the way of wisdom for thou haddest walked in the way of God truly, thou shouldest have remayned still safe in thine owne land. O learne then where discrecion is, where vertue is, where understanding is, & thou mayest knowe also from whence com-of the eyes, & quietnes. Who ever found out her

Where are the princes of the heathen become, and such as ruled & beasted upon the earth?
They that had their pasture with the fowles of the ayre, that hoorded up silver & gold (when in men trust so much) and made no ende of their gathering: What is become of them & they silver, and were so carefull, & could not bypasse their workes to passe: They be roted out, and gone downe to hell, and other men are come up in their steads. Young men have sene light, and dwelt upon earth: but the way of reforma-cion have they not knowne, nor understande the pathes thereof: neither have they children received it: yee, yee, light is it from them. It hath not bene heard of in the land of Canaan, neither hath it ben sene at Cheman.

Jerem. li. b
The Agarenes sought after wisdom, but that which is earthly, like as the marchantes of the land do. They of Cheman are con-nyng also, and they labour for wisdom and they knowe not: neither do they thynke upon the pathes thereof. O Israel howe greates is the house of God: and how large is the place of his possession: Great is he and hath no ende yee, & unmesurable. What is become of those famous Spautes, that were so greates of bodies, and so worthy me of warre: Those had not the Lord chosen, neither have they founde the way of reformation, therefore were they destroyed: & for so much as they had no wisdom, they perished because of their foolishness.

dom, neither is there any that can take out her pathes. But he that wotteth all thynges, knoweth her, and he hath founde her out with his foreknowledge. & This same is he which prepared the earth at the begynnyng and fylled it with all maner of fowles and beastes. When he sendeth out the light, it goeth and when he callet it agayne it obeyeth hym with feare.
The fowles kepe their watche, and geue their light: yee, & that gladly. When he callet them they say: here we be. And so with chearfulnesse

We of good cheare O my chyldren, crye vnto the Lorde, and he shall deliuer you from the power of y<sup>e</sup> pynnes, your enemyes. For verily, I haue cunct a good hope of your prosperous health yea, a very gladnes is come vpon me from the holy one, because of the mercy y<sup>e</sup> shall haue of oure euerlastyng sauyng.

With mournyng & wepyng dyd I let you go from me, but with ioye & perpetual gladnesse shall the Lorde bringe you agayne vnto me. Lyke as the neyghbours of Syon sawe your captiuitie from God. O my chyldren, and crye vnto the Lorde: For he that led you awaye, hath you yet in remembraunce. * lyke as we haue ben mynded to swarue from you God. * so shall ye nowe endeouore poure selues ten tymes more, to turne agayne & to seke hym. For lyke as they be nowe gladd of thy decaye & reioyce at thy fall so shall they murre in their owne destruction. ### The v. Chapter.

Jerusalem is moued vnto gladnes for the returne of her people, and vnder the figure thereof, the church,

Jerusalem, looke aboute the towarde the East, and behold the ioye that cometh vnto the fro God. For loo, thy sonnes, whome thou hast forsaken, and that were scatered abroad, com gathered togethered, from the east & west, reioysyng in y<sup>e</sup> word of the holy one, vnto the honour of god.

Put of thy mournyng clothes. O Jerusalem and thy sorowe, & decke the with the worshippe and honoure, that cometh vnto the fro God, with euerlastyng glorie. God shall put the garmente of ryghteousnesse vpon the, and sette a crowne of euerlastyng worshippe vpon thyne heade for vpon the wyll God declare his brightenes, y<sup>e</sup> is vnder the heauen. Yee, an euerlastyng name shall be geuen the of God, whiche peace of ryghteousnesse, & the honour of Gods feare.

Arise, O Jerusalem, stande vp an hye. looke aboute y<sup>e</sup> towarde the East, and behold thy chyldren gathered from the East, vnto y<sup>e</sup> west whiche reioyse in thy holy word, hauing God in remembraunce. They departed from the one foote, and were led awaye of theyr enemyes but nowe shall y<sup>e</sup> Lord bringe them carped wth honour as chyldren of the kyngedome. For God is purposed to bringe downe all stoute mountaynes: yea and all hye rockes, to fyll the valleyes and so to make them euen with the grounde: that Israel maye be diligent to lyue vnto the honour of God. The wooddes and all pleasaunte trees shall ouer shadowe Israel, at the commaundement of God. For better shall God bringe Israel with ioyfull mynde, and in the lychte of his maiesty. With the mercy and ryghteousnesse that cometh of hym selfe.

The vi Chapter.

A copy of the prophete Jeremes sent vnto the yewes, whiche were led awaye prisoners, y<sup>e</sup> the kyng of Babilon, wherein he comforteth them of the charge y<sup>e</sup> was commaunded hym of God.

to Babilon, ye shall remayne there manye yeres, ad for a longe season namely seven generations, and after that wyll I bringe you awaye peaciably from thence. Howe shall ye se in Babilon goddes of golde, of syluer, of wood, and of stone, borne vpon mens shulders, to caste oute a fearfulness before the heathen. But looke that ye do not as the other, be not ye afrayed, and let not the feare of them overcome you.

Therefore, when ye se the multitude of people worshyping them behynde & before, sape ye in poure hertes. O Lorde, * it is thou that ouercomest the onely to be worshipped. Myne Angell also shall be with you, and I my selfe wyll care for poure soules. As for the tumber of those goddes, the carpenter hath polished them yea, gilted be they, and layde ouer with syluer, yet are they but wayn thynges, and cannot speake. Lyke as a wench y<sup>e</sup> loneth paramoures is trymplyd, euen so are these made and hanged with golde. Crownes of golde verily haue theyr goddes vpon goddess upon theyr heades to the prestes them selues take gold and syluer from them: and put it to theyr owne vles pea, they gene of f same vnto harlottes, and trimme theyr whores with al: agayne, they take it from theyr whores, and decke theyr gods there wyth. * Yet cannot these gods delpue them selues from rust and mothe When they haue couered them wyth clothynge of purple, they wpye theyr faces for the duste of the temple, wherof there is muche among them One hath a Septer in hys hande as though he were Iuge of the countrey: yet can he not llype suche as offende hym. Another hath a swerde or an axe in hys hande, for all that he is neyther hable to defende hym selfe from battayle, nor fro murderers. By thys ye maye vnderstand, that they be no gods therfore se that ye neyther wor shyp them, nor feare them. For lyke as a vessel that a man vseth, is nothyng worth when it is broken, euen so is it with theyr gods. Whē they be set vp in the temple, theyr eyes be full of dust thowge the sete of thole p come in. And lyke as the doores are shut in rounde aboute vpon hym that hath offended the kynge. Or as it were a dead bodie kepte besyde the graue. Euen so the prestes kepe the doores wyth barres and lockes least theyr gods be spoyled with robbers. They set vp candels before them: yee, verely and that manye whereof they cannot se one but euen as blockes so stande they in the temple. It is layde that the serpentes and wormes, which come of the earth, knowe oute theyr hertes, eatynge the and theyr clothes also, and yet they feele it not.

Theyr faces are black thowge the smoke that is in the temple. The oules, swallows and byr des, fly vpon them, yee, & the cattes runne ouer theyr heades. By thys ye may be sure, that they are not gods, therfore feare them not. The gold that they haue, is to make them bewtyfull. for all that, excepte some bodie dyght of theyr rust they wyll geue no myne: & when they were cast into a fourme, they felt it not. They are bought for mony and haue no byeth of lyfe within them * They muste be borne vpon mens shuldres, as those that haue no feete: wherby they declare vn to men, that they be nothyng worth. * Confoū ded be they then that worshyp them, for if they fall to the grounde, they cannot ryse vp agayne of them selues. Yee though one helpe them vp & set them ryghte, yet are they not able to stande alone but must haue proppes set vnder them ly ke dead men. As for the thyng that is offred vn to them, theyr prestes sell it, and abuse it yee, the prestes wpye take thereof: but vnto the lycke and poxe, they geue nothyng of it the wo men wyth chyldre, and the menstruous laye han des of theyr offerynges. By this ye may be sure that they are no gods, therfore be not ye afrayd of them. From whence cometh it then, y they are called gods? The women syt before the god des of syluer, golde, & woode, & the prestes syt in theyr temples, haupng open clothes, whose bedes & beerdes are shauen & haue nothyng vpon their heades: rooyng. and crynge vpon theyr gods as men do at the feaste when one is deade.

The prestes also take awaye the garmetes of the ymages, and decke theyr wyues & chy dren wythall. Whether it be good or euell that any man do vnto the, they are not able to reco pense it: they can neyther sette vp a kynge nor put hym downe. In lyke maner they may ney ther geue ryches, nor rewarde euell. * Though a man make a bodie vnto the and kepe it not, they wyll not requyre it. They can saue no mā from deathe, neyther delpue the weake from the myghtye. They cannot restore a blynde mā to hys syghte, nor helpe anye man at hys nede.
They can shewe no mercy to the wyddowe, nor do good to the fatherlesse. Theyr goddes of wodde, stone, golde, and syluer, are but euen as other stones, that be hewen of the mountayne.
They that worshyp them, shal be confounded.
Howe shulde they than be taken for goddes?
Yee, howe dare men call them goddes? And though the Caldres worshypped them not bea ringe y they were but dome & could not speake.
Yet they the selues offre vnto Well, and wolde saye haue hym to speake: as who saye, they coude fele, that may not moue. But whē these men come to vnderstandyng, they shal forsake the, for their goddes haue no helyng. A greate sorte of wemen gyde wyth coardes, sytte in the streets, & burne olue berries. Now yf one of the be coueyed awaye, & lye w any such as come by: she casteth her neyghbours in the teth, because she was not so worthely reputed, nor her coard broke. Whatsoeuer is done for the, it is but in vayne & lost. Howe maye it the be sayd or thou ght, that they are goddes? Carpenters & gol desmythes make the, neyther be they any other thyng but euen what the workemen wyll make of them. Yee, the goldesmythes them sel ues that make them, are of no longe contynu aunce. Howe shulde then the thynges that are made of them, be goddes? Clayne therfore are the thynges: yee, verely shaine is it that they leue beynde them for theyr prosperyte. If or alsoone as there cometh any warre or plague vpon them, then the prestes ymagyne, wher they maye hyde them selues wyth them. Howe can men thynke then, y they be goddes, wher they neyther may defende them selues from warre, nor delpue them from mysfortune? For sepyng they be but of wood, of stone, of syluer and of golde all people and kynges shal knowe here after that they be but vayne thynges: yee, it shal be openly declared, that they be no goddes: but euen the very workes of mens handes, and that God hath nothyng to do wyth them. (It is manifeste then that they are no goddes, but the workes of mens hādes, and no worcke of God in them.) They can set no kynge in the lande, nor geue rayne vnto me. They can geue no sentence of a matter, neyther defende the lāde from wyng. For they are not able to do so moche as a crowe, that flyeth betwyxte hea uen and earthe.

Whan there happeneth a fyre into the house of those goddes of wodde, and syluer, and of golde, the prestes wyll scape and saue them egg selues

selues, but the goddes burne as the balkes ther in. They cannot wythstand any kynge or battell. howe may it then be thoughte or graunted, that they be goddes? Mozeouer, these goddes of wodde, of stone, of golde, and syluer may nether defende them selues from theues nor robbers pee, the very wycked are stronger the they.
These strypppe them oute of theyr apparell, that they be clothed withall, these take theyr golde & syluer from them, and so get the away. yet cathey not helpe them selues. Therefore it is moch better for a man, to be a kynge, and so to thewe hys power: or els a profitable vessel in a house, wherin he that owethe it, myghte haue pleasure: pee, or to be a doze in a house, to kepe suche thynges safe as be therein, the to be such a vayne god. The Sunne, the moone, & all the starres, seyunge they geue theyr lyghte and lyghte, are o-bedyent, and do men good. When the lyghte-nyng glistereth, all is cleare. The wynde bloweth in euery countre and wha God commaundeth the cloudes to go rounde about the whole worlde, they do as they are bydden, when the fyr is sent downe from aboue & commaunded, it burneth vpon hylles and woddes. But as for those goddes, they are not lyke one of these thin-ges, neyther in beuetye, neyther strenght. Wherefore, men shoulde not thynke nor saie that they be goddes, seyunge they can neyther geue sentence in iudgemente, nor do men good. For so muche nowe as we are sure, that they be no goddes, then feare the not. For they can neyther speake euell nor good for kynge. They can shewe no tokens in heauen for the heathen, neyther lyghte as the Sunne, nor geue lyghte as the Moone: pee, the vnrasonable beastes are better then they, for they can get them vnder the rose, and do them selues good. So can we be certyfyed by nomanner of meanes, that they be goddes: therfore feare them not. For lyke as a scarcrowe in a garden of herbes kepeth not byng, euen so are theyr goddes of wodde, of syluer and golde: and lyke as a white thorne in an orcharde, that euerye byrde sytteth vpon: pee, lyke as a dead bodpe that is caste in the darcke. Euen so is it with those goddes of wodde, syluer and golde.
By the purple and scarlet whiche they haue vpon them, and soone saydeth awaye: we maye vnderstande, that they be no goddes: pee, they them selues shalbe consumed at the laste, whiche shalbe a great confusyon of the lande. Blessed is the godly man, that hath no ymages and worshyppeth none, for he shalbe farre from reprobacion.

this songe in the thyrde Chapter of Danyel

And they walked in the myddest of the flamme prayyng God and magnifyed the Lorde. A-saryas stode vp, and prayde ou-this maner. Euen in the myd-dest of the fyre opened he hys mouth & sayde. Blessed be thou (O Lorde God of our fathers) thyng it worthy to be praysed and honoured is thy name of thyne foreuermore: for thou arte ryghteous in al the thin-ges that thou hast done vnto vs, Pee, saythfull are all thy worckes, thy wayes are ryght, & all thy iudgementes true. In al thynges that thou hast brought vpon vs, and vpon the holy cytye of oure fathers (euen Jerusalem) thou hast ex-tuted true Iudgemente: pee, accordyng to ryght and equyte hast thou broughte al these thynges vpon vs because of oure synnes.

For wher we haue offended and done wyckedlye, departyng from the: In all thynges haue we trespassed, and not obayed thy comma-ndementes, nor kept them, neither done as thou hast bydden vs, & we myght prosper. Wherefore all that thou hast broughte vpon vs, and euery thyng that thou hast done to vs, thou hast done them in true Iudgement. As in deliuer-ing vs into the handes of oure enemyes, among vngodlye and wycked ymagynatyonis, and to an vnyghteous kynge, pee, the most frowarde vppon earth. And now we maye not open oure mouthes, we are become a shame and reproche vnto thy seruauntes, and to them that worshyppe thee: For thy names sake (we beseech the) geue vs not vp for euer, breake not thy couenaunt, & take not awaye thy mercye from vs, for thy be-loued Abrahams sake, for thy seruaunt Isaaks sake, and for thy holy Israels sake. To whom thou hast spoken and promysed: that thou wol-dest multiply the seede as the sterres of heauen & as the sande & lyeth vpon the see Moore. For we (O Lord) are become lesse then any people, & be-kept vnder this dawe in all the world because of oure synnes. So that now we haue nether priuce, propheet, burnt offering sacrifice, oblatyon, incense, nor Sanctuary before the.

Neuethelste, in a contryte herte & an humble sprete, let vs be receaued, that we maye op-tayne thy mercye. Lyke as in the burnt offering of Rammes and bullockes, & lyke as in thousa-des of fat lambes so let our offeringes be in thy syght this day, that it may please the. For ther is no confusyon vnto them that put there truste in the. And now we folowe the with all oure herte, we feare the & lyke thy face. Put vs not to shame, but deale with vs after thy louyng kynd-nes, and accordyng to the multitude of thy mercies Deliuere vs by thy myracles. O Lord, and get thy name an honour, that all they whiche do thy seruauntes euell, may be confounded.

The story of Susanna

wyche is the thritene Chapter of Daniel after the Latyn.

Here dwelt a man in Babilon called Joachym, that tooke a wyfe, whose name was Susanna, the daughter of helchya, a verpe sayre woman and suche one as feared God. Her father & her mother also were godly people, and taught thep doughter accor- dyng to the lawe of Moyses. Nowe Joachym (her husband) was a greate ryche man, and had a sayre orchard iopnyng vnto hys house. And to hym resorted the Jewes comenly, because he was a ma of reputacion amonge the. The same yere were there made two iudges, suche as the Lorde speaketh of: All the wyckednes of Babilon

The story of Susanna

Ion cometh from the elders (that is) from the iudges, which seme to rule þ people. These cam oft to Joachims house, and al such as had anye thing to do in þ law came they thether vnto the Nowe when the people came agayne at after none, Susanna went into her husbandes orcharde, to walke. The elders seinge thys that she wente in daylye, and walked, they butred for lust to her pee, they were almost out of their wittes, & cast downe theys eyes, that they wold not se heauen, nor remember that God is a righteous Iudge. For they were bothe wounded w the loue of her, neyther durst one shewe another his greife. And for shame, they durst not tel her theys inordynat lust, that they wold sayne haue to do with her. Yet they layde wayte for her earnestly from dape to dape, that they myghte (at the lest) haue a spghte of her. And the one sayde to the other: Up, let vs go home, for it is dyner tyme. So they wente theys waye from her.

When they returned agayne, they came together, enquyringe out the matter betwixte them selues: pee, the one tolde the other of his wycked lust. Then appoynted they a tyme whē they myghte take Susanna alone.

It happened also that they spyed oute a conueniente tyme, when she wente forth to walke (as her maner was) and nobodys wth her, but two maydens, and thought to washe her selfe in the garde, for it was an hote season: And ther was not one patson there, except þ two elders þ had hyd them selues to behold her. So they said to her maydens: go let me oyle & sope, & shut the orcharde doze, that I maye washe me. And they dyd as she had them, and shut the orcharde doze and wente oute them selues at a backe doze, to fet þ thyng that she had commaunded but Susanna knewe not, that the elders laye there hyd wthyn. Nowe when the maydens were gone forth, the two Elders gat them vp and came vpon her, sayinge: nowe the orcharde dozes are shut, that no man can se vs: we haue a lust vnto the, therfore consente vnto vs, and lye wth vs

If thou wylte not, we wyllynge a testy monypall agaynst the, that there was a ponge felowe wth the, and that thou hast sente away thy maydens from the for the same cause. Susanna spghed, and sayde. Alas. I am in trouble on euery syde. Though I folowe youre mynde, it wyllynge my deathe, and yf I consente not vnto you, I cannot escape your handes. Wel, it is better for me, to fa linto youre handes without the dede doyng, then to synne in the spghte of the Lord: and wth that, she cryed out wth a loud voyce: the elders also cryed oute agaynst her.

Then ranne there one to the orcharde doze and smote it open. Nowe when the seruauntes of the house hearde the crye in the orcharde they rushed in at the backe doze, to se what the matter was. So when the elders tolde them, the seruauntes were greatly ashamed, for whys there was neuer suche a reposte made of Susanna.

On the morowe after, came the people to Joachym her husbnde, and the two elders came also, full of myscheuous ymaginacyon agaynst

Susanna, to bypnyge her vnto death, and spake thus before the people. Sende for Susanna the daughter of helchias, Joachyms wyfe. And immediately they sente for her. So she came wth her father and mother, her chyldren and all her kynred. Nowe Susanna was a tender person and meruelous fayre of face. Therfore the wycked men commaunded to take of the clothes fro her face (for she was couered) that at þ lest they myghte so be satisfied in her bewty. Then her feldes-pee, & all they þ knewe her, began to wepe.

These two elders stode vp in the myddest of the people, & and layde theys handes vnto Susanna, whych wepte and looked vp towarde heauen, for her herte had a sure truste in the Lorde. And the elders sayde: As we were talkynge in the orcharde alone thys woman came in wth her two maydens whome she sente awaye from her, & spared the orcharde dozes: with þ a ponge felowe (whych there was hyd) came vnto her, and laye wth her. As for vs, we stode in a corner of the orcharde. And when we sawe thys wyckednesse, we ranne to her: and perceaued, that they had medeled together. But we coude not hold hym, for he was stronger then we: thus he opened the doze and gat hym awaye.

Nowe when we had taken thys woman, we asked her what ponge felowe this was: but she wolde not tell vs. Thys is the matter, and we be wytnesses of the same. The comen sorte beleued them: as those that were the elders and Iudges of the people, and so they condemned her to death. Susanna cryed oute wth a loude voyce and sayde. O euerlastynge God, & thou searcher of secretes, thou that knowest all thynges afore they come to passe: thou wottest, that they haue doyne false wytnesse agaynst me, and behelde, I must dye, where as I neuer dyd such thynges, as these men haue malyciously inuented agaynst me. And the Lorde heard her voyce. For when she was led forth to death, the Lorde raysed vp the sperte of a ponge chyld, whose name was Danyell, whych cryed wth a loude voyce: & I am cleane from thys bloud. Then all the people turned them towarde hym, & sayde: What meane these wordes, that thou hast spoken? Danyell stode in the myddeste of them and sayde: Are ye suche fooles, O ye chyldren of Israel, þ pe cannot dyscerne nor knowe the truth? Ye haue hear condemned a daughter of Israel vnto death, and knowe not the truth wherfore. So lyt on Iudgements agayne, for they haue spoken false wytnesse agaynst her.

Therfore the people turned agayne in all the haste. And the elders (that is the pryncypal heades) sayde vnto hym: come lyt downe here amonge vs, and shewe vs thys matter, seynge God hath geuen the as greate honoure as an elder. And Danyell sayde vnto them: But these two asyde one from another, & then shal I heare them. When they were put asonder one from another, he called one of them and sayd vnto him. O thou cankered carle, that hast vled thy wyckednes so long thynne vngacious dedes whych thou hast done afore, are nowe come to lyghte.

For thou haste geuen false Judgements, thou hast oppressed the innocent, and lettent the gyltpe go free where as yet the Lorde sayth * The innocente and righteous se thou slay not. Well, than pf thou haste sene her, tel me vnder what tree sawest thou them talkynge together he answered. vnder a Holbery tree. And Danypell sayde. very well, nowe thou lpeest euen vpon thyne owne heade. Loo, the messaunger of the Lorde hath receaued the sentence of hym, to cut the in two. Then put he hym asyde, & called for the other, & sayd vnto him O p seide of Canaã, but not of Juda. Nayzenes hath dysceaued the, and lust hath subuerted thyne he te. Thus dealte ye afoze wpth the daughters of Israell, and they (for feare) consented vnto you but the daughter of Juda wolde not abyde poure wpykednesse. Then Helchia and his wyfe praysed God for theyr daughter Susanna, wpth Joachym her husbandre and all the kynred that there was no dyshonestye founde in her. From that dape forth was Danypell had in greates reputacyon in the syghte of the people. (And kynge Astyages was layde wpth his fathers, and Cyrus of Persya raygned in hys stead.)

The story of Bel and of the Dragon, whypch is p fortene Chapter of Danypell after the Latyn.

Danypell dyd eate at the kynges table, and was had in reuerence about al his frendes. There was at Babylon an Image, called Bell & there were spent vpon hym euery dape, twelue cakes, fortye shepe, and syre greates pottes of wyne hym dyd the kynge worshippe hym selfe, and wente daylye to honoure hym but Danypell worshipped hys owne God. And the kynge sayde vnto hym. wpy doest not thou worshippe Bell. He answered and sayde. * Because I may not worshippe thynges that be made wpth handes, & But the lypunge

God whypch made heauen and earth. And hathe power vpon all fleshe. The kynge sayde vnto hym. thynckest thou not that Bell is a lypunge God. O seest thou not howe muche he eateth & dryncketh euery dape. Danypell smyled and sayd. O kynge, dysceau not thy selfe, for thys is but made of clape wythin, and of metall wythoute. * neyther eateth he euer anye thyng.

Then the kynge was wroth & called for his prestes, & sayd vnto them. Pse tel me not who is thys, p eateth vp these expences, ye shall dye: but pse cancert ppe me p Bel eateth them, the Danypell shal dye, for he hath spoken blasphemyp agaynst Bell. And Danypell sayd vnto p kynge: let it so be, accordynge as thou hast sayde. The prestes of Bell were: lxx. besyde theyr wyues & chyldren. And the kynge went wpth Danypell into the temple of Bel. So Bels prestes sayde: Loo, we wyll go oute, and sette thou the meate there (O kynge) and poure in the wyne, the shut the doze fast, and scale it with thyne owne syngnet: and tomorowe when thou comest in, pse thou syndest not that Bel hath eaten vp al, we wyll suffre dearthe, as els Daniel that hath lped vpon vs. The prestes thought them selues sure ynoughe, for vnder the altare they had made a priuie extraunce, and there went they in cunct, and dyd eate vp what there was.

So when they were gone forth, the kynge set me saes before Bel. Now Daniel had commaunded his seruantes to bypunge allthes, and the se he syfeted thozowout all the temple, that p kynge myght se. Then went they out, and sparrd the doze, scalynge it with the kynges signet, and so departed. In the nyght came the prestes, with theyr wyues and chyldren (as they were wonte to do, and dyd eate and drynke vp all. In the mornynge bytymes at the breake of the dape, the kynge arose, and Daniel with hym. And p king sayde Daniel, are the scales whole yet. He answered yee. O kynge) they be whole. Nowe as soone as he had opened the doze, the kynge looked vnto the altare, and cryed with a loude voyce. Great art thou (O Bel) and with the is no dyscepte. Then laughed Daniel, and helde the king that he shoulde not go in, and sayde: Wsholde the pauement, marke well whose foote steppes are these. The kynge sayd. I se the foote steppes of men, women, and chyldren.

Therefore the kynge was angrye, and toke the prestes, with theyr wyues and chyldren, and they shewed hym the priuie dozes, where they came in, & dyd eat vp suche thynges as wer byd the altare. For the whiche cause the kynge slue them, & and delpuered Bel into Daniels power which destroyed hym and his temple.

And in that same place there was a greates dragon, whiche they of Babylon worshipped. And the kynge sayde vnto Daniel. sayest thou, p thys is but a god of metall alfor lo, he lpueth, he eateth and dryncketh: so that thou canste not saye, that he is no lypunge god, therefore, worshipspe hym. Danypell sayde vnto the kynge: I wyll worshipspe the Lorde my God, * he is the true lypunge God: as for this, he is not p god of Egg lly lpe.

Then Daniel toke pitch, fat, and beary wol, & did seth the together & made loyes therof this he put in the dragons mouth, & so the dragon burst in sunder: & Daniel sayd to, there is he: whom ye worshiped. When they of Babylon heard that, they toke greate indignacion and gathered them together agaynste the kynge, sayinge: The kynge is become a Jew, and he hath destroyed Bel, he hath slayne the dragō, & put the prestes to death So they came to the kynge, & sayde: let vs haue Daniel, or els we wyl destroye the & thyne house

The prayer of Manas-

ses kynge of Iuda, when he was holden captiue in Babylon.

Lord Almyghty, God of our fathers, Abraham, Isaac, & Jacob, and of the righteous seide of them: which hast made heauen & earth, with al the ornament therof, whych hast ordeyned the see, by the word of thy comaundement which hast shut vp the depe, & hast sealed it for thy fearful and laudable name, whych all men feare, and tremble before the face of thy vertue, and for the anger of thy threatenynge, the whiche is importable to sinners. But the mercy of thy promysse is great and vncercheable, for thou arte the Lord God most hye aboue all the earth, longesufferynge, & exceedynge mercifull, and repentaunte for the malysce of men. Thou Lorde after thy goodnes hast promysed repentaunce of the remysyon of synnes: and thou art the God of the righteous hast not put repentaunce of the righteous Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob: vnto them that haue synned agaynst the: But because I haue synned aboue the number of the sandes of the see, & that myne iniquities are multiplied, I am humbled wth manye bandes of pryn, and there is in me no breathynge. I haue prouoked thyne anger, & haue done euell before the, in conuyltynge abhomynacion and multiplynge offences. And now I bowe the knees of my herte, requyring goodnes of the O Lorde, I haue synned, I orde I haue synned, and knowe myne iniquyte. I desyre the by prayer, O Lord forgiue me. forgiue me, and destroye me not wth myne iniquities nether do thou alwayes remember myne euels, to punyssh them, but saue me (whych am unworthy) after thy greate mercy: and I wyl prayse the euertlastynge, all the dayes of my lyfe for all the vertue of heauen prayseth the, and vnto the belongeth glory world without ende. Amen.

The fyfthe booke of the Machabees.

The fyfthe Chapter.

After the death of Alexander the kynge of Macedonys, Antiochus toke the kyngdome of the chylzen of Israel, & made colonaute in the Gentys. Antiochus inuadeth Egypt and Jerusalem by to his domynion. Jerusalem by Antiochus was burnt with fyer of her stone, & destroyed in kepe Gods lawes, & Antiochus setteth vp an Idoll ouer the alter of God.

After that Alexander the sonne of Philyppe, kynge of Macedonys wente forth of the lande of Cethim, and slew Darpius kynge of the Persians and Medes. It happened that he toke greate warres in hande, wanne ver manye stronge Cyties, and slew manye laynges of the earth, goynge thorow to the endes

Howe when the kynge sawe, that they rushed in so sore vpon hym, & that necessity constrained hym, he deliuered Daniel vnto them which cast him into the lions den, wher he was vi. dayes. In the denne there were seuen Lyons and they had geuen them euery day two bodies and two shepe. whych then were not geuen the, to the intente that they myghte deuour Daniel.

There was in Jewrye a Prophete called Abacuc, whych had made pottage, and broken breade in a deepe platter, and was goynge into the felde, for to brynge it to the rehers. But the Angel of the Lorde sayde vnto Abacuc, go carry the meate that thou haste into Babylon, vnto Daniel, whych is in the Lyons denne. And Abacuc sayde: Lord, I neuer sawe Babylon: and as for the denne, I knowe it not.

Then the Angel of the Lord toke him by the toppe, and bare him by the heare of the head & (thorow a myghty wynde) set hym in Babilon vpon the denne And Abacuc cryed, saynge. O Daniel & thou seruante of God, haue, take the breakefaste, that God hath sente the. And Daniel sayd: O God hast thou thought vpon me: wel, thou neuer failest them that loue the. So Daniel arose, and dyd eate: and the Angel of the Lorde set Abacuc in his owne place agayne immediatly.

Upo the seuenth dape, the kynge wente to beweepe Daniel: and when he came to the denne he looked in: and beholde, Daniel sat in the myddest of the Lyons. Then cryed the kynge wth a loude voyce, sayinge: great art thou O Lorde

God of Daniel & he drewe hym out of the Lyons denne. & As for those that were the cause of his destruction, he dyd cast them into the denne, & they were deuoured in a moment before his face

After this, wrote the kynge vnto all people, kynredes and tonges, that dwelte in all countreys, sayinge: peace be multiplyed wth you. His comaundement is in all the domynion of my realme: that men feare and stande in awe of Daniels God: for he has the luyngge God, whych endureth euer: his kyngdome abydet vncorrupte, and his power is euertlastynge. It is he that can deliuer & saue. he doth wonders and marvelous workes in heauē and in earth, for he hath saued Daniel from the power of the Lyons.

to the endes of the worlde, and gettinge manye spoyles of the people: in so much that the worlde stode in greate awe of hym, * & therefore was he proude in hys herte. Nowe when he had gathered a myghty strong host, & subdued the landes and people wth thyr pynnes, so that they became tributaries vnto hym: he fell speke. And whē he perceaued þ he must nedes dye, he called for his noble estates, which had bene broughte vp with him of children: * and parted hys kyngdome amonge them, whyle he was yet aljue.

So Alexander raygned xii. yere and then dyed

After hys death fell the kyngedome vnto hys pynnes, and they optayned it euerye one in hys rowme, and caused them selues to be crowned as kynges: and so dyd they: chyliden after them many yeres, and much wickednes increased in the worlde. Oute of these came the vngra-cious rote, noble Antiochus the sonne of Antiochus the kyng, * whych had bene a pledge at Rome and he raygned in the .C. and seuen and thyrty yere of the empyre of the Grekes.

In those dayes wente there out of Israell wycked men, which moued muche people wth theyr counsaill sayinge: * Let vs go and make a conuenaunt with the heathen, that are rounde about vs: for sence we departed from them we haue had much sorowe. So thys deuyse pleased them wel, and certayne of the people toke vpon them for to go vnto the kyng, whych gaue the lycence to do after the ordinance of the heathē

* Then set they vp an open scole (at Ierusalem) of the lawes of the heathen, and were nomore cōsumyng: but forsoke the holys testament, & topned them selues to the heathen, * and were cleane sold to do myschete. So whē Antiochus beganne to be myghty in hys kyngedome, he went about to optayne the lande of Egypte also, þ he myghte haue the domynion of two real-mes, * vpon thys entred he into Egypt wth a stronge host, wth charrettes, elephantes, horse men, and a great number of mynnynges: & beganne to warre agaynst Ptolome the kyng of Egypt But Ptolome was afrayed of hym and fled: & manye of hys people were wounded to deathe.

Thus Antiochus wanne many stronge cities & toke away great good out of the land of Egypt

* And after þ Antiochus had smytten Egypt, he turned agayne in the .C. lxxi. yere, and went towarde Israell, & came vp to Ierusalem wth a myghty people: & entred proudly into þ Sanctuary, & toke away the golden aulter, the candelstyeke and all the ornamentes therof, the table of the shewbread, the powring vessel, the chargers, the golden spoues, the vasi, the crow-nes, and þ golden apparel of the temple, & brake downe al þe toke also the siluer and gold, þ precious Jewels, and the secret treasurs þ he found And when he had taken away altogether, caused a great mynnyng of men, & so fulfilled his malicyous pryde, he departed into his owne lande

Thus there arose greate heynesse & mys-ery in al the land of Israell * The pynnes & the elders of the people mourned, the yong men & the maydens were despyled, and the fayre bewte of women was chaunged the bydegrome and the bryde toke them to mourning. the lande & those that dwelte therein, was moued for al the house of Jacob was broughte to confusyon.

* After two yeres the kyng sente hys chefe treasurer into the ctyres of Iuda, whych came to Ierusalem wth a greate myltitude of people, speakinge peacable wordes vnto them but all was dysceate. for when they had geuen hym credence, he fell sodenly vpon the ctyr, and sioate it soore, and destroyed much people of Israell * And when he had spoyled the ctye, he set fyre on it, castyng downe houses and walles on euery syde. The women and theyr chyliden toke theyr captiue, and led away theyr catell. Then brylled they the ctye of Dauid wth a greate and thicke wall, and wth myghte to wares, and made it a stronge holde for them. Wchylde al thys, they set wycked people and vngodly men to kepe it, stoared it wth weapens and vptay-les gathered the goodes of Ierusalem and laied them vp there: thus became it a theuphe castel.

And thus was done to lape wayte for the people that wente into the Sanctuary, and for the cruel destruccyon of Israell. Thus they shed innocente bloude on euery syde of the Sanctuary, and despyled it: In so muche þ the ctyezyns were fayne to departe, and the ctye became an habytacyn of straungers, beyng desolat of her owne seede, for her owne natyues were fayne to leau her. * Her Sanctuary was cleane walked her holydayes were turned into mourning, her Sabboties were had in dyspyspon, and her ho-noure brought, to naughte. Looke howe great her glorie was afore, so greate was her confusion, and her Joye turned into sorowe.

* Antiochus also the kyng sent out a com-missyon vnto all hys kyngedome, that all the people shulde be one. Then they leste euery mā hys lawe, and al the heathen agreed to the commaundement of kyng Antiochus. See, many of the Ieraclytes consented there vnto offeryng vnto Idols, and despyllyng the Saboth. So the kyng Antiochus sent hys messengers wth hys commissyon vnto Ierusalem, and to all the ctyres of Iuda that they shulde folowe the lawes of the heathen, and forbad ether burnt offeryng, meat offeryng or peace offeryng to be made in the temple of God, & that there shulde no Sabboth nor hys feast day be kept but commaunded that the Sanctuary and the holy prople of Israell shulde be defiled. He commaunded also that there shulde be set vp other aulterys, tē-ples, and Idols to offer vp swynes fleshe, and other vncleane beastes, þ men shulde leau theyr chyliden vncircumcysed, to desple theyr soules wth al maner of vncleanness & abhomyacions þ they myghte forget the lawe, and chaunge all the holys ordynaunces of God: and that whosoeuer wolde not do accordyng to the commaun-dement of kyng Antiochus shulde suffer deathe In lyke maner commaunded he thorowout all his realme, & set rulers ouer the people, for to cō-pell them to do these thynges, commaundyng the ctyres of Iuda to do sacrifyce vnto Idols.

kynges commaundement, and were gone they: wape to the wylbernes into secret places, and y there were many departed after them. they solo wed vpon them, to fyght agaynst them on the Sabbath day & sayde wylpe yet rebel: Get you hence and do the commaundement of kyng Antiochus, & ye shall lyue. They answered. * We wyl not go forth, neyther wyl we do the kynges commaundement, to defyle the Sabbath daye. Then beganne they to fyghte agaynst them, neuerthelesse, they gaue them none other answer, neyther caste they one stone at them, nor made faste they: preyng places, but sayd we wyl dye all in our innocency, heauen and earth shall testefie with vs, that ye put vs to death wrong fully. Thus they fought agaynst them vpon the Sabbath, & slewe both men & cattel, they: wyues & their chyldre to the nōbre of a thousande people.

When Mathathias and hys frendes hearde this, they mourned for them & sayde sore & sayde one to another: If so be y we all do as our brethren haue done, and fight not for our lyues and for our lawes agaynst the hethen, then shall they the soner rote vs out of the earth. So they concluded among them selues at the same time sayeng, what soeuer he be that cometh to make battayle with vs vpon the Sabbath day, we wyl fyght agaynst hym and not dye all, as our brethren that were murdered so hapnously. Upon this came the Synagoge of the Jewes vnto the stronge men of Israel, all suche as were feruent in the lawe. And all they that were fled for persecution, came to helpe them, and to stande by them. In somuche that they gathered an host of men, and slue the wycked doers in they: gelyng and the vngodly men in they: wrath. Some of the wicked fled vnto the heathen, and escaped.

Thus Mathathias and his frendes went & houte, and destroyed faulters, and circumcised the chyldren, that had not yet receyued circumcision as many as they founde within the coastes of Israel and folowed mightely vpon the chyldre of pryde, and this acte prospered in they: hādes: In so muche, that they kepte the lawe agaynst the power of the Gentyles and the kynges and gaue not ouer their dominio vnto wicked doers.

After this, whē the tyme dūe on fast, that Mathathias shulde dye, he sayd vnto his sōnes: Nowe is pryde and persecution increased, nowe is the tyme of destruction and wrathful displeasure: wherfore (O my sonnes) be ye feruente in the lawe, and seoparde your lyues for the Testament of the fathers, cal to remembraunces what actes our fathers dyd in they: tyme, so shall ye receyue greate honour and an everlastyng name.

* Remembre Abraham, was not he founde saythfull in temptation, & it was reckened vnto hym for ryghteousnes: & Joseph in tyme of hys trouble kepte the comaundement, & was made a Lord of Egypte. * Whynches our father was so feruent for the honour of God, that he optayned the couenaunt of an everlastyng presthode. * Joshua for fulfillyng the worde of God, was made the captayne of Israel. * Caleb bare recorde before the congregacion and receyued an herptage. * Dauid also in his merciful kyndnes, optayned the trone of an everlastyng kyngdome. * Elias being gealous and feruent in the lawe, was taken vp into heauen. Hananias, Azarias and Misael remayned stedfast in saythe, & were deliuered out of the fyre. In lyke maner * Daniel being vngyltie, was saued from the mouth of the Lyons.

And thus ye maye consydre thorowout all ages syns the worlde began, & y who soeuer put they: trust in God, were not overcome. * Feare not ye then the wordes of an vngodly man: for his gloyp is but donge and wormes to day is he set vp, & to morowe is he gone: for he is turned into earth, and his memorial is come to nought. Wherfore, (O my sonnes) take good hertes vnto you, and quite your selues lyke men in y lawe for y ye do the thynges that are commaunded you in the lawe of the Lorde your God, ye shall obtayne greate honour therein.

And beholde, I knowe that your brother Symon is a man of wysdome: se that ye geue care vnto hym alwaye, he shall be a father vnto you. As for Judas Machabeus, he hath euer bene myghty & stronge fro his yowth vp let him be your captayne, & ordre the battayle of y people thus shall ye byyng vnto you all those y fauour the lawe, & se that ye auenge the wrong of your people and recompence the hepythen agayn and applye your selues whole to the commaundement of the lawe. So he gaue the his blessing and was layde by hys fathers: and dyed in the hundredth xlii yere at Bethan, where hys sōnes buried hym in hys fathers sepulchre, and all Israel made greate lamentacion for hym.

The. llii. Chapter.

Judas made tūlt out for the Jewes. He had Appollonius for an enemy. He was a man of great courage. He was a man of great courage. He was a man of great courage.

Then stode vp Judas Machabeus in his fathers steede, and al his brethren helped hym and so dyd all they that helde wyth hys father, and fought with cherefulness for Israel. So Judas gat his people greate honour. He put on a brestplate as a Spawnte, and arayed hym selfe wyth hys harnesse, and defended the hoooste with hys swearde. In hys actes he was lyke a Lyon, & as a Lyons whelp roaring at his pray. * He was an enemy to the wycked, and hunted the out. & and brent by those that verch his people. So that hys enemyes fled for feare of hym, and all the workers of vngodlynes were put to trouble. Suche lucke and prosperitie was in hys bande. This greued dyuers kynges, but Jacob was greatly reioysed thorowe his actes, and he gat hym selfe a great name for euer.

He went thorowe the cities of Juda, destroying the vngodly out of them, turning away the wrath from Israel, and receyving such as were oppressed. and the same of him went vnto the vttermost parte of the earth. Then Appollonius (a prynce of Syria) gathered a myghty great host of the hepythen, and out of Samaria, to fyght agaynst Israel. Which whē Judas perceyued, he hym, and a great multitude with hym, the remnant fled, and he toke theþꝛ substance. Judas also toke Appollonius owne swearde, & fought with it all hys lyfe longe.

Nowe whē Seron (another prince of Syria) herde saye, that Judas had gathered vnto hym the congregacion and churche of the fapthful he sayde: I wyll get me a name & a praple thow- out the realme: for I wyll go fyghe with Judas and the that are wyth him, as many as haue de- clyped the kynges comaundement. So he made him ready, and there wente wyth hym a greate myghty hoost of the vngodly, to stande by him, & to be auenged of the chylde of Israel. And whē they came ny vnto Bethozō, Judas went forth agaynst them with a smal company. And when his people sawe suche a great hoost before them they sayde to Judas: howe are we able (beyng so fewe) to fyghe agaynst so great a multitude and so stronge, seying we be so wery, and haue fasted all thys daye?

But Judas sayde: It is a small matter for many to be overcome with fewe yea, there is no difference to the God of heauen, to deliuer by a great multitude or by a smal company: * for the victory of the battayle standeth not in the mul- titude of the host, but the strength cometh from heauen. Beholde, they come agaynst vs wyth a presumptuous and proude multitude, to destroye vs, our wyues & our chylde, and to robbe vs. But we wyll fyghe for our lyues, & our lawes, and the Lord bym selfe shall destroye them be- fore our face: therfore be not yfraid of them.

As soone as he had spoken these wordes, he leapt sodaynly vpon them. Thus was Seron smytten, and his hoost put to flyght, and Judas folowed vpon them beyonde Bethozon vnto the playne felde: where there were slayne eyght hundred men of them, and the resydue fled into the lande of the Philistines. Then all the hea- then on euery syde were afrayde of Judas and his brethren: so that the rumour of him came vn- to the kynges eares, for all the Gentyles coulde tell of the warres of Judas.

So when kyng Antiochus hearde these ty- dynges, he was angry in his mynde: wherfor he sente forth, & gathered an hoost of his whole re- alme, very strong armies: & opened his treasury and gaue his hoost a peates wages in hande, co- maunding them to be ready at all tymes.

Nevertheless, when he sawe, that there was not money ynough in his treasuryes, and þ̄ thow- rowe the dyscorde & persecucion, whych he made in the lande (to put downe þ̄ lawes þ̄ had bene of olde tymes) his customes & tributes of the lande were minished: he feared þ̄ he was not hable for to beare the costes & charges any longer, nor to haue suche gyftes, to gyue so liberally as he dyd afore, more then the kynges þ̄ were before hym.

Wherefore, he was heuy in hys mynde, and thought to go into Persides, for to take tribu- tes of the land, & so to gather muche money. So he lefte Lysias (a noble man of þ̄ kynges blood) to ouersee þ̄ kynges busynesses, from the water Euphrates vnto the borders of Egypte: and to kepe wel his sone Antiochus, tyl he came agayn. Moreover, he gaue him halfe of his hoost and Elefantēs, comytted vnto him euery thyng of hys mynde, concernyng those whych dwell in E- juda and Jerusalem: that he shuld sende out an army agaynst them, to destroye and rote out the power of Israel and the remnant of Jerusalem: to put out the memorial from that place, to set straungers for to inhabyte all the quarters, and parte the lande amonge them: Thus the kyng toke the other parte of the hoost, and de- parted fro Antioche (a cite of his realme) ouer the water of Euphrates, in the hundred & xlviij. yere, and went thowre the hygh countreys.

* And Lysias chose vnto hym Ptolome the son of Dorimius, Nicanor and Gorgias mygh- ty men, and the kynges frendes. These he sent wyth fortye thousande foote men, & seven thou- sande horsemen, for to go into the lande of Juda and to destroye it, as the kyng commaunded. So they wente forth wyth al the power, and came to Emaus into the playne felde. When the marchauntes harde the rumoure of them, they, and the seruantes, toke verpe muche syluer, and golde, for to by the chylde of Israel to be the bond men: There came vnto them also pe- mo men of warre on euery syde, out of Syria & from the Philistynes.

Nowe when Judas and hys brethren saw that trouble increased, and that the hoost drew nye vnto the borders conspyng the kynges wordes whych he commaunded vn- to the people: namelpe that they shulde utterly wast and destroye them: They sayde one to ano- ther: Let vs redress the decaye of our people, let vs fyghe for oure folke and for oure Sanctua- ry. Then the congregacion were soone readye gathered to fyghe, to praye and to make supplic- acion vnto God for mercye and grace.

* As for Jerusalem, it laye voyde and was as it had bene a wydernesse. There wente no man in or out at it, and the Sanctuary was troden downe. The aleauntes kepte the castell, there was the habytacion of the heathen. The myght of Jacob was taken away, the pype and the harpe was gone from amonge them.

The Israelites gathered them together & came to Bethphage before Jerusalem: for in Beth- phage was the place where they prayed afore ty- me in Israel. So they fasted that daye, and put sackclothys vpon them, and caste ashes vpon theiꝛ heades, rente theiꝛ clothes, & layde forthe the bookes of the lawe whereoute the heathen sought the lyknes of theiꝛ ymagis, & brought the prestes ornaments, the fyrstlynges and tythes. They set ther also þ̄ abstayners (whych had fulfilled theiꝛ dayes before God, and cry- ed wyth a loude voyce, towarde heauen, saying

What shal we do wyth these? and whether shal we carpe them away? For the Sanc- tuary is troden downe and defiled, the prestes are come to heynesse and dyshonoure: and be- holde, the heathen are come together for to de- stroye vs. Thou knowest what thynges they ymagyne agaynst vs. howe may we stand be- fore them

Nowe when they sawe the Sanctuarie layd waste, the altar defiled, the doores bent vp, the Shrubbes growynge in the courtes, lyke as in a woode or vpon mountaynes: yea, and that the prestes Celles were broken downe: They rent theyr clothes, made great lamentation, caste as- shes vpon theyr heedes, fell downe flatte to the grounde, made a greates noise wth the trom- pettes, and cryed towarde heauen.

Then Judas appoynted certayne men to fyghte agaynst those whych were in the castell tyl they had cleased the Sanctuarie. So he chose prestes that were vndefyled, such as had pleasure in the lawe of God: and they cleased the Sanctuarie: and bare out the defyled stones into an vncleane place. And for so muche as the altar of burnt offering was vnhallowed, he tooke aduysemente, what he myght do wthall so he thoughte it was best to destroye it, lest it shulde happen to do them any shame: for the hea- then had defyled it, and therefore they brake it downe. As for the stones, they layed them vp vpon the mountayne by the house in a conue- nyent place. tyl there came a prophet, to shewe what shulde be done wth them.

* So they tooke whole stones accordynge to the lawe, and buylded a new altar such one as was before, and made vpon the Sanctuarie wthin and wthoute, and hallowed the house and the courtes. They made newe ornamen- tes, and broughte the candelsticke, the altar of incense, and the table into the temple. The in- cense layed they vpon the altar, and lyghted the lampes whych were vpon the candelstyk, that they myghte burne in the temple. They set the shewbread vpon the table, and hanged vpon the voyle and set vpon the temple, as it was afore.

And vpon the fyue and twentye daie of the nyghte moneth, whiche is called the moneth of Cassue, in the hundred and epyghte & forty yere they rose vp by tymes in the mornynge for to do sacryfice accordynge to the lawe vpon the newe burnt offeringe altar that they had made: af- ter the time and season that the heathen had de- fyled it. The same daie was it set vp agayne, wth songes, ppses, harpes, and cymbales.

And all the people fel vpon theyr faces, wor- shipynge and thankyng the God of heauen whiche had given them the victory. * So they kepte the dedycacyon of the altar epyghte dayes offeringe burnt sacryfices and thankeoffe- rynges wth gladnesse. They decked the temple also with crownes and sheldes of golde, and ha- lowed the portes and celles, and hanged doores vpon them. Thus there was verie greates glad- nesse amonge the people, because the blasphemy of the heathen was put away. So Judas and his brethren wth the whole congregacyon of Israel, ordeyned, that the tyme of dedycacyon of the altar shulde be kepte in his season from yere to yere, by the space of epyghte dayes, fro the fyue and twentye daie of the moneth Cassue wth myghte and gladnesse.

And at the same tyme buylded they vpon the mounte Syon wth hye walles and stronge to- wers round about, lest the Gentyles shuld come and treade it downe, as they had afore. Therefore Judas set men of warre in it, to kepe it, and made it stronge, for to defende. * Esdras & the people might haue a refuge agaynst the edomites.

The v Chapter.

Judas banished the heathen that go about to destroye Israel: and he holpen of his brethren Symon and Jonathan. He merited with the cyty of Ephraim because they decayed hym passage thowome it.

It happened also that when the hea- then round about heard, howe that the altar and the Sanctuarie were set vp in theyr olde estate: it dysplea- sed them very sore, wherefore they thoughte to destroye the generacyon of Jacob that was amonge them: In so muche that they beganne to slay and to persecute certayne of the people. * Then Judas foughte agaynst the chyldre of Elau in Idumea, & agaynst those whych were at Arabathane: for they dwelte rounde a- bout the Israhelytes where he slew and spoyled a greates multitude of them. He thoughte also vpon the malice and vnfaithfulnesse of the chyldren of Zeam, howe they were a snare & a stopp vnto the people, & howe they layd wayte for the in the hye way. Wherefore he shutte vp them in- to toweres, & came vnto them, destroyed them betwylpe and burnt vpon theyr towers, wth all that were in them.

Afterwarde, wente he agaynst the chyldren of Ammon, whereof he founde a myghtye power and a greates multitude of people, wth Timothy theyr captayne. So he stroke manye battayles wth them, whiche were destroyed before hym. And when he had slayne them, he wanne Gazer the cyty, wth the townes belon- gynge thereto, & so turned agayne into Jewrye. The heathen also in Galaad gathered them to- gether agaynst the Israhelytes & were in theyr quarters, to slay them: but they fled to the castell of Datheman and sente letters to Judas & his brethren, sayinge: The heathen are gathered a- gainste vs on euery syde, to destroye vs, & now they make them ready for to come, & laye siege to the castell, where vnto we are fled, & Timothee is captayne of theyr dooste. come therefore and helpe vs oute of theyr handes for there is a greates multitude of vs slayne alreadye. Yea, & oure brethren that were at Tubyn, are slayne & destroyed (well nye a thousande men) and theyr wyues, theyr chyldren, and theyr goodes haue the enemyes led awaye captiue.

Whyle these letters were yet a redynge, behold, there came other messengers from Ga- lyle wth rente clothes whiche tolde euen the same tydynge, and sayde: that they of Ptolomeas, of Tyzus and of Sydon were gathered agaynst them, and that all Galilee was fylled wth enemyes to destroye Israel. * When Ju- das and the people heard this, they came toge- ther (a great congregacion) to deuise, what they myghte do for theyr brethren, that were in tro- ble, and besegged of theyr enemyes. And Judas sayde vnto Symon his brother chose the oute- moste men, & go helpe thy brethren in Ga- lylee: As for me and my brother Jonathan, we will go into Galaad wth hym. So he lefte Jor- phus the phus the sonne of zacharye, and Azaryas to be Captaynes of the people, and to kepe the remnaunte of the hooste in Jewrye, and commaunded them sayinge: Take the ouerspyghte of this people, and le that ye make no warre agaynste the heathen, vntyll the tyme we come agayne.

And vnto Symeon he gaue thre thousande me for to go into Galyle, but Judas hymself had eighth thousande in Galaadithym.

E Then went Symeon into Galyle, & stroke dyners battayles with the heathen: whome he dyscomfytred, and folowed vpon them vnto the porte of Ptolomeys. And there were slayne of the heathen almoste thre thousande men. So he toke the spoyles of them, and carped awaye the Israelites that were in Galile and Arbatis with theyr wyues, theyr chyldren, and all that they had, and brought them into Jewrye with great gladnesse. Judas Machabeus also and hys brother Jonathas wente ouer Jordan, and trauayled .iii. dayes iourney in the wyldernes: Where the Nabuthyses met them, and receaued them lounge, and tolde them euery thyng þ had happened vnto theyr brethren in Galaadithym, and howe that many of them were beseged in Barasa, Bosor, Almys, Calphoz, Ma-geth and Carnaim (all these are stronge walled & mightie greates cities) and that they were kept in other ctyes of Galaad also & tomorow they are appoynted to byngge theyr hoost vnto these ctyes, to take them, & to wyne the in one daye.

So Judas and hys hoost turned in all the haste in the wyldernes toward Bosor, & wanne the ctye, slew al the men with the swerde, toke al their goodes, and set fyre vpon the ctye.
And in the night they tooke theyr iourney from thence, and came to the castell. And bytymes in the morning when they looked vp, beholde, there was an innumerable people bearynge ladders and other instrumentes of warre, to take the castell and to overcome them.

When Judas sawe that the battayle began-ne, and that the noyse therof wente vp, and rang into heauen, and that there was so greates crye in the ctye: he sayde vnto hys hoost: fyght this daye for youre brethren. And so came behynde theyr enemyes in thre companies, and blew vp the trompettes, and cried in their praiser to God.

But as soone as Tymothys hoost perceiued that Machabeus was there, they fled from hym, & the other slew them downe ryghte sore: so that there was kylled of them the same daye, almoste eighth thousande men. Then departed Judas vnto Maspha, layde sege vnto it; and wanne it: slew al the males in it, spoyled it, and set fyre vpon it: from thence wente he and tooke Calbon, Mageth, Bosor, and the other ctyes in Galaad.

D * After this gathered Tymothy another hooste, whiche pyched theyr tentes before Ra-phon beyonde the water. Judas also sente to es-pye the hooste, and they broughte hym worde a-gayne, sayinge: All the heathen that be rounde about vs, are gathered vnto hym, and the hoost is verie greates. Yet they haue byrd the Arabys and to helpe them, & haue pyched theyr tentes beyonde the water and are redy to come & fyghte agaynst the. So Judas wente on to mete them.

And Tymothy sayde vnto the captaynes of hys hooste: when Judas and hys hooste come npe the ryuer yf ye go ouer fyfte, we shall not be able to wythstande hym, for why? he wyll be to stronge for vs. But yf he dare not come ouer so that he pytche hys tente beyonde the water: then wyll we go ouer, for we shalbe stronge ynough agaynste hym. Nowe as sone as Judas came to the ryuer, he appoynted certayne scripbes of the people, and commaunded them, sayinge: le that ye leaue none behynde vpon this syde of the ryuer, but let euery man come to the battayle. So he wente fyfte ouer vnto them, and hys people after hym.

And all the heathen were dyscomfytred before hym, and let theyr weapons fall, and ranne into the temple that was at Carnym. Whiche cotype Judas wanne, & burnt the temple with al that were in it: So was Carnaim subdued, & myghte not wythstande Judas. Then Judas gathered all the Israelites that were in Galaadithym, from the leaste vnto the mooste, with theyr wyues and theyr chyldren (a verie great hooste) for to come into the lande of Israell.

* So they came vnto Ephraim, whiche was a myghtie great and stronge ctye, and laye in theyr waye. For they could not go by it, neither of the ryght hande nor of the lefte, but muste go thorowe it. Nevertheless they that were in the ctye wolde not let them go thorowe, but walled vp the portes with stones. And Judas sent vnto them with peaceable wordes sayinge: Let vs passe thorowe youre lande, that we maye go into oure owne countree: there shal nobodys do you harme, we wyll but onely go thorowe on foote. But they wolde not let them in.

Wherefore Judas commaunded a proclamacyon to be made thorowoute the hooste, that euery man shuld kepe hys order and so they dyd theyr beste lyke valeaunte men.

And Judas besegged the ctye al that day and all that nyght, and so wanne it, where they slew as many as were males, and destroyed the ctye, and spoyled it, and wente thorowe all the ctye ouer them that were slayne. Then wente they ouer Jordan into the playne felde before Bethsam. And Judas helped those forwarde that came behinde, and gaue the people good ex-hortacion al the waye thorowe, tyll they were come into the lande of Juda. Thus they wente vp vnto the mount Syon, where they offred to myght & thankyng because ther were none of the slayne, but came home agayne peaceably.

Nowe what tyme as Judas & Jonathas were in the lande of Galaad, and Simeon theyr brother in Galyle before Ptolamaps: Then Josephus the sonne of zacharye and Azaryas the captaynes, hearynge of the actes that were done of the battayles that were stycken, sayde: Let vs get vs a name also, and go fyghte agaynste the heathen that are rounde aboute vs.

So they gaue theyr hooste a commaunde.

ment, & wēt toward Jamna. Then came Sosgryas and hys men oute of the ctyte, to fyghte a-gaynst them: Josephus also and Alarphas were chaced vnto the borders of Jewry, & ther were slayne that dape of the people of Israel, two. W-men: so that there was a greete mysery among the people: and all becaule they were not to bedy-ente vnto Judas and his brethren, but thought they shulde quyte them selues manfully. Neuer thelesse they cam not of the seed of these men, by whome Israel was helped. But the men that were wyth Judas, were greatlye commended in the syght of al Israel, & al the heathen, were souer theyr name was heard vpon, & the people came vnto them, byddyng them welcome.

After this wente Judas forth wyth hys brethren, and foughte agaynst the chyldren of Esau, in the lande that lyeth toward the south where he wanne the ctyte of Ebron, & the townes that lye besyde it and as for the walles and towre rounde aboute it, he byente them vp.

Then remoued he to goo into the lande of the Philistynes, and wente thowowe Samarya. At the same tyme were there manye preaches slayne in the battayle, whiche wylfullye and wpythoute aduylment wente oute for to fyghte, to get them honoure. And when Judas came to Azot in the Philistynes lade, he byake downe theyr altars, byente the images of theyr Idoles, spoyled the ctytes, & came agayne into the lande of Juda.

The vi. Chapter.

Antiochus wyllyng to take the ctyte of Elmas for a praye to bypurn awaye of the ctytes. He fullen in spakenesse and byrth. Hys sonne Antiochus to make hym be the besyge of the towre of the Eupator commeth into Jewry in a greete armye. The belonnyng of Elmas.

When kynge Antiochus trauayled thowowe the hys countries, he hearde that Elmas in Persya was a noble and plenteo-us ctyte in syluer and golde, and that there was in it a verpe ryche temple: where as were clothes, cote armoures and byldes of golde, whiche Alexandre the son ne of Philip, kynge of Macedonea (that rayg-ned first in Greke lande) had left behynde hym.
Wherefore he wente aboute to take the ctyte & to spoyl it, but he was not able for the ctytes were warned of it, and foughte wyth hym. And he fled and departed wyth great heynesse, and came agayne into Babylon. Whereafter, there came one whiche broughte hym tydynges in Persya, that hys hoostes whiche were in the lande of Juda, were bypurn awaye, & howe spas wente forth the spasse wyth a greete power, and was bypurn awaye of the Jewes. howe that they had wonne the byctoyre, and gotten great goodes oute of the hoostes that perished, howe they had broke downe the abhominacio which he set vp vpon the altar at Jerusalem, and fen-sed the Sanctuarpe wyth hys walles, lyke as it was afore: yee, and Bethsura hys ctyte also.

So it chaunfed, that when the kynge had herde these wordes, he was afrayed and greued very sore. Wherefore he layde hym downe vpon hys bed, and fell speke for verpe sorowe: and all becaule it had not happened as he had deuysed.

And there contynued he long, for hys grete was euer, more and more, so that he sawe he must ne-des dye. Wherefore he sente for hys frendes, and sayde vnto them: the slepe is gone from myne eyes, for the verpe sorowe and vexacon of hert that I haue. For when I consyder in my mynde the greete aduersitie that I am come vnto, and the cloudes of heynesse whiche I am come in, where as afore tyme I was so mery, & so grealy set by, by reason of my power. Agayne, con-syderinge the euell that I haue done at Jerusalem, from whence I tooke all the ryche of golde and syluer that were in it, and sente to fette awaye the inhabytours of Jewrye wpythoute anye reason why: I knowe that these troubles are come vpon me for the same cause. And behold, I must dye wyth great sorow, in a straung lande. Then called he for one Philip a frende of hys, whome he made ruler of all hys realme, and gaue hym the Crowne, hys roobe and hys cynge: that he shulde take hys sonne Antiochus vnto hym, and byng hym vp, tyll he myghte raygne hym selfe. * So the kynge Antiochus died there, in the humored and forte and nyne peare. When Lysias knewe that the kynge was deed, he ordeyned Antiochus his sone (* whom he had broughte vp, ) to raygne in hys fathers steade, and called hym Eutapor, nowe they that were in the castel, at Jerusalem kepte in the Je-wes rounde aboute the Sanctuarpe, & soughte euer tyll to do them harme for the strengthe-nyng of the heathen.

Wherefore, Judas thoughte to destroye them, & called all the people together, that they myghte laye sege vnto them. So they came together in the hundred and fyfthe yere, and beseged them, laying forth theyr ordinaunce and instrumentes of warre. Then certayne of them that were beseged, wente forth (vnto whome some vngodly me of Israel toped them selues also) and wente vnto the kynge, sayinge. How longe wyl it be, or thou punyche and aduenge our brethren? We haue euer bene mynded to do thy father seruike, to walke in hys statutes, and to obeye hys commaundementes. Wherefore our people fell from vs, & wheresoeuer they founde anye of vs, they slewe them and spoyled oure inherytance and they haue not onely medled w-vs, but wyth all oure countreyes: and beholde, this dape are they besegynge the castell at Jerusalem, * and haue made vp the stronge holde in Bethsura. And if thou dost not prouente the ryghte sone, they wyl do moare then these, and thou shalt not be able to ouercome them.

* When the kynge herde this he was very angry, and called all hys frendes, the captaynes of hys fote men and of all hys horsmen together. He byed men of warre also oute of other realmes & out of the Isles of the see, whiche came vnto hym. And the nombre of hys hooste was an hundred thousande fote men, & twen-tye thousande horsmen, & two and thyrtye Elephantes well exercysed in battayle. These came thorowe Idumea vnto Bethsara, & besieged it alonge season, and made dyuers instrumentes of warre agaynst it. But the Jewes came out and brante them, and foughte lyke men. Then departed Judas from the castell at Jerusalem, and remoued the hoost towarde Bethzaccaran ouer agaynst the kynge's armie.

E So the kynge arose before the dawe, and broughte the power of hys hooste into the way to Bethzaccaran, where the hoostes made them redawe to the battayle, blowynge the trompettes. And to prouoke the Elephantes for to fyght they shewed them the sap of red grapes & molberpes, and deuyded the Elephantes amonge the hoost so that by euery Elephante there stood a thousande men well harnessed, and helmettes of stele vpon theyr heades. Yee, but euery one of the Elephantes also were ordeyned fyue hundred horsmen of the best, whiche wayted on the Elephante, goynge whersoener he went, and departed not from hym. Euery Elephante was couered wth a stronge towar of wood, where vpon were two and thyrty valeant men with weapons to fyghte, and wpythyn was a man of Inde to rule the beaste.

As for the remnaunte of the horsmen, he set vpon both the sydes in two partes wth trompettes, to prouoke hys hoost, and to styre vp suche as were slow in the armie. And when the sunne shone vpon theyr shylde of golde and stele, the mountaynes glistered agayne at them, & were as bryght as the cresettes of fyre. The kynge's hooste also was deuyded, one part vpon the hie mountaynes the other lowe beneth: so they wete on takynge good hede: and keepynge theyr order. And all they that dwelt in the land, were afrayed at the noyse of theyr hooste, when the multitude wente forth, and when the weapons smote together, for the hooste was bothe greate and myghtye. Judas also and hys hooste entred in to the battayle, and slewe fyre hundred men of the kynge's armie. Nowe when Eleasar the son of Saura, dyd se one of the Elephantes deckte wth the kynge's badg, and was a more goodly beaste then the other, he thoughte the kynge shulde be vpon hym, and conardde hym selfe to helpe hys people, and to geve them a perpetuall name. Wherefore he ranne wth a courage vnto the Elephante in the myddest of the wood, and slayne them downe of both sydes, and slewe manye aboute hym. So wente he to the Elephantes fete, and gat hym vnder hym, and slew hym then fell the Elephante downe vpon hym, and there he dyed. Judas also and hys men seynge the power of the kynge and the myghtye vyolence of hys hooste departed from them. And the kynge's armie wente vp agaynst them towarde Jerusalem, and pyched theyr tentes in Jewry besyde mounte Syon.

Moreover, the kynge tooke truce wth them that were in Bethsara. But when they came oute of the ctyte because they had no vyttayles wpythyn, & the land laye vntyllid, the kynge tooke Bethsara, & set men to kepe it, and turned his hooste to the place of the Sanctuarie, and layd sege to it a great whyle. Where he made all maner ordynance, handebowes, fyre dartes, rackettes to cast stoones, scorppons to shote arrowes, and spynges. The Jewes also made ordynance agaynst theyr, and foughte alonge season.

But in the ctyte there were no vyttayles, for it was the senenth yere of the warres and those heathen that remayned in Jewry, had eaten vp all theyr stooze. And in the Sanctuarie were fewe men lefte, for the hungre came so vpon them, that they were scattered abrode euery man to hys owne place.

So when Lysias hearde of Philip (who Antiochus the kynge whyle he was yet lyuynge had ordeyned to bypunge vp Antiochus hys sonne, that he myghte be kynge) was come agayne oute of Persya, and Medea, wth the kynge's hooste, and thoughte to optayne the kynge's dome he gat hym to the kynge in all the haste, and to the captaynes of the hooste, and sayde we decrease dalye, and oure vyttayles are but small: Agayne, the place that we lay sege vnto is verp stronge, and it were oure parte to se for the realme. Let vs agre wth these men, and take truce wth them, and wth al theyr people, & graunt them to lyue after theyr lawe, as they dyd afore. For they be greued, and do all these thynges agaynst vs, because we haue dyspysed theyr lawe. So the kynge and the prynces were contente, and sente vnto them to make peace, and they receaued it. Nowe when the kynge and the prynces had made an othe vnto them, they came oute of the Castell, and the kynge wente vp to mount Syon. But when he sawe that the place was wel defenced, he brake hys oth that he had made, & commaunded to destroy the wal round aboute. Then departed he in al the haste, and returned vnto Antioch, where he founde Philip haupnge domynyon of the ctyte. So he foughte agaynst him, & toke the cite agayne in his handes.

The vii. Chapter.

Demetrius raygned after he had kille Antiochus, and Lysias. Betwixt the chylde of Israel theow the counsaile of certay ten hundred persons. The prayer of the prestes agaynst Antiochus Judas killeth 32. persons, after he had made breyppere.

D the hundred and one and fyfthe yere came Demetrius the sonne of Seleucus from the ctyte of Rome wth a small compaigne of men, vnto the ctyte of the see coaste and there he bare rule. And it chaunced that when he came to Antioch the ctyte of hys progenytours, his hooste tooke Antiochus and Lysias, to bypunge them vnto hym. When it was told hym, he sayd let me not se theyr faces. So the hooste put them to death. Now when Demetrius was set vpon the throne of hys kyngedome, there came vnto hym wyrted and vngodly men of Israel whose captayne was Alcimus, that wold haue bene made hys preaste. These men accused the people of Israel vnto the kynge, sayynge: Judas and hys brethren haue slayne thy frendes, and dyuen vs oute of oure owne lande. Wherefore sende nowe some man to whom thou geuest credence, that he maye go and se all the deceit thou, whiche he hath done vnto vs and to the

Then the kyng chose Bachydes a frende of hys, whych was a man of great power in the realme (beyonde the great water) and faythful vnto the kyng, and sente hym to se the destruc-

And Bachydes remoued hys hoost from Jerusalem, and pyched hys tente at Betzeka: where he sent forth and toke many of them that had forsaken hym. He slewe many of the people also and cast the into a great pyt. The comptred he the lande vnto Alcimus, & left men of warre w hym to helpe hym. And Bachides hym selfe wente vnto the kyng. The viii. Chapter.

Judas considered the power and gowly polyppe of the Romans maketh peace wth them. The receypte of the Romans sent vnto the Jewes.

Judas heard also the fame of þe Romas that they were myghtie & valeant me and agreeable to all thynges þe are requyred of them, & make peace wth all men, whych come vnto them, & howe they were doughty men of strength. Besides that, it was told hym of the battailes, & noble actes which they dyd in Galacya, howe they had conquered the, & brought them vnder tribute & what great thynges they had done in Spayne howe þe woth they wyledome and sober behauoure they had wonne the mynes of syluer & gold. þe are there, & obtayned all the lande, wth other places farre from the howe they had dysconfited and slayne downe the kynges þe came vpon the, from the furthest parte of the earth, & howe other people gaue them tribute euery yere. howe they had slayne & ouer come Philippe & Perles kynges of Cethi, & other mo (in battail which had brought the ordynance agaynst them howe they dysconfited great Antiochus kyng of Asia that wolde nedes fyght wth them) haupnge an. C. and. xx. Elephantes, wth horsmen, charettes & a very great host howe they tooke hym selfe a prey, & ordeyned hym (wch such as shulde raygne after hym, to paye them a greates tribute.

¶ Per. and to fynde them good suretyes and pldge: besydes all thys, howe they had taken from him India, Media, & Libia (his best lades) and geuent hem to kyng Eumenes. Agayne, howe they perceauyng that þe grekes were comyng to vnto them sente agaynst them a captain of an hoste, whiche gaue them battaile. Aswe many of them, led awaye the wyues, & chylidren captiue, spoyled them, toke possession of the lande, destroyed the stronge holdes, & subdued them to be the bondemen, vnto this daye. Moreover, howe that as for other kyngdomes and Iles whiche sometyme wythstode them, they destroyed them, and brought hem vnder the domynion. But helped euer they none frendes, and those that were considerate wth them, and conquered kyngdomes, bothe farre and nye, and that whosoever heard of their renowne was afrayed of them: for whome they wold helpe to the kyngdomes, those raygned and whome it lyked not the to raygne, they put hym downe. And howe they were come to great prehemynence haupnge no kyng amonge them, neither any man clothed in purple, to be magnified ther thowhe, but had ordeyned them selues a parlyment, wherin there sat xl. C. xx. Senators fourty dayly vpon the counsell to dyspatch euer the busyness of the people, and to kepe good ordie. And howe that euery yere they chose a Mayre to haue the gouernaunce of all the lande to whome euery man was obedyent, and ther was neyther euil wyl nor dyscencion amonge them.

and sent them vnto Rome for to make frendshipp & a bonde of loue wth them, that they myghte take from them the bondage of the Grekes, for the Jewes sawe that the Grekes wolde subduer þe kyng dome of Israel. So they went vnto Rome, a very greate iourney. & came into the parlamente, and sayde: Judas Machabeus wth his brethren and the people of the Jewes hathe sente vs vnto you, to make a bonde of frendshipp and peace wth you, and pe to note vs as youre louers and frendes. And þe matter pleased the Romaynes very well, wherfore it was wyrtten vp of the whych the Romaynes made a wyrtynge in tables of brasse, and sent it to Ierusalem: that they myghte haue by them a memorpal of the same peace: and bonde of frendshipp after this maner. God saue the Romaynes & the people of the Jewes both, by see and by lande, and kepe the swerde & enemy from them for euer more. If there come fyre or any warre vpon the Romaynes or anye of the frendes thowout all the domynion, the people of the Jewes shall helpe them, as the tyme requyret, and that with all th. y. bettes. Also they shall neither geue nor sende vnto the enemyes vytaples, weapons, moncy, nor shyppes but fullfyll this charge at the Romaynes pleasure, and take nothinge from them therfore. Agayne, if þe people of the Jewes happen fyre to haue warre the Romaynes shall stande by them with a good wyl, accordyng as the tyme wyl suffre. Neither shall they geue vnto the Jewes enemyes, vytaples, weapons, moncy, nor shyppes. Thus are the Romaynes content to do, and shall fullfyll the charge wthoute anye dysceate.

¶ Accordyng to these artycles, the Romaynes made the bonde wth the Jewes. Howe after these artycles sayde they, if anye of the parties wyl put to them, or take any thyng from them: they shal do it wth the consente of both & whatsoeuer they adde vnto them, or take frome them, it shall stande false. And as touchyng the euill that Demetrius hath done vnto the Jewes, we haue wyrtten vnto hym sayyng: wherfore layest thou thy heuy pocke vpon the Jewes our frendes and louers: If they make any complainte of the agayne vnto vs, we shall defende them, and fyghte wth the by see and by lande.

The ix. Chapter.

After þe death of Alcino: Demetrius sendeth his army agaynst Judas. Judas is slayne. Jonathan is put in the stead of his brother. The strife betwene Jonathan & Bacchides. Alcino is take wth the poysse. Bacchides returneth agayne vnto the king. He cometh vnto Jonathan by þe counsel of certaine wicked persons, & is overcome. The tyme of Jonathan wth Bacchides.

In the meane season when Demetrius hadde that Alcino and his hoste was slayne in the felde, he proceeded further to sende Bacchides & Alcino agayne into Jewrye, and those that were in the right wyng of his hoste wth hym. So they wente forth by the waye that leadeth vnto Galgala, & pyched the tentes before Belasoth whiche is in Arbellis and wanne the cytie and slew much people. In the fyrste Moneth of the. C. and. two yere, they brought the hoste to Ierusalem, and rose vp, and came to Berra, wth twenty thousande

So they left wth theyz eyes, and looked, and be Therfore Wacchides with his hoste turned a Pha-

Phara, and Topo, wyth hygh walles, with portes and wyth lockes: and let men to kepe them, that they myght vse theyr malice vpon Israel.
He walled vp the cite Bethsurath, Gazarah, and the castel, and prouided them wyth men and vntaples. He toke also the chiefe men's sonnes in the countrey for pledges, and put them in the castell at Ierusalem to be kepte.

Afterwarde in the hundred fiftye and thre yeare in the seconde moneth, Alcimus commaūded, that the walles of the inmoste Sanctuarie shulde be destroyed, and the buydynge of the prophets also. And whē he beganne to destroye them, the thinges that he went aboute, were hindered, for he was smitten wyth a palsy, and hys mouth shut, so that he could no more speake, nor commaunde any of hys house: conceyvinge hys busynes. Thus dyed Alcimus in g. face mysery at y same tyme. And when Bathydes sawe that Alcimus was dead, he turned againe to faying and so the lande was in rest two yeares. Then all the vngodly men helde a counsell, sayinge: Behold Jonathan and hys company are at ease & dwel without care. Wherefor, let vs byng Bachides betwixt, & he shal take the all in one nyght.

So they went and gaue Bathydes thys coucell whych arose to come wyth a great host: and sent letters prouelpe to hys adherentes, whych were in Jewrye, to take Jonathan and those y were with hym but they myght not for sother had gotten knowlege of theyr deuyce. And Jonathan toke fiftye men of the countrey (whych were the ryng leaders of them) and slewe them.
Then Jonathan and Symon wyth theyr company departed vnto the cite Bethbessē whych lyeth in the wyldernes, and repayred the decaye thereof, and made it stronge. Within Bathydes knewe thys, he gathered al hys host, and sente worde to them that were of Jewry. Then came he and layde sege to Bethbessē, and foughte against it a longe season, and made instrumentes of warre. Howe Jonathan lefte hys brother Simon in the cite, and wente forth hym selfe into the countrey, and came wyth a certayne nombre and slewe Odres and hys brethren and the children of Phalaron in theyr tentes: so y he began to be stronge, and to increase in power.

As for Symon and hys company, they went oute of the cite, and brente vp the instrumentes of warre, and foughte agaynst Bathydes, and dyscomfited hym. And Bathydes was sore vexed, because hys counsell & traueill was in vayne.
Wherefor he was wroth at the wycked men y gaue hym counsell to come into theyr lande and slewe many of them. Then purposed he wyth his company to go awaye into hys owne countrey wherof when Jonathan had knowlege, he sent ambassidours vnto hym, for to make peace wyth hym and that he shulde deliuer hym hys prysoners agayne. To the whiche Bathydes conien-ted gladly, and dyd accordyng to hys desyre: pree and made an othe, that he shulde neuer do hym harmed al the daies of hys life. So he restored vnto hym all the prysoners that he had taken oute of the lande of Iuda, and then turned and went hys waye into hys owne lande, neyther proceaded any further to come vnto the borderes of Juda. Thus Israel had nomore warre. And Jona-thas dwelt at Machemas, & beganne there to gouerne the people, and destroyed the vngodly men out of Israel.

The .x. Chapter

Demetrius desyred to haue peace wyth Jonathan. Alexander moueth warre agaynst Demetrius, & Demetrius is slayne. The frendshipp of Ptolomeus and Alexander.

At the hundred and threescore yeare, A came Alexander: the sonne of noble Joseph ca Antiochus and tooke Ptolomeus, II 114.11.111 whose cyprians receaued hym, and ther he raygned. When Demetrius hearde therof, he gathered an excadynge great host and wente forth agaynst hym to fyghte.
Wherefore Demetrius sente letters vnto Jona-thas, wyth louyng wordes, & prayled him greatly. For he sayde, we wyll first make peace wyth hym, before he bynde hym selfe wyth Alexander agaynst vs: elles he shal remembre the euyl y we haue done agaynst him, his brother and hys prople. And so he gaue Jonathan leaue to gather an host to make weapons, and to be confederate wyth hym, and commaunded the pledges that were in the castell to be deliuered vnto hym.

Then came Jonathan to Ierusalem, and red 23 the letters in the audyence of all the people and of them that were in the castell. And therefore were they sore afrayed, because they heard that the kynge had geuen them licence to gather an host. Thus were the pledges deliuered vnto Jonathan, whych restored them to theyr elders.
Jonathan also dwelt at Ierusalem, & beganne to buyde vp, and to repayre the cite: commaū-dyng the worcke men to wall it and the mount Syon round about wyth fre stone, to be a strong holde, and so they dyd. As for the heathen that were in the castells whych Bathydes had made vp, they fled so that euery man lefte the place, & went into hys owne countrey. Onely at Beth-sura remayned certayne of the Jewes, whiche had forsaken the lawe and commaundementes of God, for Bethsura was theyr refuge.

Howe when kynge Alexander hearde of the promyses that Demetrius hadde made vnto Jonathan, and when it was tolde hym of the battles and noble actes, whiche he and hys brethren had done, and of the great traouiles y they had taken, he sayde, where shal we fynde such a man? Well we wyll make hym oure frende, and be confederate wyth hym. Upon thys he wrote a letter vnto hym wyth these wordes. Kynge Alexander saluteth hys brother Jonathan: We haue hearde of the, that thou art a valiant mā and mete to be our frende: wherefore thys day we ordayne the to be our hygh preast of thy people and to be called the kynges frend. (Upon thys he sent hym a purple clothynge, and a crowne of of golde) y thou mayest consider what is for our proft, and kepe frendshipp towarde vs.

So in the seuenth moneth of the hundred and thre thre score yere vpon the solempne feast day of of the tabernacles Jonathas put the holy rape-ment vpon hym. Then gathered he an host and made many weapons. Whych when Demetrius hearde, he was maruelous sorie, and sayde: Alas, what haue we done, that Alexander hath preuented vs in gettinge the frendshyppe of þ Jewes for his owne defence?

Yet wyl I wytecloungely vnto them also pce, and promyse them dygnyties and rewardes þ they maye be of my lyde. Afterupon he wrote vnto them these wordes. Kyng Demetrius se-derh getyng vnto the people of the Jewes.

Wher as ye haue kepte your cōuēant toward vs, and contynued in our frendshyp, not encl-yng to our enemies, we were glad, when we hearde therof. Wherfore remayne styll, and be faythfull to vs: & we shal wel recompence you for þ thynges þ ye haue done on our party. We shal release you of many charges, & geue you rewar-des. And nowe I dyscharge you & all the Jewes from tributes: I forgeue you the customes of salt, and release you of the crowne taxes, of the thyrd part of the seide, & halfe of the frute of trees whych is myne owne due. These I leaue for you fro this daye forth so that they shal not be taken of the lande of Iuda, nor of the thre cyties whych are added therunto out of Samaria and Galyle from this daye forth for euermore. Jerusalem also wth all thynges belongyng ther-to, shal be holp and free pce the tythes and tributes shal pertayne vnto you. As for the power of the castell whych is at Jerusalem, I comyt and geue it vnto the priest that he maye let in it such men, as he shal chuse to kepe it. I frelye deliuer all the Jewes that are prisoners thorowoute al my realme, so that euery one of them shal be free from payng any tribute, pce, euen of theyr cattel

At the solempne feastes, Saboths, new mones, the dayes appoynted the thre dayes before and after the feast, shal be free for al the Jewes in my realme, so that in them no man shal haue power to do anye thyng, or to moue any busyness agaynst anye of them in anye maner of cause.

There shal thyrty thousande also of the Jewes be wyrtten vp in the kynges booke, and haue their wages payed as all other menne of warre of the kynges shuld haue, and of them shal be ordeyned certayne to kepe the kynges stronge holdes pce and some of them shal be set ouer the kynges busynesse, that they maye faythfullye deale wth þ same. The Jewes also shal haue prynces of their owne, and walke in theyr owne lawes as þ kyng hath commaunded in the lande of Iuda.

And the thre cyties that are fallen vnto Jewry fro the countre of Samaria and Galyle shal be taken as Jewrye, and be vnder one nether be subiecte to anye straunge Lorde, but to the hye priest. As for Ptolomays and the lande pertaynyng thereto, I geue it vnto the Sanctuary at Jerusalem, for the necessarpe expences of the holy thynges. Moreover, I wyl geue euery yere fiftene thousande syckles of syluer out of the kynges chequer (whych pertaineth vnto me) to the worke of the temple pce, and loke what remayneth whych they that had our matters in hand in tyme past haue not payed, & the same shal they geue vnto them also. And besydes all this, the fyue thousande syckles whych they toke yerely of the rentes of the Sanctuary, shal belonge vnto the priests that do seruyce.

Item whosoever they be, that fle vnto þ temple at Jerusalem or wthyn the libertyes therof where as they are fallen into the kynges daunger for anye maner of busyness, they shal be pardoned, and all the goodes that they haue in mye realme, shal be free. For the buydyng also and repayryng of the worke of the Sanctuary, expences shal be geuen out of the kynges Checker: Pce, and for the makynge of the walles rounde aboute Jerusalem, for the breakynge dow-ne of the olde, and for þ lettynge vp of the stronge holdes in Jewrye, shal the costes and charges, be geuen out of the kynges Cheker.

* But when Jonathas and the people hearde these wordes, they gaue no credence vnto them, neither receaued them, for they remembered the greate wickednesse that he had doone vnto Israell, and howe sore he had vbered them. Wherefore, they agreed vnto Alexander, for he was a pryncce that had deale friendly wth them and so they stode by hym alwaye. * Then gathered kyng Alexander a great host, and brought his army agaynst Demetrius. So the two kynges fought battayle together, but Demetrius hoste fled, and Alexander folowed after, and fell vpon them. In myghte soore felde was it, contynuing till the sunne went downe, and Demetrius was slayne the same daye.

And Alexander sente Ambasadours vnto Ptolomy the kyng of Egypte wth these wor-des, sayyng: Forsomuch as I am come agayne to my Realme, and am sette in the throne of my progenytours, and haue gotten the domynyon ouercommed Demetrius, conquered the lande, and streychen felde wth him, so that we haue discomfited both hym and his host, and syt in the throne of his kyngedome: Lette us nowe make frendshyppe together, geue me thy daughter to wyfe so shal I be thy soune in lawe, & bot he geue the rewardes, and her greate dygnytye.

Ptolomy the kyng gaue answer, sayyng: Happye be the daye wherein thou arte come a-gayne, vnto the lande of thy progenytours, and sette in the throne of thy kyngedome. As now wyl I fulfyll thy wyrtynge but mete me at Pto-lomays, that we maye se one another, and that I maye mary my daughter vnto the, according to thy desyre. So Ptolomy went out of Egypt wth his daughter Cleopatra, and came vnto Ptolomays in the. Elxis yere where kyng Alexander mette hym, and he gaue Alexander his daughter Cleopatra, and maryed them at Pto-lomays wth great worshyppe. lyke as the maner is of kynges to be. Then wrot kyng Alexander vnto Jonathas, that he shulde come & mete hym. So he wente honorably vnto Ptolomays and there he mette the two kynges, and gaue them greate presentes of golde and syluer, and founde fauoure in theyr syghte.

And the

And there came together agaynst Jonathas certaine wycked men & ungracious persons of Israel, making complaintes of hym, but þe kynge regarded them not. As for Jonathas, the kynge commaunded to take of hys garmentes: and to clothe hym in purple: and so they dyd. Then the kynge appoynted hym to syt by hym, and sayde vnto hys prynces. Go wyth hym into the myd-dest of the cypre, and make a proclamacion, that no man cōplaine agaynst hym in any matter, & that no man trouble hym for any maner of cause.

So it happened: that when his accusers sawe the worlshyppe whiche was proclaymed of hym, and that he was clothed in purple, they fled cueryphone. And the kynge made muche of hym, wrote him among his chiefe frendes, made hym a Duke, and partaker of his dominion. * Thus Jonathas went agayne to Ierusalem wyth peace and gladnes. In the hundred. lxxv. yere came Demetrius, þe sonne of Demetrius, from Trete in to hys fathers lande whereof when Alexander heard tell, he was ryghte sorre, and returned vnto Antioch. And Demetrius chose * Appolonyus, (whych he id the gouernaunce of Celosyria) to be hys captayne.

So he gathered a greate host, and came vnto Jamnia, and sent worde vnto Jonathas, the hys Drest, saying: Darest thou wythstande vs, thy selfe alone? As for me, I am but laughed to scorne and shamed, because thou prouedest thy strength agaynst vs in the mountaynes. Nowe therefore, if thou trustest in thine owne strength come downe to vs in the playne felde, and there let vs proue our strength together: thou shalt fynde that I haue valaunt men of warre wyth me, and shalt knowe whom I am, and the other that stande by me.

Wherhe saye that your force is not able to stande before our face, for thy fathers haue bene D wycked chaled into thy owne lande. And nowe, howe wylte thou be able to abyde soo greate an host of horsemen and fotemen, in the felde where as is neyther rocke, stone, nor place to fle vnto?

When Jonathas heard the wordes of Ap-pollonius, he was moued in hys mynde: wherefore he chose ten thousand men, and went out of Ierusalem, and Symon hys brother met hym for to helpe hym. And they pyched thei tentes at Joppa, but the cite kept hym forth, for Joppa was an holde of Appollonius: Then Jonathas layde sege to it, and they that were in the cypre: for very feare let hym in, and so Jonathas wane Joppa. Appollonius hearynge of this, toke .iij. thousande horsemen, wyth a greate host of fote and went as though he wold go to Azotus, and came immediatly into the playne felde: because he had so many horsemen, and put hys truste in the. So Jonathas folowed vpon hym to Azotus and there they stroke the battayl. Nowe had Ap-pollonius lefte a thousande horsemen: behynde them pruely in the tentes. And when Jonathas knewe that such wayte was layde behynde them they went rounde aboute the enemyes host, and shotte darteres at the people from the mountayn to the euerynge. As for Jonathas people, they kept thei order as he had commaunded them, and the enemyes horses were euer labourynge.

Then broughte Symon forth his host, and set them agaynst the foote men. For the horsemen were very alced. So he dyscomfited them, and they fled. And they that were scatered in the felde gat them to Azotus, and came into the temple of Dagon thei Idol, that they myghte there saue thei lyues. But Jonathas set fyre vpon Azotus and al the cypres round about it, and toke thei goodes and * bzente vp the temple of Dagon, wh all them that were fled into it.

Thus were slayne and bzente wel ny. viij. M.
men. So Jonathas remoued þe host from thence and brought them to Ascalon where the men of the cypre came forth, and met hym wyth greate worlshyppe. After this went Jonathas and his hoste agayne to Ierusalem, wyth greate substaunce of good. And when kynge Alexander hearde thes thynges, he thoughte to do Jona-thas moare worlshyppe and sente hym a colar of golde, as the vse is to begeuen vnto such as are of the kynges next bloude. He gaue hym also the cypre of Accaron (whych the landes belongynge thereto) in possession:

hath, and thou shalt raygne in thy fathers kyngdome. I repent that I gaue Alexander my daughter, for he goeth aboute to slaye me. And thus he slaundered Alexander, because he wolde haue had hys Realme.

Thus he toke hys daughter from hym, gaue her vnto Demetrius and forsoke Alexander, so that hys malice was openly known. And Ptolomy came to Antioch, where he set two crownes vpon hys owne heade the crowne of Egypt and of Asia. In the meane season was kyng Alexander in Egipt, for they that dwelte in those places, had rebelled agaynst hym. But when Alexander hearde of this, he came to warre agaynst hym. So kyng Ptolomy broughte forth hys host and met hym with a myghty power and chased hym awaye. Then fled Alexander in to Araby there to be defended, and kyng Ptolomys honoure increased. And Zabdai of Arabians smote of Alexanders heade, and sent it vnto Ptolomy. But the thyrde daye after, dyed kyng Ptolomy hym selfe: & they whom he had set in strong holdes, were slayne of those that were with in the cytyes. And Demetrius raygned in the hundred and seuen and fyrtye yere.

At the same tyme gathered Jonathas them that were in Iewrye, to lay sege vnto the castell which was at Ierusalem, and so they made manie instruments of warre agaynst it. Then wote they certayne vngodly persons (whiche hated theyr owne people) vnto kyng Demetrius, and tolde hym that Jonathas beseged the castell. So when he hearde it, he was angry, and immediatly came vnto Ptolomys, and wrote vnto Jonathas that he shuld laye no sege to the castell, but come and speake with hym in all the haste. Reuerthelesse, when Jonathas harde this, he commaunded to besege it. He chose also certayne of the clerges and preastes of Israel, and put hym selfe in the parcell and toke with hym golde, syluer, clothyng, and dyuerse presentes, and wente to Ptolomys vnto the kyng, & found hym gracious.

And though certayne vngodly men of hys owne people made complayntes vpon hym, yet the kyng entreated hym as hys predecessor had done before, and promoted hym in the sight of all his frendes, confirmed hym in the hereditarye, with all the worship that he had afore and made hym his chiefe friend. Jonathas also desired the kyng that he wolde make Jewrye free with the thre heade cyties of Samaria & the landes pertaynyng thereto: vpon this dyd Jonathas promysse hym thre hundred talentes. Wherunto the kyng consented, and gaue Jonathas wytte of the same, conteynyng these wordes: Kyng Demetrius sendeth greetynge vnto hys brother Jonathas, and to the people of the Jewes. We send you here a copy of the letter whiche we dyd wyte vnto oure elder Lathmus, conteynyng yon that ye shulde knowe it.

¶ Kyng Demetrius sendeth greetynge vnto Lathmus his elder. For the faythfulnesse that our frendes the people of the Jewes kepe vnto vs: and for the louynge kyndnes whiche they beare towards vs we are determyned to do the good Wherfore we ordeyne all the coastes of Jewrye with the cyties, Lydda and Ramatha, whiche are added vnto Jewrye from Samaria) and all the landes pertaynyng therunto, to be frely separated for such as do sacrifice in Ierusalem both concerning the paymentes whiche the kyng take yearlye aforetyme, and the frutes also of the earthe and treys. As for other cyties and tributes that belongeth vnto vs, we discharge them therof frome this tyme forth. In lyke maner we graunte vnto them all the customes of salte, and crowne taxes: whiche were broughte vnto vs. And this freedom shall they haue tyme and stedfast, from this tyme forth for evermore. Therefore let that ye make a copy of these oure letters: and deliuer it vnto Jonathas, that it maye be kepte vpon the hye mounte in a conuenient place.

After this when Demetrius the kyng sawe that hys lande was in rest, and that no rebellion was made hym, he sente awaye all hys hoste euery man to hys owne place, excepte an armie of straungers, whome he broughte frome the Iles of the heathen, wherfore all hys fathers host hadde euell wyll at hym. Nowe was there one Tryphon that hadde bene of Alexanders parte afore, whiche when he sawe that all the hoste murmured agaynst Demetrius he wente to Eumalcus the Arabian (whiche broughte vnto Antiochus the sonne of Alexander) and laye sege vpon hym to deliuer hym this sponge. Antiochus that he myght raygne in hys fathers steade. He tolde hym also what greates euill Demetrius had done, and howe hys men of warre loued hym not and so remayned there a longe season.

And Jonathas sent vnto kyng Demetrius to deliuer them oute whiche were in the Castell at Ierusalem, & in the other refuges, for they dyd Isarell greates harme. So Demetrius sent word vnto Jonathas, sayinge: I wyl not only do these thyngs for the and thy people, but at tyme conueniente I wyl do both the and thy people greates worshippe. But nowe thou shalt do me a pleasure, if thou wylt sende me men to helpe me, for all myne armie is gone frome me. So Jonathas sent hym (iii. M.) strong men vnto Antioche, and they came vnto the kyng. wherfore the kyng was verie gladd at theyr comynge. But they that were of the cytye (euen an C. xx. M.) men gathered them togither, & wolde haue slayne the kyng, whiche fled into hys court, and the cytyzens kepte the breches of the cytye, and beganne to syght. Then the kyng called for the Jewes helpe, whiche came to hym altogether, & wente abroad thorough the cytye, and sate the same daye an C. M. men, set fyre vpon that city gat many spoiles in that daye and deliuered the kyng. So when the cytyzens sawe that the Jewes had gotten this wyll of the cytye, and they them selues dysapoynted of theyr purpose, they made theyr supplicacyon vnto the kyng, sayinge: Graunt vs peace, and let the Jewes craffe from troublynge vs and the city, and vpon this they cast awaye theyr weapens. Thus they made peace & the Jewes gat greates worshippe in the spghte of the kynge, and in the spghte of all that were in hys realme, and were spoken of thowout the kyngedome: and so they came agayne to Jerusalem wyth great goodes.

So the kynge Demetrius sat in the throne of hys kyngedome, and had peace in hys lande. Nevertheless, he dyssembled in all that euer he spak and withdrew hym selfe frome Jonathas, nevertheless rewarded hym accordyng to the benefytes whych he had doone for hym, but troubled hym verie sore. After this came Tryphon agayne wyth yonge Antiochus whych raygned and was crowned kynge. Then there gathered vnto hym all the men of warre: whome Demetrius had put away, these foughte agaynst Demetrius, whych fled and turned hys backe. So Tryphon toke the Elephantes, & wanne Antioch. And yonge Antiochus wrote vnto Jonathas, sayinge. I confirme the in thy breasthode, and make the ruler ouer foure countreys, that thou mayest be a frende of the kynges.

Vpon this he sent hym golden vesselles to be serued in: and gaue hym leaue to dyspycke in golde, to be clothed in purple, and to weare a colar of golde. He made hys brother Symon also captayne, from the coastes of Egipt vnto the borders of Egypte. Then Jonathas toke hys fourney, and wente thowout the ctytes beyonde the water of Iordane, and all the men of warre of Syria gathered them vnto him for to helpe him. So he came vnto Ascalon, and they of the ctyte receaued hym honourably, and from thence went he vnto Gaza, but they wolde not lette hym in, wherfore he layde sege vnto it, burning vp and spoyllynge the places that were aboute the ctyte.

And the ctyzins of Gaza submytted them selues vnto Jonathas, whych made peace wyth them, but toke of their sonnes to pledge, sent the to Jerusalem, and went thowout the countre vnto Damascus. Nowe when Jonathas hearde that Demetrius prynces were come into Cadus (whych is in Galyle) wyth a greete hoste purpouynge to put Demetrius out from medlyuge in the realme, he came agaynst them, and lette Symon hys brother in the lande whych he came to Bethlura, and layd sege to it a longe season and dyscomfyted them. So they despyred to haue peace wyth hym, whych he graunted them, and afterwarde put them oute frome thence, tooke the ctyte and set men to kepe it. And Jonathas wyth hys hoste came to the water of Genesar, and betymes in the moornynge gatte them to the playne felde of Azor.

And beholde, the hostes of the heathen met them in the felde, and layde watche for them in the mountaynes: so that when Jonathas came agaynst them, the other (whych were layed to watch) rose oute of their places and fought, and they that were of Jonathas syde fled, euery man, and there was not one of them left excepte Nathas the sonne of Absolomus and Judas the sonne of Calphyr the captayne of the hoste.

The Jonathas sent hys clothes layde earthe vpon hys heade, made hys prayer & turned agayne vnto the in the felde: where they foughte together and he put them to spghte. Nowe when his owne men that were fled sawe this, they turned agayne vnto hym and helped hym to folowe vpon all their enemyes vnto their tentes at Cadus. So there were slayne of the heathen the same daye, iii. M. men. & Jonathas turned agayne to Jerusalem.

The xiiij. Chapter

Jonathas sendeth Ambassadors to Rome and to the people of Sparta to renewe their covenante of frendshipp. Jonathas putteth to flight the prynces of Demetrius. Tryphon taketh Jonathas by dyscreete.

Jonathas saynge that the tyme was mete for hym, chose certayne men and sent the vnto Rome for to stablyshe and to renewe the frendshyppe wyth them. He let letters also vnto Sparta and to other places in lyke maner. So they went vnto Rome, and entred into the counsell, & sayde. Jonathas the hye preast and the people of the Jewes sente vs vnto you for to renewe folde frendshyppe and bonde of loue: vpon this the Romaynes gaue them fre passortes, that men shulde leade them home into the lande of Iuda peacablye. And this is the coppe of the letters that Jonathas wrote vnto the Spartians.

Jonathas the hye preast wyth the elders, preastes, & the other people of the Jewes, sende greetyng vnto the Spartians their brethren. There were letters sente longe agoon vnto Onias the hye preast, from Arpus whych he than raygned amonge you: that ye are our brethren, as the wyrtynge made thereupon spekyfeth. And Onias entreated the ambassadeur that was sent honourably, and receaued the letters wherem there was mencyon made of the bonde of loue & frendshyppe: But as for vs, we made no suche wertynges for why we haue the holpe booke of scripture in oure handes to oure comfort. Nevertheless we had rather sente vnto you, for the renewynge of the brotherhod & frendshyppe: Lest we shulde be straunge vnto you, for it is longe synce the tyme that ye sent word vnto vs. Wherefore in the sacryptes that we offer and other ceremonies vpon the hye solempne dayes and other we alwaye remember you wythoute ceasynge lyke as reason is, and as it becometh vs to thynke vpon oure brethren peas, & are ryght glad of your prosperous bonour.

And though we haue had grete troubles and warres, so y the kynges about vs haue foughte ten agaynst vs, yet wolde we not be greuous vnto you, nor to other of oure louers and frendes in these warres. For we haue had helpe from heuen, so y we are deliuered, and our enemyes subdued. Wherefore we chose Numenius the sonne of Antiochus, & Antypater the sonne of Jasen, & sente them vnto the Romans, for to renewe the olde bonde of frendshyp & loue wth them. We commaunded them also to come vnto you, to salute you, & to deliuer you our letters, concernynge the renauacion of our brotherhod. And now ye shall do ryght well to geue vs an answer therunto.

And this is the coppe of the wertyng, which Arpus the kynge of Sparta sente vnto Onias kynge of the Spartians sendeth gretyng vnto Onias the hye preast. It is founde in hebrew wertyng wyptynge, that the Spartans and Jewes are brethren, and come out of the generacon of Abraham And now for so much as thysiz come to oure knowlege, ye shall do well, to wypte vnto vs of youre prosperite As for vs, we haue wist ten oure mynde vnto you. Oure carell and good des are pourses and pourses ours. These thynges haue we commaunded to be shewed vnto you.

When Jonathan hearde þ Demetrius pyn-ces were come forth to fyght agaynst hym with a greater hoost then afore, he went from Ierusalem: & mete them in the lande of Hematthe, for he gaue them not space to come into hys owne coun-try. And he sente spyces vnto thei: tentes, whych came agayne and tolde hym, that they were ap- pointed to come vpon hym in the nyghte season. Wherefore when the Sunne was gone downe, Jonathan commaunded hys men to watche all the nyghte, and to be readye wth weapons for to fyghte: and set watche men rounde aboute the hooste. But when the aduersaries hearde that Jonathan was readye wth hys men to the bat- tel they feared, and were afrayed in thei: tentes, and kyndled fyres in thei: tentes, brake vp, and gat them awaye. Neuerthelesse, Jonathan & his company knewe it not tyll the morning, for they sawe the fyres burnyng.

Then Jonathan folowed vpon them, but he myghte not ouertake them, for they were gone ouer the water Eleutherus. So Jonathan de- parted into the Arabians (whych were called zabadei) slewe them and tooke thei: goodes. He proceeded further also, and came vnto Damas- cus, & wente thowoe all the countre. But Symon hys brother tooke hys iourney and came to Acalon and to the nexte stronge holdes, depar- tyng vnto Joppa, and wanne it. For he hearde þ they wolde stande of Demetrius parte, wher fore he sette men of warre in the ctyte to kepe it. After thys came Jonathan home agayne, and called the elders of the people together, and deu- sed wth them for to buyde vp the stronge hol- des in Jewrye, and the walles of Ierusalem, to set vp an hpe wall betwixte the castell and the ctyte, for to seporate it frome the Ctyte, that it myghte be alone and that men shuld neyther by nor sell in it. Upon thys they came together for to buyde vp the ctyte, and for so muche as the wall vpon the broke of the west syde (called Ca- phetah) was fallen downe, they repayred it. And Symon set vp Adiabab in Sephelah, and made it stronge settynge portes and lockes vpo- le. Nowe whē Tryphon purposed to raygne in Asia, to be crowned, and to slaye the kynge An- tiochus he was afrayed that Jonathan wolde not suffre hym, but fyghte agaynst hym. Where fore he wente aboute to take Jonathan & to kyll hym. So he departed, and came vnto Bethsan, Then wente Jonathan forth agaynst hym to þ battell wth xl. chosē men, and came vnto Bethsan also. But when Tryphon sawe that Jonathan came wth so greete an hooste to de- stroye hym, he was afrayed, and therfore he rece- aued hym honourably, commended hym vnto all hys frendes, and gaue hym rewardes and comaunded hys men of warre to be as obedyente vnto hym as to hym selfe.

And sayd vnto Jonathan, why hast thou cau- sed thys people to take such trauayle, seing ther is no warre betwixte vs? Therefore sende them home agayne, and chose certayne men to wayte vpon the, and come thou with me to Ptolomais for I wyl gene it the, wth the other strong holdes men of warre & thei: offycers. As for me I must departe, thys is onely the cause of my comming Jonathan beleued hym, and dyd as he sayd, put tynges awaye hys hooste, whych he went into the lande of Iuda. He keppe but thre thousande by hym, wherof he sent two thousande into Galyle and one thousande went wth hym selfe.

Not longe after Jonathan entred into Pto- lomais, the ctytyns spared the gates of the cty- te, and toke hym, and slewe all them wth the swerde, that came wth hym. Then sente Try- phon an host of fote men and horsemen into Ga- lyte and into the great playne, to destroye Jona- thas company. But when they knewe that Jo- nathas was taken and al they slayne that way- ted vpon hym, they toke counsell together, and came forth ready to the battell. So when they whych folowed vpon them, sawe that it was a matter of lyfe, they turned back agayne. As for the other they went into the land of Iuda peca- bly, and bewayled Jonathan, and them þ were wth hym tyght sore. And Israel made greete lamentacion. Then all þ heathen þ were round aboute them soughte to destroye them. For they sayde: nowe haue they no captayne, nor any mā to helpe them. Therefore, let vs overcome them, and roote oute thei: name from amonge men.

The xlii. Chapter.

After Jonathan was taken, Symon is chosen captayne of Iudaea. Tryphon takynge the chylde and monye for the redempcion of Jonathan killeth hym and his chylde. The graue of Jonathan. Tryphon killeth Antiochus, and possideth the realme. Demetrius taketh trespashe wth Symon. Symon wynneth Asia. He possideth the towne of Symon. He maketh his sonne John captayne.

When Symon hearde that Tryphon gathered a greete hoost to come into the land of Iuda, and to destroye it, and sawe that the people was in greete fearfulnesse he care: he cam vnto Ierusalem, & gathered the people together, and gaue them ex- hortacion, sayinge: Ye knowe what great bat- tles I and my brethren and my fathers house haue foughte for the lawe and the Sanctuarie, and what maner of troubles we haue sene: tho- rowe occasyon wherof, & al my brethren are slay- ne for Israels sake, and I am lefte alone. And nowe let me not spare myne owne lyfe in anye maner of trouble, for I am not better then my brethren, but wyl aduenge my people and the Sanctuarie, oure chylde and oure wyues. for al the heathen are gathered together to destroye vs of verpe malice.

At these wordes the hertes of the people were kyndled together, so that they cryed wth a lou- de voyce sayinge: Thou shalt be our captayne in stead of Iudas, and Jonathan thy brethren, ordre thou our battayle, and whatsoeuer thou commaundeſt vs, we ſhall do it. So he gathered all the men of warre, making haſt to ſumme all the walles of Ieruſalem, whiche he made ſtronge round aboute. Then ſent he Jonathas the ſonne of Abſalomes with a freſh hoost vnto Joppa, whiche droue them oute that were in the caſtell, and remayned there hymſelfe. Trypho alſo remoued fro Ptolomais with a great armie, to come into the land of Iuda, and Jonathas with hym in warde. And Symon pitched his tentes at Addus before the playne teld.

But when Tryphon knewe that Symon ſtoode vpon ſtede of his brother Jonathas, and that he wolde warre agaynſt hym, he ſent meſſengers vnto hym ſayenge: Where as we haue kept Jonathas thy brother, it is for mony that he is owinge in the kinges accoupt concerning the buſpres that he had in hande. Wherefore, ſe thoue an hundred talentes of ſyluer, and his two ſonnes for ſuretye, that when he is letten forth, he ſhall not forſake vs, and we ſhall ſende hym agayne. Neuertheleſſe, Symon knewe, þ he deſembled in hys wordes, yet commaunded he the monye and chylidren to be deliuered vnto hym, leſt he ſhuld be the greater enemy agaynſt the people of Iſrael, and ſay becauſe he let him not the mony and the chylidren, therefore is Jonathas dead.

So Symon ſent hym the chylidren and an hundred talentes, but he diſſembled, and wold not let Jonathas go. Afterward came Trypho into the lande to deſtroye it, and wente rounde aboute by the waye, that leadeſh vnto Jdoz. But wherſoeuer they went, whether went Symon and hys hoost alſo. Nowe they that were in the caſtell, ſente meſſengers vnto Tryphon, that he ſhuld make haſt to come by the wylderneſſes, and to ſende them by taples. And Trypho made ready all hys horſemen to come the ſame nyght. Neuertheleſſe it was a very great ſnow ſo that he came not in Gaaladithi. And whẽ he drew npe Jeruſhama, he ſawe Jonathas and hys ſonnes ther, and then turned for to go home into hys owne land.

Then ſente Symon to ſet hys brothers dead coarſe, and buried it in Modin his fathers cypre. So al Iſrael bewayled hym, with great lamentacyon, and mourned for hym very long. And Symon made vpon the ſepulchre of his father and hys bretheren, a buyldyngt hys to loke vnto, of fre ſtone behynd and before, and ſet vpon ſeuen pylers, one agaynſt another (for hys father, hys mother, & foure bretheren) & ſet great pylers round aboute with armes vpon them for a perpetual memozye, and carued ſhyppes beſyde the armes that they myght be ſene of meſſaplyng in the ſee. This ſepulchre whiche he made at Modin ſtanderh yet vnto this daye.

Now as Tryphon went forth to walke with the ponge kynge Antiochus, he ſlew him trapterouſly, and raygned in his ſtede, crowned hymſelfe kynge of Aſia, and dyd much euil in the lande. Symon alſo buylte vpon the caſtells in Jewye making them ſtronge with hys to wres, greate walles, & portes, & lockes, and layed vpon bytaples in the ſtronger holdes. And Symon choſe certayne men, and ſent them to king Demetrius, to deſyre hym, that he wolde diſcharge the lande from all bondage, for Trypho had ſpyled it very ſore. Whereupon Demetrius the kynge answered hym, & wrote vnto him after this maner.

Demetrius the kynge ſendeth gretynge vnto Symon the hys preſte hys frende, with the elders and people of the Jewes. The golde crowne and precyous ſtone that ye ſente vnto vs, haue we receaved, and are ready to make a ſtedfaſt peace with you pee, and to wyte vnto our offycers, for to releaſe you, concerning the thynge where in we myde you fee, and the appointmeñt þ we make with you, ſhal be ſpyme and ſtable. The ſtrong holdes whiche ye haue buylded ſhal be youre owne. As for anye ouerſyght or faulte committed vnto this day, we forgiue it: and þ crowne take that ye ought vs alſo. And where as was any other trybute in Ieruſalem, it ſhal be nowe no trybute: & loke who are mete among you to be in our court, let them be wyten vpon, that there maye be peace betwyte vs.

Thus the poeke of the heathen was takẽ from Iſrael in the hundrethe and ſeuenteñthe yere. And the people of the Jewes begonne to wyte in theyr letters and actes on this maner. In the fyrſt yere of Symon the hys preſte, and prync of the Jewes.

In thoſe dayes went Symon vnto Gaza and beſieged it round aboute, where he ſet vpon ordinaunce of warre. And wan a towre, whiche he toke. So they gat into the towre, leapt into the city, which was in a great feare. In ſo much that the people of the cypre rente theyr clothes and clymed vpon vpon the walles with theyr wiues, and chylidren, beſeechynge Symon to be at one with them, ſayinge.

O reward vs not after oure wyckedneſſe but be gracious vnto vs, and we ſhall do the ſeruyce. Then Symon for very pity wold fyghe nomore agaynſt them, but put them oute of the cypre, and cauſed the houſes (where in the priuiges were) to be clenſed, and ſo entred the cypre with pſalmes of prayſe, geuyng thankes vnto the Lord. So when he had caſt al abhominacions oute of the cypre, he ſet ſuche men in it as kept the law of God and made the cite ſtrong & buylded a dwelling place for hymſelfe.

Now, when they in the caſtell at Ieruſale were kepte ſo ſtuptely, that they could not come forth into the countrey, and myght neyther by noz ſell, they were very hungry, and many of the famyſhed to death. In ſo much that they beſought Symon to be at one with them, which he graunted them. So he put them oute from thence, and clenſed the caſtell from ſpethyneſſe. And vpon the thye and twentieth daye of the ſeconde moneth in the Clxxi yere they entred in to it with thankesgeuyng and braunches of Palme trees, with harpes, Troupes, Symbals, and lutes ſyngynge pſalmes and ſonges of prayſe vnto God. for that the great enemy of Iſrahel

Israel was overcome.

And Symon ordayned that the same day shulde be kept every yere in gladnesse, and made stronge the pyl of the temple that was besyde the castell, where he dwelte hymselfe wth hys company. Symon also perceauynge that Jhon hys sonne was a myghty man of armes made hym captayne of all the hostes and caused hym to dwell at Gaza.

The xliii. Chapter.

Demetrius is overcome of Arsaces. Symon beinge captayne is, there is greates quyetenes in Israel. He couenaunte of friendship wth the Romas, and wth the people of Sparta is renewe.

In the xlvi. yere gathered king Demetrius his host, and departed vnto Media to get him helpe for to fight againste Tryphon. Nowe when Arsaces the king of Persia & Media heard, that Demetrius was entred wth in hys borders he sente one of hys prynces, to take hym alpye & to brynge hym vnto hym. So he wente and slew Demetrius host, toke hym selfe, brought hym to Arsaces whych kept him in warde. And al the lande of Iuda was in rest so longe as Simo lyued, for he soughte f welth of hys people, therfore, were they glad to haue him for their ruler, & to do him worship alway. Symon wanne the cty of Joppa also for an haven towne and made it an entraunce into the Iles of the see. He enlarged the borders of hys people, and conquered them more land. He gathered vp many of theyr people f were prynces he had the domynion of Gaza. Bethlura and the castell, whych he clenched from sylepnes and there was no man that resysted hym, So f every man tyllid hys grounde in peace, the lad of Iuda and the trees gaue theyr frute and increase. The elders sat all in Judgement & toke theyr deuyce for the wealth of the lande the yong men put on wo:shyp & harnesse vpon them. He prouided byracles for the ctyes, & made goodly stronge holdes of them, so f the fame of hys wo:shyppe was spoken of vnto the ende of the wo:ld. * For he made peace thorowte oute the lande, & Israel was ful of myth and Joye.

Every man sat vnder hys vyne and figge tree, and there was no man to fray them away. There was none in the land to fyght agaynst them, for then the kynge were overcome. He helped those f were in aduersite among hys people. he was diligent to se the lawe kepte, as for such as were vngodly and wicked he toke the awaye. He set vp the Sanctuarie, and increased the holpe vessels of the Temple.

When the Romas & the Spartans had gotten word, f Jonathas was dead they were righte sorre. But when they hearde f Symon hys brother was made hys preste in his steade & howe he had wonne the lande agayne wth f ctyes in it, they wrote vnto hym in tables of brasse, to renewe the frendshyp, & bonde of loue, whych they had made afore wth Judas & Jonathas hys brethren. Whych the wytynges were red before the congregacyon at Jerusalem.

And thys is the copp of the letters that the Spartans sente. The Senators & ctyezins of Sparta sende gretynge vnto Symon the great preste, wth the elders, preastes, & the other people of the Jewes theyr brethren. When your ambassadours that were sente vnto our people certifyed vs of your wo:shyppe, honour & prosperous welth, we were glad of theyr cominge & haue wytten the errande whych they spake before the counsaile of f people, namly f Numenius the sonne of Antiochus & Antipater the sonne of Jaso the Jewes ambassadours are come vnto vs, for to renewe the olde frendshyppe wth vs. Upon thys the people consented, f the men shulde be honorably intreated, & that the copp of theyr errand shulde be wryten in the speciall booke of the people, for a perpetuall memo:re vnto f Spartans. pre, & that we shulde sende a copp of the same vnto Symon the great preste. After thys dyd Symon sende Numenius vnto Rome, wth a golden shylde of a thousand pounde weyght, to confyrme the frendshyp wth them whych when the Romas understode, they sayde what thanks shall we recompence agayne vnto Symon & hys chylidren: For he hath stablyshed hys brethren, overcome the enemyes of Israel. Wherefore they graunted hym to be free. And al thys wrote the Jewes in tables of brasse, & nailed it vnto f pylles vpo f moue Symon. The copp of the wytynges is thys.

The xxviii. & xxix. daye of the Monethe * Elul in the hundred. lxxii. yere in the thyrde yere of Symon the grete preste, in the grete congregacyon of the prestes, rulers of the people & elders of the country at Alaram, were these wordes openly declared.

For so muche as there was much warre in our lande, therefore Symon the sonne of Elia tathias (come of the chylidren of Iacob) and his brethren put themselves in pael, & resysted the enemyes of theyr people. f theyr Sanctuarie & law myght be maintayned, & dyd theyr people grete wo:shyppe: Jonathas in lyke maner after f he had gouerned his people & bene theyr hys preste dyed & lyeth buried besyde hys elders.

After f wolde theyr enemyes haue troden theyr holy thynges vnder foote, destroyed their land, & vterly wasted theyr Sanctuarie. The Symon with stode them, & fought for hys people, spent much of his owne monye, weapened the valaunt men of hys people, gaue them wages, made strong the cities of Iuda, with Bethlura & lyeth vpon the borders of Jewry, where the ordynance of theyr enemyes laye som tyme) and let the Jewes there for to kepe it.

He made fast Joppa also, whych lyeth vpon f see, & Gaza f bordierth vpo Azotus, (wher the enemyes dwelt afore) & there he let Jewes to kepe it & what soeuer was mete for the subduing of the aduersaryes, f layd he therein. Now wbe the people sawe the noble actes of Symon, and what wo:shyppe he was purposed to do for the hys godly behauoure, & faythfulnesse whych he kept vnto them, & howe he sought by alwayes the welth of hys people, because he dyd all thys therfore they chose hym to be theyr prynces, & hys preste pleaste And in hys tyme they prospered well by hym, so that þe heathen were take oute of the land: & they also whych were in the ctyte of Dauid at Jerusalem in the castel (where they went out and despyled all thynges that were aboute þe Sanctuarie, and dyd greate harme vnto cleynnesse) and Symon put men of the Jewes in it, for the defence of the lande and ctyte, and set by the walles of Jerusalem.

S And kynge Demetrius confirmed hym in hys hys preasthode, made hym his frende, & dyd hym great worship. For he harde that the Romans called the Jewes theyr frendes, louers & bartzen, howe honorabyl they receaued Symons ambassadours howe the Jewes as þe preastes consented that he shulde be theyr pryncce and hys preaste perpetually. Tell God rayled vpon the true prophet, & that he shulde be theyr captayne to care for the Sanctuarie, & to set officers vpon the workes therof, ouer the lande, ouer the weapons ouer the houses of defence, to make prouision for the holy thynges, & to be obeyed of euery man, & all the wytynges of the lande to be made in hys name that he shulde be clothed in purple & golde, & that he shulde be lawfull for none of the people nor preastes to breake any of these thynges to wythstande hys wordes, nor to call any congregacion in the lande wythout hym, that he shulde be clothed in purple, and we are a colar of golde. And yf there were anye whiche dysobeyed or brake thys ordynance that he shulde be punished.

So all the people consented to allow Symon and to do accordinge vnto these wordes: Symon also hym selfe toke vpon hym and was contente to be the hys preaste, the Captayne, and pryncce of the Jewes and preastes, & to gouerne them all. And they commaunded to make thys wytyng in tables of brasle, and fasten it to the compasse of the Sanctuarie in an open place, & laye vpon a cory of the same in the treasure, that Symon and hys posterite myght haue it.

The xv Chapter.

Antiochus maketh a covenante of frendshipp wth Symon. Telyphus is persecuted. The Romans wyte letters vnto kynge Antiochus in the defence of the Jewes. Antiochus refuseth the helpe that Symon sent hym, & breaketh his covenant.

A Dreuere kynge Antiochus the sonne of Demetrius sente letters from the fless of the see, vnto Symon the hys preaste and pryncce of the Jewes and to all the people, containyng these wordes. Antiochus the king sendeth greetynge vnto Symon the hys preaste, and to the people of the Jewes. For so muche, as certayne wycked men haue gotten the kyngdome of our progenytours I am purposed to chalenge the realme agayne, and to restore it to the olde estate.

Wherefore I haue gathered a greate hoolste and made shippes of warre, that I may go thowre the country, & be aduenged of them which haue destroyed our lande and wasted manye ctytes in my realme. And therfore, now I make the free also from all the tributes, whereof all kynnes my progenytours haue discharged the: and from other customes wherfrom they haue released the: whatsoeuer they be yet, I geue the leaue to synke mony of thyne owne wythin the lande. As for Jerusalem, I wyll that it be holy and free: and all the weapons and houses of defence, whych thou haste buylded, and kepte in thyne handes, shal be thyne. Where as any thyng is or shal be owynge vnto the kynge, I forgeue it the, from thys tyme forth for euermore. And when we haue obtayned oure kyngdome we shal do the, thy people, and the temple great worship: so that yowr bouour shal be knowe to grow out the whole world.

In the Cxxxixi peere went Antiochus into hys fathers lande, and all the men of warre came together vnto hym, so that fewe were left with Telyphus. So the kynge Antiochus folowed vpon hym, but he fled vnto Doza, whiche lyeth by the see syde for he sawe that there was myghte comynge vnto hym, and that hys hoolste had forsaken hym. Then came Antiochus vnto Doza wyth an C. & xxiij thousande men of armes vpon foote, & eyght thousande horse men. So he compassed the ctyte rounde aboute, and the shippes came by the see, & thus they vered the ctyte by land and by water, in so much that they suffred noman to go in or oute.

In the meane season came Flumenius and they that had bene with hym, from the ctyte of Rome, haupnge letters wytten vnto the kynnes and pryncces, wherein were containned these wordes. Lucius the Mayre of Rome sendeth greetynge vnto Ptolomeus the kynge. The ambassadours of the Jewes our frendes being sent from Symon the hys preaste, and from the people of the Jewes, came vnto vs for to renewe the olde frendshipp and bonde of loue, & brought a chylde of golde weyng a thousande ponde, whych we were contente to receaue of them. Wherefore we thought it good to wyte vnto the kynnes and pryncces, to do them no harme, nor to take parte agaynst them, theyr ctytes, nor country, neyther to mapntayne theyr enemyes agaynst them. Yf there be any wycked persons therfore fled from theyr country vnto you, deliuer them vnto Symon the preaste that he may punish them accordynge to theyr owne lawe.

The same wordes wrote the Romans also vnto Demetrius the kynge, to Attalus, Araba, Asaces, and to all the regyons, as Samlancs to them of Sparta, Delo, Rhodus, Sidon, Caria, Samos, Pamphilia, Licia, Alicarnassum and to the Rhodes, to Nalchus, Coo, Sida, Arado, Gortina, Gnido, to Cipres, and Ciren. And of euery letter they sent a cory to Symon the hys preaste and to the people of the Jewes: So Antiochus the kynge brought hys hoolste vnto Doza the second tyme to take it: where he made diuers ordynance of warre, and kepte Telyphon in, that he shulde not come forth. Then sent Symon to Antiochus two thousande chosen men to helpe hym wyth golde, syluer, and other plenteous gete. Nevertheless, he wold not receaue them, but brake all the covenant whiche he made wth Symon afore, & wth drew hymself fro him.

The seconde booke

He sente Athenobius also a friend of his to Symon, for to reason wth hym, sayinge. Pe wthholdc from me Joppa and Gaza (wth the castell that is at Jerusalem) whych are cyties of my realme, whose borders pe haue destroyed and one great euell in the lande, haupnge the domynacion in many other places of my kyngdome. Wherfore nowe deliuer the cyties which pe haue taken, wth the tributes of the places that pe haue rule vpon wthout the borders of Jewrye: Or els geue me fyue hundred talentes of syluer pee, & for the harme that pe haue done in the cyties and for the tributes of the same other fyue hundred talentes. If no, we shal come and fyght agaynst you.

E So Athenobius the kynges frende came to Jerusalem, and when he sawe the greates wozyppe and honoure of Symon in golde, syluer and so great plente of ornaments, he maruailed, and tolde Symon as the kyng commaundered hym: Then answered Symon and sayd vnto him: * As for vs, we haue netter taken other mens landes, nor wthholden them, but onelpe oure fathers herptage, whych oure enemyes had vnrigheteously in possellpon a certayne tyme: Theys herptage of oure fathers haue we chalenged in procelle of tyme. And where as thou complaynest concernynge Joppa & Gaza, they dyd greates harme to oure people and in oure lande, yet wyl we geue an hundred talentes for them.

Neuerthelesse, Athenobius answered hym not one worde, but turned agayne wrothfullpe vnto the kyng and told him all these wordes, & the great dignite of Symon, wth al that he had sene, & the kyng was verpe angrie. In the meane tyme fled Tryphon by shyppe vnto Orthosadia. Then the kyng made Cendebeus captayne of the see coast, and gaue him an host of footmen and horsemen, commaunding hym to remoue the hoste towarde Jewrye, and to buylde vp the cytie of Cedron, to make vp the portes, & to warre agaynst the people of the Jewes. As for the kyng himselfe, he folowed vpon Tryphon. So Cendebeus came vnto Jamnia, & began to bere the people, to tread downe Jewry, to take the people prisoners, to slay the to buylde vp Cedron, where he set horsemen and other men of warre: that they myght come forth, and go thorowe the Cretes of Jewry, like as the kyng had commaunded,

The .xvi. Chapter.

Cendebeus the captayne of Antiochus host is put to flight of the sonnes of Symon. Ptolomus the sonne of Abobus helpeb Symon and hys two sonnes at a batell. Jhon helpeb them that were warte for hys ffre,

He came Jhon vp from * Gaza, and tolde Symon hys father, what Cendebeus had done amonge the people. Vpon this called Symon two of his eldeste sonnes, Judas & Jhon and sayd vnto them: I and my brethren and my fathers house, haue euer from oure pouth vp vnto this daye foughten agaynst the enemyes of Israel, & God gaue vs good fortune to deliuer Israel ofte tymes. And nowe for so muche as I am olde, be ye in stead of me & my brethren, to go forth and fyght for our people and the helpe of God be wth you. So he chose twentye thousande fyghtynge men of the country wth horsemen also, whych wente forth agaynst Cendebeus, and rested at Modin.

In the mornynge they arose, and wente into the playne felde: and behold, a myghty greates host came agaynst them both of footemen and horsemen. Nowe was there a water broke betwixt them, & Jhon remoued the host toward them. And when he saw that the people was a frayd to go ouer the water broke, he went ouer first hymself, & the men seing this, folowed him.

Then Jhon set hys horsemen and footmen in ordie, the one by the other, for they enemyes horsemen were verpe manye. But when they blew vp the prestest trompettes, Cendebeus fled wth hys hoste, whereof many were slayne, & the remnaunt gat them to they stronge holde Judas also Jhons brother was wounded at the same tyme. And Jhon folowed still vpon the enemyes, tyl he came to Cedron, whiche he buyl-

And in the felde of Jericho was Ptolompe the sonne of Abobus made captayne, whych because he had aboundaunce of syluer and golde: (for he hadde maryed the daughter of Symon the hye prest) waxed proude in hys mynde, and thought to conquere the lande, p<sup>ro</sup>magynng falslyd agaynst Symon and hys sonnes, to destroy them. Nowe as Symon was goynge aboute thorow the cyties, that were in the country of Jewrye, and carynge for them, he came downe to Jericho wth Mathathias and Judas hys sonnes, in the .Cxxvii. yere in the .xi. moneth called * Sabat. Then Ptolompe the sonne of Abobus receaued them (but wth dysceate) into a strong house of hys, called Doth, whych he had buylde where he made them a banquet.

So whil Symon and hys sonnes were metpe and had dronken well, Ptolompe stod vp wth hys men (whom he had ad ther) and toke they weapons, entred into the banquet house, & slewe Symon wth hys two sonnes, and certayne of hys seruauntes. Suche greates vnfaythfulnesse dyd Ptolompe in Israel, & recompenced cruel for good. Then wrote this Ptolompe the same vnto the kyng Antiochus, requyrng hym, that he shuld sende hym an hoste to helpe hym and so shulde he deliuer hym the land, wth the cyties and tributes of the same. He sente other men also vnto Gaza, for to take Jhon, and wrote vnto the captaynes to come to hym, and he shulde geue them syluer, gold, and rewards. And to Jerusalem he sente other to take it, and the Sanctuarpe.

Then ranne there one before, and told Jhon in Gaza that hys father and his brethren were slayne, and howe that Ptolompe had sent to slay hym also. When Jhon hearde this he was sore abashed, and layde handes of them that were come come to destroy him, & set on them, for he knew, that they wente about to kill hym.

As for other thynges concernynge Jhon: of hys warres, of hys noble actes (wherein he be praised hym selfe manfully) of the buyldynge of walles whych he made, and other of hys deades they are wyrtten in the chronicles of his preasthode, from the time forth that he was made preaste after hys father.

The seconde booke of the Machabees.

The first Chapter.

An Epistle of the Jewes that dwelt at Jerusalem, sente unto them that dwelt in Egypte, wherin they exhort them to geue thanks for the death of Antiochus. Of the tyme that was hys in the pte. The prayer of Nehemias.

he brethren of the Jewes whych be at Jerusalem, and in the land of Jewry, wythe unto those brethren of the Jewes that are thorowoute Egypte: good fortune, health, and peace.

God be gracious unto you and thyne wythe hys couenaunte that he made wythe Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob hys faithful seruantes * & gene you all such an heret, that ye maye loue and serue him: pee, and performe hys wyll wythe an whole hert and of a wyllynge mynde. Ye open your hertes in hys lawe and in hys commaundementes, sende peace, hear your prayers, be at one wythe you, and neuer forsake you in tyme of trouble. Thys is heare our prayer for you.

What tyme as Demetrius raygned, in the Cxxx. yere, we Jewes wrote unto you in the trouble & violence that came vnto vs. In those yeres, after that Jason departed oute of the holre lande and kyngehome, they brent vp the portes and shed innocent bloude. Then made we our prayer vnto the Lorde, and were heard: we offered, and lyghted the candels, setynge forth cakes and breade: * And now come ye vnto the feast of tabernacles in the moneth of Cassi.

In the Cxxxviii. yere, the people was at Jerusalem & in Jewry, the counsail of Judas hym selfe sent his wholsome salutation vnto Aristobolus king Ptolomaus master, which came of the generacyen of the anoynted preastes and to the Jewes that were in Egypte. In so moche as God hath deliuered vs from great perilles we thanke hym hyghly. In that we relysted so myghty a kyng And whych he brought men out of Persia by heapes, to fight agaynst vs and to holp cytie. For as he was in Persia (namely, the captayne with the great host) he persued in the temple of Naneas, beyng dysceined thorow the deupee of Naneas preastes. For as he was purposed to haue dwelt there. Antiochus & hys frendes came thither, to receaue much mony for a dowry. So when Naneas preastes had layde forth the money, he entred wythe a small company into the compasse of the temple, and so they shut the temple.

Nowe when Antiochus entred by opening the priue entrance of the temple, the preastes stoned the captayne to death, brewed the images that were with him, smote of theyr brades, and threwe them oute: In all thynges God be praised, whych hath deliuered the wycked into oure handes.

Where as we are nowe purposed to kepe the purgacyon of the temple vpon the fyue and twentye daies of the moneth Cassi, we thought necessary to certifie you therof, & ye also myght kepe the tabernacles, feast daies, & the daies of the fyre, which was geuen vs, when Nehemias offered, after that he had set vp the temple and the altar. For what tyme as our fathers were led awaye vnto Persia, the preastes whych they sought the honoure of God, toke the fyre priue from the altar and hys it in a valley, wher as was a dyke pte, and therein they kept it, so that the place was vnkowne vnto euery man.

Nowe after many yeres when it pleased God & Nehemias shoulde be sente from the king of Persia, he sent the children children of those preastes (which had hys the fyre to seke it. And as they tolde vs, they founde no fyre but theyr water. The commaunded he them to drawe it vp & to bryng it him, and the offerynge wyshall. Nowe wher the sacrifices were layd on & ordred the preast Nehemias commaunded to spraye the water, & the wood wythe water. When this was done, and the time come that the sunne shone which afore was hys in the cloude, there was a greates fyre kyndled. In so much that euery man maruailed. Nowe all the preastes prayed, whyle the sacrifice was a makynge. Jonathan prayed first and the other gaue aunswere.

And Nehemias prayer was after thys manner. O Lord God maker of all thynges, thou fearful & strong, thou ryghteous & merciful, thou that art onely a gracious kyng, onely lyberall, onely iuste, Almyghtie and euerylastynge, thou that deliuerest Israel from al trouble, thou that hast chosen the fathers, and halowed them, receaue the offerynge for the people of Israel, preserve thyne owne porcion, al & halowe it, gather those together, that are scattered abroad fro vs: deliuer them that are vnder the heathens bondage, loke vpon them whych are dyspyced & abhorred, & the heathen may knowe & se howe thou art our God. Punish them that oppresse, & proud ly put vs to dishonour. Set thy people agayne in thy holy place * like as Moses hath spoken.

And the preastes songe Psalmes of thankesgeyunge, so longe as the sacrifice endured. Nowe when the sacrifice was brent, Nehemias commaunded the greates stones to be sprayed wythe the resydue of the water. * Whych when it was done, ther was kyndled a flame of them also but it was consumed, thorow the lyghte, that shyned from the altar. So when thys matter was knowne, it was told the kyng of Persia, that in the place wherin the preastes which were led awaye, had hys fyre, there appeared red water in the steade of fyre: and that Nehemi-as and hys companie, had purged the sacryand pondering the matter diligently, made him

The. ii. Chapter.

Howe Jeremye by the tabernacle the Arke, and the altar in the hill. Of the fyre booke of Jason comprised in one.

IT is founde also in the wytynges of Jeremye the prophet, y<sup>e</sup> he commaunded the which were carped awaye to take fyre, * as it is sayde afore. * He commaunded the also, y<sup>e</sup> they shulde not forget y<sup>e</sup> lawe and commaundementes of y<sup>e</sup> Lorde, & that they shulde not erre in theyr myndes, whē they se ymagines of syluer & gold, wyth theyr ornamētes. These & such other thynges commaunded he the, and exhorted the, that they shuld not let the lawe of God go out of theyr hertes.

It is wyrtten also: howe the prophet (at the commaundement of God) charged them to take the tabernacle & the arke wyth them & he wente forth vnto the mountayne, where Moyses clymed vp, * & sawe the herptage of God. And whē Jeremy came there, he founde an open caue, where in he layed the tabernacle, the ark, and y<sup>e</sup> altar of incense, & so stopped y<sup>e</sup> whole. There came certaine men together also folowing him, to marke the place, but they coulde not fynde it. Whych when Jeremy perceaued, he reproveth them, sayinge: As for that place, it shalbe unknowne, vntill the tyme that God gather hys people to gether agayne, & receaue them vnto mercy. Then shal God shewe them these thynges, & the ma-ifeste of the Lorde shal appere: & the cloude also lyke as it was shewed vnto Moyses and lyke as whē Salomon despyed, that the place myghte be sanctified, and it was shewed hym.

For he beyng a wyse man, handled honou-rably & wysely, offerynge vnto God in the halowng of the temple, when it was synnyshed.

* And lyke as when Moyses prayed vnto y<sup>e</sup> Lorde the fyre came downe from heauen, & consumed y<sup>e</sup> burntofferynge. Euen so, prayed Salomon also, * & the fyre came downe fro heauē, and consumed the burntofferynge. And Moyses sayde: because the synofferyng was not eaten, therefore is it consumed. In lyke maner Salomon kepte the dedycacion (or halowynge) viii. dayes.

In the annotacions & wytynges of * Jeremye, were these thynges put also: & how he made a lyberarye, and how he gathered out of al coutries the bookes of the prophetes, of Dauid, the Epytles of the kynges and of the prestes. Euen so Judas also, loke what he learned by experience of warre & such thynges as hath happened vnto vs, he gathered them altogether, and so we haue them by vs. If ye nowe desyre to haue the same, send some body to fetch them vnto you. Wher as we then are about to celebrate the purifycation, we haue wyrtten vnto you.

Therefore, ye shall do well. If ye kepe the same dayes. We hope also, that the God (whych deli-uered hys people, & gaue them all the herptage, kyngdome, presthode, & Sanctuarie, * that he prompted them in the lawe) shall shortly haue mercy vpon vs, and gather vs together fro vnder the heauen into his holy place: for he hath sa-

As concernyng Judas Machabeus and hys brethren, the purifycation of the greute temple, the dedycacion of the altar: yea, & of the war-res that concerne noble Antiochus, & * Eupator hys sonne, of the thynges y<sup>e</sup> came downe from heauen vpon those whych manfully defended the Jewes. For though they were but few, yet defended they the whole lande, drove awaye the enemies host, recovered agayne the temple that was spoken of thowoute all the world, deliuered the cytie, doyng theyr beste, that the lawe of the Lorde which was put downe, myght wyth all tranquillyte be restored agayne vnto the Lorde, that was so mercyfull vnto them. As touchyng Jason also of Cyren, we haue vnder-taken compendiously to byng into one booke the thynges that were comprised of hym in fyne. For we consyderyng the multitude of the bookes, and howe harde it shuld be for the that wolde medle wyth stozes and actes (and that becaule of so diuers matters) haue vnderaken so to comprhende the stozes: that suche as are disposed to read, might haue pleasure & pastime therein: and that they whych are diligent in such thynges, myghte the better thynke vpon them yee & that whosoeuer reade them myghte haue profit thereby.

Further the, we oure selues that haue medled wyth this matter for the shortenyng of it haue taken no small labour, but greute dysp-gence, watchynges and traouyle. Lyke as they that make a feast wolde fayne do other mē pleasure. Euen so we also (for manie mens sake) are very well contente to take the labour, wher as we maye shortly comprhende, the thynges that other men haue truly wyrtten.

For he that buyldeth an house a newe, must proude for manie thynges, to the whole buyldyng, but he that paynteth it afterwarde, seeketh but onely what is comely, mete and conuenient to garnish it wythall. Euen so doo we in lyke maner. And why? he that begynneth to wyrtte a stoz for the fyrst, muste wyth his understandyng gather the matter together, set hys wo-rdes in order and diligently seke oute of euery parte. But he that afterwarde wyrtteth it, v-seth fewe wordes, and toucheth not the matter at the largest. Let this be sufficient for a Prologe. Nowe wyll we begynne to shewe the matter, for it is but a foolys thyng to make a loge Prologe, & to be short, in the stoz it selfe.

In that tyme as the holy cytie was inhabited in al peace & welth & when the lawes were yet very well kepte (for so was it ordernd by Onias the hie preast and other godly men that were enemies to wyckednes) It came thereto, * that euen the kynges and prynces them selues dyd the place greate worshippe, and garnyshed the temple wth great gyftes. In so moche that Selucus kyng of Asia of hys owne rentes, bare all the costes belongynge to the seruyce of the offerynge. Then * Symon of the tribbe of Ben Jamin, a ruler of the temple, laboured to worke some myschance in the cytie, but the hie preast respyked hym.

6. mach. 11. b.

Nevertheless, when he myghte not ouercome Onias, he gat hym to * Appolonius the sonne of Thersa (which then was cheefe Lord in Celocrya and Phenyces) and tolde hym that the treasure in Jerusalem was full of innumerable mony, & how that the comē goodes (whiche belonged not vnto the offerynge) were exceeding greate also yee, & howe it were possible that these myght come vnder the kynges powre.

Bowe when Appolonius had shewed the kyng of the money, as it was tolde hym: the kyng called for Heliodorus hys steward, and sente hym wth a commaundement, to brynge hym the same money. Immediately Heliodorus toke hys iourney, but vnder a colour, as though he wolde go thowowe Celocrya and Phenyces to vset the cyties, but his purpose was to fulfill the kynges pleasure. So when he came to Jerusalem, and was lounge receaued of the hie preast into the cytie. he tolde what was determined concernynge the money, and shewed the cause of hys comynge, he asked also if it were so in dede. Then the hie preast tolde hym that there was such mony layd vp for the upholdynge of wyddowes and fatherles chyldren and howe that a certayne of it belonged vnto Hyrcanus Tobias a noble man, and that of all the mony whiche the wycked Symon had bewrayed) There were. iiii. C. talentes of spicer, and two C. of gold yee, and that it were vnpossible for those mens meanyng to be dysceaued that had layd by the money in the place and temple whiche had in worshyppe thowow the whole worlde) for the maintenaunce & honoure of the same. Wherunto Heliodorus answered, that the kyng had commaunded hym in anye wyse, to brynge hym in the money.

2. mach. 11. b.

So at the daye appoynted, Heliodorus entered into the temple to order this matter. But there was no smal feare thowowoute the whole cytie. The preastes fell downe before the altar in the temple well pnyetes, & called vnto heauen vpon hym * whiche had made a lawe concernynge suffice geuen to kepe, that they shulde be safely preserued for such as comyt them vnto keepynge. Then whoso had looked the hie preast in the face it wolde haue greened hys herte. For hys countenance and the chaungynge of his coloure declared tye inwarde sorowe of hys mynde. The ma was al in heynnes, & his bed in feare, wher by they that looked vpon hym, myghte perceaue the greife of hys herte, the other people came out of the houses by heapes vnto the comen prayere, because the place was lyke to come into confusion. The women came together thowow the stretes, wth hery clothes aboute theyr brestes.

The byrgens also that were kepte in, ranne to Onias, some in the walles, other some looked out of the wyndowes. yee, they all helb vp theyr handes toward heauen, and prayed, A miserable thyngge was it, to loke vpon the comen people, and the hie preast brynge in suche trouble. But they besought almyghy God that the goodes whiche were comyned vnto them, myght be kept whole, for those that had despyced the vnto theyr keepynge. Nevertheless, the thyng that Heliodorus was determined to do, that performed he in the same place, he hym selfe personallye brynge aboute the treasure wth hys men of warre. But the spere of almyghy God shewed him selfe openly, so that they which presumed to obeye Heliodorus, fell thowowe the power of God into a great fearfulness and dzyde.

* For there appeared vnto the anhoise, wth a terrible man sytynge vpon hym, deckt in goodlye araye, & the horse smote at Heliodorus wth hys fore fete. Bowe he that sat vpon the horse had harnes of golde vpon hym.

Moreover, there appeared two fayre & bewtiful yonge men in goodly araye, which stode by hym & scourged him on both sydes, & gaue hym manie steypes wthoute cessynge.

* Wth that fell Heliodorus sodenlye vnto the grounde. So they toke him vp (brynge compasled aboute wth greate darchnesse) & bare hym out vpon a bare. Thus he that came wth so many runners and men of warre into the sayd city, was borne out, tohere as no man myght helpe hym. and so the power of God was manifest and known. He laye still downe also by the power of God destitute of all hope & lyfe. And they prayed the Lorde that had shewed his power vpon hys place and temple, whiche a lytle afore was full of feare and trouble: and that thowowe the reuelacion of the Almyghtye Lorde it was fylled wth lope and gladnes.

Then certayne of Heliodorus frendes prayed Onias, that in all hast he wolde call vpon God to graunt hym hys lyfe, which was greynge vpon the ghoost. So the hie preast consyderynge the matter, and least the kyng shulde suspect that the Jewes had done Heliodorus some euill. he offered an heath offerynge for hym. Now when the hie preast had obtained hys peteyon, the same yonge men in the same clothyng appeared and stode by hys Heliodorus, sayng: Thanke Onias the hie preast, for * hys sake hath the Lorde graunted the thy lyfe therfore sayng that God hath scourged the. geue hym prayse & thankes and shewe euery man his myghte and power. And when they had spokē these wordes they appered no more.

So Heliodorus offered into God, made great bowes vnto hym, whiche had graunted hym hys lyfe, thanked Onias, toke hys booste and and went agayne to the kynge. Thentestified he vnto euery man of the great workes of God that he had sene wyth his eyes. And when the kynge asked heliodorus who were met to be sente yet once agayne to Jerusalem, he sayde yf thou haste any enemye or aduersarye vnto thy realme, sende hym thither, and thou shalt haue hym punysshed, yf he escape wyth hys lyfe: for in that place (no doubt, there is a speciall power and workynge of God. For he that dwelleth in heauen, vyliteth and defendeth that place, & all that come to do it harme, he punyssheth and plageth them. This is now the matter concerning heliodorus, and the keepynge of the treasure at Jerusalem.

The.iii. Chapter.

Symon reported euill of Onias. Jason despynged the office of the hie priest corrupteth the kynge wyth rewarde. The wicked intent of Jason.

11. mat. lii. a

Symon now (of whom we spake afore) beyng a bewyaper of the money and of his owne natural countrey reported the worst of Onias as though he had moued heliodorus vnto this, and as though he had bene a bypnyer vp of euill. Thus was he not ashamed to call him an enemye of the realme. that was so faythfull an ouerscar and defender of the cytie & of his people: yee, and so feruent in the lawe of God. But when the malice of Symon increased so ferre, that thorow his frendes there were certayne mens slaughters commytted. Onias considered the perill that myghte come thorow this stryfe, and howe that Appolennus (namelye the cheefe Lorde in Celociria and Phenices) was all set vpon tyzanny, and Symons malice increased the same. He gat hym to the kynge not as an accuser of the citizens, but as one that by hym selfe intended the comen wealtie of the whole multitude.

For he sawe it was not possible to lyue in peace, nerher Symon to leaue of from his foolpynnes: excepte the kynge shoulde looke thereto. But after the deathe of Helucus, when Antiochus (whych is called the noble) toke the kyngdome Jason the brother of Onias laboured to be hie priest: For he came vnto the kynge, and promysed hym. iii. C. talents of syluer, & of the other retyes. lxxx. talentes. Besydes this he promised hym yet an. C. & i. yf he might haue yf scole of the chylidren, and yf he myght call them of Jerusalem Antiochus. Which when they had graunted, & he had gotten the superpoynte, he began immediately to drawe hys kynsmen to the custome of the heathen, put downe the thynges yf the Jewes had set vp of loue, by Jhon the father of Eupolempus whych was sent ambassadour vnto Rome, for to make the bonde of frendshipp and loue. He put downe all the Jewes and lybertyes of the Jewes and set vp the wicked statutes. He durste make a fyghtyng scole vnder the castell and set fayre yonge men to learne the maners of whores and brothels.

This was now the begynnynge of the heathenly and straunge conuersacion, broughte in thorow the vngyracions & vheard wycked nes of Jason, whych shuld not be called a prest, but an vngodlye personne. In somoch that the prestes were now no more occupied aboute yf service of the auter, but dyspyssed the temple, regarded not the offerynges: yee, gaue theyr diligence to learne to fyght, to wrastle, to leape, to daunce, and to put at the stone, not setting by the honoure of theyr fathers, but lyked the glory of the Grekes best of all: for the whiche they stroue parrously, & were greedy to folowe theyr statutes: yee, theyr luste was in all thynges to be lyke them, whych afore were their enemies, & destroyers. Howebeit to do wickedly against the lawe of God, shall not escape unpunished, but of this we shall speake hereafter.

What tyme as the Olympiades sportes were playde at Eyrus (the kynge him selfe beinge presente) this vngyracions Jason sent wikked men, bearyng from them of Jerusalem, which now were called Antiochus. Iuli. C. dragmarg of syluer for an offeryng to Hercules. These had they that carped them despyed them vnder such a fashyon, as though they shoulde not be offered but bestowed to other uses. Reuerthelesse he that sent them, sente them to the intente that they shoulde be offered vnto Hercules. But because of those that were presente, they were geuen as to the makynge of wyppes, And Appolennus the sonne of Nestus was sent into Egypt because of the noble men of kyng Ptolomy Philometor. Nowe when Antiochus perceaued, yf he was put oute from medlynge in the realme, he soughte hys owne poynte, departed from thence came to Joppa: and then to Jerusalem, where he was honourably receaued of Jason, & of the cytie, and was brought in with torch light and wyth greates prayse, and so he turned hys hooste vnto Phenices.

After.iii. yere Jason sente Menelaus, the forsayd Symons brother, to beare the money vnto the kynge, and to bypnyge hym answere of other necessary matters. But he (when he was praysed of the kynge for magnifyinge of hys power) turned the preasthod vnto him selfe layinge by. iii. C. talentes of syluer for Jason. So when he had gotten the commaundementes fro the kynge he came daupnyge nothyng that becommeth a preast, but bearyng the stomache of a cruell tyrante, and wraethe of a wyld brute beaste. Then Jason (whych he had dysceined hys owne brother) seynge he hym selfe was begyled also, was fayne to fle into the lande of the Ammonytes. & Menelaus gat the domynion. But as for the money that he had promysed vnto the kynge, he dyd nothyng therein, when Sosistratus the Ruler of the Castell requyred it of hym. For Sosistratus was the man that gathered the customes, wherefore they were both called before the kynge. Thus was Menelaus put out of the preasthode, and Lysimachus hys brother came in hys stead. Sosistratus also was made lorde of the Eyrans.

It happened in the meane season, that the Charians & Malacians made insurreccyon because they were geue for a preasant vnto kyng Antiochus kyng Antiochus concubynne. Then came the kyng in all the hast, to styll the agayne, & to pacify the matter, leauinge Andronicus thereto by his debyte as one mete therfore. Now Menelaus supposynge þe he had gottē a ryght conuenient tyme, stole certayn vessels of gold out of þe tēple, & gaue the to Andronicus for a present & some he solde at Tyrus and in the cities therby.

Whych when Onias knew of a suerty, he reproued him but he kept hym in a Sactuary beside Daphnis þe lych by Antioch. Wherfor Menelaus gat him to Andronicus, & prayd him þe he wold slaye Onias. So whē he came to Onias, he counceiled him craftely to come out of the Sactuary geuyng him hys hand wryth an othe (howbeit he suspect him) & then he slew Onias wrythout any regard of ryghteousnes. For þe which cause not only the Jewes but other nations also toke indignaciō, and were displeased for þe vnrightheous death of so goodly a man.

¶ And whē the kyng was come agayne from Epylia, the Jewes and certayne of the Grekes went vnto hym, complaynyng for the vnrightheous death of Onias. Antiochus himself was sorowful in hys mynde for Onias, so that it pited hym, and he wept remembraunce his sobernes & manerly behauiour. Wherfore he was so kyndled in hys mynde, þe he commaunded Andronicus to be strypped out of his purple clothing, and so to be led thorowout the cytye pee, & the vngacious man to be slayne in the same place wher he comyted this wyckednes vpon Onias. Thus the lord rewarded hym hys punysshment, as he had deserued. Nowe when Lysymachus had done many wycked dedes in the tēple thorowe the counsell of Menelaus, and þe voyce came abroade the multitude gathered the together agaynst Lysymachus, for he had carped out now much gold.

¶ So when the people arose, and were full of displeasure, Lysymachus armed in A. vnto hyfres to defende hym a certayne tyrant beynge theyr captayne, whych was growen both in age and woodnesse. But when þe people vnderstode the purpose of Lysymachus, some gat stones, some good stronge clubbes, & some caste athes vpon Lysymachus. Thus there were many of the wounded, some beynge slayne, and al the other chased away. But as for þe wycked church robber himselfe, they kylled hym besyde þe treasury. Of these matters therfore there was kept a court agaynst Menelaus. Nowe when the kyng came to Tyrys, they made a complaynt vnto hym of Menelaus, concernynge this busynesse and þe ambassidours were. iii. But Menelaus wēt & promysed Ptolomy to geue him much money, if he wold perswade þe kyng. So Ptolomy went to the kyng into a court, wher he was set to cole hym, & brought hym out of that mynde. In so muche that he dyscharged Menelaus from þe accusaciōs, that not withstanding was cause of al myschete and those poore men, whych yt they hadde tolde theyr cause yee, before the Scythians, they shulde haue bene indyged innocent, them he condemned to death.

Thus where they soone punyshed, whych followed vpon the matter for the cytye, for the people, and for the holpe vessel. Wherfore, they of Tyrys toke indignacion, and buryed the honorably. And so thorow the couetousnes of them that were in power, Menelaus remayned styll in auctoryte increasynge in malysie, to the hurt of the cytezens.

The v. Chapter.

Of the legnes and tokens sene in Jerusalem Of the end and offence of Jason & the purtuer of Antiochus agaynst þe Jewes. The spoyle of the temple.

¶ The plainetyne Antiochus made him ready to go agayne into Egypt. Then were there sene at Jerusalem xi. dayes longe, horsing runnyng to and fro in the ayre, whych had rayment of golde, & speares. There were sene also whole hostes of men weapened, & horsed runnyng in an ordie, how they came together, how they helde forth theyr sheldes, howe the barnesled men drewe out theyr swordes, & shote theyr darteres. The sygne of þe golde weapōs was sene & of all maner of armure. Wherfore euery man prayde, þe those tokens myght turne to good. Nowe when there was gone forth a false rumour, as though Antiochus had bene dead: Jason toke a. vii. men, & came sodenly vnto þe cytye. The citezens came vnto þe walles, at þe last was the cytye taken & Menelaus fled, into þe castell.

¶ As for Jason, he spared not hys owne cytezens in the laughter, neyther considered he what greute euill it were, to destroye the prosperite of hys owne kynsmen but dyd as one that had gotten the vitory of hys euemyes, and not of hys frendes. For al this gate he not the superlative, but at the laste receaued confusion for hys malysie, & fled agayne lyke a vagabounde into the land of the Ammonytes.

¶ Finally, for a rewarde of his wyckednes he was accused before Artaxerxes the kyng of the Arabians. In so much that he was fayne to fle fro cytye to cytye, beynge despyled of euery man as a forsaker of the lawes, and an abhomyable personne. And at the last, as an open enemy of his owne natural countre and of the cytezens, he was dryuen into Egypte.

¶ Thus he that afore put manye out of theyr owne natyue land, perished fro home hymselfe. He went to Lacedemō, thynkyng thereto haue gotten socoure by reason of kyndred. And he þe afore had casten many one out vnburyed, was throwen out hymselfe, no man mournynge for hym nor puttynge hym in his graue: so that he nether enioyed the buryall of a straunger, neyther was he partaker of hys fathers sepulchre.

¶ Nowe when this was done, the kyng suspected, that the Jewes wolde haue fallen frome hym wherfore he came in a greute displeasure out of Egypt, & toke the cytye by violence. He commaunded hys men of warre also that they shuld kyl and not spare, but slay downe such as withstode the, or clymed vpon the houses.

D So mad was Antiochus, that he considered not, howe that God was a lytle worthe for the synnes of them that dwelte in the cypre for the whiche suche confusyon came vpon that place.

¶ And wherof it had not happened them to haue bene lapped in many sinnes, tps Antiochus as sone as he had come had sodenly bene punished and shut out for hrs presumption, * lyke as he liodorus was, whome Selucus the kynge sente to robbe the treasure. The temple is despoiled. The readers are admonished that they shall not abhorre the adulteress to whom the Lord

3  At longe after this, sent the kynge a messenger of Antioch, for to com-pell the Jewes, to alter the ordynaũ-ces of the fathers, & the lawe of God to despile the temple that was at Jerusalem, as to call it the temple of Iupiter Olympus: and that they shulde be in Sazarm, as those whiche dwel at þ place of Iupiter the hecterous. Thys wycked sedycion of the vngodlye was heauy vpon all the people, for the temple was full of voluptuousnes, bybbringe & bolynge of the heathen, of rybbaudes and harlots together. The women went into the holy place, & bare in, that was not lausful. The auter also was full of vnlausful thynges, whiche the lawe forbyddeth to laye vpon it. The Sabbothes were not kept, the other solempne feastes of the lād were not regarded: To be playne, ther durst no man be knowen that he was a Jewe. In the daye of the byrges by the they were compelled perforce to offre: and when the feaste of Waccus was kept, they were constrained to were garlandes of Iuy. and so to go about to the donoure of Waccus. Moreover thowre the council of Ptolomp, there went out a commaundement in the next cytyes of the heathen, that they shulde intreate the Jewes in lyke maner, namely to compel them for to do sacrifice after the lawes of the Gentyles and who so wolde not, to put them to death. A pytyous thyng was it to se. Ther were two women accused to gaue cyrcumspised theyr sonnes, whom when they had led rounde aboute the cytye, the babes hangyng at theyr breastes) they cast them downe headlynges ouer the walles. Some that were crept in dennes, & had kept the Sabboth, were accused vnto Philpp, & bitt in the fyre because that for þ feare of God they kept the commaundement so strictly, and wolde not defende them selues. Some I beseech al those whiche reade thys booke, that they refuse it not for these falles of aduersyte, and iudge þ thynges that are happened, for no destruccyon, but for a chastenyng of our people: And wher Althē God suffereth not synners longe to folowe theyr owne mynde, but shortlye punyssheth them, it is a token of hys greate lounge kyndenes. For thys grace haue we of God more then other people, that he suffereth not vs longe to synne vnpunyschyd lyke as other naciōs, that when the day of iudgement cometh, he maye punyssh them in the fulnes of theyr synnes. If we synne, it correcteth vs, but he neuer wyl draue us nyce from vs, and though he punyssh wylth aduersyte, yet doth he neuer forsake hys people. But he beganne to consider his discrete and honourable age his noble & worshipful stocke & howe p from his yowth vp he had bene of an honest & good conuersacion, yee & howe constant ly he had kepte the ordynances lawes commaunded by God, wherfore he gaue tne this answer and sayde: Yet had I rather fyist be layde in my graue: * for it becommeth not myne age sayde he in any wyse to dyssemble, wherby many yowg persos myght thyncke, that Eleazar being lxx peare old: & r. Whereby I maye peradventure leaue an example of steadfastnes for such as be yonge, yf I wyth a ready mynde and manfully dye an honest death, for the most worthy and holy lawes.

When he had sayde these wordes, immediatly he was drawen to the tormente. Nowe they that led hym & were mylde a lytle afore, beganne to take dyspleasure because of the wordes that he sayde for they thoughte he had spoken them of an hys mynde. But when he was in his martyrdomme, he mourned and sayd (Thou O Lord) whych hast the holy knowlege knowest openly that wher as I myght be deliuered from death I suffer these sore paynes of my body, but in my mynde I am well contente to suffre them because I feare the. Thus this man dyed, leaueing the morpall of his death for an example, not on ly vnto yonge men, but vnto all the people, to be steadfast and manly.

Then was the kynge angrye and bad beate cauldrons and brasen pottes.

Whych when they were made hote, immediatly he commaunded the tonge of hym that spake fyist to be cut out, to put the skynne ouer his head to pare of the edges of his handes and fete yee, & that in the syghte of his mother, and the other of his brethren. Nowe when he was cleane mangled, he comaunded a fyre to be made, and so (whyl there was anye breathe in hym) to be fryed in the cauldron, In the whiche when he hadde bene longe payned, the other brethren wyth their mother exhorted him to dye manfullye, saying. The Lord God shall regarde the truthe and coforte vs, lyke as Moses testifyeth & declareth in his songe, sayinge, and he wpll haue compassyon on his seruantes.

So when the fyre was dead after this manner, they broughte the seconde, to haue him in derpsion, pulled the skynne, wyth p heare ouer his heade, and asked hym yf he wolde eat swynes fleshe, or he were payned in the other membres also thorowout his body: But he answered boldlye, and sayde: I wpll not do it. And so was he tormented lyke as the fyre, and when he was euen at the geupnge vp the ghost he sayd. Thou moost vngacious personne puttest vs nowe to death, but the kynge of the world shal rayse vs vp whych dye for his lawes, in the resurrection of euerlastyng lyfe.

After hym, was the thyrde had in derpsion & when he was requyred he putte oute his tonge, and that ryghte soone holdyng forth his handes manfullye, and spake with a steadfast sayth These haue I of heauen, but nowe for the lawe of God I despyce them. for my trust is that I shall receaue them, of hym agayne. In so much that p kynge and they whiche were wyth hym, marvelled at the yonge mannes boldnes, that he not thynge regarded the paynes.

Nowe when he was dead also, they bered the fourth he wyth the tormentes in lyke manner. So when he was nowe at his death, he sayde It is better that we beinge put to death of men, haue oure hoope and truste in God, for he shall rayse vs up agayne. * As for the, thou shalt haue no resurrection to lyfe.

And when they had spoken to the fyfthe, they tormented hym. Then looked he vnto the kynge, and sayde thou hast power among men for thou art a mortal man also thy selfe, to do what thou wylte, but thynke not, that God hath forsaken oure generacion. Abpde the, tary styll a while, and thou shalt se the great power of God, howe he wpll punishethe and thy selfe.

After hym they broughte the syxt, whiche beinge at the poynte of death, sayde: We not dysceined (O kynge, for this we suffer for our owne sakes, because we haue offended oure God, and therefore meruelous thynges are shewed vpon vs. But thynke not thou, whych takest in hand to stryue agaynst God, that thou shalt escape unpunished.

This excellent mother (worthy to be well reported of, and had in remembraunce) sawe her seven sonnes dye in one daye, and suffred it patiently, because of the hoope that she had in God yee, she exhorted euerie one of them in speccall and that boldly and steadfastly with perfect wisdom, wakynge by her wyse thought wyth a manly stomacke, and sayde vnto them: I can not tell howe ye came in my womb, for I neither gaue you brethren soule, nor lyfe. It is not I p opened the membres of your bodies together but the maker of the worlde, whiche fastened the byrth of man, & beganne all thynges. Euen he alld of hys owne mercye shall geue you breth & lyfe agayne lyke a spe nowe regarde not your owne selues for hys lawes sake.

Nowe thoughte Antiochus that the had despyled hym, therfore he let her go with her reproues, and beganne to exhorthe the youngest sonne, (whiche yet was leste) not onely wth wordes but swore vnto hym wth an othe that he shuld make hym a kyng and a welthy man (yf he wold forsake the lawes of his fathers pre, and that he shulde geue hym whatsoeuer were necessarie for hym. But when the younge man wolde not be moued, for all these thynges, he called hys mother, and counsayled her to saue her sonnes lyfe. And when he had exhorted her with many wordes, she promysed hym that she shulde speake vnto her sonne. So she turned her vnto hym (laughynge the cruell tyrannye to scorne) and spake wth a bolde voyce O my sonne, haue pytie vpon me, that bare the nyne monethes in my womb that gaue the lucke, noursyng the and broughte the vp vnto this age

I beseech the (my sonne) loke vpon heauen and earthe and all that is therein, and consyder that God made them and many generacions of manght so shalte thou not feare this hangman, but suffer death steadfastly, lyke as thy brethren haue doone: that I maye receaue the agayne in the same mercye wth thy brethren.

Whyle she was yet speakynge these wordes, the yonge man sayde: whome loke ye for. Albre for do ye tary? I wyl not obeye the kynges commaundement, * but the lawe that God gaue vs by Moyses As for thou that ymagynest al mysechese agaynst the Jewes, thou shalte not escape the hande of God, for we suffer these thynges, because of oure synnes.

And thoughte God be angry wth vs a lytle whyle (for oure chastenynge and reformatyon) yet shall he be at one agayne wth hys seruauntes. But thou (O shamefull and moost abhominable personne.) Wpde not thy selfe thowowe wayne hope, in beynge so malycious vpon the seruauntes of God: for thou haste not yet escaped the iudgement of the God whiche is Almyghtye and seyth all thynges. My brethren that haue suffered a lytle payne, are nowe vnder the covenant of euerlastynge lyfe: but thowowe the iudgement of God, thou shalte be punished ryghte sulye for thy pryde.

As for me (lyke as my brethren haue done) I offere my soule and my body for the lawes of our fathers, callynge vpon God, that he wyl soone be mercifull vnto oure people yet, & wth payne and punishment * to make the graunte, that he onely is God. In me nowe and in my brethren y wrath of Almyghtye God is at an ende, whiche ryghteously is fallen vpon oure people.

Then the kyng beynge kindled in anger was more cruell vpon hym then vpon all the other: & toke indignacion, that he was so lyghtly regarded. So this yonge man dyed vndeuyled, & put hys truste styll in the Lorde. Laste of all after the sorres, was the mother put to death also. Let this nowe be ynough spokē, concernynge the offerynge, and extreme cruelnes.

The viii. Chapter

Judas gathered together hys host. Apcanos is sente agaynst Judas. Judas exhorteth hys souldiers to resiste him. Apcanos is overcome. The Jewes geue thanks after they haue put the enemyes to flight. Despyng the spohles vnto the fatherles and vnto the wythowes. Apcanos flieth vnto Antiochus.

When Judas Machabeus, and they that were wth him, went pryncely into the townes, called they thynsfolkes and frendes together, tooke vnto them all such as couyned yet in the sayd and lawe of the Jewes, and brought forth. vi. M. men. So they called vpon the Lorde y he wolde haue an eye vnto this people whiche was troden downe of euery man to be gractous vnto the temple that was despyled of the vnged sp: to haue compassyon vpon the destruccyon of the cytye, whiche was worthy lyke to be layd wast, to heare the voyce of the bloude that cryed vnto hym: to remembre the most vnrightheous deathes of yonge innocent chyldren, the blasphemys also done vnto hys name, & to punyssh the.

Nowe when Machabeus had gathered this multitude together, he was to myghtye for the heathen: for the wrath of the Lorde was turned into mercye he fell vpon the townes and cytyes vnwares, bent them, toke the most commodous places & slewe manye of the enemyes. But specially he made suche chases by nyghte, in so muche that hys manynesse was spoken of, euery where.

So when Philippe sawe that the man increased by lytle and lytle, and that the matter prospered wth hym for the most parte: he wrote vnto Ptolome, whiche was a captayne in Egipt, Syria and Phenices) to helpe hym in the kynges busynes. Then sent he Apcanos Pateoclepe a speciall frende of hys in all the haste and gaue hym of the cominen sorte of the heathen no lesse then xx. M. harnessed men, to roote out the whole generacion of the Jewes, hauing to helpe him one Gorgias a man of warre, whiche in matters concerninge battayles, had greute experyence. Apcanos ordeyned also the tribute (whiche the Romaynes shuld haue had) to be geuen vnto y king out of the captuyte of the Jewes, namely two thousande talentes. And immediatly he sente to the cytyes of the see coast, requyring them for to bye Jewes to be theyr seruauntes and handemen, promysynge to sell them. lxxx. and ten for one talente: but he considered not the wrath of Almyghtye God, that was to come vpon hym.

When Judas knewe of this, he tolde the Jewes that were with him of Apcanos comynge. Nowe were there somme of them fearefull, not trustynge vnto the ryghteousnesse of God, and fled theyr waye.

But the other that remayned, came together, and besoughte the Lorde, to deliuer them frome that wycked Apcanos, whiche had solde them or eue he came nye them: and thoughte he wolde not do it for theyr sakes, yet for the covenante that he made wth theyr fathers and be-

man nowe abyde nor beare for the vehemencie of syncke. Therefore, he beinge broughte frome bys greafe pryde, beganne to come to the knowledge of hym selfe: for the punysshement of God warned hym, and bys payne increased more and more. And when he hym selfe myghte not abyde bys owne syncke, he sayde these wordes: It is reason to be obedyent vnto God, and that a mā despyre not to be lyke vnto hym. Thys wycked personne prayed also vnto the Lorde of whome he shulde haue optayned no mercede. And as for the cypre that he came vnto so basely, to byngge it downe to the grounde, and to make it a graue for deade men nowe he despyeth to deliuer it fre.

And as touchyng the Jewes, whome he had iudged not worthy to be buryed, but wold haue cast them oute for to be deuoured of the foules & wild beastes, saying that he wold haue destroyed bothe olde and yonge. Nowe he promyseth to make them lyke & citizens of Athens. And wher as he had spoyled the holy temple afore, now he maketh promise to garnyshe it wyth great gyftes, to increase the holy ornaments, and of bys owne rentes to beare the costes and charges belonging to the offerings yee, and yf he wold also become a Jewe hym selfe to goe thowre euery place of y world, & to preache the worde of God.

But when bys paynes woldenot cease, (for yf tigeuous iudgement of God was come vpon hym) out of a very dyspayre he wrote vnto y Jewes, a letter of intercessyon, contaynyng these wordes, The king and pryncce Antiochus wyl- leth vnto the vertuous cyprians of the Jewes much helpe and good prosperite. Yf ye and your children fare well, & yf al thynges go after your mynd, we geue great thankes. In my speking also do I remember you louyngly. for as I cam out of Persia, & was taken wth a sore dysplese I thoughte it necessarye to care for the common wealth. Bothre dyspayre I in my selfe, but haue a good hope to escape this spekenes.

But consyderyng that my father led an booke sometime in the byer places, & shewed who shuld raygne after hym, that yf there happened anye contrarietye, or any heard thyng were declared, they in the lande myght knowe theyr chiefe lorde that there shulde be no insurrecyon: Agayne, when I ponder by my selfe, how yf all the myghty men, and neygbbours round about, are lay- inge wayte, and loke but for oportynite to doo haeme: I haue ordeyned that my sonne Antio- chus shall raygne after me, whom I ofte comen- ded to many of you: wher I was in the byer king- domes, and haue wyttē vnto hym as foloweth hereafter. Therefore: I pray you and requyre you, to remēber the benefytes that I haue done vnto you generally, & in especyall and that euery man wyl be sayethfull to me and to my sonne.) For I hope that he shalbe of sobre and louyng behauoure, and yf ye folowe my demyce, he shal be indyfferent vnto you. * Thus that murthe- rer and blasphemour of God was soore smytten and lyke as he had intreated other mē, so he dyd a miserable death in a straunge countrey vpon a mountayne. And bys bodye dyd Phylipp (that went wth hym) carry awaye: whiche fearnyge the sonne of Antiochus, wente into Egypte to Ptolomy Phylometor.

The .x. Chapter.

Achabeus nowe and bys company ¶ thowre y helpe of the Lorde, wan the temple and the cypre agayne, de- stroyed the alters and chapels that the heathen had buyld thowre the stretes, clyf y temple, * made an other altar of bricke stone, and after two yeares they offered sa- crifices, set forth the incence, the lygders & shew bread. When that was done they fel downe flat vpon the grounde, and besought the Lorde, that they myght come homre into suche trouble: but yf they synned any more agaynst hym, yf hym selfe to chaften them wth mercy, and not to come in the handes of those aleates and blasphemous men. Nowe vpon the same daye that y strail- gers polluted the temple, it happened that on the very same daye it was cleynd agayne namelye * the xxii. day of the moneth called Casleu. The .iij. kept. viii. dayes in gladneslike as in the feast of the tabernacles, remembryng, that not longe a fore they helde the feast of the tabernacle vpon the mountaynes and in benes lyke beastes. And to the same token they bare greene botwes, bryanches and palmes, before hym that had ge- uen them good fortune to cleyne bys place. They agreed also together, and made a statute that euery yeare those dayes shuld be solemplye kept of all the people of the Jewes.

Nowe Antiochus then (that was called the noble) dyed: it is suffeyently tolde. Nowe wyl we speake of Eupator the sonne of that wycked Antiochus, howe it happened wth hym, and so wyl we wryte to comprehend the aduersite that chaunced in the warres. When he had taken in the kyngdom, he made one Lysias (which had bene captayne of the booke in Phenecis and Siria) ruler ouer the matters of the realme. For Ptolomy that was called Macron, beinge a ruler for the Jewes (and specially, to lye in the iudgement for such wrong as was done vnto them) undertoke to deale peacablye wth them. For the whyche cause he was accused of the frendes before Eupator and when he was suspect to be a traitor (because he had left Eppres, that Phylometor had comyrted vnto hym: & because he departed from noble Antiochus, that he was come vnto) he poisoned hym selfe and dyed.

Nowe when Gorgias was gouernour of the same places, he toke straungers and undertoke ofte tymes, to warre wth the Jewes. And co- ner, the Idumeans y helde the stronge holdes, re- ceaued those that were dyscuss from Ierusalem & toke in hand to warre also. * But they that were w Machabe besought & prayed vnto the Lorde yf he woulde be theyr helper, & so they fell vpon the strong holdes of the Idumeans, & wan many pla- ces ces by strength Suche as came agaynst them theye arme, and killed noo lesse of all together then .xx. M. Nevertheless some, no lesse then .ix. M. were fled into two stronge towers, haupng all maner of ordynauce to withstande them.

D Then Maccabeus leauing Simo, Josephus, zachens, & thole þ were with them (which were very many) went to beserger them, & to syghte where most nede was. Now they þ were w Simo, being led w couetousnes, were intreated for money, thozow certain of those þ lay in þ towers toke lxx. m. dragmars & let so of the escape. But whē it was told Maccabeus what had hapened, he called þ captayns of þ people together accusyng those persons, þ they had sold þ brethren for money, & let theye enemies go. So he slewe those traitours, & immediatly wēt in hād wth. þ. ii. towers. And whē they had dordied the selues manly, w theye weapons & handes, they slewe in þ. ii. castels moo then .xx. M. * Nowe Timotheus wō þ Jewes had overcome afore gathered a multitude of straūg people, brought an host also of horsmen of þ Asians, to wyne Jewe by strengthe. But when he drewe nre,

E Maccabeus & they þ were w hym * fel to their prayer, sprinkled ashes vpo theye heades, being gyrded w deap cloth about their loynes, fel downe befor þ auiter, & besought þ Lord þ he wold be merciful to them, but an enemy vnto theye enemies, & to take part against theye aduersaries, * accordyng as it is promysed in þ lawe. So after þ prayer, they went on further frō the citie & when they came nre þ enemies, they prepared themselves against them. And by tymes in þ morning at the breake of the day bothe the hostes buckled together. * The one part had the Lord for theye refuge, whiche is þ greuer of prosperite strenght & victorie. The other had a malp stomacke, which is a captain of warre. The battle now being great, * there appeared vnto the enemies frō heauen. v. men vpo horsbackes with bydels of golde, leadyng the Jewes, & .ii. of them haying Maccabeus betwxt the, that kept hym safe on euery syde w theye weapons, but shotte dartes & lightniges vpon þ enemies, where thozow they were confounded w blindness, & so soze afraped, þ they fell downe. There were slain of foemē .xx. M. & .v. C. & .vi. C. horsmen. As for Timotheus hym selfe he fled vnto Gazze a very strōge hold, wherin Cereas was captayne. But Maccabeus and his companie layed seige to it cherefullye foure dayes.

F Nowe they that were within trustyng to the strength of the place, cursed & bāned exceddingly, & made great crakynge w wycked wordes. Nevertheless vpon þ. v. day in þ morning xx. yong men of Maccabeus company, beyng set on fyre in theye mindes (because of the blasphemie) came manfullye vnto the wal, & with holde stomakes, they & theye other companions clymed vp vpon þ towers, undertaking to set fyre vpo þ portes & to burne those blasphemous persons quicke. Two dayes wer they destroying the castel, which whē they founde Timotheus (that was crept into a corner) they killed him, & slew Cereas his brother in lyke maner wth Appolophancs. When this was don, they song psalmes, w prayles & thākes gyuyng vnto þ Lord which had done so great thynges for Israel & geuen them þ victorie. The .xi. Chapter.

E Lysias goeth about to overcome the Jewes. Antiochus sente him heauen vnto the Jewes. The letter of Lysias vnto the Jewes. The letter of king Antiochus vnto Lysias. A letter of the same vnto the Jewes. A letter of the Romans to the Jewes.

O Et lōg after this, Lysias þ kiges steward & a kinsma of his (which had þ gouernaūce of his matters) toke soze displeasure for þ thynges that had hapened, & when he had gathered .lxx. M. mē of fote with all the hoste of þ horsmen, he came agaynst the Jewes, thynkyng to wpn þ citie, to make it an habytacyon of the heathen * & the temple wold he haue to be an house of lucre, lyke as the other gods houses of the heathē are, & to sel þ Preatres office euery yere. Not consideryng þ power of God but was wild in his mynd, * trustyng in the multitude of fote men, in thousandes of horsmen and in his foure score Elephantes.

So he came ino Jewry & then to Bethlura (a castell of defence) lyng in a narow place. v. furlonges from Ierusalem, and wāne it. Now when Maccabeus & his company knewe þ the strōg holdes were takē, * they fel to theye prayers w wepyng & teares befor þ Lord. And all the people in lyke maner besought him, that he wold send a good āgel to deliuer Israel. Maccabeus himselfe was þ fyrst þ made hym ready to þ battail, exhortyng þ other þ were w him to scoperde themselves, & to helpe theye brethren. And when they were goyng forth of Ierusalem together with a ready & willing mynde * there appeared befor them vpon horsbacke a man in whyte clothynge w harness of golde, chakynge his speere. When they praised þ Lord altogethe which had shewed them mercy, & were comforted in theye mindes, in so much þ they were ready, not only to fight w men, but w þ most cruel beastes pee, & runne thozow the walles of yron.

Thus they went on wyllpynglye haupng air helper from heauen, & the Lord merciful vnto them. They fell myghtely vpon theye enemies lyke a pons, brought downe .xx. M. formen, & v. C. horsmen, put all the other to flyght many of them beyng wounded, & some gat away naked. Pee, Lysias hymselfe was fayne to flee shāfullye and so to escape. Nevertheless, þ mā was not w out vnderstandyng, but consydered by himselfe that his power was mynished, & pondred howe the Jewes being defided by þ helpe of Almighty God, were not able to be overcome, wherefore he sente them worde, & promysed, þ he wold consēt to al thynges which were reasonable and to make þ kyngs theye frende. To the whiche prayer of Lysias, Maccabeus agreed sekynge in all thynges þ comen weale & what soeuer Maccabeus wrote vnto Lysias concernyng þ Jewes, the kyng granted it. For there were letters wyrtten vnto þ Jewes from Lysias containyng these wordes. Lysias sendeth gretynge vnto the people of the Jewes. Ihon & Absolon is now dead, our wyll is, þæt they which are in our realme, lyue without any insurreccion, and euery man to be diligent in his owne matters.

We vnderstande also þæt the Jewes wold not con-

The xli. Chapter.

¶ Timotheus troubleth the Jewes. The wicked deade of the Jewes agaynst the Jewes Judas is shewyd of them. He set forth by the gate of Jamnia. The perfur of the Jewes as gaine Timotheus. Timotheus taken and let goe but uere Judas pursueth Josias. Judas offering sacrifice for the dead, he meth the hope of the resurrection.

¶ When these couenaunts were made Lillas wēt vnto the king, and the Jewes tyld theyr grounde. But Timotheus, Appolonius the sone of Semel, Jereme & Demopho the proude, Pechanor þæt captaine of Cyprus, & they that lay in those places, wold not let the liue in rest & peace. They of Joppa also dyd enē such a woful dede. They prayed þæt Jewes þæt dwelt among the, to goo w theyr wyues & chyldren into the shippes which they had prepared & did with the as though they had ought the none euil wil for so much then as ther was gone forth a gene-al proclamaciō thozow þæt cite because of peace they cōsented thereto, & suspect nothing, but wēt they were gone forth into þæt depe, they drowned no lesse then. ii. C. of them. When Judas knewe of this cruelty shewed vnto his people, he commaunded those þæt were w hym to make the ready, erhortyng them to call vpon God þæt righteous Judge: went forth agaynst those murderars of his brethren, set fyre in þæt haue by night, byt vnto þæt ships, & those þæt escaped fro the fyre, he slew with the sword. And wēt he had done this, he departed as though he wolde come agayne, and rote out al the of Joppa. But wēt he had gottē word þæt the Jamites were myndēd to do in lyke maner vnto þæt Jewes which dwelt among the, he came vnto þæt Jamites by night, & set fyre on the haue w the ships, so þæt the light of the fyre was sene at Ierusalem, vpon a. ii. C. & xl. furlonges.
Nowe when they were gone fro thence. ii. furlonge, in theyr iourney towarde Timotheus & Men of fote, & v. C. horsmen of þæt Arabians fought w hym. So wēt þæt battayle was earnest and prospered w Judas thozow þæt help of God: the residue of þæt Arabians byng ouercome, besought Judas to be at one with the, & promysed to geue him certayn pastures, & to do hym good in other thynges. Judas thynking þæt they wold in dede be profitable cōcernynge many thynges, promysed the peace: wherupō they shoke hādes, and so they departed to their tentes Judas wēt also vnto a cite, which was veri fast kept with bridges, fenced round about þæt walles, & dyctes hendes of people dwelling therein, called Caspin motheus, they could not get hym ther, for (not one matter dispatched) he was departed frome thence, & had left certayne men in a very strong captaynes captaynes wth Machabees, slew those þe mothers had left in the house of defence, euen x.

xi. men. And Machabees prepared hym wth the
vi. men þe were about hym. set them in ordie by companies, & went forth agaynst Timothe two thousand and fye hundred hoymen.

D When Timotheus had knowledge of Judas comynge, he sent þe women, chyliden, & þe other baggage vnto a castell called Carnio (for it could not be done, & was hard to come vnto, þe wayes of þe same places were so narrow) & whe Judas company came spz in sight, the enemyes were smytten wth fere, & how þe pzelee of God which seeth al thynges: In so much þe they flynge one here, another there, were rather dys cōfited of theþe owne people, & wounded wth þe strokes of theþe owne swerdes. Judas also was very earnest in folowynge vpo them puny shing those vngodly, & slew. xxi. men of the Timotheus also hunselfe fel into the handes of Dolptheus, & Sosipater, whome he besought w many prayers, to let him go wth his lyfe, be cause he had many of þe Jewes fathers & byerthe in prisō, which þe they put hi to death, myghte be disapointed. So whe he had promysed faith fully to deliuer them agayne according to the condicion made, they let him go without harme for the health of the byerthen. And when Judas had slayne. xxi. he went from Carnio.

E Now after þe he had chased away, & slaine his enemys, he remoued þe host towarde Ephraim a strong cite, wherin dwelt many diuers people of þe heathē, & the strong ponce men kept þe wal les defendynge them myghtely. In this tyme was much ordinaunce & prouisiō of darters. But whe Judas & his company had called vpon al myghty god (which wth his power breaketh the streight of þe enemies) they wā þe cite, & slew. xxi. of the þe were win. It so thei went they to þe cite of þe Scythias, which lyeth. vi. c. fourty fres Jerusalem. But whe þe Jewes which were in þe cite testified, þe the citizing deale loungly w them yee, & intreated them kyndly in þe tyme of theþe aduersyte, Judas & his company gaue the thaukes bespyng them to be frendly wth vnto them, & so they came to Jerusalem, the hye feaste of the weekes beyng at hand. And after þe feast of pentecost they went forth agaynst Gorgias gouernour of Iudumia wth. an. c. men of fote. & x. hoymen. Which when they met together, it chaunced a fewe of the Jewes to be slaine. And Dolptheus one of the Warthenors a myghty ho ymā toke hold of Gorgias & wold haue takē hi quycke. But an hoymā of Thracia fel vpo hi & smote of his arme so þe Gorgias escaped & fled into Moza, when they now þe were of Gorgi as syde, had foughten long & were wery: Judas called vpon the lord, þe he wold be theþe helper, & captayne of the feld. & wth þe he began wth amā ly voyce to take vpo song of prayse, & a cry. In so much þe he made the enemyes astayed, & Gorgias me of warre toke they flight. So Judas gathered his host, & came vnto the ctye of Odul ai. And when the. vii. daie came vpo them, they clēd themselves as the custome was) & kept the sabboth in the same place. And vpo the day folowynge, Judas & his company came to take vpo the bodies of them þe were slayne, & to bury them i theþe fathers graues. Now vnder þe coa tes of certayne Jewes whych were slayne, they founde iewels þe they had take out of the temple & from the ydols of the. Jamars which thing is forbydde þe Jewes by the law. The euerp mā saw, þe this was þe cause wherfore they wer slain.

And so euerp man gaue thanckes vnto þe lord de for his righteous iudgement, which had ope ned the thyng þe was hyd. They fel downe also vnto theþe prayers, & besought God, þe the fault whych was made, myghte be put out of remem braunce. Besydes þe, Judas exhorted þe people e arnestly, to kepe themselves fro such synne. for so much as they sawe before theþe eyes, þe these men were slayne for the same offence. So he ga thered of euerp one a certayne, in so muche þe he brought togethet two. an. draginars of syluer which he sent vnto Jerusalem þe there myght a sa crifice be offered for the mysdede. In the which place he dyd well & ryght for he had some coun deracion & pōdyng of the lyfe þe after this tyme. For yf he had not thought þe they, which wer slaine, dyd yet lyue, it had bene superfluous & vayne, to make any vowe or sacrifice for the þe were dead. But for so much as he saw, þe they which dye in the fauour & belefe of God, are in good rest & joy, he thought it to be good & hono urable for a reconciling, to do the same for those whych were slayne, þe the offence might be forge uen.

The commynge of Eupator into Jewrye. The death of Antiochus. Machabees gainge to fygge agaynst Eupator moueth his souldiers vnto praye. He brilleth fourtye ches some great mā of auctorite. But the kyng of al ges moued Antiochus mynd agaynst theþe vn this Menelaus was þe cause of al myschefe. so þe the kyng commanded to take him, & (as the maner of them is) to put hym vnto death in the same place: There was also in the same place a

And reaso it was þe the vnthyfte shuld dye such

B But the kynge was wood in hys mynde, & came to shew hymselfe more cruell vnto the Jewes, then hysfther was. Whiche when Judas perceaued, * he commaunded þe people to cal vpon the Lorde night & day þe he wold now helpe the also, lyke as he had done alway. For they were afrayed to be put from theyr lawe, from theyr natural country, & from þe holy temple: & not to suffre the people (whych alyle whyle afore began to reconer) to be subdued againe of the blasphemous nations. So when they had done this together, & besought the Lorde for mercy, with weping & fasting. iiii. dayes long flat vpon the ground Judas exhorted them, to make the selues ready. But he & the elders together deuysed to go forth fyrst wth theyr people, afore the king brought hys host into Jewry, & afore he beseeged the ctyte, & commyt the matter vnto God.

E Wherefore, he ascribved the power of al thinges vnto God þe maker of þe world exhorting his people to fyght manfully (yea, euen vnto death) for the lawes, the temple, the ctyte, theyr owne natue countrye, & to defend þe citizins & let his host before. Whodm, he gaue the also þe were wth him a token, of þe victorie of God, chosynge out þe manlyest yong men, went by nyght into þe kinges panyll, & slew of þe host. xiiii. men * & þe greatest Elephantes wthole þe sat vpon them.

D Thus when they had brought a great feare & rumour among þe tentes of theyr enemyes, & all thinges went prosperously wth them, they departed in the breake of the daye, God beyng the helper & defender. Nowe when the king perceaued the manlynes of the Jewes, he went about to take the stronge places by craft, & remoued his host * vnto Bethsura which was a wel kept house of defence of þe Jewes but they were chased away, hurt & dyscomfyted. And Judas sent vnto them þe were in it such thinges as were necessary. In the Jewes hoste also there was one Rhodochus which told the enemies their secretes but they sought hym oute, & when they had gotte hym, they put hym in prison. After this dyd the kynge commẽ wth them þe were in Bethsura, toke treuce wth them, departed and stroke battayle wth Judas whiche ouercame hym.

B But when he vnderstode, that Polypppe (whome he had left to be ouer sear of his busyness at Antioche) began to rebel agaynst hym he was ashynd in hys mynde, so that he pelyded hymselfe to the Jewes, and made them an othe to do whatsoeuer they thought ryght.

Nowe when he was reconcyled wth them he offered, made much of the temple, gaue great gyftes vnto it, embraled Machabews, making hym captayne and gouernour from Ptolomays vnto the Serrenes. Neuerthelesse, when he came to Ptolomays, the people of the cty were not content wth the bonde of frendshyppe, for they were afrayed, that he wolde breake the covenannt. Then wente Lysias vp into the seate and enfourmed the people, shewed them the cause why, and pacyfyed them. So he came agayne vnto Antioch. This is now the matter concerning the kynges iourney, and hys returne.

The xlii. Chapter.

C By the morpion of the kynge, Demetrius sendeth Aprianos to kyll the Jewes, Aprianos maketh a compact wth the Jewes, whych he yet breaketh throughe the morpion of the kynge. Aprianos commaundeth Razia to be taken. The boldnes of Razia.

After thre yerres was Judas enfauted how that Demetrius the sonne of Seleucus was come vp wth a great power of Chyppes, thowowe the haue of Crapols, to take certayne commodious places & countreys, agaynst Antiochus and hys captayne Lysias. Now Alcimus (whych had bene hys preaste and wylful ly despyled hymselfe, in the tyme of the murther) seinge, þe by no meanes he coulde be helped, nor haue any more entrance to the aulter he came to kynge Demetrius in the. C. & l. yere, presented vnto hym a crowne of gold, a palme and an Olpye tree, which (as me thought) beloged to the temple, and that daye he helde hys tounge. But when he had gotte oportunitie for his madness, Demetrius called hym to counsaile, and asked hym, what thynges or counsailes the Jewes leaned vnto. He answered: The Jewes that be called Assyde, whose captaine is Judas Machabews, mayntayne warres, make insurrectiouns, and wyl not let the realme be in peace.

B For I beinge depriued of my fathers honoure (I meane the hys preasthode) am come hether: partly because I was faythfull vnto the kynge and partly because I sought the profite of the ctytins. And whiche al oure people, thowowe the wickednes of them, are not a lytle troubled.

Wherefore, I beseech the (O kynge) consider al these thynges diligently, & the make some prouision for the lande and the people, accordyng to the kynndes that thou haste offered vnto them. For as longe as Judas hath the vpperhand, it is not possyble that men can lye in peace.

When he had spoken these wordes, other frendes also haupnge euell wyl at Judas, set þe kynge Demetrius on fyre agaynst hym: * which immediatly sent Aprianos (ruler of þe Elephantes, a captayne into Jewry, commaunding hym to take Judas hymselfe alpye, but to slay them that were wth hym, and to make Alcimus hys preast of the great Temple.

C Then the heathen which fled out of Jewry from Judas, came to Aprianos by flockes, thynkinge the darre and decay of the Jewes to be theyr welfare. Nowe when þe Jewes hearde of Aprianos commynge, and the gathering together of þe heathen, they spykyled the selues wth earth * besought hym whiche made them hys people, and euer defended his owne porcion wth euident tokens, þe he wolde preserue them still. So at the commaundement of þe captaine, they remoued from thence, and came to a towne called Bethsai. And Simon Judas brother fel in hand wth Aprianos, but thowowe þe sodaine commynge of the enemyes, he was afrayed.

Neuerthelesse, Aprianos hearyng the manynesse of them that were wth Judas, and þe bold stomackes that they had to fight for theyr natural countrie, durste not proue the matter wth bloudsheddyng. Wherefore, he sent Passidorus Theodocius Theodocius, and Mathias before, to geue and to take peace. So when they had taken long aduise, met thereupon and the captayne shewed it vnto þe multitude, they were agreed in one minde: to haue peace. And they appoynted a daye to sytte vpon these matters quietly among them selues the schooles also were brought & set forth. Neuertheles, Judas commaunded certayne me of armes to waite in conueniente places, least there shuld sodaynly aryse anye euill thozowe the enemies. And so they commaunded reasonabylly together.

D Apcanor, whyle he abode at Jerusalem, ordered him self not vnreasonably, but sent away the people þe were gathered together. He loued Judas euery wyth hys herte, and fauored hym. He prayed also to take a wife, & to bryge forth children. So he married, lyued in rest, & they led a comen lyfe. But Alcimus perceauyng þe loue that was betwixt hym, and howe they were agreed together, came to Demetrius and told hym that Apcanor had taken straunge matters in hand, and ordeyned Judas (an enemy of the realme) to be the kynges successour. The kyng was sore dyspleased, and thozow þe wicked accusacions, whych Alcimus made of Apcanor, he was so prouoked, þe wrote vnto Apcanor, sayenge that he was very angry for the frendshipp & agreement, whiche he had made w Machabeus. Neuertheles, he commaunded him in al the hast, that he shulde take Machabeus prisoner, and sende hym to Antioche.

Whyche letters when Apcanor had sene, he was at his wifes end, and sore greued, that he shulde breake þe thynges wherin they had agreed specially seing Machabeus was the man that neuer dyd hym harme. But because he myghte not wythstande the kyng he sought oportynyte to fulfill hys commaundement. Not withstanding when Machabeus sawe that Apcanor began to be chuelysh vnto hym, and that he intreasted hym more roughlye then he was wont, he perceaued þe such unkyndnes came not of good and therfore he gathered a fewe of his men, and wythdrew hym selfe from Apcanor. Whyche whyle he knew that Machabeus had manfully prevented hym, he came into the great and most holy temple, & commaunded the prestes, which were doinge theyr vsual offerynges, to deliuer hym the man. And whyle they ware þe they could not tel where the man was, whom he soughte, he stretched out hys hand, & made an othe, sayinge If ye wil not deliuer me Judas captiue I wal remoue this temple of God into a playn felde, I shal breake downe the aulter, and consecrate thys temple vnto Bacchus. After these wordes he departed.

nor, one Razis an alderman of Jerusalem a louer of the holy cytpe, and a man of good report whych for the kynde herte that he bare vnto the people, was called a father of the Jewes. This man oftymes, when the Jewes were mynded to kepe themselves vndespiled, defended and deliuered them, beinge content stedfastly to spende hys bodie and hys lyfe for hys people.

So Apcanor wplynge to declare the hate þe he bare to the Jewes, sent v. C. me of warre to take hym for he thought, if he gat hym he shuld byngge þe Jewes in greute decaye. Now when þe people began to run in at his house, to breake the doores and to set fyre on it: he beinge now taken wold haue defended himselfe w hys sword chosynge rather to dye manfullye, then to yeld himselfe to those wicked doers & because of his noble stocke, he had rather to haue bene put to þe extreme cruelty. Not wythstanding, what tyme as he mysted of hys stroke for hast, and the multitude fel in vpolently betwixt þe doores he ran holdyng to þe wall, and cast hym selfe downe manfully among þe heape of them, whych gaue sone place to hys fall, so that he fell vpon hys belly. Neuertheles whyle there was yet breath with in hym, he was byndled in hys mynde, & whyle hys bloud gushed out excedyngly for he was verie sore wounde, he ran thozow the myddest of the people and gat him to the toppe of a rock. So when his bloude was gone, he toke out his owne bowels wyth both his handes, and threwe them vpon the people, callynge vpon the Lord of lyfe and sperte to rewarde hym thys agayne and so he dyed.

The xv. Chapter.

The prayer of Machabeus after the dooth of Apcanor is shew ouercome. Machabeus commaundeth hys brethren and hys hewer to be cruel, and hys song to be geuen vnto the foules.

When Apcanor knew that Judas was in the countrey of Samaria, he thought wyth al hys power to stryke a felde wyth hym, vpon a Sabbath daye. Neuertheles, þe Jewes that were compelled to go wyth hym, sayd: O do not so cruelly and unkyndly, but halowe the Sabbath daye, and worshyppe hym, that seeth all thynges. If or al thys, yet sayd the vngacious person: * Is ther a myghty one in heauen, that commaunded the Sabbath day to be kept? And when they sayd yea, the lpyng God, the myghty Lord in heauen * commaunded the seuen day to be kepte he sayd And I am myghty vpon earthe to commaund them for to arme them selues & to perfourme þe kynges busynesse. Apcanor had deuised wyth greute pryde to ouercome Judas, and to byngge awaye the vycetory. But Machabeus had euery fast confydence and a perfecte hope in God, þe wold helpe him and exhorted hys people, not to be afrayed at þe commynge of the heathen: but alwaye to remember the helpe þe had bene shewed vnto them fro heauen. yea, & to be sure now also, þe myghty God

23 God wolde geue them the victory he spake vnto them out of the lawe & prophetes. putting the in remembrance of the battels þe they had strecken afore and made them to be of a good courage. So when they hertes were plucked vp, he shewed them the discomfitednes of the heathen, and howe they wolde kepe no couenaunt nor othe.

Thus they weaponed them, not wth the armour of myld, and speare, but wth wholsom wordes and exhortacions. He shewed them a dreame also wherthorow he made them all glad, which was this he thought that he saw Onias (whych had bene hys prelate, a vertuous and a loupnge man, sad, and of honest conuersacion, wel spoken, and one that had bene excecysled in godlynes frome a chyld holdyng vpon hys handes toward heauen, and prayng for hys people. After this ther appered vnto hym another man whych was aged honorable, and gloriouse. And Onias sayd This is a lover of the brethren, and of the people of Israel. This is he that prayeth much for the people and for al the holy cytye. Jeremie the prophete of God he thought also that Jeremie helde out hys ryght hand, and gaue vnto Judas a swerde of gold, sayng: Take this holy swerde a gyfte from God, wherewith thou shalt smyte downe the enemyes of the people of Israel.

And so they were well comforted thorow the wordes of Judas and toke courage vnto them so that the yonge men were determyned in their myndes to fyghte, and to byde stylllye at it: In so muche that the thynges whych they tooke in hande, they boldnesse shewed the same, because the holy cytye, and the temple were in perel. for the whych they tooke moare care, then for theyr wyues, chyldren, brethren, and kynfolk.

Agayne they that were in the cite, were most careful for those whych were to fyghte. Nowe when they were all in a hope, that the Iudgements of the matter was at hande, and the enemyes drew naye, the hoste beinge sette in a rape, the Elephantis & horsemen every one standyng in hys place. Machabeus consyderyng the comynge of the multitude, the ordynance of dyuers weapons, the cruelnes of the beastes, and helde vpon hys handes toward heauen, callyng vpon the Lorde that doth wonders, & whych geueth nott the victory after the multitude of the weapons and power of the hoste (but to the that please him accordyng to hys owne wyll. Therfore in hys prayer he sayde these wordes.

Lorde, thou that bydest sende thyne Angell in tyme of Ezekias kynge of Iuda, and in the hoste of Sennacherib Newellan. C. lxx. and fyue thousande, sende nowe also thy good Angell before vs. O Lorde of heauens, in the fearfulness and dyede of thy myghte arme, that they whych come agaynst thy holy people to blaspheme them, maye be astrayed. So he made an ende of hys wordes.

Then Apcanor and they þe were with him, dycted wth shawmes and songes, but Judas and hys company with prayer and calling vpon God.

Wth theyr handes they smote, but wth theyr hertes they prayed vnto the Lorde, & stode no lesse then. C. xv. men: Forthorowe the present helpe of God they were gloriously comforted.

Nowe when they leste of, and were turnyng agayne wth hope they understode that Apcanor hym selfe was slayne wth the other. Then they gaue a greateshout and a crye, prayyng the Almighty Lorde wth a loude voyce. And Judas (whych was euer ready to spende hys bodye and lyfe for hys cytyens) commaunded to smyte of Apcanors head, wth hys arme and hande, and to be brought to Jerusalem. When he came there, he called al the people, and the prestes to the auter wth those that were in the castell, and shewed them Apcanors head, and his wycked hande whych he had presumptuously holden vp agaynst the Temple of God. he caused the tonge also of the vngodly Apcanor to be cut in lytle peces, and to be caste vnto the foules and the cruell mans hande to be hanged vpon before the temple.

So every man gaue thanks vnto the Lorde sayng blessed be he, that hath kepte hys place vndefyled. As for Apcanors heade, he hanged it vpon the hye castell, for an euident and playne token of the helpe of God. And so they agreed altogether, to kepe that daye holye, namelye the chrystene daye of the moneth Adar whych in the Spanysh language is called the nexte day before Mardocheus day. Thus was Apcanor slayne, and frome that tyme forth the Jewes had the cite in possession. And here wyl I nowe make an ende.

¶ Then Herode when he sawe that he was mocked of the wyse men, he was excedyng wroth, and sent forth men of warre, and slue al the chyldren that were in Bethleem, and in all the coastes (as many as were two yere olde or under) accordyng to the tyme, whych he had diligently knowne of the wyse men.

¶ Then was fulfilled that, which was spoken by the prophete Jeremie: where as he sayde in Rama was there a voyce herde, lamentation, wepyng, & great mouenynge. ## The .iii. Chapter.

¶ In those dayes came Ihon the baptyst, preachynge in the wyldernes of Jewye, and sayenge: Repente of the lyue that is past, for the kyng dome of heauen is at hande. ¶ For thys is he of whome the prophete Esaye spake, whych he sayeth: The voyce of a cryer in the wyldernes, prepare the waye of the Lorde: and make his pathes strayght. Thys Ihon had hys rayment of Camels heer. ¶ And a gyrdell of a skynne aboute his loynes. Hys meate was locustes and wilde honny. ¶ Then went out to him Ierusalem and all Jewye, and all the regyon rounde aboute Iordane, and were baptysed of hym in Iordane, confessynge theyr synnes.

¶ But when he sawe many of the Pharisees and Saducees come to his baptysme, he sayd vnto them: O generation of vipers, who hath taught you to flee fro the vengeance to come? Wrynge forth therfore the frutes that beloge to repentance. And be not of such mynde that ye wolde saye wynn your selues: we haue Abraham to oure father. For I saye to you, that God is able to bypnyge to passe, that of these stones ther shall ryse vp chyldre vnto Abraham. Eue now is the are also put vnto the roote of the trees. so þat every tree which bringeth not forth good frute is hewen downe, and cast into the fyre.

¶ I baptysse you in water & vnto repentance: but he to it shal come after me, is myghtyer the I, whose shoes I am not worthy to beare. He shal baptysse you wyth the holy goost, and wyth fyre. ¶ whose fanne is in hys hande, and he wyll purge hys floore, and gather hys wheat into þe barn, but wyl burne the chaffe with vnyquene able fyre. ¶ Then cometh Iesus from Galile to Iordane vnto Ihon, & to be baptysed of hym. But Ihon forbade him, sayenge: I haue nede to be baptysed of the, and comest thou to me? Iesus answered and sayde vnto hym: Let it be so now. For thus it becommeth vs to fulfill all ryghteousnesse. Then he suffered hym.

¶ And Iesus, when he was baptysed, came straight waye out of the water. And lo, heauen was open vnto him and he sawe the sprete of God, descendynge like a doke, and lyghtynge vpon hym. And lo there came a voyce fro heauen sayenge: Thys is my beloued sonne, in whom I am well pleased.

The .iiii. Chapter.

¶ Howe Iesus was receyved by Peter and James, and Iohn: and howe he was receyved by the people.

¶ When was Iesus led away of þe sprete into wyldernes to be tempted of the deuell. And when he had fasted foure dayes and foure nyghtes, he was at the laste an hynghed. And when the tempter came to hym, he sayde: ys thou be the sonne of God comaunde, that these stones be made bread. But he answered & sayde: it is wyrtten, man shal not lyue by bread only, but by every worde that procedeth out of the mouth of God.

¶ Then the deuell taketh hym vp into the holy cytie, and setteth hym on a pynacle of the temple, and sayth vnto hym ys thou be the sonne of God cast thy selfe downe headlyng. For it is wyrtten: He shall geue hys angels charge ouer the, and wyth theyr handes they shal boide the vp, leste at any tyme thou dash thy foote against a stone. And Iesus sayde to hym it is wyrtten agayne. ¶ Thou shalt not tempte the Lorde thy God.

¶ Agayne, the deuell taketh hym vp into an excedyng hye mountayne, and sheweth hym all the kyngdomes of the worlde, and the glorie of them, & sayeth vnto hym al these wyl I geue þe, ys thou wylt fall downe, & worshyppe me. ¶ The sayeth Iesus vnto him Thoupde Satan. For it is wyrtten: ¶ Thou shalt worshyppe the Lorde thy God, and hym onely shalt thou serue.

¶ Then the deuell leaueth hym, & behold, þe angels cam and ministered vnto hym. ¶ ¶ When Iesus had herd þat Ihon was taken, he departed into Galile, & left Nazareth, & wente and dwelt in Capernaum: which is a cite vpon þe see coast, in the borders of Zabulon & Neptalim yit myght be fulfilled which was spoke by Esay þe prophet sayeng: ¶ The lande of Zabulon & Neptalim, by þe waye of the see beyonde Iordane, Galile of the gentyls:

Sentplis the people whych sat in darknesse and in the shadowe of death, sawe great lpght: and to them whych sat in the region and shadowe of death, is the lpght spronge vp.

From that tyme Iesus beganne to preach, and to saye. Repente, for the kyngdome of heauen is at hande. ¶ As Iesus walked by the see of Galile, he sawe two brethren Symon whych was called Peter, and Andrew his brother, casting a net into the see (for they were fshers) and he sayeth vnto them. folowe me, and I wyl make you ¶ (to become) ¶ fshers of men. And they streyght waye left the nettes, and folowed hym.

And when he was gone forth fro thence, he sawe other two brethren, James the sonne of zebede, and John hys brother, in the shyppe with zebede theyr father, mendinge theyr nettes: and he called them. And they immediatlye left the shyp and theyr father, and folowed him. **¶

And Iesus went about al Galile, teachyng in theyr synagoges, and preachyng the Gospel of the kyngdome, & healyng all maner of synes, and all maner of dyscalse amonge the people. And hys fame spred abroade throughout al Syria. And they brought vnto hym all synche people that were taken wpth dysuerse dyscalses and grypnynges, and them that were possessed wpth deuyls: and he whych were lunatyke, and they that were in the payse and he healed the.

And there folowed hym greate multitudes of people, from Galile, and from the ten cyties, and from Ierusalem, and from Iewrye, and fro the regions that lye beyonde Iordane.

The v. Chapter.

This chapter and in the two next followinge is concerned the mooste excellent and loungest son of chryst in the mounte: wherby sermon is the berpe here that openeth the vnderstandyng to the same. And in this chapter speciall we he p. each of the viii. beatitudes of his luynges of man's laugher: which and anger, of aduoutre of liberte of iudgement w. ange and of four, each of the a. mans caemys.

When he sawe the people, he wente vp into a mountayne, and when he was set, his discyples came to him and after that he had opened hys mouth, he taught them, sayenge:

Blessed are the poore in spete for theyr is the kyngdome of heauen. Blessed are they that mourne for they shall receaue comfote. Blessed are the meke for they shall receaue the inheritaunce of the earth. Blessed are they whych are hoget and thyrst after ryghteousnes: for they shall be satysfied. Blessed are the mercifull for they shall obteyne mercy. Blessed are the pure in herte: for they shall see God. Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the chyld. of God. Blessed are they whych suffer persecucion for ryghteousnes sake: for theyr is the kyngdome of heauen. Blessed are ye when men reuyle you, and persecute you, and shall falslye saye all maner of euell sayenge agaynst you for my sake. Reioyse and be glad, for greate is your reward in heauen. For so persecuted they the prophetes, whych were before you.

Ye are the salt of the earth: But yf the salt haue lost the saltnes, what shalbe seasoned therwyt? It is thence forth good for nothyng but to be cast out, and to be troden downe of men. Ye are the lpght of the worlde. A cytie that is set on an hyll can not be hyd, nether do men lpght a candell, and put it vnder a busshell, but on a candlestyeke, and it geueth lpght vnto all that are in the house. Let your lpght so shyne before men, that they maye see your good workes and gloryfye your father whych is in heauen. ¶ Thynke not that I am come to destroye the lawe, or the prophetes: no I am not come to destroye, but to fulfill. For truely I saye vnto you: tyll heauen and earthe passe, one iotte or one tyle of the lawe shal not escape tyll all be fulfilled.

Whosoever therfore breaketh one of these leest commaundementes, and teacheth men so, he shalbe called the leest in the kyngdome of heauen. But whosoever doth and teacheth, the same shalbe called greate in the kyngdome of heauen. ¶ For I saye vnto you excepte your ryghteousnesse excede the ryghteousnesse of the scribes and pharises, ye cannot entre into the kyngdome of heauen.

Ye haue herde that it was sayd vnto them of the olde tyme. Thou shalt not kyl whosoever kylleth, shalbe in daunger of iudgement. But I saye vnto you that whosoever is angry wpth hys brother, vnadvisedly, shalbe in daunger of iudgement. And whosoever saye vnto hys brother Racha shalbe in daunger of a counsell. And whosoever saye in thyn toole, shalbe in daunger of hell fyre. Therefore yf thou offest thy gyfte at the altare, and there remembre the that thy brother hathe ought agaynst the, leaue there thyne offeringe before the altare, and go thy waye fyrste, and be reconcyled to thy brother, and then come and offe thy gyfte.

Agre wpth thyne aduersarye quicklye whyles thou arte in the waye wpth hym, lest at any tyme the aduersarye deliuer the to the iudge and the iudge deliuer the to the mynyster, and then thou be cast into prison. Cleuely, I saye vnto the thou shalt not come out thence, tyll thou haue payed the vtmoost farthyng.

Ye haue herde that it was sayd vnto them of olde tyme. Thou shalt not comyt aduoutre. But I say vnto you that whosoever loketh on another mans wyfe to lust after her, hath comyt aduoutre with her already in his herte.

Yf thy ryght eye hynder the, plucke him out and cast hym from the. For better it is vnto the that one of thy members perishe, then that thy whole body shulde be cast into hell. And yf thy ryghte hande hynder the, cut hym of, and caste hym from the. For better it is vnto the, that one of thy members perishe then that all thy bodye shulde be cast into hell. ¶ It is sayde whosoever putteth a waye his wyfe, let hym geue her a letter of deuozement. But I saye vnto you: that whosoever doth put a waye hys wyfe (except it be for fornicacyon, causeth her to breake matrimonye. And whosoever marrieth her that is deuozed comyteth aduoutre.

Agayne, ye haue herde howe it was sayde to them of olde tyme: *thou shalt not forswear thy selfe, but shalt perfourme vnto the Lorde those thynges that thou swearest. * But I say vnto you: sweare not at al: nether by heauen, * for it is Goddes seate, nor by the earth, for it is his fote stole: nether by Ierusalem, for it is the cytie of the great kynge: nether shalt thou sweare by thy heade because I canst not make one heer whyte or blacke. But your communicaciō shalbe yea, yea, naye, naye. For whatsoeuer is added more then these, it commeth of euell.

Ie haue herde that it is sayd: * an eye for an eye, and a toth for a toth. But I saye vnto you, that ye resyst not euell. But: whosoever geue the a blowe on þy ryght cheke, turne to hym the other also. And yf any man wyll sue the at the lawe, & take a waie thy coote, let hym haue thy cloke also. And whosoever wyll cōpel the to go a myle, go wyth hym twayne. Geue to hym that asketh the, and from hym that wolde borrowe, turne not thou a waie.

Ye haue herde that it is sayd, * thou shalt loue thyne neyghboure, and hate thyne enemy. But I say vnto you: loue your enemies. Blesse them that curse you. & Do good to them that hate you. Praye for them whych hurte you and persecute you, ype may be the chyldren of your father whych he is in heauen, for he maketh his sunne to aryse on the euell, & on þ good, & sendeth rayne on þ iust & on the vniust. For * yf ye loue them whych loue you: what rewarde haue ye? Do not the publicans also euen the same? And yf ye make much of your brethren onely, what spinguler thyng do ye? Do not also þ publicans lyke wyse: * ye shall therefore be percyte eue as your father whych is in heuē is percyte.

The vi. Chapter.

Ite hede y pe geue not your almes in the spght of men, to the intent y pe wolde be sene of the. Or els you haue no rewarde with your father which is in heauen. Therefore, when thou geuest thyne almes, let not thy troettes be blowe before the, as the hypocrites do in þ synagoges & in þ stretes: for to be prayled of men. Clerely I say vnto you: they haue theyre rewarde. But whē thou wylt geue almes let not thy lefte hand knowe what thy ryght hāde doeth, that thyne almes maye be in secrete, & thy father whych seeth in secrete, shall rewarde the openly.

And whē thou prayest * thou shalt not be as the hypocrites are. For they vse to stande prayenge in the synagoges, and in the corners of the stretes, that they maye be sene of men. Clerelye, I saye vnto you they haue theyre rewarde. But when thou prayest * entre into thy chamber, and when thou hast shut thy dore praye to thy father whych is in secrete, and thy father whych seeth in secrete, shall rewarde the openly.

But when ye praye * vaine not much, as the heathē do for they thynke it wyl come to passe that they shalbe herd for they much bablinges sake. Be not ye therfore lyke vnto them. * For your father knoweth what thynges ye haue neade of before ye aske of hym: after this manner therfore praye ye.

Our father whych arte in heauē, halo med be thy name. Let thy kyngdome come. Thy wyll be fulfilled, as wel in earth as it is in heauen. Geue vs this daye our dayly breade. And forgeue vs oure dettes as we forgeue oure debtors. And leade vs not into temptation but deliuer vs from euell. For thynē is the kyngdome and the power, and the glorie for euer. Amen. Therefore * yf ye forgeue other men theyre trespasses, your heavenly father shall forgeue you. But yf ye wyl not forgeue men theyre trespasses nomore shall your father forgeue you your trespasses.

Moreouer * when ye fast, be not sad as the hypocrites are. For they disfigure theyre faces, y it maye appeare vnto men, howe that they fast. Clerely, I say vnto you, they haue their reward. But thou when thou fastest, anoynt thyne head and washe thy face that it appeare not vnto men how that thou fastest: but vnto thy father, whiche is in secrete, and thy father whych seeth in secrete, shall rewarde the openly.

Laye not vp for your selues treasure vpon earth where the rust & moth doth corrupt, and where theues breake through and steale. * But laye vp for you, treasures in heauē, where neither rust nor moth doth corrupt, & where theues do not breake thorow nor steale. For where your treasure is, there wyl your herte be also.

The lyght of þ body is the eye. Therefore yf thyne eye be synge, all thy bodye shalbe full of lyght. But yf thyne eye be wycked, all thy bodye shalbe full of darknesse. Therefore, yf þ lyght that is in the, be darknes, howe great is þ darknes? * Roman can serue two masters. For ether he shall hate the one and loue the other, or els leane to the one, & despyse the other. ye cā not serue God and Mammon. Therefore I saye vnto you. * be not carefull for your lyfe, what ye shal eat or drynke, nor yet for your body, what ye shal put on. Is not þ life more worth then meat: and the body more of value, then rayment? Beholde, the foules of the ayre: for they sowe not, nether do they reape, nor cary into the barnes: and your heavenly father feedeth them. Are ye not much better then they?

Which of you by taking careful thought) can adde one cubyte vnto his stature? And why care ye for rayment? Consider the lylies of the felde, howe they growe. They labour not, neether do they spynne. And yet I saye vnto you, þ euen Salomon in all his royalte was not arrayed lyke one of these. Therefore, yf God so cloth þ grasse of þ felde whych though it stande to daye is to morowe cast into the foyasse) shall be not much more do þ same for you, o ye of litle fayth?

Therfore, take no thought, sayeng: what shal we eat, or what shal we drynke, or wher wyth shal we be clothed? After all these thynges do the gentyls seke. For your heavenly father knoweth knoweth, that ye haue neede of al these thynges. But rather seke ye fyrste the kyngdome of God and the righteousnesse therof, and al these thynges shalbe mynistrred vnto you. ¶

Care not the for the morowe, for the morowe daye shall care for it selfe: suffycient vnto the daye, is the trauaile therof.

And there was a good wape of from them * heerd of many swyne, fedynge. So, the deuyls besought hym, sayinge: yf thou cast vs out, suffer vs to go oure wape into the heerd of swyne. And he sayde vnto them: go your wayes. Then went they oute, and departed into the heerde of swyne. And beholde, the whole heerd of swyne was carped headlonge into the see, and perished in the waters. Then they that kepte them fledd, and went theyr wayes into the ctye, and tolde euery thyng, and what had fortunied vnto the possessed of the deuyls. And beholde, the whole ctye came out to mete Iesus, and when they sawe hym, * they besought hym þ he wold departe out of theyr coastes.

And when Iesus sawe the fayth of them, he sayde vnto the sycke of the palsy sonne, be of good cheare, thy synnes be forgiven the. And beholde: certayne of þ scribes sayde wpthin them selues: this man blasphemeth. And when Iesus sawe theyr thoughtes, he sayd: Wherefore thyncke ye euill in your hartes: Whether is easier to saye, thy synnes be forgiven þ, or to saue, aryse & walke? But that ye maye knowe, that the sonne of mā hath power to forgue synnes in earth. Then sayeth he vnto the sycke of the palsy: * aryse, take vp thy bed, and go vnto thyne house. And he arose, & departed to hys house. But the people that sawe it, marueyled, & glorified God, whych had geuen such power vnto men. ¶

And Iesus sayde vnto them: can the bypde gromes chyldren moune as longe as the bypdegrome is wpth them? But the dayes wyll come, when the bypdegrome shalbe taken from them, and then shall they fast. But whā the people were put forth, he wente in, and toke her by the hand, and sayde: damsell, arise, and she arose. And thys noyse wente abroad into all that lande. And whan Iesus departed thence two blynde men folowed hym cryenge and sayenge: O thou sonne of Dauid haue mercy on vs. And when he was come into the house, the blynde came to him. ¶ Chyld sendeth out, a ryng of apostles to preache in Jewy- ey geur, b them barge teacheth them, and cometh to the agayn perlecution and trouble

The names of the xii. apostles are these. The fyrst, Symon which is called Peter & Andrew hys brother: James the sonne of zebede, & John hys brother: Philip & Bartholomew. Thomas & Mathew, which had bene a Publican. James the sonne of Alphe, & Lebbeus (whose synname was Taddæus, Simon of Canaan, and Judas Iscariot, whych also betrayed hym.

* Iesus sente to the these twelue in nombre, whom he commaunded, sayenge Go not into the waye of the Gentylys, and into the cytie of the Samari, ans enter ye not. But go rather to the lost shepe of the house of Israel. Go and preache sayenge: The kyngdome of heaue is at hande. Heale the sycke, cleanse the lepers, raise the dead, cast out deuyls. * Ierelye ye haue receaued geue frely. * Possesse not gold nor syluer nor brasse in poure purses nor yet scrip towardes poure ior- ney neyther two cotes, neyther shoes, nor yet a rod. * For the woꝝkma is worthy of hys meate.

But to whatsoener cytie or towne ye shal come enquire who is worthy in it, and ther abyde tyl ye go thence. * And when ye come into a house, salute the same. And yf the house be worthy, let poure peace come vpo it, but yf it be not worthy let poure peace retourne to you agayne.

And whosoever shal not receaue you, nor wyl heare poure preachynge: when ye departe out of that house or that cytie * Make of the dust of your fete I saye vnto you it shal be easer for the land of zodoma and Gomorra in the daye of iudgement, then for that cytie.

* Beholde, I sende you forth, as shepe amonge wolues. Be ye therefore wylle as serpentes and innocent as doves. * But beware of men for they shal delpner you vp to the conncels, & shal scourge you in theyr synagoges. And ye shal be brought to the head rulers, and kynge, for my sake in wytnes to them and to the gentyls.

But * when they delpner you vp, take ye no thought, howe or what ye shal speake. * for it shal be geue you, eue in that same houre what ye shal speake. For it is not ye that speake, but the sprete of poure father whych speaketh in you. * The brother shal delpner vp the brother to death, and the father the sonne. And the chyl- dren shal arylse agaynst theyr fathers and mo- thers, and shal put them to death and ye shal be hated of all men for my names sake. * But he that endureth to the ende, shal be saued.

But * when they persecute you in thys cy- tie, flye ye into another. For verily I saye vnto you ye shal not go thowhe al the cyties of Is- rael tyl the sonne of man be come. * The disci- ple is not aboue the master nor the seruaunt a- boue hys Lorde. It is puoush for the dysciple, that he be as hys master is, and that the ser- uant be as his Lorde is. Yf they haue called the Lorde of the house, Selzebub how much more shal they call them of hys householders for? I fear them not therfore. * For there is nothyng close that shal not be opened: and nothyng hyd, that shal not be knowne.

¶ What I tell you in darknes, that speake ye in lpghte. And what ye heare in the care, that preache ye on the house toppes.

* And feare ye not them which kyll the body but are not able to kyll the soule. But rather feare hym, which is able to destroye both soule & body into hell. Are not two lytle sparowes sold for a farthyng? And one of the shal not lyght on the grounde wthout poure father. Yee, euen al the heates of your head are nombred. I fear ye not therfore ye are of more value then many sparo- wes. * Every one therfore that shal know- ledge me before men, hym wyl I knowledge al- so before my father whych is in heauen. But whosoever shal deny me before men, hym wyl I also deny before my father, whych is in heaue.

¶ Thynke not * that I am come to sende peace into the earthe. I came not to sende peace, but a swerde. For I am come to set a man at vari- aunce * agaynst hys father, and the doughter a- gaynst her mother, and the doughter in lawe a- gaynst her mother in lawe. And a mannes foes

The xii. Chapter.

1st. 17. 1. b. The disciples shew the eares of corne, whiche they had broken, and sayde: Beholde, that was blynde and deeme, and now he seeth: who is his brother, sister, and mother.

At that tyme Jesus went on the Sabbath, and his disciples were an hungred, and began to plucke the eares of corne, and to eat. But when the Pharisees sawe it, they sayde vnto hym: Beholde, thy disciples do that which is not lawfull to do vpon the Sabbath daye. But he sayd vnto the. Haue ye not read what Dauid dyd, when he was an hungred, & they that were wyth him? howe he entred into the house of God, and dyd eate the shewe breades which were not lawfull for hym to eate, nether for they which were wyth hym, but onely for the prestes? Or haue ye not read in the law, howe I, on the Sabbath dayes, the prestes in the temple breake the Sabbath and are blamelesse? But I say vnto you that in this place is one greater then the temple. Wherefore, yf ye wyl what this meaneth, I requyre mercy and not sacrifice: ye wolde not haue condemned innocentes. * For the sonne of man also, is Lorde euen of the Sabbath daye.

And he departed thence, and went into theyr synagoge, and beholde, ther was a man whiche had his hande dyed vp. And they asked him, sayenge: Is it lawfull to heale vpon the Sabbath dayes?

Then sayth he to þe mā stretch forth thy hande. And he stretched it forth. And it was restored vnto health, lyke as the other.

But whan Iesus knewe they thoughtes he sayd vnto them. Euerp kyngdome deuided agaynst it selfe, shal be brought to nought. And euery tyte or house deuided agaynst it selfe shall not stande. And yf Satan call out Satan, then is he deuyled agaynst hym selfe. ¶ Howe shal the kyngdome endure? Also, yf I by the helpe of Belzebub caste out deuyls, by whose helpe do your chyldren cast the out? ¶ Wherefore they shal be your iudges. But yf I cast out the deuyls by the sperte of God, then is the kyngdome of God come vnto you.

¶ Or els howe can one enter into a stronge mānes house, and spoyle his Jewels, excepte he fyrst binde the stronge man, and then spoyle his house? ¶ He that is not with me, is agaynst me. And he that gathereth not wth me, scattereth abrode. ¶ Wherefore, I saye vnto you, all maner of spune & blasphemie shal be forgiven vnto men, but the blasphemie agaynst the sperte, shal not be forgiven vnto men. ¶ And whosocuer speaketh a worde agaynst the sonne of man, it shal be forgiven hym. But whosocuer speaketh agaynst the holpe gooste, it shall not be forgiven hym, nether in thys worlde, nether in the world to come. ¶ Eether make the tree good, and hys frute good: or els make the tree euill, and hys frute euill. ¶ For þe tree is knowne by his frute. ¶ O generacyon of vipers, howe can ye speake good thynges, when ye pour felures are euill? ¶ For out of the aboundance of the hearte, the mouth speaketh. treasure of the hert, byngeth forth good thynges. And an euill man, out of the euill treasure, byngeth forth euill thynges. But I saye vnto you, of euery ydell worde þe men shal haue spokē they shal gene acountes in þe daye of iudgemēt. ¶ For out of thy wordes þe shalt be iustified, and out of thy wordes thou shalt be condemned.

¶ Then certayne of the Scrybes and of the Pharisees asked hym, sayeng. ¶ Master, we wyl se a sygne of the. But he answered and sayde to them. ¶ The euell and aduouterous generacyon seketh a sygne and ther shal no sygne be geuen to them, but the sygne of the Prophet Jonas. ¶ For as Jonas was thre dayes and thre nyghtes in the whales belly, so shal the sonne of man be thre dayes and thre nyghtes in the hert of the earth. ¶ The men of Ninue shall rylse in the iudgement wth thys generacyon, and condemne it, because they amended at the preachynge of Jonas. ¶ Beholde here is one greater then Jonas. ¶ The quene of the South shall rylse in the iudgement wth thys generacion, & shall condemne it for she came fro the vtmost partes of þe world to heare the wysdome of Salomō. And beholde in this place is one greater then Salomon.

¶ When the vncleime sperte is gone out of a man, he walketh throughtoute drye places seekinge rest, and fyndeth none. Then he sayeth. I wyl retourne vnto my house, fro whence I came out. And when he is come, he fyndeth it empty and swepte, and garnysshed. Then goeth he, and taketh vnto hym seuen other spertes worse then hym selfe, and so entereth he in, and dwelleth there. And the ende of that man is worse then the begynnynge. Euen so shall it be also, vnto thys frowarde generacyon.

Whyle he yet talked to the people. ¶ Beholde, his mother and his brethre stode without desyringe to speake wth hym. ¶ He one sayd vnto hym beholde, thy mother & thy brethre stande wythout, desyringe to speake wth the.

But he answered, and sayde vnto hym that had tolde hym. Who is my mother? or who are my brethre? And he stretched forth hys hande towarde hys dyscyples, and sayd, ¶ beholde, my mother and my brethre. ¶ For whosocuer doth the wyl of my father which is in heauen, þe same is my brother, syster, and mother.

The xviij Chapter.

¶ The same daye went Iesus oute of the house, & and sat by the see syde, and much people were gathered together vnto him, so greatly that he went, and sat in a shyppe, and al the people stode on the shere. And he spake many thynges to them by symplytudes, sayenge. ¶ Beholde, the sower went forth to sowe. And whan he sowed, some sedes fell by the wayes syde, and the fowles came and deuoured them vp. Some fel vpon stony places, where they had not much earth, and anon they spronge vp, because they had no depnesse of earth: and when the sunne was was by they caught heat, and because they had no rote, they wydozed awaye. Agayne, some fel amonge thornes, and the thornes spronge vp & choaked the. But some fell into good ground, and brought forth frute: some an hundred folde, some fiftie folde, some thirtie folde. Whoso- ever hath eares to heare, let hym heare.

¶ And the discyples came, and sayde vnto hym: Why speakest thou to the by paraboles? He answered and sayde vnto them. * It is geuen vnto you to knowe the secretes of the kyngdome of heauen, but vnto them it is not geuen. * For whosoever hath, to hym shall be geuen: and he shall haue abundaunce. But whosoever hath not: from hym shall be taken awaye even that al so whych he hath. Therefore speake I to the by symilitudes: for they seynge, se not: and hearynge they heare not: nother do they vnderstand. And in them is fulfilled the Prophecie of Esayas, whych sayeth * With the eares ye shall heare, & shall not vnderstande: and seynge ye shall se, and shall not perceaue. For these peoples hartes is waxed grosse, & theyz eares are dull of hearynge, and theyz eyes haue they closed, lest at any tyme they shulde se with theyz eyes, and heare with theyz eares, & shuld vnderstand with theyz hert, and be conuerted, that I also myght heale the.

¶ But blessed are your eares, for they se and heare. Verely I saye vnto you, * that all the prophetes and ryghteous men haue desired to se those thynges, whyche ye se, & haue not seene them: and to heare those thynges which ye heare, and haue not heard the. * Heare ye therefore the symplytude of the sower. When one heareth the word of the kyngdome, and vnderstandeth it not, then cometh the euill man and taketh awaye that whyche was sowne in hys herte: this is he, whyche was sowne by the waye syde. But he that receaueth the seede which was cast into stony places, the same is he that heareth the worde, and anone wyth ioye receaueth it, yet hath he no roote in hym selfe, but dureth for a season: for when tribulacion or persecucion happeneth because of the word, by and by he fallith. He also that receaueth seede into the thornes, is he that heareth the worde: and the care of this worlde, and the drifftfulnes of riches choke vp the worde, and so is he made vnfertile. But he that receaueth seede into the good grounde is he that heareth the worde, and vnderstandeth it: whyche also beareth frute, and bryngeth forth, some an hundred folde, some fiftie folde, some thirtie folde.

Wilt thou then that we go, and weede them vp? But he sayde: naye, lest whyle ye gather vp the tares ye plucke vp also the wheate wyth them, let both growe together vntill the harvest, and in tyme of harvest, I wyl save to the reapers gather ye first the tares, and bynde them together in sheues to be burnt: but gather the wheate in to my barn. ¶ Another parable put he forth vnto them, sayunge. * The kyngdome of heauen is lyke to a grapne of mustard seed, whych a man toke and sowed in his felde, whych is the leest of all the seedes. But when it is growne, it is the greatest amonge herbes, and is a tree: so that the byrdes of the ayer come, and make theyz nestes in the braunches thereof.

¶ And hys discyples came vnto hym, sayunge: declare vnto vs the parable of the tares of the felde. He answered, and sayde vnto them. He that soweth the good seede is the sonne of man. The felde is the worlde. And the chyldren of the kyngdome they are the good seede: the tares are the chyldren of the wycked, the enemy that soweth them, is the deuyll. The harvest is the ende of the worlde: the reapers be the angels. Euen as the tares therfore are gathered & burnt in the fyre: so shall it be in the ende of this worlde. * The sonne of man shall sende forth the angels, and they shal gather out of hys kyngdome all thynges that offende, and them which do iniquite: and shall cast them into a furnace of fyre. There shalbe waylynge & gnashynge of teeth. * Then shal the ryghteous shyne as the sunne in the kyngdome of theyr father. Whosoever hath eares to heare, let hym heare. **¶

¶ Agayne the kyngdome of heauen is lyke vnto a net, that was cast into the see and gathered of all kynde of fishes, whyche when it was full, men drew to land, & sat downe & gathered the good into vessels, but cast the bad awaye. So shal it be at the ende of the worlde. The angels shal come & seuer the bad fro amonge the good, & shal cast the into a furnace of fyre: there shalbe waylynge & gnashynge of teeth. Iesus sayth vnto the, haue ye vnderstande all these thynges? They saye vnto hym: yee Lorde. Then sayde he vnto the. Therefore every Serpente whiche is taught vnto the kyngdome of heauen is lyke vnto a man that is an householder, whiche bringeth forth out of his treasure, thynges newe and olde.

And it came to passe that when Iesus had fynished these synnypredes, he departed thence. And when he came into hys owne countrey, he taught them in the synagoges, in so muche, p they were astonyed and sayde whence cometh this wysdom: & powers vnto hym: & is not this the carpenters sonne? Is not his mother called Mary: and hys brethren, James and Ioses and Simon and Judas? And are not all his sisters with vs? Whence hath he then all these thynges? And they were offended at him. Iesus sayde vnto them: A prophete is not without honoure, saue in his owne countrey, and in his owne house. And he dyd not many myracles there, because of theppes vnbelefe.

The xlii. Chapter.

¶ John is taken and hatched. Christ teacheth true thousande men with fyue loaves and two fishes, and speweth by night from hys disciples vpon the see.

¶ That tyme: Herode the Tetrarche hearde of the fame of Iesu, and sayde vnto hys seruantes: this is John the baptist. He is risen from the dead, and therefore are miracles wrought at hym. For Herode had taken John and bound hym, and put hym in prison because of Herodias, his brother Philipps wyfe. For John sayde vnto hym: it is not lawfull for the to haue her. And when he wolde haue put hym to death, he feared y people, because they counted hym as a prophete. But when Herodes daughter was aspre, the daughter of Herodias dancid before him, and pleased Herode. Therefore he promysed wyth an othe, that he wolde geue her whatsoeuer she wolde aske.

And she beinge instruct of her mother before sayde: geue me here John the baptistes heade in a platte. And the kynge was sorow. Neuertheles, for the othes sake, and then whyche sat also at the table he commaunded it to be geue her, and sent to tormentours, and beheaded John in y prison, and his head was brought in a platte, and geuen to y damsel, and she brought it to her mother. And his disciples cam and toke vp his body, and buried it: went, and tolde Iesus.

¶ When Iesus hearde of it, he departed thence in a shyppe vnto a desert place, out of the waye. And when the people had herde therof, they followed hym on fote and left the cyties. And Iesus went forth, and sawe muche people, and was moued wth mercye towarde them, and he healed of them those that toere sycke. And whē the euen drew on, his disciples came to hym, sayinge: this is a deserte place, and y houre is now past. let the people departe that they maye go in to the towne, and buye the vntayles. But Iesus sayde vnto the. They haue neede to go awaye. Geue ye the to eate. They sayd vnto hym we haue here but v. loaves and two fyfides. He sayd bringe the hyther to me. And he commaunded the people to syt downe on the grasse, & he toke the v. loaves & the ii. fyfides, and lift vp his eyes towarde heauen and blessed. And when he had broken them, he gaue the loaves to hys disciples, and his disciples gaue them to y people. And they dyd al eate, & were satisfyed. And they gathered vp of the fragmētes that remayned in baskettes full. And they that dyd eate, were about. v. iii. men, besyde women and chyldren.

¶ And streyght waye Iesus made hys disciples to get vp into a shyppe, & to go before hym vnto y other syde while he sent y people awaye. And when the people were sent awaye, he went vp into a mountayne to praye alone. And when nyght was come, he was there him selfe alone. But the shyp was now in the wyndes of y see, and was tosse with waues for it was a contrary wynde. And in the fourth watche of the nyght, Iesus went vnto the walkynge on the see. And whē the disciples sawe hym walkynge on y see, they were troubled, sayinge: it is a nyght, & they cryed out for feare. But streyght waye, Iesus spake vnto the, sayinge: be of good cheare, it is I, be not a frayd. Peter answered hym, and sayd: Lorde, if it be thou, byd me come vnto the on the water. And he sayd: come. And when Peter was come downe out of y shyppe he walked on the water, to go to Iesus. But whē he sawe a myghty wynde, he was a frayd. And whē he beganne to syncke, he cryed, sayinge: Lorde saue me. And immediatly Iesus stretchid forth hys hande, & caught hym, & sayd vnto hym: O thou of lytell fayth, wherefore dydest thou doubt? And when they were come into the shyppe, y wynde ceased. Then they that were in y shyppe came and worshipped hym, sayinge: of a true, thou art the sonne of God. And when they were gone ouer, they came into y land of Genesareth. And when the men of the place had knowledge of him, they sent out messengers into al y country rounde about y coast, & brought vnto hym all that were sycke, & besought hym, that they myght touche the hemme of hys vesture oulye. And as many as touched it were made safe.

¶ Then came to Iesus Scribes and Pharisees whiche were come from Ierusalem sayinge: why do thy disciples transgresse the tradycion of the elders: for they washe not theyr handes whē they eate bread. But he answered and sayd vnto them: why do ye also transgresse the commaundemente of God because of youre owne tradycion? For God com munda sayinge: Honoure father & mother, and he that curseth father or mother let hym dye the death. But ye saye: every one shall saue to his father and mother: what gyft soeuer shalde aue come of me: the same is turned vnto the profyte: and so thal he not honour hys father or hys mother. And thus haue ye made the commaundement of God of none effecte, because of your owne tradycion.

Mat. xxi. 8

Apocrytes, full well dyd say prophery of you savage. * Thys people draweth nye unto me with theyr mouth, and honoureth me with lyp-pes, howbeit, theyr hertes are farre fro me - but in wayne do they serue me, teachynge the doctrines and pceptes of men.

B And he called the people to hym, & sayd vnto the, heare and vnderstande. That whiche goeth into y<sup>e</sup> mouth, defyleth not the mā but y<sup>e</sup> whiche commeth out of the mouth, defyleth the man.

Then came his disciples, and sayd vnto hym: knowest thou not, that the Pharysees were offeded at thys sayenge? But he answered & sayde: Every plante whiche my heavenly father hath not planted, shall be plucked vp by the rootes.

Let them alone, they be the blynd leaders of the blynde. If the blynde leade the blynde, bothe shall fall into the dytche. Then answered Peter and sayd vnto hym, declere vnto vs this parable. Iesus sayd are ye also yet without vnderstandynge? do not ye yet vnderstand, that what soever entreth in at the mouth, goeth into the bely & is cast oute into the draught? But those thynges whiche procede out of the mouth, come forn from the herte, and they defyle y<sup>e</sup> man. For out of y<sup>e</sup> hert procede euell thoughtes, murders, breaking of w. cloke, whordoms, theftes, false wytnesse, blasphemys. These are the thynges whiche defyle a man. But to take meate wyth vnwashed handes, defyleth not a man. H

C And Iesus went thence, & departed into y<sup>e</sup> coastes of Tyre and Sydon, and beholde a woman of Canaan whiche came out of the same coastes) cryed vnto hym sayeng haue mercy on me O Lorde thou sonne of Dauid: My dought-er is pytously vered with a deuill. But he answered her nothyng at al, & his disciples came and besought hym, sayenge sende her away, for she cryeth after vs. But he answered, and sayd: I am not sent * but vnto y<sup>e</sup> losse shepe of y<sup>e</sup> house of Israel. Then came she, and worshipped hym, sayeng Lorde, helpe me. He answered and sayd: it is not mete to take the chyldrens breade, and to cast it to dogges. She answered and sayde: truthe Lorde, for the dogges eate of the crom-mes, which fall from theyr masters table. Then Iesus answered and sayd vnto her O woman, grete is thy fayth, be it vnto the, euen as thou wilt. And her doughter was made whole euen

And hys disciples sayde vnto hym: Whence shulde we get so muche breade in the wyldernes iii. M. men, besyde women and chyldren. And he sent awaye the people, and toke wyppes, and came into the partes of Magdala.

The xvi Chapter.

The Pharysees requyre a token. Iesus warneth hys disciples of the Pharysees doctrine. The confession of Peter. The keyes of heauen. The saythfull must beare the crosse after Christ.

I The Pharysees also wyth the Saduces, came and tempted hym, and desyred hym, that he wolde shewe them a sygne from heauen. He answered and sayde vnto them: whan it begynneth to drawe wyl be foule wether to daye, for y<sup>e</sup> skye is glow-howe happeneth it that ye do not vnderstande, y<sup>e</sup> I spake it not vnto you concernynge bread, y<sup>e</sup> ye shulde beware of the leuen of the Pharysees,

And when Peter had taken hym asyde, he began to rebuke hym, sayinge: master, save thy selfe, thys shall not happen unto thee: but he turned hym about, and said unto Peter go after me Satana, thou hyndrest me: for thou savourst not of thynges that be of God, but those that be of men.

Mat. 16. 13.
Luke. 9. 18.

And after vi. dayes, Jesus taketh Peter, James and John hys brother, and byngeth them up into an hye mountayne out of the waye, and was transfigured before them: and hys face shyned as the sonne, and hys clothes were as whyte as the lyght. And beholde, there appered unto them Moyses and Elias talkynge wyth hym. Then answered Peter, and sayd unto Jesus: Lorde, here is good beyng for us. If thou wilt, let us make here iii. tabernacles: one for thee, and one for Moyses, and one for Elias. Whyle he yet spake, beholde, a bright cloude shadowed them. And beholde, there came a voyce out of the cloude which sayd: this is my beloved sonne: in whom I delecte: heare him. And when the disciples heard these thynges, they fell on theyr faces and were sore afrayed. And Jesus came and touched them, and sayd: arise, and be not afrayd. And when they had lyfte up theyr eyes they sawe no man, save Jesus only.

Apo. 1. 1.

Mat. 16. 13.
John. 6. 13.

And when they came downe from the mountayne, Jesus charged them sayinge: shewe the bysion to no man, untill the sonne of man be raysen agayne from the dead. And his disciples asked hym, sayinge: Why then saye thou scribbs, that Elias must fyrst come? Jesus answered, and sayde unto them: Elias trulye shall fyrst come, and restore all thynges. But I saye unto you, that Elias is come already: and they knewe hym not: but have done unto hym what soever they lusted. In lykewyse shall also the sonne of man suffer of the. Then his disciples understood, that he spake unto them of John Baptist. And when they were come to the people, ther came to him a certayne man knelyng downe to hym, and sayenge: Master have mercy on my sonne, for he is lunatyke and sore verred, for oft tymes he falleth into the fyre, and oft into the water. And I brought hym to thy disciples, and they coulde not heale hym. Jesus answered and sayde: O faithles and croked naciō, howe longe shall I be wyth you? howe longe shall I suffice you? Bynge hym byther. And Jesus rebuked the devyll, and he departed out of hym. And the chyld was healed even that same tyme.

Then came the disciples to Jesus secretly, and sayde: why coulde not we cast hym out? Jesus sayde unto them: Because of your unbeliefe. For verely I saye unto you: If ye have fayth as a grayne of mustarde seede, ye shall saye unto thys mountayne: remoue hence to ponde place, and it shall remoue: nether shall any thyng be impossible unto you. howe be it this kynde goeth not out, but by prayer and fastynge.

Whyle they were occupied in Galile, Jesus sayd unto them: it will come to passe that the sonne of man shall be betrayed unto the handes of men, and they shall kyl hym: and the thyrde daye shall he ryse agayne. And they were exceeding sorry.

And when they were come to the cytye of Capernaum, they that use to receave tribute money, came to Peter, and sayde: Dost thoue master paye tribute? he sayeth yea. And when he was come into the house, Jesus prevented hym sayenge: What thyngkest thou Simon? of whō do the kynges of the earth take tribute or tolle, of theyr chyldren, or of straungers? Peter sayeth unto hym: of straungers. Jesus sayeth unto hym: Then are the chyldren free: Not withstandinge, lest we shoulde offende them, go thou to the see, and caste an angle, and take the fysh that fyrst cometh up, and when thou hast opened his mouth thou shalt fynde a pence of twety pence: that take and geve it unto the for me and the.

The xviii. Chapter.

He teacheth hys disciples to be humble and humble: to avoyde occasions of cwell, and on to forgive: to others offence.

The same tyme came the disciples unto Jesus, sayenge: Who is the greatest in the kyngdome of heaven? Jesus called a chyld unto him, and set hym in the myddest of them, and sayd: Clerke I saye unto you: excepte ye turne, and becomee as chyldren, ye shall not enter into the kyngdome of heaven. Whosoever therfore humblyth bleth hym selfe as thys chylde, the same is the greatest in the kyngdome of heauen. And who so receaueth such a chylde in my name, receaueth me. * But who so doth offende one of these lytle ones which beleue in me: it were better for hym that a myllstone were hanged about hys necke, and that he were drowned in the depth of the see.

Woe vnto the worlde because of offences. * Necessary it is that offences come. But woe vnto the man by whom the offence cometh.

Wherefore * if thy hande or thy fote hynder the, cut hym of and cast it from the. It is better for the to enter into lyfe halt or maymed, rather then thou shouldest (hauyng two handes or two fete) be cast into euerylastyng fyre. And if thine eye offende the, plucke it out, and cast it fro the.
It is better for the to enter into lyfe wth one eye, rather then (hauyng two eyes) to be caste into hel fyre. Take hede that ye despyse not one of these lytell ones. For I saye vnto you, that in heauen theyr angels do alwayes beholde the face of my father, whyche is in heauen. ¶

For the sonne of man is come to saue þe whych was lost. Howe thynke ye? * If a man haue an hundred shepe, and one of them be gone astraye both he not leaue nyntye and nyne in the moun-taines, and goeth and seeketh it that was gone astraye. And if it happen that he fynde it, verily I saye vnto you he reioyseth more of y shepe then of the nynty & ix whych went not astraye.
Euen so it is not the wyl of your father in heauen that one of these lytle ones shoulde perishe.

Moreover * if thy brother trespassed agayn-st the, go and tell hym hys fault betwene hym and the alone. If he heare the, thou hast wonne thy brother: But if he heare the not, then take with thee one or two, that * in the mouth of two or thre wytnesses, euery matter maye be stablyshed. If he heare not them, tel it vnto the congregation. If he heare not the congregatio, let hym be vnto the as an heathen man, and as a publican. Verily I saye vnto you: * Whatso-uer ye bynde on earth, shal be bounde in heauen.
And whatsoeuer ye lose on earth, shal be lost in heauen. Agayne I saye vnto you that if two of you agree in earth vpon any manner of thing, whatsoeuer they desyre: they shal haue it of my father whyche is in heauen, for where two or thre are gathered togeather in my name, there am I in the myddes of them.

Then came Peter to hym, and sayde: Lorde, how oft shall I forgyue my brother, if he synne agaynst me: tyll seven tymes? Iesus sayeth vnto hym I saye not vnto the vntyl seven tymes: but seuentye tymes seuentye tymes. ¶ Therefore is the kyngdome of heauen lykened vnto a certaine man that was a kynge, whych wold take accountes of hys seruauntes. And when he had begonne to reken, one was brought vnto hym whyche ought hym ten thousande talentes, but for as much as he was not able to paye, his Lorde commaunded hym to be solde, and hys wyfe and chyl dren, and all that he had, and payment to be made. The seruaunt fell downe, and besought hym, sayenge: Spere haue pacyence wth me, and I wyl paye the al. Then had the Lorde pytie on the seruaunte and losed hym and forgaue hym the dette.

So the same seruaunt, went out, and founde one of hys felowes whyche ought hym an hundred pence: and he layde handes on hym, & toke hym by the throte, sayenge: paye that thou o-west. And hys felowe fell downe, and besought hym sayenge: haue pacyence wth me, and I wyl paye the all. And he wolde not, but went, & cast him into prison, tyll he shoulde paye the det. So when hys felowes sawe what was done, they were very sorowful, and came, and tolde vnto theyr Lorde all that had happened. Then hys Lorde called hym and sayd vnto hym: O thou vngrecious seruaunt. I forgave the all that det, whā thou desydest me: shouldest not thou also haue had compassion on thy felowe, euen as I had pytie on the? And hys Lorde was wroth, and deli-uered hym to the iaylers, tyll he shoulde paye all that was due vnto hym. So * lykenysse shall my heauely father do also vnto you if ye from your heartes, forgene not euery one hys brother) theyr trespasses. ¶

The xix. Chapter.

¶ This chapter containeth answers concerninge matryage, and teacheth not to be carefull, nor to loue worldly riches.

¶ And it came to passe * that when Jesus had synned the sayenges, he gat hym from Galile, and came into the coastes of Jewye beyonde Jordan, and muche people folo-wed hym, and he healed them there.

The Pharises also came vnto hym tempting hym, and sayenge vnto hym. Is it lawfull for a man to make a deuozement wth hys wyfe for any manner of cause? he answered and sayd vnto them: Haue ye not read, how that he whyche made man at the begynnyng * made the man & woman, and sayde: for thys cause shall a man leau father and mother, and shall cleaue vnto hys wyfe, & they twayne shal be one fleish, wherfore now they are not twayne but one fleish. Let no man therefore put asunder, that whyche God hath coubled together. They sayde vnto hym. why dyd Moses then commaunde to geue a testimonial of deuozement, and to put her away? he sayd vnto them Moses because of the hardnes of your hartes) * suffered you to put awaye your wifes. But from the begynnyng it was not so * I say vnto you whosoever putteth away his wife (except it be for fornicatio & marperthanoher which is deuozed, doth commit aduoutry.

His disciples sayd vnto hym: if the mater be so betwene man and wyfe, then is it yot good to marry he sayde vnto them: al men cannot comprehende this sayenge: for they to whom it is gyue for there are some chaft which are so borne out of theyr mothers wobe. And there are some chaft, which be made chaft of men. And there be chaft, whych haue made them selues chaft for þe

And beholde, one came, and sayde vnto hym: * good master, what good thyng shal I do, that I maye haue eternall lyfe? he sayde vnto hym: why callest thou me good? * there is none good but one, and that is God. But if thou wylt entre into lyfe, kepe the commaundementes. he sayeth vnto him: Which? Iesus sayd. * Thou shalt not commit manslaughter. Thou shalt not commit aduoutry. Thou shalt not steale. thou shalt not beare false wytnes: honoure father and mother: * & thou shalt loue thy neyghboure as thy selfe. The yonge man sayth vnto hym: Al these thynges haue I kepte from my youthe vp: what lacke I yet? But when the yonge man herde this sayenge, he went awaye sorre. For he had great possessions.

Then Iesus sayd vnto his disciples verely I say vnto you * it shal be hard for y<sup>e</sup> to enter into the kyngdome of heauē. And agayne I say vnto you: it is easer for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, then for the ryche to enter into the kyngdome of God. When the disciples herd this, they were exceedinglye amazed, sayenge: who then can be sauēd? But Iesus beheld them and sayd vnto them with men this is vnpolysseble * but with God all thynges are polysseble.

Then answered Peter and sayde vnto hym. Beholde * we haue forsaken al and folowed the what shal we haue therfore? Iesus sayde vnto them, verely I saye vnto you * when the sonne of man shal sit in the seat of his maiestye, ye shal haue folowed me, in the regeneration * shall sit also vpon. xii. seates, and iudge the. xii. trybes of Israel. * And euery one y<sup>e</sup> forsaketh house, or brethren, or sisters, or father or mother, or wyfe or chyldren, or landes for my names sake, * shal receaue an hundred folde, and shall inherite euery lastyng lyfe. * but many that are fyrst, shal be last, and the last shal be fyrst.

The xx. Chapter.

IN the kyngdome of heauē is lyke vnto a man that is an housholder, which went out early in the morning to hyer labourers into his vyneyarde. And when the agremente was made with the labourers, for a peny a daye, he sent the into his vyneyarde. And he went out aboute the thyrde houre, & sawe other standynge ydell in the market place, & sayde vnto them: go ye also into the vyneyarde: and whatsoeuer is ryghte, I wyl geue you. And they wente thei<sup>r</sup> waye. Agayne he wente out aboute the fyfte and nynt houre, and ydlyke wyse. And aboute the eleuent houre he went out, and founde other standynge ydell, and sayde vnto them: why stande ye here all the daye ydell? They saye vnto hym: because no mā hath hyred vs. he sayeth vnto them: go ye also into the vyneyarde. and whatsoeuer is ryght, shal ye receaue. So, when euen was come the lord of the vyneyarde sayth vnto his steward: call the labourers, and geue them thei<sup>r</sup> hyer, begynnynge at the last vnto the fyrst. And when they dyd come y<sup>e</sup> came about the eleuent houre they receaued euery man a peny. But when the fyrst came also, they supposed that they shulde haue receaued more, and they lyke wyse receaued euery man a peny. And when they had receaued it, they murmured agaynst the good man of the house, sayeng: These last haue wrought but one houre, and thou hast made them equal vnto vs which haue borne y<sup>e</sup> burthen and heat of y<sup>e</sup> daye.

But he answered vnto one of the and sayde: frend, I do the no wronge: dydest thou not agree with me for a peny? Take that thyne is and go thy waye: I wyl geue vnto thes laste, euen as vnto the. Is it not lawfull for me to do as me lyketh with myne owne goodes? Is thyne eye euell, because I am good? * So the laste shal be the fyrst, and the fyrst shal be last. For many be called, but fewe be chosen. ¶

¶ And Iesus goynge vp to Ierusalem, toke the twelue disciples asyde in the waye, and sayde vnto them. * Beholde, we go vp to Ierusalem, and the sonne of man shal be betrayed vnto the chiefe prestes and vnto the scriybes, and they shal condemne hym to death, and shall deliuer hym to the Gentyls, to be mocked, and to be scourged, and to be crucified: and the thyrde daye he shall rylse agayne. ¶ * The cam to him the mother of zebedees chylde, with her sones, worshyping him & despyng a certayne thyng of hym. And he sayth vnto her: what wylt thou? she sayd vnto hym: Graunt, y<sup>e</sup> these my two sonnes may sit, the one on thy ryght hande, & the other on the left, in thy kyngdom. But Iesus answered sayd: Ye wote not what ye aske. Are ye able to drynke of the cup that I shall drynke of, & to be baptyzed with the baptyme? I am baptyzed with: they saye vnto hym we are. he sayd vnto the ye shall drynke in dede of my cup: & be baptyzed with the baptyme y<sup>e</sup> I am baptyzed with. But to sit on my ryght hande, and on my left, is not myne to geue: but it shal chaunce vnto the, * that it is prepared for of my father. ¶

sonne of Dauid, haue mercy on vs. And þe people rebuked them, because they shoulde holde theþe peace. But they cryed the more, sayenge: haue mercy on vs, O Lorde, thou sonne of Dauid. And Iesus stode still, and called them, & sayde: what wyll ye þat I shall do vnto you? They saye vnto hym: Lorde, that our eyes maye be opened. So Iesus had compassiō on them, and touched theþe eyes, and immediatly theþe eyes receaued syght. And they folowed hym.

The xxi. Chapter.

¶ He rydeth into Ierusalem, directh the marchauntes out of the tēple, curseth the figge tre, & rebuketh þe pharisees woth the synnycrude of the two sonnes and of the husbandmen, that slewe such as were sent vnto them.

And when they drew nye vnto Ierusalem, and were come to Bethphage, vnto mount Olpucte. then sent Iesus two dyscyples, sayenge vnto them: go into the towne that lyeth ouer agaynst you, and anone ye shal fynde an asse bounde, and a colte wyth her. looke them, and brynge them vnto me. And if any mā saye ought vnto you, saye ye the Lorde hath nede of the & they shal wape he wyll let the go. All thys was done, þat it myght be fulfilled, wyche was spoked by the prophet, sayeng. * Tel ye þe daughter of Syon: behold, thy kynge cometh vnto the, meke, spitting vpon an asse and a colte, the sole of the asse vncd to the pocke. The dysciples wit and dyd as Iesus commaunded them, & brought the asse and the colte, & put on the theþe clothes, and set him thereon. And many of þe people spred theþe garmentes in the waye. Other cut downe braunches from þe trees, & strawed the in the waye. Moreover, the people that were before, & they þe came after, cryed sayeng: Hosanna to the sonne of Dauid. * Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lorde, Hosanna in the hyest.

¶ And when he was come to Ierusalem, all the cytie was moued, sayeng: who is this? And the people saye: this is Iesus, the Prophete of Nazareth, a cytie, of Galile. * And Iesus went into the temple of God, and cast out all the that solde and bought in the temple, and ouerthrewe the tables of the mony chaungers, and the seates of them that solde doues, and sayd vnto the: It is wyrtten * my house shal be called the house of prayer. But ye haue made it a denne of thurcs. And the blynde and the halte came to hym in the temple, and he healed them.

When the chiefe prestes and scriybes sawe the wonders that he dyd, and the childre cryeng in the temple (and sayenge: Hosanna to þe sonne of Dauid) they dysdayned, and sayd vnto hym: hearest þe what these saye? But Iesus sayth vn to the why not: haue ye neuer read. * Out of þe mouth of babes and suckelinges thou haste ordeyned prayse. And he lefte them, and went out of the cytie vnto Bethanys, and had hys abydyng there. ¶ In the mornynge as he returned into the cytie agayne, he hongred and when he had spyed a figge tree in the waye, he came to it, & founde nothyng thereon, but leaues only and sayd vnto it: Neuer frute growe on þe hence forthwarde. And anone the figge tree withered awaye. And when hys dyscyples sawe it, they marvelled, sayeng: Howe soone is the figge tree withered awaye? Iesus answered, and sayd vn to them: Verely I saye vnto you. * If ye haue fayth and doubt not, ye shall not onely do thys that is happened vnto the figge tree: but also if ye shall saye vnto thys mountayne: remoue, and cast thy selfe into þe see, it shalbe done. * And all thynges whatsoeuer ye aske in prayer (if ye beleue) ye shall receaue them.

¶ And when he was come into the tēple the chiefe prestes and the elders of the people came vnto hym as he was teachyng, and sayd: * Wp what aucthorite doest thou these thynges? and who gaue the thys power? Iesus answered and sayde vnto them: I also wyll aske of pou a certayne thyng, which if ye tell me, I in lyke wyse wyll tel you by what aucthorite I do these thynges. The baptyme of Ihon: whence was it? fro leaueu or of me? And they thought amonge the selues, sayenge: If we saye from heauen, he wyll saye vnto vs: why dyd ye not then beleue hym? But if we shall saye of men, then feare we the people. * For all men holde Ihon as a prophet. And they answered vnto Iesus, and sayde: We can not tell. And he sayd vnto them: neither tell I pou, by what aucthorite I do these thynges. ¶ What saye ye to thys? ¶ A man had two sonnes, and came to the fyrste, and sayde: sonne, go and worke to daye in my vneparde. He answered and sayde: I wyll not, but afterwarde, he repented, and went. Then came he to the secode, & sayd lyke wyse. And he answered, & sayd: I wyll, and wente not. Whether of the twa ye dyd the wyll of the father? And they saye vnto hym: the fyrste. Iesus sayeth vnto them: verely I saye vnto you, the publicans and harlottes go into the kyngdome of God before you. For Ihon came vnto you by the waye of ryghteousnesse, and ye beleued him not: but publicans and harlottes beleued hym. And ye (when ye had sene it) were not moued afterwarde with repentaunce, that ye myght haue beleued hym.

¶ Herken another similitude. ¶ Ther was a certayn mā an housholder, which plantid a vine parde, & hedged it round about, & made a wynepres in it, & buylt a tower, & let it out to husbandmen, & wet into a straunge cōtre. And when the tyme of frute drew neare, he sent his seruautes to the husbandmen, & they myght receaue the frutes of it. And þe husbandmen caught his seruautes, & beat one, kyllid another, & stoned another. Agayne he sent other seruautes, mo then þe first & they dyd vnto the lyke wyse. But last of al, he sent vnto the his owne sonne, sayeng: they wyll stand in awe of my sonne. But when þe husbandmen sawe þe sonne, they said among the selues: * This is þe heyre: come, let vs kyll hym, & let vs enioye his inheritaunce. And they caught him, & thrust him out of þe vneparde, & slewe him. When the lord therefore of þe vneparde cometh, what wyll he do vnto those husbandmen? They sayde vnto hym: For as much as they be euil, he wyll cruelly destroye the, and wyll let out hys vneparde vnto other husbandmen, which shall deliuer hym the frute

The. xxi. Chapter.

The marriage of the kynges sonne. Tristute to be geuen to the Emperour. Christ confuteth the opinion of the Saduces, concerninge the resurrection, & answereth the Saduces vnto his question.

Luke. xii. d

The kyngdome of heauen is lyke vnto * a man that was a kyng, whiche made a marriage for his sonne & sent forth his seruantes, to cal the that were bydden to the weddinge, and they wolde not come. Agayne, he sent forth other seruantes sayenge: Tell them which are bydden: beholde, I haue prepared my dynner, myne oren and my fatynges are kyled, and all thynges are ready, come vnto my marriage. But they made lyght of it, & went they: ways: one to his ferme place, another for his marchaundise, and the remnaunt toke his seruantes, and intreated them shamefully and slew them. But when the kyng herd therof, he was wroth, and sent forth his me of warre and destroyed those murderers and bent vp they: cytie.

Then sayd he to his seruantes: my marriage is dede is prepared. But they whych were bydden were not worthy. So ye therfore out into the hye wayes, and as many as ye fynde, byd them to the marriage. And the seruantes wente oute into the hye wayes, and gathered together all as many as they coude fynde, bothe good and bad, and the weddinge was furnyshed wth gesses. Then the kyng came in to se the gesses, and when he spied there a man, whych had not on a * weddinge garmente, he sayde vnto hym: frende, howe camest thou in hyther, not hauing a weddinge garmente? And he was cuen speechlesse. Then sayde the kyng to the mynysters: take and bynde hym hande and fote, and caste hym into utter darkenesse: * there shalbe wepyng and gnashyng of teth. Tell vs therfore: howe thyngest thou? Is it lawfull that tribute be geuen vnto Cesar

They saye vnto him: Cesars. Then sayde he vnto them: * Gene therfore vnto Cesar, the thynges which are Cesars, and vnto God, those thynges that are Gods. * When they had herd these wordes, they maruelled, and left hym, and went they: waye. * The same daye came to hym the Saduces (whych say that ther is no resurrection) and asked hym, sayenge: Master, Moses sayde that * yf a man dye, hauinge no chyld, his brother shulde marry his wyfe, and rayse vp seide vnto his brother. There were wyth vs seuen brethren, & the fyrst married a wyfe, and deceased without pssue, and left his wyfe vnto his brother. The seconde, the thyrde, vnto the seuenth. Last of all the woman dyed also. Therefore, in the resurrection, whose wyfe shal she be of the seuen? For they all had her. Jesus answered and sayd: vnto them. ye do erre, not knowyng the scriptures, nor the power of God. For in the resurrection, they nether marie nor are married, but are as the Angels in heauen.

* But be not ye called Rabbi, for one is your master, euen Christ, and al ye are brethren. And call no man your father vpon the earth, for one is your father whych is in heauen. Nether be ye called masters, for one is your master, euen Christ. He that is greatest amonge you, shalbe your seruant. * But whosoever exalteth himselfe shalbe brought lowe. And he that humblyeth himselfe shalbe exalted. * Alas vnto you Scribes and Pharisees, ye hypocrites, for ye shutt vp the kyngdome of heauen before men, * ye neyther go in your selues, neyther suffer ye them that come to enter in.

Mat. 23. 1. 2.
Luk. 11. 1. 2.

Luk. 11. 1. 2.

Alas vnto you Scribes & Pharisees, ye hypocrites for ye deuoure widowes houses & that vnder a pretence of longe prayer therfore shall ye be y<sup>e</sup> soner punysshed. Alas vnto you Scribes and Pharisees, ye hypocrites: for ye compasse see and lande, to make one proselyte, & when he is become one, ye make hym two folde more the chyld of hell, then ye your selues are.

Alas vnto you, ye blynd guydes, for ye say: whosoever doth sweare by the temple, it is no thyng: but whosoever sweareth by the gold of the temple, he is gyltye. Ye foolles and blynde: for whether is greater the golde or the temple & sanctifyeth the golde? And whosoever sweareth by the altare, it is no thyng, but whosoever sweareth by the gyfte that is vpon it, he is gyltye ye foolles and vlynde, for whether is greater the gyfte, or the altare that sanctifyeth the gyfte? whoso therefore sweareth by the alter, sweareth by it, and by all thynges that are thereon. And whoso sweareth by the temple, sweareth by it, and by hym that dwelleth therein. * And he that sweareth by heauē, sweareth by the seat of God and by hym that sitteth thereon.

Mat. 23. 1. 2.

Luk. 11. 1. 2.

Alas vnto you Scribes and Pharisees, ye hypocrites. * For ye tythe mynt, and anyle, and comyn, and haue lefte the wayghter matters of the lawe iudgement merce and saythe. These ought ye to haue done, and not to leaue the other vndone ye blynde guydes, whych strayne oute a gnat, and swalowe a Camell.

Alas vnto you Scribes & Pharisees, ye hypocrites: for ye make cleane the utter syde of the cup, & of the platter but wythin they are full of byrbere & excrese. Thou blynde Pharise, cleanse fyrst y<sup>e</sup> whych is within the cuppe and platter, y<sup>e</sup> the outsyde of them maye be cleane also.

Luk. 11. 1. 2.

Euen so ye also, outwardly appeare ryghteous vnto men. But wythin ye are full of faynednes and iniquyte. * Alas vnto you Scribes & Pharisees, ye hypocrites: ye buyde the tombes of the Prophetes, and garnyshe the sepulchres of the ryghteous, and say: yf we had bene in the dayes of our fathers, we wold not haue ben parteners wyth them in the bloude of the Prophetes. And so * ye be wytnesses vnto your selues, that ye are the chyldren of them whych kyll the Prophetes. I kyll ye lyke wyse the measure of your fathers. Ye serpentes, ye generation of vipers, howe wyl ye escape the damnacion of hell?

* Wherefore beholde, * I sende vnto you prophetes and wyse me, and Scribes, and some of them ye shall kyll and crucyfe and some of the shall ye scourge in your synagoges, & persecute them from cytie to cytie: that vpon you maye come all the ryghteous bloude, which hath bene shed vpon y<sup>e</sup> earth, from the bloude of ryghteous * Abell, vnto the bloude of zachary the sonne of Barachias, whom ye slewe betwene y<sup>e</sup> temple and the altare. Clerely I saye vnto you all these thynges shall come vpon this generation. * O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, thou that killest the prophetes, and stonest them whiche are sente vnto the: howe often wold * I haue gathered thy chyldren together, euen as the henne gathereth her chyckens vnder her wynges, and ye wold not beholde, * your house is lefte vnto you desolate. For I saye vnto you: ye shal not se me hence forth, tyll that ye say * blessyd is he, that cometh in the name of the Lorde. Amen.

The xxiii. Chapter.

Of Christ howe he was dysceypled & destruction of the temple, & ende of the world, and the comynge of the laste dayes, & what he shal doo to the world, & what shal be the laste dayes.

And Jesus wente out & departed fro the temple & his disciples came to him, for to shewe him y<sup>e</sup> buydinges of the temple. Jesus sayd vnto them: Se ye not all these thynges? Clerely

I saye vnto you * there shal not be here left one stone vpon another, that shal not be destroyed.

And as he sat vpon mount Oliuete, his disciples ca vnto him secretly, sayeng: Tel vs: when shal these thynges be: & what shal be the token of thy comynge & of the ende of the world? And Jesus answered, and sayd vnto the: * take hede, that no man deceaue you for many shall come in my name, sayenge: I am Christ & shal deceaue many. Ye shall heare of warres, & tydynge of warres: be not troubled. For all these thynges must come to passe, but the ende is not yet. * Nation shall ryle agaynst nation, and realme agaynst realme: and there shal be pestilence, and hongre and earthquakes in all places. All these are the begynnynges of sorowes.

* Then shall they put you to trouble, & shall kyll you and ye shalbe hated of al nacions for my names sake. And then shall many be offended, & shall betraye one another, & shal hate one another. And many false prophetes shal arys, and shal deceaue many. * And iniquyte shal haue y<sup>e</sup> upperhand, the loue of many shal abate. * But he that endureth to y<sup>e</sup> ende, the same shalbe safe.

* And

Mat. x. 1. And this Gospel of the kyngdom shal be preached in all the worlde, for a wytnes vnto all nations, and then shal the ende come.

Mat. x. 17. * When ye therfore shal se the abhomyngacion of desolacion (that was spoken of by Daniel the prophet) stande in the holy place, whoso readeth it let him vnderstande. Then let them which be in Jewry, flye into the mountaynes. And let him whiche is on the house toppe, not come downe to let any thyng out of his house. Neither let hym which is in the feld, retorne backe to fetch his clothes. Who shal be in those dayes to them that are with childe, & to the that geue sucke. But praye ye that your flyght be not in the wynter, neither on the Sabbath daye. For then shal be greates tribulacions & such as was not sence the begynnyng of the worlde to this tyme, nor shal be. For except those dayes shulde be shortened, there shulde no flesh be saved, but for the chosens sake those dayes shal be shortened.

Mat. x. 23. * Then if any man saye vnto you lo here is Christ, or there beleue it not. For there shal arise false Christs, & false prophetes & and shal shewe great myracles & wonders. In so muche (that if it were possible, & very electe shulde be deceaued) behold, I haue told you before. Wherfore, if they saye vnto you behold, he is in the deserte, go not ye forth to behold. he is in the secret places, beleue it not. For as the lyghtenynge cometh out of the east, & appeareth into the west: so shal the comynge of the sonne of man be.

Mat. x. 24. * For whersoeuer a dead carcasse is, eue there wyll the Eagles also be gathered together. Immediately after the tribulacions of those dayes shal the sunne be darkened, and the mone shal not geue her lycht, and the starres shal fall fro heauen, and the power of heauen shal be moued. And then shal appere the token of the sonne of man in heauen. And then shal all the kynredes of the earth mouene, and they shal se the sonne of man comynge in the cloudes of heauen, with power and greates glorie. & and he shal send his Angels with the great voyce of a trumpet, and they shal gather together his chosens, from the hyghest partes of heauen, vntill y endes therof.

Mat. x. 25. * Learne a synulytude of the fygge tree: whiche his braunches is yet tender, & the leaues sprong ye knowe that sommer is nye. So lyke wyll ye, when ye se all these thynges, be ye sure that it is nere, euen at the doores. Merely I saye vnto you this generacion shal not passe, tyl all these thynges be fulfilled. * heauen and earth shal passe, but my wordes shal not passe. But of that daye and houre knoweth no man, no not the angels of heauen, but my father only.

Mat. x. 26. * But as the dayes of Noe were, so shal also the comynge of the sonne of man be. For as in those dayes (that went before the floud) they dydeate and drynke, mary, & were maryed, eue vntill that day that Noe entred into the ship, & knewe not tyll the floude came and toke the all a waye. So shal also the comynge of the sonne of man be. Then shal two be in the feld, the one receaued and the other refused. * two women shal be grynnyng at the myll, the one receaued and the other refused. * (Two in a bed: the one shal be receaued, and the other refused.) * Watche therfore, for ye knowe not what houre your Lorde wyll come. Of this yet be sure, that if the good man of the house knew what houre the thefe wold come he wold surely watche, and not suffer his house to be broken vp. Therfore, be ye also ready, for in such an houre as ye thynke not, wyll the sonne of man come. Who is a faythfull and wyle seruaunte, whome his Lorde hath made ruler ouer his household, to geue them meat in season. Blessed is that seruaunte, whome his Lorde (when he cometh) shal fynde so doynge: Merely I saye vnto you, that he shal make hym ruler ouer all his goodes. But and if that euell seruaunt saye in his herte, my Lorde wyll be longe a comynge (and so begynne to smyte his felowes, pee, and to eat & drynke with the dyonken) the same seruautes Lorde shal come in a daye when he lokech not for hym, & in an houre that he is not ware of, & shal hewe him in peces, and geue him his porcion wyth hypocrites. there shal be weppynge and gnashynge of teth.

The xxv. Chapter.

The ten vyrgyns. The talentes dispersed to the seruautes, and of the generall iudgement.

Mat. xxv. 1. When shal the kyngdome of heauen be lyke vnto ten vyrgyns, whiche toke theyr lampes, and wente to mete the byrdgrome (and the byrd) But fyue of them were folysh, and fyue were wyle. And they that were folysh, toke theyr lampes but toke none oyle wyth the. But the wyle toke oyle wyth them in theyr vessels, wyth the lampes also. Whyle the byrdgrome tarped, they all slombzed and slepte. And euen at mydnyghte, there was a crye made behold, the byrdgrome cometh: go oute to mete hym. Then all those virgyns arose, and prepared theyr lampes. So the folysh sayd vnto the wyle: geue vs of your oyle for our lampes are gone out. But the wyle answered, sayng not so lest there be not ynough for vs and you, but go ye rather to the that sell and bye for your selues. And whyle they wente to bye, the byrdgrome came: and they that were ready, wente in wyth hym to the marpage, and the gate was shut vp. Afterward came also the other virgyns sayenge: * Lorde, Lorde, open to vs. But he answered and sayde: verily I saye vnto you, I knowe you not. * Watche therfore for ye knowe nether the daye, nor yet the houre wherein the sonne of man shal come.

Mat. xxv. 2. * Lyke wyll ye as a certayne man ready to take his iorney into a straunge countre, called his seruautes, and deliuered vnto them his goodes. And vnto one he gaue fyue talentes, to another two, and to another one: to every man after his habyltye, and straght waye departed.

Then he that had receaued the fyue talentes, went, & occupied wyth the same, & wanne other fyue talentes. Lyke wyll ye also he that receaued two, gayned other two. But he that receaued the one, went & dygged in the earth, and hid his lordes money. After a longe season the Lorde of those seruautes came, and rekened wyth them. And so he that had receaued fyue talentes came and brought other fyue talentes, sayenge Syr thou delyueredst vnto me fyue talentes behold I haue gayned wth the fyue talentes mo. Ihs lord sayde vnto hym: wel thou good and faythfull seruaunte. Thou haste bene faythfull ouer fewe thynges, I wyl make the ruler ouer many thynges enter thou into the ioye of thy lord. He also that had receaued two talentes, came and sayd Syr I delyueredst vnto me two talentes: behold, I haue wonne two other talentes wth the thy lord sayd vnto hym: wel good & faythfull seruaunt. Thou hast ben faythfull ouer fewe thynges. I wyl make the ruler ouer many thynges Enter thou into the ioye of thy lord.

E Then he whych hath receaued the one talent, cam, and sayd Syr, I knewe the, that thou art an harde man, reappynge where thou hast not sownen, and gatherynge where thou hast not strawed & therfore was I afrayed, and went & hid thy talent in the earth lo, there thou haste that thyng is Ihs lord answered & sayde vnto hym thou cruel and slouthfull seruaunt, thou knewest, that I reape where I sowed not, & gather where I haue not strawed, thou oughtest therefore to haue delyuered my money to the exchaungers, & then at my commynge wouldest thou haue receaued myne owne wth vantage. Take therefore the talent from hym, and geue it vnto hym whych hath ten talentes. * For vnto euery one y hathe shal be geuen, and he shal haue aboundaunce: But he that hath not, from hym shal be taken awaye, euen that which he hath. And cast y vnprofitable seruaunt into vtter darknes, & there shal be weppynge and gnashynge of teth.

A When the sonne of man cometh in hys glorye, and all the holy angels wth hym, then shal he syt vpon the seate of his glorye, and before hym shal be gathered all nations. * And he shal separate them one from another, as a shepheard denyeth the shepe from the gootes and he shal set the shepe on his ryght hande, but y gootes on the left. Then shal the kynge saye to the that shal be on hys ryght hande Come ye blessed of my father, wheret the kyngdome, & prepared for you from the begynnyng of the worlde.

* For I was an hongred, and ye gaue me meat. I was thyrstye, and ye gaue me drynke. I was herbourlesse, and ye toke me in. Naked, & ye clothed me. * Speke, and ye vssted me. I was in prison, & ye came vnto me. Then shal the ryghteous answer hym sayeng: Lord when saw we the an hongred, and fed the: or thyrstye, and gaue the drynke: when saw we the herbourlesse, and toke the in: or naked, and clothed the: or when saw we the speke, or in prison, and came vnto the: And the kynge shal answer, and saye vnto them verely I saye vnto you, in as muche as ye haue done it vnto one of the least of these my bretheren, ye haue done it vnto me.

Then shal he saye also vnto them, that shal be on the left hande: * departe from me ye cursed into euerylastyng fyre whiche is prepared for the deuel and his angels. For I was an hongred and ye gaue me no meat. I was thyrstye, and ye gaue me no drynke. I was herbourlesse, and ye toke me not in. I was naked and ye clothed me not. I was speke and in prison, and ye vssted me not. Then shal they also answer hym sayenge: Lorde, when saw we the an hongred, or a thyrstye, or herbourlesse, or naked, or speke, or in prison, and dyd not mynyster vnto the: Then shal he answer them, sayenge Clerely, I saye vnto you, in as muche as ye dyd it not to one of the least of these, ye dyd it not to me. And these shal go into euerylastyng payne, the ryghteous into lyfe eternall.

The xxvi. Chapter.

Mary Magdalene anoynteth Christ. They ate the Easterlambe, Christ prayeth in the garden, Judas betrayeth hym, Peter smyteth of Malchus eare, Christ is accused by false witnesses, Peter denieth hym.

Ad it came to passe, when Iesus had fynished al these sayenges, he sayd vnto hys dyscyples: * Ye knowe that after two dayes shal be Easter and the sonne of man shal be delyuered ouer to be crucified. * Then assembled together the chiefe prestes and the scribes and the elders of the people vnto the palace of the hie preast which was called Cayphas and heide a counsell that they myght take Iesus by subtelte and kyl him. But they layd not on y holy dape, lest there be an vproure amonge the people.

When Iesus was in Bethany, in the house of Symeon the leper, ther came vnto hym a woman & haupnge an alabastr boere of precyous oynment, and poured it on hys head, as he sat at the borde. But when hys dyscyples sawe it, they had indignation sayenge: Wheretof serueth this wast? Thys oynment myght haue bene well solde, and geuen to the poore. When Iesus vnderstode that, he sayde vnto them: why trouble ye the woman? For she hath wrought a good worke vpon me. * For ye haue poore alwayes wth you: But me shal ye not haue alwayes. And in that she hath cast thys oynment on my body, she dyd it to bary me. Clerely, I saye vnto you wheretoeuer thys Gospell shal be preached in the worlde, there shal also thys that she hath done be tolde, for a memoriaall of her.

* The one of the twelue which was called Judas Iscariot wet vnto the chiefe prestes, and sayd vnto the what wyl ye geue me, and I wil delyuere hym vnto you: And they apoynted vnto him thyrty peces of syluer. And fro that tyme forth he sought oportunitie to betraye hym.

* The fyrst daye of twete bread, the dyscyples came to Iesus, sayenge vnto hym, where wylt thou y we prepare for the, to cate the pascheouer? And he sayd: go into the cytie, to suche a man, & saye vnto him, the master sayeth: my time is at hande, I wil kepe myne Easter by the, with my dyscyples: And the dyscyples dyd as Iesus had apoynted them, & they made ready the pascheouer.

* When the eue was come, he sat downe wth the twelue. And as they dyd cate, he sayde: Clerely, I saye vnto you, that one of you shal betraye me. And they were eue readyng sorrowfull and began euery one of them to saye vnto hym: Lorde, is it I? he answered and sayde: he that dyppeth hys hande wth me in the dysche, the same some shall betray me. * The sonne of man truly goeth, as it is wyrtten of hym: but wo vnto that man, by whom the sonne of man is betrayed. It had ben good for that man, yf he had not bene bozne. Then Judas whych betrayed hym answered and sayde master, is it I? He sayd vnto hym: thou hast sayd. Whē they were eatynge Jesus toke bread, and whan he had geuen thankes, he brake it, and gaue it to the dyscyples, & said. * Take, cate, this is my body. And he toke the cuppe, and thanked, and gaue it them, sayenge: Drynke ye al of this, for thys is my blood (whych is of the newe testamente) that is shed for many, for the remyssion of synnes. But I saye vnto you: I wyll not drynke hence forth of this frute of y<sup>e</sup> vyne tree, vntyll y<sup>e</sup> daye when I shall drynke it newe with you in my fathers kyngdō.

* And when they had sayde grace, they wente out vnto mount Oluetē. Then sayeth Jesus vnto the: all ye shal be offended because of me thys nyght. For it is wyrtten * I wyll smyte y<sup>e</sup> shep-herde, and the shepe of the flocke shal be scattered abrode. But after I am rysen agayn, I wyll go before you into Galile. Peter answered, & sayd vnto hym * though al men be offended because of the, yet wyll I not be offended. Jesus sayd vnto hym: Clercyp, I saye vnto the, y<sup>e</sup> in thys same nyght, before the cocke crowe, thou shalt deny me thrise. Peter sayde vnto hym: Pee, though I shoulde dye wyth the, yet wyll I not denye the: Lykewyse also sayde all the dyscyples.

* Then came Jesus wyth them vnto a farme place, which is called Gethsemane & sayde vnto the dyscyples: lye here whyle I go & praye pōder. And he toke with hym Peter & the two sonnes of zebede, & began to waxe sorowful and heuy. Then sayd Jesus vnto the * My soule is heuy, cūe vnto the death. Tarye here & watch wyth me. And he went a lytell farther, and fell flat on his face and prayed, sayenge: My father, yf it be possible, * let this cuppe passe from me neuerthelesse, not as I wyll, but as y<sup>e</sup> wyllte. And he came vnto the dyscyples and founde the a slepe, and sayeth vnto Peter What coulde ye not watch wyth me one houre: watche & praye, that ye entre not into temptation. * The sperte is wyllynge, but the fleshe is weake.

* He wente awaye once agayne and prayed, sayenge: My father, yf thys cuppe maye not passe awaye from me, except I drynke of it, thy wyll be fulfilled. And he came, and founde them a slepe agayne. For they eyes were heuy. And he left them went agayne, & prayed the thyrde tyme, sayenge the same wordes. Then cometh he to hys dyscyples, and sayeth vnto the. Slepe on now and take youre rest. Behold, the houre is at hande, and the sonne of man is betrayed in to the handes of synners. Ryse, let vs be goyng beholde, he is at hande, that doeth betraye me.

* Whyle he yet spake lo, Judas one of the nom-ber of the twelue, came, and wyth hym a greete multitude, wyth sweardes and staues, sent fro the chiefe preastes and elders of the people. But he that betrayed hym, gaue them a token, sayenge: Whome soeuer I kysse that same is he holde hym faste. And forthwyth he came to Jesus, and sayde: Hail Master, and kysed hym. And Jesus sayde vnto hym: frende, wherfore art thou come? Then came they, and layed handes on Jesus, and toke hym.

And beholde, one of them whych were wyth Jesus, stretched out his hand, & drue his sweard and stroke a seruaunte of the hye preastes, and smote of his eare. Then sayde Jesus vnto hym: put vp thy swearde into his sheath.

* For al they that take the swearde: shal per-rythe wyth the swearde. Thyntest thou that I can not now praye to my father, and he shall geue me (euen now) more then twelue legions of Angels? But howe then shall the scrptures be fulfilled: for thus muste it be. In that same houre sayd Jesus to the multitude * He be come out as it were vnto a thefe, wyth sweardes and staues, for to take me. I sat daylye wyth you, teachynge in the temple, and ye toke me not.

* The chiefe preastes and the elders, and all the counsell, sought false wytnes agaynst Jesus (for to putte hym to death) but founde none: y<sup>e</sup> whē many false wytnesses came, yet founde they none. At y<sup>e</sup> last came two false witnesses, & they sayd: This fellowe sayd * I am able to destrope the temple of God, and to buylde it agayne in thre dayes. * And the chiefe preast arose, & sayde vnto hym Answerest thou nothyng? Why do these beare wytnesse agaynst the? But Jesus helde hys peace. * And the chiefe preaste answered and sayde vnto hym: I charge the by the ly-uyng God, that thou tell vs, whether thou be Christus the sonne of God. Jesus sayeth vnto hym: thou hast sayd. Neuerthelesse, I saye vnto you * here after shall ye se the sonne of man syt-tyng on the ryght hande of power, & comyng in the cloudes of the skye.

* Then the hye preaste rent hys clothes, sayenge: he hath spoken blasphemie: what nede we of eny moo wytnesses? Beholde, now ye haue herde his blasphemie, what thinke ye? They answered, and sayde he is worthy to dye. * Then dōd they spyt in his face, and buffeted hym wyth sylles. And other smote hym on hys face, wth the palme of theyr handes, sayenge: Tell vs thou Christ, who is he that smote the?

Peter sat wythout in the palace. And a dāsel came to him, sayeng: Thou also wast wyth Jesus of Galile: but he denied before the al, sayeng I wote not what thou sayst. Whē he was gone out into the porche, another weneche sawe hym, and sayde vnto them that were there: This fellowe was also wyth Jesus of Nazareth. And agayne he denyed with an othe sayeng I do not knowe y<sup>e</sup> mā. And after a while, came vnto him they, that stood by, & sayd vnto Peter. * Whych sayest thou the worde of Iesu, whyche sayde vnto hym, be-

The xxvii. Chapter.

Christ is deliuered vnto Pilate. Judas hangeth hym selfe. Christ is crucified amonge theues. He dyeth and is buried, watchmen kepe the graue.

When the mornynge was come, *all the chiefe preastes and the elders of the people, helde a counsaile agaynst Iesus, to put hym to death, & bought hym bounde *and deliue-red hym vnto Pontius Pilate the debyte.

Then Judas (whyche had betrayed hym) seynge that he was condepned, repented hym selfe and brought agayne the thryty plates of siluer to the chiefe preastes and elders, sayeng: I haue synned, betrayenge the innocent bloude. And they sayd: what is that to vs? Se thou to that.
And he cast downe the syluer plates in the temple & departed: and went & hanged hym selfe.

And the chiefe preastes toke the syluer plates and sayde: it is not lawfull for to put them into the treasure, because it is the pryce of blood. And they toke counsell: and bought wyth them a potters felde, to bury straungers in. Wherefore the felde is called felde of blood. Then was fulfilled, & whych was spoken by Jeremie the prophete, sayeng: *and they toke thrytye syluer plates, the pryce of hym that was valued, whom they bought of the chyldren of Israel, and gaue them for a potters felde, as the Lorde appoynted me.

* Iesus stode before the debyte, and the debyte asked hym, sayenge arte thou the kynge of the Iewes? Iesus sayeth vnto hym: Thou sayest.
And when he was accused of these preastes & elders, he answered nothynge. Then sayth Pylate vnto hym: hearest thou not, howe many wytnesses they laye agaynst the? * and he answered hym to neuer a worde: insomuche that the debyte marvelled greatly.

* At that feast, the debyte was wonte to deli-uer vnto the people a prisoner, whoso they wolde desyre. He had then a notable prisoner, called Barababas. Before when they were gathered together, Pilate sayd: *whether wyl ye that I geue loose vnto you? Barababas, or Iesus, whyche is called Christ? For he knewe that for enue they had deliuered hym.

When he was set downe to geue iudgemente hys wyfe sent vnto hym sayenge: haue thou no thyng to do wyth that iuste man. For I haue suffered many thynges this daye in my slepe because of hym. * But the chiefe preastes & elders persuaded the people, that they shuld aske Barrababas, and destroye Iesus. The debyte answered, and sayde vnto them: whether of these wayne wyl ye, that I let loose vnto you? They sayde:

* Barababas. Pilate sayde vnto them: * what shal I do th. wyth Iesus which is called Christ?

They all sayde vnto him Let him be crucified.
The debyte sayde: What euill hath he done?
But they cryed the more sayenge: Let hym be crucified. When Pilate sawe, that he could preuaile nothynge, but y more busynes was made, he toke water and washed hys handes before the people, sayenge: I am innocent of the bloude of this iuste personne, ye shall se. Then answered all the people, and sayde: * hys bloude be on vs and on oure chyldren. * Then let he Barababas loose vnto them, and scourged Iesus, and deli-uered hym to be crucified.

* Then the souldyers of the debyte toke Jesus in the common hall, and gathered vnto hym all the company. And they strepped hym, & put on hym a purple robe, and platted a crowne of thornes, and put vpon hys heade, and a reede in hys ryght hande: & bowed the knee before him: and mocked hym, sayeng: halcyunge of the Je-wes. And when they had spyt vpon hym, they toke the reede, and smote hym on the heade.

And after that they had mocked hym, they toke the robe of hym agayne, and put his owne rayment on hym, and led hym awaye to crucify hym. And as they came out, * they founde a way-de of Cyren named Symeon (hym they compelled to beare his crosse). * And they cam vnto a place which is called Golgotha (that is to say a place of dead mens scoules) and gaue hym vynesge to drynke, mingled wyth gall. And whē he had tasted therof, he wolde not drynke.

When they had crucified hym, they parted hys garmentes, and cast lottes: that it myghte be fulfilled which was spoken by the Propet: * They departed my garmentes amonge them, and vpon my vesture dyd they caste lottes. And they sat and watched hym there, & set vpon hys heade, the cause of his death wyrtten. Whys is Iesus the kynge of the Iewes. * Then were there two theues crucified wyth hym, one on the ryght hande and another on the left.

* They passed by crucified hym, wagginge theyr heades, and sayng thou that destroyedest the temple of God, and ordeest buyde it in thre dayes, saue thy selfe. * If thou be the sonne of God come downe from the crosse. Lyke wyse also the hye preastes, mockynge hym wyth the scriyves and elders sayde. He saued other, hym selfe can he not saue. If he be the kynge of Israel, let hym nowe come downe from the crosse, & we wyl beleue him. * He trusted in God let him deliuer hym nowe, if he wyl haue hym, for he sayde I am the sonne of God. The theues also wyth hym were crucified wyth hym, cast the same in hys rethe. * From the sytte houre was there darknesse ouer al the lande vnto nynt houre.
And about the nynt houre, Iesus cryed, wyth a loude voyce, sayenge. Eli, Eli lama sabathani. That is to saye: * My God, my God, why hast thou forsake me? Some of them thit stode there, when they herde that, sayde Crye man callith for helias. And strepght waye * one of the tanne, and toke a sponge, and whan he had fyllid it full of vynesge, he put it on a reede, and gaue hym to drynke. Other sayde: let be, let vs

The Gospell

then I cometh after me, whose shoe latchet I am not worthy to stoupe downe, and vnloose. I haue baptysed you with water but he shall baptise you wth the holy goost. ¶

And it came to passe in those dayes, that Iesus came from Nazareth, of Galile, and was baptysed of Ihon in Iordane. And as sone as he was come vp out of the water, he sawe heauen open, & the sprete descendynge vpon hym lyke a doue. And ther cam a voyce fro heauen. * Thou art my deare sonne in whom I delecte.

And immediatly the sprete drewe hym into wylbernelle and he was there in the wylbernes xl. dayes, and was tempted of Sathan, & was wth wylde beastes. * And the angels minystrid vnto hym. After that Ihon was taken, Iesus came into Galile, preachynge the Gospell, of the kyngdome of God, and sayenge: the tyme is come, and the kyngdome of God is at hande: repent and beleue the Gospell.

As he walked by the see of Galile, he sawe Symon and Andrew his brother, casting nettes into the see, for they were fischers. And Iesus sayde vnto the. folowe me, and I wyl make you to become fischers of men. And straght waye they forsoke theyr nettes & folowed hym. And when he had gone a lytel further thence, he sawe James the sonne of zebede, and Ihon his brother, which also were in the shyppe, mending theyr nettes. And anon he called the. And they left theyr father zebede in the shyppe wth the hyred seruauntes, and folowed hym.

¶ And they cam into Capernaum: & straght waye on the Sabbath dayes he entred into the synagoge, and taught, and they were astounded at his learnynge. * For he taught them as one that had auctoryte, and not as the Scribes.

¶ And there was in theyr Synagoge a man vered with an vncleane sprete, and he cryed sayenge. Alas, what haue we to do wth the thou Iesus of Nazareth? Arte thou come to destrope vs? I knowe the what thou art, euen that holp one of God. And Iesus rebuked hym, sayenge: holde thy peace, and come oute of the man. And whan the vncleane sprete had torne hym, and cryed wth a loude voyce, he came oute of hym. And they were all amased, in so much that they demaunded one of another amonge them selues sayenge. What thyng is this? What newe doctrine is this? For with auctoryte commaunded he theoule spretes, and they obeyed hym. And immediatly his fame spred abrode throughe out all the region, borderynge on Galyle.

And forthwith whan they were come out of the Synagoge, they entred into the house of Symon and Andrew, with James and Ihon. What Symons mother in lawe laye speke of a feuer. And anon they tell hym of her. And he came and toke her by the hand, and lyst her vp: and immediatly the feuer forsoke her, and she minystrid vnto them. And at euen whan the sunne was downe, they brought vnto hym all that were dyscaised, and them that were vered wth deuils. And all the cytie was gathered together at the doore, and he healed many that were speke of dyuerse dyscaises, and caste oute many deuils, & suffered not the deuils to speake, because they knewe hym.

And in the mornynge very early, Iesus (when he was risen vp) departed, and went oute into a solitary place, and there prayed. And Symon and they that were wth hym, folowed after hym. And when they had founde him, they sayd vnto hym all men seke for the. And he sayd vnto them: let vs go into the nexte townes, that I maye preach there also for therfore am I come. And he preached in theyr Synagoges, in all Galile, and caste the deuils out.

¶ And there came a leper to hym, beseechynge hym, and knelynge downe, and sayenge vnto hym yf thou wylte, thou canst make me cleane. And Iesus had compassion on hym, & put forth his hande, touched hym, and sayeth vnto hym: I wyl, be thou cleane. And as sone as he had spoken, immediatly the leprosie departed from hym, and he sente hym awaye forthwith, and sayeth vnto hym. * Se thou saye not hyng to any man but get the hence, shewe thy selfe to the prieste, and offer for thy cleansynge, those thynges whych Moses commaunded, for a wytnesse vnto them. But he (as sone as he was departed) beganne to tell many thynges, & to publysh the sayeng in so much that Iesus could nomore open entree into the cytie, but was without in deserte places. And they cam to him fro euery quarter.

The ii. Chapter.

¶ He healeth the man of the palsey, calleth him the customer, eateth wth open synners, and exchaungeth synners.

After a few dayes also, he entred in to Capernaum agayne, and it was noised that he was in that house. And anon many were gathered together, in so much that nowether was no roume to receaue them, no, not so muche as aboute the doore, and he preached the worde vnto them. ¶ And they came vnto hym, bringynge one speke of the palsey, which was borne of foure men. And when they coude not come nye vnto hym, for pcase, they vncouered the roofe of the house that he was in. And when they had broke vp the rofe, they dyd (with cordes) let downe the bed wherein the speke of the palsey laye. Whē Iesus sawe theyr fapth, he sayd vnto the speke of the palsey. * sonne, thy synnes be forgiven the.

But there were certayne of the Scribes sypinge there, and thynkynge in theyr hartes. Why doth he speake these blasphemys: who can forgive synnes, but God onely? And immediatly when Iesus perceaued in his sprete that they so thought wthyn themselves, he sayth vnto the. Why thynke ye such thynges in youre hartes? Whether is it easer to saye to the speke of the palsey: thy synnes be forgiven the, or to saye: arise, take vp thy bed, and walke? But that ye maye knowe, that the sonne of man hath power in earth to forgene synnes, he spake vnto the speke of the palsey: I saye vnto the: arise, and take vp thy bedd and get the hence vnto thyne owne house. And immediatly he arose, toke vp the bed, and went forth before them all: in so muche that that they were all amazed, and glorified God, saying: we neuer sawe it on this fashyon.

E And he went agayn vnto the see, and all the people resorted vnto hym, and he taught them. And as Iesus passed by, he sawe Leui the sonne of Alpha, sitting at the receypte of custome, and sayd vnto hym: folowe me. And he arose, and folowed hym. And it came to passe that when Iesus sat at meate in hys house, many publicans and synners sat also together at meate with Iesus and his disciples. For ther were many, that folowed hym. And when the Scribes and Pharisees sawe hym eate wyth publicans and synners, they sayd vnto hys disciples: howe happeneth it, that he eateth, & drynketh wyth publicans and synners? When Iesus heardeth that, he sayde vnto them: They that be whole, haue no nede of the Physycyon, but they that are sycke. * I came not to call the ryghteous, but synners to repentance.

And the disciples of Ihon and the Pharisees dyd fast, and they come a saye vnto hym. Why do the disciples of Ihon and the Pharisees fast but thy disciples fast not? And Iesus sayd vnto them: can the chyldren of the weddinge faste whyle the bydegrome is wyth them? As longe as they haue the bydegrome wyth them, they can not fast. But the dayes wyl come, when the bydegrome shalbe taken away from them, and then shall they fast in those dayes.

D No man also seweth a peece of newe cloth vnto an olde garment, els taketh he a waye p newe peece therof from the old, & so is the rent worse. And no man powreth newe wyne into olde bottels, els the newe wyne doth burst the bot: & and the wyne runneth out, & the bottels are marred. But new wyne must be put into newe bottels. * And it chaunced (agayne) that he wente thorow the corne felde on the Sabbath dayes and hys disciples began by the waye to plucke the eares of corne. And the Pharisees sayd vnto hym: beholde, why do they on the Sabbath dayes, that whiche is not lawfull? And he sayd vnto them: haue ye neuer reade what Dauid dyd, when he had nede, & was anhungred, both he, & they that were wyth hym? * Howe he wente into the house of God, in the dayes of Abiathar p hye preast, and dydeate the shewbread (whiche is not lawfull to eate, but for the preastes only) and gaue also to them whiche were wyth hym? And he sayd vnto the: the Sabbath was made for man, & not man for the Sabbath. Therefore is the sonne of man, Lord also of the Sabbath.

The. iiii. Chapter.

E He helpeth the man wyth the dyed hande, chaseth hys Apostles, and casteth out the vncleane spete, whiche the Pharisees ascribde vnto the deuel. The brother, sister, and mother of Ch. iiii.

A And he entred agayne into the Synagoge, and ther was a ma there whiche had a * wythered hande. And they watched hym, whether he woulde heale hym on the Sabbath daye, that they myghte accuse hym. And he sayde vnto the man whiche had the wythered hande: aryse, and stande in the myddes. And he sayth vnto them: whether it is lawfull to do good on the Sabbath dayes, or to do euill: to saue lyfe, or to kyll? But they helde theyr peace. And when he had looked roude about on them, wyth anger, mournynge on the blyndnes of theyr hertes, he sayth to the man. * stretch forth thyne hand. And he stretched it out. * And hys hande was restored, such as whole as the other. * And the Pharisees departed, and streyght waye gathered a counsell (wyth them that belonged to Herode) agaynste hym, that they myghte destroye hym. But Iesus auoyded wyth hys disciples to the see. * And a greete multitude folowed hym from Galile: and from Ierwyse, and from Ierusalem, and fro Idumea, and from beyonde Iordane, * And they dwelled aboute Tyre and Sydon, a greete multitude of men whiche when they had herde what thynges he dyd, came vnto hym.

And Iesus commaunded hys disciples, that a shyp shoulde wayte on hym, because of the people: lest they shuld thronge hym. For he had healed many, in so much that they pressed vpon him for to touche hym, as many as had plagues. And when the vncleane spetes sawe hym, they fell downe before hym, and cryed sayinge: thou art the sonne of God. And he stravelly charged them that they shoulde not make hym knowne.

And he went vnto a mountayne, and called vnto hym whom he wolde, and they came vnto hym. * And he ordeyned the twelue, that they shoulde be wyth hym, and that he myghte sende the forth to preache and that they myghte haue power to heale sykneses, and to cast out deuils. And he gaue vnto Symon the name Peter. And he called James the sonne of zebede and Ihon James brother, and gaue them to names Boanarges, whiche is to saye: the sonnes of thonder. And Andronic, and Phylippe, and Bartolomeu, and Mattheu, and Thomas, and James the sonne of Alpha, and Thaddeus, and Symeon of Canaan, and Judas Iscariot: whiche also betrayed hym.

And they came into the house, and the people assembled together agayne, so that they had not leysur so muche as to eate breade. And when they that belonged vnto hym, heard of it, they wente out to laye handes vpon hym. For they sayde: he is madde. And the Scribes whiche came downe from Ierusalem, sayde: he hath the Belzebub, and * b, he caste deuill, casteth he out deuils. And he called them vnto hym, and sayd vnto them in parables.

Howe can Sathan dryue out Sathan? And if of a realme be denyded agaynst it selfe, y realme can not endure. And if a house be denyded agaynst it selfe, that house can not continue. And if Sathan make insurrection agaynst hym selfe, and be denyded, he can not contynue, but hath an ende. No man can entre into a stronge mannes house, & take a waye his goodes, excepte he fynde the stronge man, and the spoyl his house. Verely I saye vnto pou, al synnes shalbe forgiven vnto mens chyldren, and blasphemys vnto her wyth fouer they haue blasphemied. * But he that sat aboute hym, and sayde vnto hym: beholde,

The xiiij. Chapter.

The parable of the sower. L. xiiij. vnto the temple of the see, wher he obeyed hym.

And he began agayne to teache by the see syde. And ther gathered together vnto hym muche people, so greatlye, that he entered into a shyppe, * and sat in the see, & all the people was by the see syde on the shore. And he taught them many thynges by parables, and sayde vnto the in his doctryne. Werken to beholde, * there wente out a sower to sow. And it fortuned as he sowed, & some fell by the waye syde, and the fowles of the ayre came, and deuoured it. Some fel on stony grounde, where it had not muche earth, and immediatly sprang vpon, because it had not depth of earth, but as sone as the sunne was vp, it caught beate and because it had not rotyng, it withered awaye. And some fel amonge thornes and the thornes grewe vp, and choked it, and it gave no frute. And some fel vpon good grounde and brought forth frute that sprang vpon, and grewe and brought forth, some thyrty folde, and some syttie folde, and some an hundred folde, and he sayde vnto them: He that hath eares to heare, let hym heare.

And when he was alone, they that were about hym with the twelve, asked hym of the parable And he sayde vnto them: * To you it is geue to knowe the mystry of the kyngdome of God. But vnto them that are wythoute, all thynges happen by parables: that when they se, they maye se, and not discerne, and when they heare, * they maye heare, and not vnderstande. leaste at any tyme they shulde turne, and theyr synnes shuld be forgiven them. And he sayde vnto them: Knowe ye not this parable? and howe the wylle knowe all other parables.

* The sower soweth the worde. And they (wherof some be rehearsed to be by the waye syde) are those, wher the worde is sown. And when they heare, Satan cometh immediatly, and taketh awaye the worde, that was sown in their hartes. And lyke wyse the other that receaue sede into the stony grounde, are they: whyche when they heare the worde, at once receaue it with gladnes, yet haue no rote in them selues, and so endure but a tyme: and anon when trouble and persecucion aryseth for the wordes sake, they fall immediatly. There be other also that receaue seede into thornes, and those are suche as heare the worde, and the cares of this world, and the dys-septfulnes of ryches, & the lustes of other thyngges, enter in & choke the worde, and it is made vnruteful and other there be, that haue receaue seede into a good grounde: they are such that heare the worde & receaue it, so that one corne doth bring forth thyrty, some syttie, some an hundred.

And he sayde vnto them: * Is the candle lyghted, to be put vnder a bushel, or vnder the table?
Is it not lyghted to be put on a candlesticke?
* For there is nothyng so pryncypall, that shal not be opened: neither hath it bene so secret, but that it shal come abroad. If any man haue eares to heare, let him heare. And he sayd vnto the take hede what ye heare: * With what measure ye meate, wyth the same shal other men measure vnto you agayne. And vnto you that haue, shal more be geuen. For * vnto hym that hath, shal it be geuen, & from hym that hath not, shal be taken awaye, euen that whiche he hath.

And he sayd so is the kyngdome of God, eue as * if a man shulde sowe seede in the grounde, & shulde slepe, and ryse vpon night and daye and the seede shoulde sprynge and growe vp, whyle he is not aware. For the earth bringeth forth frute of her selfe, fyrste the blade, then the care, after that the full corne in the eare. But when the frute is brought forth, anon he thrusteth in the sickel because the heruest is come.

And he sayde: where vnto shal we lyken the kyngdome of God? or wyth what comparyson shal we compare it? * It is lyke a grappe of mustard seede, whiche when it is sown in the earth is lesse then all seedes, that be in the earth: when it is sown, it groweth vp, and is greater then all herbes, and beareth great branches, so that the fowles of the ayre maye make theyr nestes vnder the shadowe of it.

* And with many such parables spake he the worde vnto them, after as they myght heare it.
But wythout parable spake he nothyng vnto the. But when they were alone, * he expounded all thynges to his dyscyples. And the same daye when euen was come, he sayde vnto the: let vs passe ouer vnto the other syde. And they lefte the people, & toke hym, euen as he was in the shyp.
And there were also wyth hym other shyppes.

* And there arose a greate stourme of wynde, & the waues dashed into the shyppe, so that it was nowe full. And he was in the sterne a slepe on a pelow. And they awaked hym, and sayde vnto hym: Master carest thou not, that we perishe?
And he rose vpe, and rebuked the wynde, and sayd vnto the see: peace, be still. And the wynde ceased, and there folowed a greate calme. And he sayde vnto them: Why are ye so fearefull?
Howe happeneth it that ye haue no fapth? And they feared exceedingly, and sayde one to another: Who is this? For bothe wynde and see obeyed hym.

And they came ouer to the other syde of the see, into the countre of the Gaderenptes. And no mā coulde bynd hym no not wyth cheynes, because that whē he was often boude wyth fetters and cheynes, he plucked the cheynes asunder, and brake the fetters in peces. Nether coulde any man tame hym. And alwayes, nyght and dape he was in the mountaynes and in the graues, cypenge and beating hym selfe wyth stones. But when he had spyed Iesus afarre of, he ranne and worshypped hym and cryed wyth a loude voyce, and sayde. * What haue I to do wyth the? Iesus thou sonne of the mooste hyst God: I requyre the in the name of God, that thou tozmiēte me not. For he sayde vnto hym: come out of the mā thou soule sprete: And he asked hym, what is thyne name? And he answered and sayde vnto hym: my name is Legion, for we are many. And he prayed hym instantly, that he wolde not sende them awaye oute of the countre.

And anon Iesus gaue them leaue. And the vncleane spretes wente oute and entred into the swyne. And the heed was carped headlonge into the see. They were almost two. And were drowned in the see. And the swynherdes fled, and tolde it in the cite, and in the felde. And they went out for to se what had happened: and came to Iesus, and saue hym th it was vered wyth the fende and had the legion. For both clothed and in hys eyght mynde, and they were afrayed. And they that saue it tolde them, howe it had happened to hym that was possessed with the deuell: and also of the swyne.

* And they began to praye hym, that he wold departe out of theyr coast. * And whē he was come into the shyppe, he had the deuell prayed hym, that he myght be wyth hym. Howbeit, Iesus wolde not suffre hym, but sayde vnto hym: go to thyne owne house and to thy frendes, and shewe the howe greates thynges the Lorde hath done for the, & howe he hath had compassyon on the. And he departed, and began to publyshe in the ten cyties, howe greates thynges Iesus had done for hym, and all men bydmaruayle.

And when Iesus was come ouer agayne by shyppe vnto the other syde, much people gathered vnto hym, and he was nye vnto the see.

And he went wyth hym, and much people folowed hym, and thronged hym.

* And there was a certayne woman, whiche had bene dyscased of an ysue of bloude, twelue yeres, and had suffered many thynges of many physycions, and had spent al that she had, and felte none amendemente at all, but rather was worse, and worse. When she had herd of Iesus she came in the preasse behynd hym, and touched his garment. For she sayd: yf I may but touche hys clothes, I shal be whole. And streight way the fountayne of her bloude was dryed up, & she felt in her bodye, & she was healed of that plage.

Luk. viii. 2

And Iesus immediatly felynge in hym selfe that vertue proceeded from hym, turned hym about in the preasse, and sayd: who touched my clothes? And hys dyscyples sayd vnto him thou seest the people thrust the, and askest thou who byd touche me? And he looked rounde aboute for to se her that had done thys thyng. But the woman fearynge and tremblynge (knowynge what was done wythin her) came, and fell downe before hym, & tolde him all the truth. And he sayd vnto her. Luk. viii. 2 * Whyle he yet spake, there came fro the ruler of the synagoges house, certayne which sayd thy daughter is dead: why dyscassest thou þ ma? After any further? A lone as Iesus herd the word that was spoken, he sayde vnto the ruler of the synagoge be not afrayed, onely beleue. And he suffered no man to folowe hym, saue Peter, and James, and Iohn the brother of James. * And he came vnto the house of the ruler of the Synagoge, and saue the wondryng, and them that wepte and wayled greatly, and went in, & sayd vnto them. Why make ye thys a do, and wepe? The damsell is not dead, but slepeth. And they laughd hym to scozne. But he put them all out, and taketh the father and the mother of þ damsell, and them that were wyth hym, and entreth in where the damsell laye, and taketh the damsell by the hande, and sayeth vnto her: Tabita, cumi: whych is (yf one do interpret it) damsell, I saue vnto the. And streight waye the damsell arose, and walked. For she was of the age of twelue yeres. And they were astonied out of measure. And he charged them straitly, that no man shulde knowe of it, and commaunded, to geue her meate.

The vi. Chapter.

¶ Christ Iheronimys Apollonius to hys disciples that were dyscased. Of Iohn & Herode. Of the v. loues. & of the thes. And of the walkynge on the see.

And he departed thence, and came into hys owne countre, and hys dyscyples folowed hym. And whē the Sabboth dape was come, he began to teache in the Synagoge. And many that heard hym were astonied, and sayde: from whence hath these thynges? And what wysedome is thys that is geuen vnto hym: and suche vertues that are wrought by hys handes? * Is not thys the carpenter Maryes sonne, the brother of James and Ioses and of Juda and Symon: and are not hys sisters here wyth vs? And they were offended at hym. Iesus layd vnto to them: * A prophet is not despised, but in his owne countre, and amonge his owne kynne, and in hys owne houtholde. And he coude there shewe no myracle, but layde his handes vpon a fewe sycke folke, and healed them, and marueled, because of theyr vnbelene. ¶

B * And he went about by the townes that laye on euery syde, teachynge. * And he called the twelue, and beganne to sende them forth two & two, and gaue them power agaynst vncleane sprytes. And commaunded the, that they shoulde take nothyng in theyr iorney save a rodde on-lye no scrpp, no bread, no money in theyr purse, but shoulde be shod wyth sandals. And y they shoulde not put on two cootes. And he sayde vnto them: whersoever ye entre into an house, there abyde tyll ye departe thence. * And whosoever shal not receaue you nor heare you, when ye departe thence, shake of y dust that is vnder youre fete, for a wytnesse vnto them. * Verely I saye vnto you: it shalbe easer for sodom & Gomor in the daye of iudgement, then for y ctye. * And they went out & preached, that men shoulde repent and they cast out many deuyls: & anoynted many that were sycke, with oyle, and healed them.

E * And kynge herode hearde of hym: for hys name was spred abroad, and he sayd: Jhon baptyst is rylen agayne from the dead, and therefore myracles are wrought by hym. Other sayde: it is helyas, some sayde: it is a prophete, as one of the prophetes. But when herode herde of hym he sayd: It is Jhon who I beheaded, he is rylen from death agayne. ¶ For herode hym selfe had sent for the men of waere, and layed handes vpon Jhon, and bounde hym, and cast hym into prison, for herodias sake, hys brother whyllypes wyfe because he had maryed her. ¶ For Jhon sayd vnto herode: * It is not lawfull for the to haue thy brothers wyfe herodias layde wyte for hym, and wolde haue killed hym, but he coude not. For herode feared Jhon, knowyng that he was a iuste man and an holy: and gaue hym reuerence: and when he hearde hym, he dyd many thynges, and hearde hym gladly.

And when a conuenient daye was come, that herode on hys * birth daye, made a supper to the lordes, hys captaynes, and chiefe estates of Galile: and when the daughter of the same herodias cam in, and daunced, and pleased herode and the that sat at bourde also: the kynge sayde vnto the damsell: aske of me what thou wyte, and I wyll geue it the. * And he swore vnto her whatsoeuer thou shalt aske of me, I wyll geue it the, euen vnto the one halfe of my kyngdome. And she went forth, and sayd vnto her mother: what shall I aske? she sayde: Jhon Baptistes head. And she came in stryght waye with hast vnto the kynge and asked, sayenge: I wyll, that thou geue me by and by in a charger, the heade of Jhon Baptyst. And the kynge was sorpe: howbeit for hys othes sake, and for theyr sakes which sat at supper also, he wolde not caste her of. And immediatly y kynge sent the hangman and commaunded hys heade to be broughte in.

E And he wote and beheaded hym in y prison, and brought hys heade in a charger, & gaue it to the damsel, & the damsel gaue it to her mother. And when hys dysciples hearde of it, they came, and toke vphys body, and layed it in a graue. ¶

And the Apostles gathered them selues together vnto Jesus, and told hym al thynges, both what they had done, and what they had taught. And he sayde vnto them: * come ye alone, out of the waye into the wyldernesse, and rest a whyle: for there were many comyners and goers, and they had no leasure so much as to eate. * And he went by shyppe oute of the waye into a deserte place. And the people spied them, when they departed: and many knewe him, and ranne a foote thither oute of all ctyes, and came thither before the, and came together vnto hym. And Jesus went out and sawe muche people, * and had compassyon on them, because they were lyke shepe, nor hauyng a shepherde. And he beganne to teache them many thynges.

And when the daye was nowe farre spent, hys dysciples came vnto hym, sayenge: thys is a deserte place, and now the tyme is farre passed let them departe, that they maye go into y countre rounde aboute, and into the townes, and bye them bread for they haue nothyng to eate. He answered and sayd vnto them, geue ye them to eate. And they sayde vnto hym: shall we go and bye two hundred penyworth of bread, and geue them to eate? he sayde vnto them: * Howe many lounes haue ye? So and loke. And when they had searched, they sayde: fyue and two fyshes. And he commaunded them, to make them all sit downe by companies vpon the grene grasse. And they late downe, here a rowe and there a rowe, by hundredes and by fyfties. And when he had take the fyue lounes and the two fyshes, and looked vp to heauen, he blessed and brake the lounes, and gaue them to hys dysciples, to set before them, and the two fyshes deuyded he among them all. And they al dyd eate, & were satysfed. And they toke vp twelue baskettes full therof, and of the fylhes. And they that dyd eate, were about fyue thousande men.

And streyght waye he caused hys dysciples to go into the shyppe, and to go ouer the see before vnto Bethsaida, whyle he sente awaye the people. * And asone as he had sente the awaye he departed into a mountayne to praye.

And when even was come, the shyp was in the myddes of the see, and he alone on the lande, and he sawe them troubled in rowynge, for the wynde was contrary vnto them. And aboute the fourth watche of the nyght, he came vnto them walkynge vpon the see, and wolde haue passed by them. But when they sawe hym walkinge vpon the see, they supposed it had bene a specter & cryed out for they al sawe him, & were afrayed. And anon he talked wyth them, & sayde vnto them: be of good cheate, it is I, be not afrayed. * And he went vp vnto them into the shyppe, & the wynde ceased, and they were fore amazed in them selues beyonde measure, and maruayled. For they remembred not of the lounes, because theyr herte was blynded.

And when they were ouer the water, they came into the lande of Genesareth and dwe by into the haue. And asone as they were come oute of the shyppe, straght wape they knewe hym, and ranne forth throughe oute al the region rounde aboute, and begaune to carpe aboute in beddes those that were speke, when they hearde that he was there. And whither soeuer he entered, into townes, cyties, or villages, they layd the speke folkes in the streates, and prayed hym that they myghte touche, and it were but the hemme of his vesture. And as many as touched hym, were safe.

The vii. Chapter.

The disciples ate wth unwashen handes. The commaundment of God is transgressed by mennes tradicions. Of the woman of Syzophenicia. Of the Sabbath.

Mat. 23. 2

And the Pharisees came together vnto hym, and dyuers of scribes which came from Jerusalem. And when they sawe certayne of his disciples eate breade, wth unwashen handes, they complained. For the Pharisees and al the Jewes, except they walche theyr handes ofte, eate not, obseruynge the tradicions of the elders. And when they come from the market, excepte they walche, they eate not. And many other thynges there be, which they haue takē vpon the to obserue, as the washynge of cuppes and cruces, and brasen vessels, and of tables.

Mat. 23. 2

Then asked hym the Pharisees and Scribes why walke not thy disciples accordynge to the custome, ordeyned by the elders, but eate breade wth unwashen handes? He answered & sayde vnto them: Well prophesied Esaye of you, p-pocrytes, as it is wyrtten: * Thy people honoureth me wth theyr lippes, but theyr herte is farre fro me: howbeit, in vayne do they serue me, teachynge the doctrynes and commaundmentes of men. For ye laye the commaundment of God apart, and obserue the constitucions of men, as the washynge of cruces, and of cuppes and many other such lyke thynges ye do.

Mat. 23. 2

And he sayd vnto them: Wel, ye cast asyde the commaundment of God, to mapntayne youre owne constitucions. * For Moses sayd honoure thy father and thy mother: and whoso curseth father or mother, let hym dye the death. But ye saye, a man shall saye to father or mother, Corban: whych is, what gyfte soeuer cometh from me, shalbe for thy p-pocryte. And so ye suffre hym nomore to do ought for his father or his mother and make þ word of God of none effect, throughe your owne constitucion, whych ye haue ordeyned. And many such thynges do ye.

And when he had called all the people vnto hym, he sayd vnto them: hearken vnto me, euery one of you, & vnderstande. * There is nothyng without a man, that can defyle hym, when it entreth into hym, but the thynges whych procede out of a man, those are they that defyle the man. If any man haue eares to heare, let hym heare. And when he came into the house, away from þ people, his disciples asked hym of the symple-tude. And he sayd vnto the: are ye also so greatly without vnderstandynge? Dye not yet perceaue, that whatsoeuer thyng cometh from without, it can not defyle him, because it entreth not into his herte, but into the belye: & goeth out into the draught, pourgynge oute all meates. And he sayd: that whych cometh out of man, defyleth the man. For from within euē out of the herte of men procede euell thoughtes aduoutre, fornicacion, murther, theft, couetousnes, fraude, deceyte, vncleennes, a wycked eye blasphemyes, pryde, folyshnes: all these euell thynges come from within, and defyle a man.

* And from thence he rose, and went into the borders of Tyre and Sidon, and entered into an house, and wolde that no man shulde haue known. But he coulde not be hyd. For a certayne woman (whose daughter had a foule sperte) as soone as she herde of hym, came, and fell at his fete. The woman was a Greke out of the naciō of Syzophenicia, and she besoughte hym, that he wolde cast out the deuell from her daughter. But Jesus sayde vnto her: let the chyldren first be fed. For it is not mete, to take the chyldrens bread and to caste it vnto the whelpes. She answered and sayde vnto hym euē so Lorde, * neuertheles the whelpes also eate vnder the table of the chyldrens cromes. And he sayde vnto her: for this sayenge go thy wape, the deuell is gone oute of thy daughter. And when she was come home to her house, she found that the deuell was departed, and her daughter lyenge on the bedde.

* And he departed agayne from the costes of Tyre and Sidon, & came vnto the see of Galile throughe the myddes of the coastes of the ten cyties. * And they brought vnto hym one þ was deaffe and had an impediment in his speche, and they prayed hym, to put his hande vpon hym. And when he had taken hym asyde from þ people, he put his fyngers into his eares, and dyd sygne, and touched his tonge, and looked vp to heauen, and syghed, and sayde vnto him Ephata, that is to saye, be opened. And straght wape his eares were opened, and the strynge of his tonge was loosed, and he spake playne. * And he commaunded them, that they shulde tell no man. But the more he forbade them, so much the more a great deale they publyshed, sayenge he hath done all thynges well, he hath made be the deaffe to heare, and the dumb to speake.

The curyng of the seruile lues. The Pharisee aske a signe. The leuit of the pharisee. The synners receiue the kyngdome.

At those dayes * when there was a very greate company, and had no thyng to eate. Jesus called his disciples to hym, and sayde vnto the: I haue compassion on the people, because they haue now bene wth me thre dayes and haue nothyng to eate: and if I send them away fastynge to theyr owne houses, they shall faynte by the wape. * For dructe of them came from farre. And his disciples answered hym: where shulde a man haue breade here in the wyldernes, to satysfy these? And he asked the howe many many loaves haue ye? They sayde: seven. And he commaunded the people to sytte downe on the grounde. And he toke the seven loaves, and whē he had geuen thynkes, he brake, and gaue it to his dyscyples, to set before them. And they dyd set the before the people. And they had a fewe smal fyshes. And when he had blessed, he commaunded them also to be set before them. And they dyd eate, and were suffised. And they toke vp of the broken meate, that was lefte, seven baskettes ful. And they that dyd eat: were about foure thousande. And he sent them awayne. I

B And anon he entred into a shyp wyth his dyscyples, and came into the partyes of Dalmanana. * And the Pharyses came forth, and beganne to dyspute wth hym, scapnge of hym a sygne from heauen, temptynge hym. And when he had syghted in hys spete, he sayth why doth thys generacyō seke a sygne? Verely I saye vnto you, there shall no sygne be geuen vnto thys generacion. And he left them, and went into the shyppe agayne and departed ouer the water.

And they had forgotten to take breade wth them nether had they in the shyppe wth them more then one loofe. And he charged them, sayenge: * Take hede, beware of the leuen of the Pharyses, and the leue of Herode. And they reasoned amonge them selues, sayeng: We haue no breade. And Iesus knewe it, and sayeth vnto them: Why take ye thought because ye haue no bread? perceauē ye not, yet nether vnderstande? haue ye pour hertes yet blynded? haue ye eyes and se not? and haue ye eares, and heare not? Do ye not also remembre? * When I brake fyue loaves amonge fyue thousande men, howe many baskettes full of broke meate toke ye vp? They saye vnto hym twelue. * When I brake seven amonge foure thousand, howe many baskettes of the leauynge of broken meate toke ye vp? They sayd: seven. And he sayd vnto them howe happeneth it that ye do not vnderstande?

C And he cam to Bethsaida, & they brought a blynde man vnto hym, and desyred hym to touche hym. And he caughte the blynde by the hande, and led hym out of the towne: and when he had spyt in his eyes, and put his handes vpon hym, he asked hym yf he sawe ought. And he looked vp, and sayde: I se the men: for I perceauē them walke, as they were trees. After that he put hys hādes agayne vpon hys eyes, and made hym se. And he was restored, and sawe euery man clearly. And he sent hym home to his house sayenge: nether go into the towne, nor tel it to any in the towne. I

* And Iesus went oute, and hys dyscyples in to the townes that longe to the cytie called Cesarea Phylippi. And by the waye he asked hys dyscyples, sayenge vnto them: Whome do men saye that I am? And they answered: some saye, that thou art Ihon Baptist, and some saye, Elias. Agayne, some say that thou art one of the nombre of the prophetes. And he sayd vnto the: but whom saye ye that I am? Peter answered and sayeth vnto hym. * thou art verpe Christus. And he charged them, that they shoulde tel no man of hym. And he began to teache the, * how that the sonne of man must suffer many thynges, and be reprinted of the elders, and of hye Priestes, and Scribes, and be kylled, and after thre dayes aryse agayne. And he spake that sayenge openly. And Peter toke hym asyde, and beganne to chide hym. But he turned about, and looked on hys dyscyples, and rebuked Peter, sayenge: So after me Sathan. For thou sauereste not the thynges that be of God, but the thynges that be of men.

* And whē he had called the people vnto him wth hys dyscyples also, he sayde vnto them: Whosoever wyll folowe me, let hym forsake hym selfe, and take vp his crosse, and folow me. For whosoever wyll saue hys lyfe, shall lose it. But whosoever shall lose hys lyfe for my sake and the Gospel, the same shall saue it. For what shall it proffyte a man, yf he wyne all the worlde, and loose hys owne soule? or what shall a mā geue to redeme hys soule wth al agayne? * Whosoever therfore shalbe ashamed of me & of my wordes, in thys aduoutrous and spynfull generacion: of hym also shall the sonne of man be ashamed, when he cometh in the glorie of hys father, wth the golyng angels.

The ix. Chapter.

The transfiguration. & how Iesus was healed. The transfiguration who shoulde be greatest. & how they are to be rebuked.

I And he sayde vnto them: Verely, I saye vnto you: * There be some amonge them that stand here, whych shall not taste of deathe, tyll they haue sene the kyngdō of God come wth power. * And after fyue dayes, Iesus took Peter and James and Ihon, and leadeth them vp into an hye mountayne, out of the way alone and he was transfigured before them. And hys raiment dyd shyne, and became verpe whyte, euen as snowe so whyte as no fuller can make vpon earth. And there appeared vnto the helias with Moyses. And they talked wth Iesu. And Peter answered and sayde to Iesu. Master, here is good byynge for vs let vs make also thre tabernacles, one for þ, and one for Moyses, and one for helias. For he wylte not what he sayde for they were afrayed. And there was a cloude that shadowed them. And a voyce cam out of the cloude, sayeng: * This is my beloued sonne heare hym. And sodeynly when they had loked rounde aboute, they sawe no man more then Iesus only wth them.

* And when they came downe fro the hyll, he charged them, that they shoulde tel no man those thynges that they had sene, tyll the sonne of mā were rysen from deathe agayne. And they kepte that sayenge wth them, and demaunded one of another, what the rysynge from deathe agayne shoulde meane? And they asked hym, sayenge: Why then saye the Scribes, that helias muste fyrst come? he answered and sayde vnto them: * helias verely when he cometh fyrst, restoreth all thynges. And the sonne of man (as it is wyrtten of hym) shall suffer many thynges and be set at naught. But I saye vnto you, that helias

And when he came to hys dyscyples, he sawe much people about them, and the scribes disputynge wyth them. And straght waye all the people (when they behelde hym) were amased, & ran to hym, and saluted hym. And he asked the scribes what dyspute ye amonge the. ¶ And one of the compaigne answered, and sayde. Master, I haue brought vnto the my sonne, whiche hath a dyme sprete. And whensoever he taketh hym, he teareth hym, and he cometh, and gnasseth wyth hys teeth, and pyneth a waye. And I spake to thy dysciples that they shulde cast him out, and they coude not.

He answereth hym, and sayeth. O fapthles nacion, howe longe shall I be wyth you? Howe longe shall I suffer you? Bynge him vnto me.
And they brought hym vnto hym. And as sone as the sprete sawe hym, he tare hym. And he fell downe on the grounde, walowynge & somynge.
And he asketh hys father: howe longe is it ago sens thys happened hym? And he sayde: of a chylde: and ofte tymes it hath caste hym in the fyre, and into the water, to destroye him. But yf thou canst do any thyng, haue mercy on vs, and helpe vs. Iesus sayde vnto hym: yf thou couldest beleue, al thynges are possible to him that beleueth. And straght waye the father of the chylde cryed wyth teares, sayenge: Lorde, I beleue, helpe thou myne vnbefe.

When Iesus sawe y the people camerūnng together vnto hym, he rebuked the foule sprete, sayeng vnto hym: Thou dōme and deate sprete I charge the come out of him, & entre nomore in to hym. And the sprete (whē he had cryed, & rent hym soze) came out of him, & he was as one that had bene deade, in so muche that one sayde: he is dead. But Iesus caught his hande, and lyft him vp, and he rose. And when he was come into the house, his dysciples asked hym secretly: why coude not we cast hym oute? And he sayde vnto them: thys kynde can come forth by nothyng but, by prayer and fastynge. **¶

And they departed thence, and toke theyz iorney thowwe Galile, & he wolde not, that any man shulde knowe it. For he taught hys dyscples, and sayd vnto them: the sonne of mā shal be deliuered into the handes of men, and they shal kyl hym: and after that he is kylled, he shal aryse agayne the thyrde daye. But they wyste not what he sayde, & were afrayed to aske hym.
And he came to Capernaum. And when he was come into the house, he asked them: what was it that ye dysputed amonge youre selues by the waye? And they helde theyz peace. for by y way they hadde reasoned amonge them selues, who shulde be the cheffest. And whē he was set downe he called the twelve to hym and sayde vnto the:
yf any man desyre to be fyrste, the same shal be laste of all, and seruaunte to all. * And he toke a chylde, and set hym in the myddes of them, and when he had taken hym in hys armes, he sayde vnto them: whosoever receaueth any such chylde in my name, receaueth me. And whosoever receaueth me, receaueth not me, but hym that sent me. **¶

Ihon answered hym, sayenge: Master we sawe one cast out deuels in thy name, and he fo-loweth not vs: and we forbad hym, because he foloweth vs not. But Iesus sayde: forbyd hym not. For * ther is no man whych (yf he do a my-racle in my name) can lyghtely speake euell of me. For he y is not agaynst vs, is on oure parte.
* Whosoever shal in my name geue you a cuppe of water to drynke, because ye beloge to Christ verely I saye vnto you: he shal not loose his re-warde. * And whosoever shal offend one of these lytle ones, that beleue in me, it were better for hym, yf a myllstone were hanged aboute hys necke, and he were caste into the see. * Wherefore yf thy hand bynder the, cut it of. It is better for the, to enter into lyfe maymed, then (haupnge two handes) to go into hell, into fyre that neuer shal be quenched, wher * theyz woyme dyeth not and the fyre goeth not oute. And yf thy fote be a bynderaunce vnto the, cut it of. It is better for the to go halt into lyfe, then (haupnge two fete) to be caste into hell, into fyre that neuer shal be quenched: wher theyz woyme dyeth not, and the fyre goeth not out. * And yf thyne eye bynder y plucke it out. It is better for the to go into the kingdom of God w one eye, then (haupnge two eyes) to be cast into hell fyre: wher theyz woyme dyeth not, and the fyre goeth not out. **¶

Euery mā shal be salted w fyre. * And euery sa-crityce shal be seasoned with salt. * Salt is good But yf the salt be vnlawery, what shal ye season therwyth? Haue salt in youre selues: & haue peace amonge youre selues: one wyth another.

¶ The .x. Chapter. ¶

¶ Of deuozement. The ryche man quozoned with chylde. Of the sonnes of iehede, & of the the bypny man.

And when he rose from thence, he went into the coastes of Ieruzpe, through the regyon that is beyond Iordane: And the people resorted vnto hym afreshe, and as he was wonte, he taught them agayne. And the Pha-ryses came, and asked hym. Is it lawfull for a man to put awaye hys wyfe to proue hym. And he answered and sayde vnto them: * What byd Moses byd you do: and they sayde: Moses suffered to wyte a testymonypall of deuozement, and to put her a waye. And Iesus answered and sayde vnto them: For the hardnes of your herte man. Therefore * shal a man leaue his father and twayne, but one fleshe. Therefore, what God hath coupled together let not man separate.

And in the house hys dysciples asked hym a

* And they brought chylidren to hym, that he shoulde touche them. And hys dysciples rebuked those that brought them. But whē Iesus sawe it, he was dyspleased and sayde vnto them: Suffre the chylidren to come vnto me, for byd them not. For of suche is the kyngdome of God. Verely I saye vnto you, whosoever doeth not receaue the kyngdome of God, * as a chylde, he shall not entre therein. And when he had taken them vp in hys armes, he put hys handes vpon them, and blessed them.

And when he was gone forth into the way ther came one runnyng and kneled to hym, and asked hym: * good Master, what shal I do, that I maye enheret eternall lyfe? Iesus sayde vnto hym: why callest thou me good? There is no mā good but one, which is God. Thou knowest the commaundementes: breake not marrymony: kyll not: steale not: beare no false wytnesse: defraude no man: honoure thy father and mother. He answered and sayde vnto hym: Master, all these I haue obserued from my yowth. Iesus behelde hym, and fauoured hym, and sayde vnto hym: one thyng thou lackest. * So thy wape: Sell that thou hast, and geue to the poore, and thou shalt haue treasure in heauen, and come, folowe me, I and take vp my crosse vpon thy shouldeers. But he was dysconforted because of that sayenge, and went awaye moornyng, for he had greute possessions.

And when Iesus had looked rounde aboute, he sayde vnto hys dysciples. * howe vncasye shal they that haue money, entre into the kyngdome of God. And the dysciples were astonnyed at hys wordes. But Iesus answereth agayne, & sayeth vnto them: chyliden, howe hard is it for them that trust in money, to entre into the kyngdome of God. It is easyer for a camell to go thorowe the eye of an nedle, then for the ryche to entre into the kyngdome of God. And they were astonnyed out of measure, sayenge betwene them selues: who the can be saued? Iesus looked vpon the, and sayde: wyth men it is vnpossible, but not wyth God. for * wyth God all thynges are possible.

And Peter beganne to saye vnto hym: Lo we haue forsake all, and haue folowed the. Iesus answered, and said: Verely I say vnto you, ther is no man that hath forsaken house, or brethren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wyfe, or chyliden, or landes for my sake and the Gospels, but he shall receaue an hundred folde now in this lyfe, houses and brethren, and sisters, and mothers, and chyliden, and landes wyth persecutions & in the world to come, eternall lyfe. * But many that are fyrst, shalbe last and last, first. And they were in the waye goynge vp to Ierusalem. And Iesus wente before them, & they were amased, and folowed, and were afrayde.

And Iesus toke the twelue agayne, and beganne to tell them what thynges shuld happen vnto hym. * Beholde, we go vp to Ierusalem, and the sonne of man shalbe deliuered vnto the hie preastes and vnto the scribes: and they shal condempne hym to death, and shall deliuer hym to the Gentyles, and they shall mocke hym, and scourge hym, spye vpon hym and kyl hym. And the thyrde daye he shall rylse agayne.

* And James and Ihon the sonnes of zebede came vnto him, sayeng: Master, we wolde that thou shouldest do for vs whatsoeuer we desyre. he sayd vnto them: what wolde ye that I shuld do for you? They sayde vnto hym: graunt vnto vs, that we maye sytte, one on thy ryght hande and the other on thy lefte hande, in thy gloire. But Iesus sayde vnto them: Ye wote not what ye aske. Can ye drynke of the cup, that I drinke of: and be baptysed wyth the baptyme, that I am baptysed wyth? and they sayde vnto hym: that we can. Iesus sayde vnto them. ye shal in dede drynke of the cup that I drinke of: & wyth the baptyme that I am baptysed wythal, shal ye be baptysed in but to syt on my ryght hande, and on my left hande is not myne to geue, but it shal happen vnto the, for whom it is prepared.

* And when the ten heard it, they beganne to dysdayne at James and Ihon. But Iesus when he had called the to him, sayd vnto the: ye knowe that * they which are sene to beare rule amonge the people, raygne as lordes ouer them. And they that be great amonge the, exerceyse aucthoryte vpon them. Neuerthelesse, so shal it not be amonge you: but whosoever of you wylbe great amonge you shalbe your mynyster. And who soeuer of you wylbe chefe, shalbe seruaunt of al. For * the sonne of mā also came not to be mynystred vnto: but to mynyster, and to geue hys lyfe for the redempcion of many.

And they came to hierico: * And as he went out of the cytie of hierico wyth hys dysciples, and a greute nombre of people blynde Bartymens the sonne of Tymeus, late by shye wayes syde beggynge. And when he heard that it was Iesus of Nazareth, he beganne to crye, and say: Iesus, thou sonne of Dauid, haue mercye on me. And many rebuked hym, that he shoulde holde hys peace. But he cryed the more a great deale: thou sonne of Dauid haue mercye on me. And Iesus stode styll, and commaunded hym to be called: And they called the blynde, sayenge vnto hym: Be of good comforte: ryse, he calleth the. And he threwe awaye hys cloke, and rose, and came to Iesus. And Iesus answered, and sayde vnto hym: what wylt thou that I do vnto the? The blynde sayde vnto hym: Master, that I myght se. Iesus sayde vnto hym. go thy wape, thy saythe hath saued the. And immediatlye he receaued hys syghte, and folowed Iesus in the waye.

And as soon as ye be entred into it: ye shall fynde a colte bounde, wheron neuer man sate: lose him and bynge hym hether. And if any man saye vnto you: why do ye so? Saye ye, that the Lord hath neede of hym: & straight waye he wyl sende hym hether. And they wente theyr waye, and founde the colte tyed by the doze withoute in a place where two wayes mette, and they loosed hym. And byuers of them that stode there, sayd vnto them: * What do ye loosinge the colte? And they sayde vnto them, euen as Jesus had commaunded. And they let them go. And they brought the colte to Jesus and caite theyr garments on hym: and he sate vpon hym. And many spreade theyr garments in the waye. Other cut downe boughes of the trees, and strawed them in the waye. And they that wente before & they that folowed sayd, sa, eg hosanna, * blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord. Blessed be the kyngdome, that cometh in the name of hym that is Lord of oure father Dauid: hosanna in the hysse.

And the Lord entred into Jerusalem and into the temple. And when he had looked rounde about vpon all thynges, and now the euentide was come, he went out vnto Bethany with the twelve. * And on the morowe when they were come out from Bethany, he hongred. And when he had spied a fygge tree afarre off, hangeing leaues, he came to it, yf he myght fynde any thyng thereon. And when he came to it, he founde nothinge but leaues: for the tyme of fygges was not yet. And Jesus answered, and sayde vnto the fygge tree: neuer man eate frute of the here after whyle the worlde standeth. And bys dyscyples hearde it.

And they came to Jerusalem. And Jesus went into the temple, and beganne to caste out them that solde and bought in the temple, and ouerthrewe the tables of the money chaungers, and the stoles of them that solde dones: and wolde not suffer, that any man shoulde carpe a vessel thowowe the temple. And he taught sayenge vnto the. * is it not wyrtten my house shall be called the house of prayer vnto all nactons? But ye haue made it a denne of thieues.

And the Scribes and hye prestes hearde it, and sought howe to destroye hym. * For they feared hym, because all the people marueled at his doctryne. And when euen was come, Jesus went out of the cite. * And in the mornyng as they passed by, they sawe the fygge tree dryed vpon by the rotes. And Peter remembred, and sayde vnto hym: Master, behold the fygge tree whych thou cursedste, is wadded awaye. And Jesus answered and sayde vnto them: haue confidence in God. * Verely I saye vnto you, that whosoever shall saye vnto this mountayne: remoue, and cast thy selfe into the see, and shall not doubt in his herte, but shall beleue that those thynges whych he sayeth shall come to passe, whatsoeuer he sayeth he shall haue. Therefore I saye vnto you: * what thynges soeuer ye desyre, when ye praye, beleue that ye receaue them, and ye shall haue them. And when ye stande and praye,

And they came agayne to Jerusalem. * And as he walked in the temple, there came to hym the hye prestes, and the Scribes, and the elders, and saye vnto hym: by what aucthorite dost thou these thynges: and whogauethe this aucthorite, to do these thynges? Jesus answered, and sayd vnto them: I wyl also aske of you a certayne thyng and answer ye me, & I wyl tel you by whiche aucthorite I do these thynges. The baptisme of Jhon, whether was it fro heauen or of men? Answer me. And they thought in them selues, sayenge: yf we saye from heauen he wyl saye: why then dyd ye not beleue hym? but yf they had sayde: of men, they feared the people. For all men counted Jhon, that he was a very Prophet. And they answered and sayd vnto Jhu: we can not tell. And Jesus answered, & sayde vnto them: neither wyl I tel you by what aucthorite I do these thynges.

Eccl. iii. And

And he toke the cup, & when he had geuen thankes, he toke it to them, & they al drank of it, and he sayde vnto them: This is my bloude of the newe testamēt, whiche is shed for many. Here- lye I gaue vnto you: I wyll dryncke no moze of the frute of the vyne: vntyll that daye, that I drynke it newe in the kyngdome of God. * And when they had sayde grace: they wente oute to mounte Oliuete.

And Iesus sayeth vnto the: All ye shal be of- fended because of me this nyght. For it is writ- te * I wyll smyte the shepherd, & the shepe shal be scattered. But after that I am risen agayn I wyll go into Galile before you. Peter sayde vnto hym: And though all men be offended, yet wyll not I. And Iesus sayth vnto hym: Verely I saue vnto the, y this daye euen in this nyght before the cocke crowe twyse, thou shalt denye me thre tymes. But he spake more vehemently no, yf I shoulde dye wth the, I wyll not denye the. A lyke wyse also sayd they all.

* And they came into a place which was na- med Gethsemani. And he sayth to his disciples. Syp ye here whyle I go asyde, and praye. And he taketh wth hym Peter & James and Iohn, and bega to waite abashed, & to be in an agony and sayeth vnto the: * My soule is heuy, euē vnto y dethe, tar ye here and wathe. And he went forth a lytle, and fel downe flat on the grounde and prayed: that yf it were possyble, the houre myght passe from hym. And he sayd * Abba fa- ther, all thynges are possyble vnto the, take a- waye this cup from me. Neuertheles, not that I wyl, but that thou wyle, be done.

And he came and founde them slepyng, and sayeth to Peter Simon, slepest thou? Coudest not thou wathe one houre? Wathe ye, & praye least ye entee into temptacion the spere trulpe is ready, but the fleshe is weake. * And agayne he wente asyde and prayed, and spake the same wordes. And he returned, and founde the aslepe agayne. For they: eyes were heuy, neether wyl they what to answer hym. And he came the thyrde tyme and sayde vnto them: slepe hence forth, & take your ease, it is ynough. The houre is come, beholde, the sonne of man is betrayed into the handes of synners. Ryse vp, let vs go. Lo, he that betrayeth me, is at hand. * And im- mediately whyle he yet spake, cometh Judas (which was one of the twelue) and wth hym a greate nombre of people wth sweardes and staves from the hye pceastes and scribes and elders. And he that betrayed him, had geuen the a generall token, sayeng: whosoever I do kysse that same is he. take hym and lead hym awaye warelpe. And as sone as he was come, he goeth straighthe waye to hym, and sayeth vnto hym: Master, Master, & kysed hym. And they layde they: handes on hym & toke hym. And one of the that stode by, dyue out a swearde, & smote a ser- uant of the hye pceast, and cut of his eare.

And Iesus answered and sayde vnto them: * ye be come out as vnto a thefe wth sweardes and wth staves, for to take me. I was daylye wth you in the temple, teachyng, and ye toke me not. but these thynges come to passe, that the scripatures shoulde be fulfilled. * And they al for- soke hym, and ranne awaye. And there folowed hym a certayne younge man, clothed in linnen vpon the bare, and the yongemen caught hym and be lste his linnen garment, and fled from them naked. * And they led Iesus awaye to the hyest pceaste of all, and wth hym came all the hye pceastes, and the elders, and the scribes. And Peter folowed hym a great waye of (euen tyll he was come into y palace of the hye pceast) and he sat wth the seruautes, and warmed hym selfe at the fyre.

* And the hye pceastes & all the counsell sought for wytnes agaynst Iesu, to put him to death, & found none: for many bare false wytnes against hym, but they: wytnesses agryped not together. And ther arose certayne, and brought false wytnes agaynst hym, sayeng: We herde hym saye: * I wyll destroye this temple that is made wth handes, and wthin thre dayes I wyll buylde another, made withoute handes. But yet they: wytnesses agryped not together.

* And the hye pceast stode vp amongst them and asked Iesus, sayeng: answerest thou no- thynges? Howe is it that these beare wytnes a- gaynst the? But he helde his peace, and answer- ed nothyng. Agayne the hyest pceast asked hym, and sayde vnto hym: Arte thou Christ the sonne of the blessed? And Iesus sayde: I am. * And ye shall se the sonne of man syttinge on y ryght hande of power, and comyng in the clou- des of heauen. Then the hye pceast rent his clo- thes and sayde: what nede we any further wyt- nesses? He haue heard blasphem, what chynche per & they all condemned hym to be worthy of death. And some beganne to spyt at hym, and to couer his face, and to beate hym wth fyngers, & to saue vnto hym: A reade. And the seruautes buffeted hym on the face.

And as Peter was beneth in the palace there came one of the wenches of the hyest pceast and * when she sawe Peter warminge hym selfe, she loketh on hym, and sayeth: wast not thou al- so wth Iesus of Nazareth? And he denyed say- eng: I knowe hym not, neether wote I what thou sayest. And he wente oute into the porche, and the cocke crowe. And a damsell (whan she sawe hym) beganne agayne to saue to the that stode by, this is one of them. And he denyed it agayne. And anone after, they that stode by, sayde agayne to Peter: surely thou arte one of them, for thou arte of Galile, and thy speache a- gyerth therto. But he beganne to curse, and to sweare, sayeng: I knowe not this man of whō ye speake. And agayne the cocke crowe, & Pe- ter remembred the worde that Iesus layd vnto hym: before the cocke crowe twyse, thou shalt denye me thre tymes. And he beganne to wepe.

The fyrst chapter.

The conceyning and byrth of Ihon the baptist, the conception of Christ. The thankfull songes of Mary and zachary.

here was in the dayes of he-rode the kyng of Iewye, a certayne preaste named zacha-ryas, * of the course of Abia.

And his wyfe was of y doughters of Aaron: and her name was Elizabeth: they wer both ryghteous before God, & walked in all the lawes & ordynaunces of the Lord that no man coulde fynde faute wyth the. And they had no childe, because y Elizabeth was baren, & they both were now well strycken in age.

And it came to passe, that whan zachary executed the preastes offyce, before God, as hys course cande (accordynge to the custome of the preastes offyce) hys lot fell to burne incense.

And he went into the temple of the Lorde, and the whole multitude of y people were with out in prayer, whyle the incense was a burnyng.
And there appeared vnto hym an Angell of the Lorde, standynge on the ryght syde of the autare of incense. And whan zacharyas sawe hym, he was abashed, and feare came on hym.

But the angel sayd vnto hym feare not za-charye, for thy prayer is heard. And thy wyfe Elizabeth shal beare the a sonne, and thou shalt call hys name Ihon, and thou shalt haue ioye & gladnesse, and many shal reioyce at hys byrth.
For he shal be greate in the syghte of the Lorde, and shal nether drynke wyne ner ströge drinke.
and he shal be fylled wyth the holyc gooste, euen from hys mothers wombe: and many of y chyldren of Israel shal turne to the y Lorde God.

And he shal go before hym in the sprete and power of * helyas to turne the heartes of the fathers to the chyliden and the unbeleuers to the wysdom of the iust men, to make ready a perfekte people for the Lorde.

And zacharyas sayde vnto the aungell: by what token shal I knowe this? For I am old, and my wyfe well strycken in yeares. And the angell answered, and sayd vnto hym: I am Sa-buel, that stande in the presence of God, and am sente to speake vnto the, and to shewe the these gladtydynge. And behold it shal come to passe that thou shalt be domme, and not be hable to speake, vntyl y daye that these thynges be performed, because thou beleuest not my wordes, whych shal be fulfilled in theyr season.

And the people wayted for zacharyas, and mercyled that he taryed in the temple. And when he came oute, he coulde not speake vnto them. And they perceaued that he had sene a vy-sion in the temple. And he beckened vnto them and remayned speechlesse.

And it fortuneth, that as sone as the dayes of his offyce were out, he departed into his owne house. And after those dayes, hys wyfe Elizabeth conceaued, and byd her selfe fyue monethes sayenge: The wysdom of God dealte with me, in y dayes where he hath looked on me, to take from afrayed, y seke Iesus of Nazareth, whych was crucifyed. he is ryfen, he is not here. Beholde y place wher they had put him. But go your way and tell hys discyples, and Peter: that he goeth before you into Galile, there shall ye se hym, as he sayd vnto you. * And they wet out quyk-ly, and fled from the sepulchre. For they trebled and were amased. Nether sayd they any thyng to any man, for they were afrayed.

When Iesus was ryfen early y fyrst day after the Sabbath, he appeared fyrst to Mary Magdalene, out of who he had cast seven deuils.
And he wente, and tolde them that were wyth hym, as they mourned & wepte. And they, when they herde that he was aloue, and had appeared vnto her, beleued it not. * After that appeared he vnto two of them, in a straunge fygure, as they walked, and went into the countrey. And they went and tolde it to the remaunt. And they beleued not these also.

Afterwarde he appeared vnto the eleuen as they sate at meat: and cast in theyr teth they unbeleue, and hardnes of herte: because they be-leued not them whych had sene that he was ry-fen agayne fro the dead. And he sayde vnto the:

* Go ye into al the world and preach the gospel to all creatures, he that beleueth and is baptised, shal be saued. But he that beleueth not, shal be dampned. And these tokens shal folowe the that beleue. * In my name they shal caste oute deuils, they shal speake wyth newe töges, they shal * dryue awaye serpentes. And yf they drynke any deadly thyng, it shal not hurte the.
They shal laye theyr handes on the sycke, and they shal recover.

So then, when the Lorde had spoken vnto them, * he was receaued into heauen, and is on the ryght hande of God. And they wente forth and preached euery where. the

And in the fyre moneth the angell Gabriel was sent from God vnto a cytie of Galile, named Nazareth, to a vyrgyne sponſed to a man, whose name was Joseph, of the house of Dauid and the vyrgyns name was Mary. And the angell wente in vnto her, and sayde: Hail full of grace, the Lorde is wth the: blessed art thou amonge women. When she sawe hym, she was abashed at hys sayenge: and cast in her mynde, what maner of salutation that shulde be. And the angell sayde vnto her: feare not Marye for thou haſt founde grace wth God. Beholde, * thou shalt conceaue in thy wombe, and beare a sonne, and * shalt cal his name Iesus. He shall be greate, & shall be called the sonne of the hyst. And the Lorde God shall geue vnto hym y seat of hys father Dauid, and * he shall raygne ouer the house of Jacob for euer, and * of hys kyngdome there shall be none ende.

Then sayd Mary vnto the angel: howe shall this be, seynge I knowe not a man: And the angell answered & sayde vnto her. The holy goost shall come vpon the, and the power of the hyst shall ouershadowe the. Therefore also that holy thinge which shall be borne, shall be called y sonne of God. And beholde, thy colyn Elizabeth, she hath also conceaued a sonne in her age. And this is her sert moneth, which was called barren for * wth God shall not hyng be vnpossible. And Mary sayd: behold the handmayden of y Lorde be it vnto me accordynge to thy worde. And the angell departed from her.

And Mary arole in those dayes, and went into the mountaynes wth hast into the cytie of Jewye, and entred into the house of zacharye, & saluted Elizabeth. And it fortuneth, that when Elizabeth herde the salutation of Mary y babe sprange in her wombe. And Elizabeth was fylled wth the holy goost, and cryed wth a loude voyce, and sayde. Blessed art thou amonge women, and blessed is the frute of thy wombe. And whence happeneth this to me, that the mother of my Lorde shulde come to me? For lo, as sone as the voyce of thy salutation pounded in my eares, the babe sprange in my wombe for ioye. And blessed art thou that hast beleued, for those thinges shall be performed, which were tolde the from the Lorde. And Mary sayde:

* My soule magnifyeth the Lorde. And my sprete hath reioysed in God my sauour. For he hath looked on y lowe degre of hys handmayden for lo, nowe from hence forth shall all generacions call me blessed. Because he that is myghtye hath done to me greate thynges, and holy is hys name. And his mercy is on them that feare him, from generacion to generacion. He hath strengthened strength wth hys arme, he hath scattered them y are proude in the ymagynacion of theyr herte. * He hath put downe the myghtye from theyr seates, and exalted them of lowe degre. He hath fylled the hungry wth good thynges, and sent awaye the ryche empty. He hath reioysed hys seruamm Israel, in remembrance of y mercy.

* Euen as he promysed to oure fathers, Abraham, and to his seide for euer. And Marye abode wth her aboute a thre monethes, and retourned agayne to her owne house.

Elizabeths tyme came that she shulde be deliuered, and she brought forth a sonne. And her neyghbours and her colyns heard howe the Lorde had shewed greafe mercy vpon her and they reioysed wth her.

And it fortuneth that in the eyght dawe, they came * to circuncyse the chyld: and called hys name zacharias, after the name of hys father. And his mother answered and sayde not so but he shall be called Ihon. And they sayde vnto her: There is none in thy kynred, y is named wth this name. And they made sygnes to his father howe he wolde haue hym called: And he asked for wytyng tables, and wrote, sayenge: hys name is Ihon. And they marvelled all. And his mouth was opened immediatly, and hys tonge also, and he spake and prayesed God. And feare came on all them that dwelt nye vnto the. And all these sayenges were noysed abroad thoroughout all the hyll contre of Jewye: and all they y herde them, sayd the vp in theyr hertes sayeng: What maner of chyld shall this be? And the hande of the Lorde was wth hym.

And hys father zacharyas was fylled wth the holy goost, and prophesied, sayenge: Prayſed be the Lorde God of Israel, for he hath visyted and redemed his people: * And hath rayſed vp an horne of saluacion vnto vs in the house of his seruamm Dauid. Euen as he promysed by the mouth of hys holy propheces, whych were seng the wolde be begonne. That we shulde be saued from our enemyes, and from the hande of al that hate vs. That he wolde deale mercifullye wth y oure fathers, and remembre hys holy couenant. * And that he wolde performe for oure, which he swore to oure father Abraham, for to geue vs. * That we deliuered out of the handes of our enemyes, myghte lerne hym without feare all the dayes of our lyfe, in such holynes & ryghteousnes as are accepte before hym. And thou chyld shalt be called the propete of the y prest: for thou shalt go before the face of the Lorde, to prepare his wayes to geue knowledge of saluacion vnto his people for the remission of synnes. Through the tender mercy of our God, whereby the day springe from an hye hath visyted vs.

* To geue lyght to them that sat in darthe: nelle, and in the shadowe of death, to gyde our fete into the waye of peace. And thou yld growe and wered stronge in sprete, and wylde in wylder nes, tyll the dawe came, when he shulde be we hym selfe vnto the Israelites.

And every man went vnto hys owne cytie to be tared. And Ioseph also ascended fro Galile, out of a cytie called Nazareth, into Ierusalem, vnto the cytie of Dauid, whiche is called Bethlehẽ because he was of the house and lynage of Dauid, to be tared wyth Mary hys spoused wyfe, whych was wyth chylde. And it fortuneth that whyle they were there, her tyme was come that she shulde be deliuered. And she brought forth her fyrste begotten sonne, and wrapped hym in swadylinge clothes, and layd hym in a maunger because ther was no rounne for the in the ynn.

23 And ther were in the same region, shepherdes watching and keepynge theyr flocke by nyght. And lo, the aungell of the Lorde stode hard by them, & the byghtnes of the Lorde shone rounde about them, and they were sore afrayed. And þe angel sayd vnto them: Be not afrayed. For behold, I bypunge you tydynge of great ioye, that shall come to all people: for vnto you is borne this daye in þe cytie of Dauid, a sauour, which is Christ the Lorde. And take this for a sygne: ye shall fynde the childe wrapped in swadylinge clothes, and layed in a maunger. And straight waye there was wyth the angel a multitude of heauenlye souldiers, prayynge God, and sayenge Glory to God on hye, and peace on þe earth and vnto men a good wyll. ¶

¶ And it fortuneth, as soone as the angels were gone awaye from them into heauen. ¶ The shepherdes sayde one to another: let vs go nowe euen vnto Bethlehem, and se this thyng that we heare saye is happened, whych the Lorde hath shewed vnto vs. And they came with hast and founde Mary and Ioseph and þe babe layde in a maunger. And when they had sene it, they published abroad the sayeng which was tolde them of that chylde. And all they that heard it, wondered at those thynges whych were told the of the shepherdes. But Mary kept al those sayenges, & pondered them in her hert. And þe shepherdes returned, prayynge and laudynge God for all the thynges that they had herd and sene, euen as it was tolde vnto them. ¶

¶ And whẽ the eyght daye was come þe chylde shulde be circumcysed, & hys name was called Iesus whych was named of the Angel, before he was conceaued in the wombe. ¶

¶ And when the tyme of theyr purificacion was come, they brought hym to Ierusalem, to present hym to the Lorde (as it is wyrtten in the lawe of the Lorde: every man chylde that fyrst openeth the matrix, shal be called holpe to the Lorde) and to offer, as it is sayde in the lawe of the Lorde: a payre of turtle doves, or two yonge pyngons.

And beholde, there was a man in Ierusalem, whose name was Symeon. And the same man was iuste and godly, and looked for the consolacyon of Israel, and the holy gooste was in hym. And an answer had he receaued, of the holy gooste, that he shulde not se death, except he fyrst sawe the Lordes Christe. And he came by inspyracyon in the temple.

in the chylde Iesus to do for hym after the custome of the lawe, then toke he hym vp in hys armes, and sayde: Lorde, nowe lettest thou thy seruaunt depart in peace, accordynge to thy promyse. For myne eyes haue sene the saluacyon: whych thou hast prepared before the face of all people. * A lyght to lyghte the gentyls, and the glorie of thy people Israel. ¶

¶ And hys father and mother marvelled at those thynges, whych were spoken of him. And Symeon blessed them, and sayd vnto Mary his mother: behold, this chylde is set to be the fall & vpryngynge agayne of many in Israel, and for a sygne whych is spoken agaynst. And moreouer the swerde shall pearce thy soule, & the thoughtes of many hertes maye be opened.

And there was a Prophetesse, our Anna, the daughter of Phanuel, of þe trybe of Aser: whiche was of a great age, and had lyued wyth an husbande. vii. yeres from her virgynyte. And she had bene a wedowe about. iiii. score & iiii. yere, whych departed not from the temple, but serued God with fastynges and prayers nyght & daye. And she came forth that same houre, and prayed the Lorde, and spake of hym, to al them that looked for redemption in Ierusalem.

And when they had perfourmed all thynges accordynge to the lawe of the Lorde, they returned into Galile, to theyr owne cytie Nazareth. And the chylde grew, and waxed stronge in spirite, and was fylled with wysdome and the grace of God was vpon hym. ¶

And hys father and mother went to Ierusalem every yere: at the feast of Easter. ¶ And when he was. xii. yere olde, they wnt vp to Ierusalem after the custome of the feast daye. And whan they had fulfilled the dayes, as they returned home, the chylde Iesus abode syl in Ierusalem, and hys father and mother knewe not of it: but they supposynge hym to haue bene in the company, came a dayes iorney and soughte hym amonge theyr kynfolke & acquaintance. And when they founde him not, they wnt backe agayne to Ierusalem, and soughte hym. And it fortuneth that after thre dayes, they founde him in the temple, sytynge in the myddes of the doctours, hearynge them, and posynge them. * And all that heard hym, were astonysed at hys vnderstandynge and answeres.

And when they sawe hym, they marvelled. And hys mother sayde vnto hym: Sonne, why hast thou thus dealt wyth vs? Beholde, thy father and I haue soughte thy sorowynge. And he sayde vnto them: howe is it that ye sought me? Wist ye not, that I must go aboute my fathers busynes? * And they vnderstode not that sayeng whych he spake vnto them. And he went downe wyth them, and came to Nazareth, and was obedient vnto them. But hys mother kepte all these sayenges together in her herte. And Iesus prospered in wysdome and age, and in fauoure, wyth God and men. ¶

And he stretched forth hys hand, and touched hym, say- enge: I will, be thou cleane. And immediatly the leprosy departed fro hym. And he charged hym, that he shulde tell no man: but go sayeth he) & shewe thy selfe to the preste, and offer thy clen- syng accorpyng as Moyses commaunded, for a wytnes vnto them.

But so much the moze wente there a fame a- brode of hym, and muche people came together to beare, and to be healed of hym of theyr infir- mities. And he kept hym out of the waye in the wyldernesse, and gaue hym selfe to prayer.

D Mat. llii. a And it happened on a certayne daye that he taught, and there sat the Pharyses and doc- toures of the lawe, whyche were come out of all the townes of Galile and Iewye, and Jerusa- lem. And the power of the Lorde was presente, to heale them. * And beholde, men brought in a bed, a man which was taken wyth a palsy, and they sought meanes to byngge hym in, & to laye hym before hym. And when they could not fynd out, what syde they myghte byngge hym in ( be- cause of the preste) they went vpo the toppe of the house and let hym downe thorowe the tylyng bed and all, even in the myddes before Iesus.

E Mat. llii. a When he sawe theyr sayth, he sayde vnto hym- man thy synnes are forgyuen the. And the Scrybes and the Pharyses began to thynke sayeng: What felowe is this, which speaketh blaspe- mye: * who can forgyue synnes but God only?

But when Iesus perceaued theyr thoughtes he answered, and sayd vnto the: What thynke ye in poure hertes: Whether is easier to saye: thy synnes be forgyuen the, or to saye: ryse vp, and walke? * But that ye maye knowe that the sonne of man hath power to forgyue synnes on earth, he sayde to the sycke of the palsy. I saye vnto the: arise, take vp thy bedde, and go vnto thy house. And immediatly he rose vp before them, and toke vp hys bed wheron he laye) and departed to hys owne house, praysynge God. And they were all amazed, & they gaue the glo- ry vnto God. And were fylled w feare, sayeng: We haue sene straunge thynges to daye.

* And after this, he went forth, and sawe a Publycane named Leui, sytting at the receyte of custome, and he sayde vnto hym: folowe me. And he leste all, and rose vp, and folowed hym: And Leui made hym a great feast in his owne house. And there was a great company of Pub- lycans and of other that late at meate with the. * And the Scribes and Pharyses murmured a- gaynst hys dyscyples, sayenge: Why do ye eat and drynke with Publycans and synners? And Iesus answered & sayd vnto them: They that are whole, nede not the Phisicion but they that are sycke. I came not to call the ryghteous, but synners to repentaunce.

And they sayd vnto hym: * Why do the discy- ples of Ihon fast often, and praye, and the discy- ples of the Pharyses also but thynke eat & drynke he sayde vnto them: * Can ye make the chylde of the weddyng fast, whyle the bryde grome is wyth the? The dayes wyl come, whē the bryde- grome also shalbe taken awaye from the: then shall they fast in those dayes.

He spake also vnto the a similitude. No man putteth a peece of a newe garmente into an olde vesture, for if he do, then breaketh he the newe, and the peece that was taken out of the newe, a- greeth not with the olde. And no man putteth newe wyne into olde bottels. For if he do, the newe wyne wyl burste the bottels, & runne out it selfe, and the bottels shal perishe. But newe wyne must be put into newe bottels, and bothe are preserued. No man also that drynketh olde wyne, straight waye can awaye wyth newe. for he sayeth: the olde is better.

The vi. Chapter.

E Mat. llii. a He entered hys dyscyples, that pynche the eares of coine, he healed the man which the wyldernesse had. & teach hys twelve Apostles, maketh a newe sermon, and teacheth to do good for euill.

H Mat. llii. a It happened on an after pyncypall Sabbath, that he went & thorowe the corne felde, and hys dyscyples pluc- ked the eares of coine, and dyd cate, and robbed them in theyr handes.

And certayne of the Pharyses sayde vnto the: Why do ye that which is not lawfull to do on the Sabbath dayes? And Iesus answered the, and sayde: * Haue ye not reade what Dauid dyd when he was an hungred, & they were were wpyth him howe he went into the house of God, and dyd take and eate the shewe + breade, and gaue also to them that were wpyth hym:

whi. hare not lawfull to eate, but for the + pra-ses only: And he sayd unto them: The sonne of man is Lorde also of the Sabbath dape.

† And it fortunied in another Sabbath also, that he entred into the Synagoge, + taught And there was a man, whose ryght hande was dyped vp. And the Scribes and Pharysees watched hym, whether he wolde heale on the Sabbath dape, that they myghte fynde howe to accuse hym. But he knewe theyr thoughtes, and sayde to the man whych had the wpyched hand: Ryse vp, and stand forth in the myddes. And he arose and stode forth. Then sayde Iesus unto them: I wyl aske you a question Whether is it lawful on the Sabbath dayes to do good, or to do euell: to saue ones lyfe, or to destrope it?
And he behelde them all in compasse, and sayde unto the man: Strecte forth thy hand. And he dyd so + and hys hande was restored agayne as whole as the other. And they were fylled wpyth maruylle, and commyned together amonge the selues what they myghte do to Iesu. **†

† And it fortunied in those dayes + that he went out into a mountayne for to praye, + conuyned all nyght in prayer to God. And a lone as it was dape, he called his dyscyples, + and of them he chose xii. whom also he called Apostles Symmon whom he also named Peter, and Andrew his brother, James and Ihon, Phylpp and Bar-tholomewe, Mattheewe + Thomas, James the sonne of Alpheus, and Symmon whycher is called zelotes, and Judas James sonne, + Judas Iscariot, the same that was the traitoure.

† And he came downe wpyth them, and stode in the playne felde, + the company of his dyscy-ples + and a great multitude of people out of al Jewey + Ierusalem, and from the see coaste + of Tyze and Sydon) whych came to heare hym, + to be healed of theyr dyscaises, + they that were bered with foule spretes, and they were healed.
And al y people pressed to touche hym, for ther went vertue out of hym, and healed them all.

† And he lyft vp hys eyes vpon the dyscyples + sayde: * Blessed be ye poore for poures is the kyngdome of God. Blessed are ye that hunger now, for ye shalbe satisfied. Blessed are ye that wepe now, for ye shal laugh. Blessed shall ye be when men hate you, and trowe you oute of theyr companye, and rayle on you, and abhorre your names as an euell thenge, for the sonne of mans sake. Reioyce ye in that dape, and be glad for beholde, your reward is great in heauen. † For thus dyd theyr fathers vnto the prophetes.

† But wo vnto you that are ryche: for ye haue your consolacion. Wo vnto you that are ful for ye shal hunger. Wo vnto you that now laugh: for ye shal wepe and wepe. Wo vnto you whi all men prayse you: for so dyd theyr fathers to the false prophetes.

But I saye vnto you which heare: Loue your enemys. Do good to them which hate you.
Blesse them that curse you. And praye for the whych wrongfully trouble you. And vnto hym that smyteth the on the one cheke, offer also the other. * And hym that taketh away thy gowne for byd not to take thy cotte also. Geue to euery man that asketh of the. And of hym that taketh away thy goodes, aske them not agayne. * And as ye wolde that men shoulde do to you, do ye also to them lyke wyse.

* And yf ye loue them whiche loue you, what thanke haue ye? For synners also loue theyr lo-uers. And yf ye do good for them which do good for you, what thanke haue ye? For synners also do euen the same. And yf ye lend to them of who ye hope to receaue: what thanke haue ye? For syn-agayne. But loue ye yourre enemyes, and do good, and lende, lokynge for nothyng agayne: and yourre rewarde shalbe grea'e, and ye shalbe the chyldren of the hysst for he is kynde vnto the vnynde and to the euell.

† Be ye therfore mercyfull, as yourre father also is mercyfull. * Judge not, and ye shal not be iudged. Condempe not, and ye shal not be condemned: For, geue, + ye shalbe forgiven. * Geue and it shalbe geuen vnto you good measure and and pressed downe, and shaken together, + run-nyng ouer, shal men geue into your bolomes.
* For with the same measure that ye mete with all, shal ouer men mete to you agayne.

And he put forth a sympletyde vnto them: * Can the blynde leade the blynde? Do they not both fall into the dytche? * The dyscypyle is not aboue hys master. Euery man shalbe perspyght euen as hys master is. * Why seest thou a moat in thy brothers eye, but consydrest not þ beame that is in thyne owne eye? Epyther howe canste thou saye to thy brother: Brother, let me pull out the moate that is in thyne eye, when thou seest not the beame that is in thyne owne eye.

Thou hypocrite, cast out the beame out of thyne owne eye fyrst, + then shalt thou se perspytely, to pull out þ moate that is in thy brothers eye. **†

* If it is not a good tree, that bringeth forth euell frute: neither is that an euell tree that byn-geth forth good frute. For euery tre is knowne by hys frute. For of thornes do not men gather fygges, nor of busshes gather they grapes. A good man out of the good treasure of hys herte, byngeth forth that which is good. And an euell man, out of the euell treasure of hys hert, byn-geth forth that which is euell. * For of the abou-daunce of the herte, his mouth speaketh.

Why call ye me * Lorde Lorde, and do not as I bydde you: whosoever cometh to me and heareth my sayenges, and doth the same, I wyl shewe you to whom he is lyke. * He is lyke a ma wi yche buylte an house, and dygged depe, and layde the foundation on a rocke. When the waters arose, the floude berre vpon that house and coude not moue it. For it was grounded vpon a rocke. But he that heareth and doeth not, is lyke a man that wythout foundacyon buylt an house vpon the carth, agaynst whych the floude dyd beate, and it fell immediatly. And the fal of that house was greate.

¶ He heareth the captaynes seruante, sayeth & tolde was sonne, enuoyment che dysciples, to home Jhon Baptiste sent vnto hym, commendeth Jhon, reponeth the Jewes & esteemeth wyth the Pharise. The woman walsheth hys feet wyth her teares, and he forgiveth her, her synnes.

¶ When he had ended all hys sayenges in the audyence of the people, * he entred into Capernaum. And a certayne Centurions seruante whych was deare vnto hym, laye spcke, & was in paret of death. And when he herde of Jesu, he sent vnto hym the elders of the Jewes, bescechyng hym that he wolde come, and heale his seruante. And when they came Jesus, they besought hym instantely, sayenge: he is worthy that thou shouldest do thys for hym. For he loveth our nacyon, and hath buylt vs a synagoge. And Jesus went wyth them.

¶ And when he was now, not farre from the house, the Centurion sent frendes to hym, sayenge vnto him: * Lord, trouble not thy selfe for I am not worthy that thou shouldest enter vnder my rooffe. Wherefore I thought not my selfe worthy to come vnto the: but saye thou & word and my seruante shalbe whole. For I also am a man set vnder power, and haue vnder me souldyers, and I saye vnto one go, and he goeth, and to another, come and he cometh: and to my seruante, do thys, and he doth it. Whē Jesus herd thys, he maruailed at hym, and turned hym aboute and sayd to the people that folowed hym: I say vnto you, I haue not foudē so great fayth no, not in Israel. And they & were sente, turned backe home agayne, and founde the seruante whole that had bene spcke.

¶ And it fortunēd after thys, that he wente into a cytie, whych is called Naïn, and many of hys dysciples went wyth him, and much people. When he came nye to the gate of the cytie: beholde, there was a dead man caried out, whych was the only sonne of hys mother, and she was a wydowe, and muche people of the cytie was wyth her. And when the Lorde sawe her, he had compassion on her, and sayd vnto her: wepe not. And he came nye and touched the coffyn: & they that bare hym stode still. And he sayde: Yonge man, I saye vnto the: aryse. And he that was dead, sat vp, and began to speake. * And he deliuered hym to his mother. And ther came a feare on them al. And they gaue the glorie vnto God, sayeng: * A great Prophete is rysen vp amonge vs, & God hath vyspyed hys people. ¶ And thys rumore of hym went forth thorowe out all Jewry, and thorowe out all the regions whych lye rounde aboute.

¶ And the dysciples of Jhon shewed hym of all these thynges. * And Jhon called vnto him two of hys dysciples, and sent tve to Jesus, sayenge: Art thou he that shouldest come: or shall we loke for another? When the me were come vnto him they sayde: Jhon Baptiste sent vs vnto the, sayenge: Art thou he that shouldest come: or shall we wapt for another? And in that same houre he cured many of theyr infirmities and plages, and of euil spyttes, and vnto many that were blind

And he answered, and sayde vnto them: go your waye and bryng word agayn to Jhon what thynges ye haue sene and hearde, howe that * the blinde se, the halt go, the lepers are censed, & deafe heare, the dead rysen agayne: to the poore is the glad tydynges preached, and happy is he that is not offended at me.

And all the people, and the Publycans that herde hym, iustified God, and were baptysed w the baptyme of Jhon. But the Pharyses and lawers despyed the counsell of God agaynst them selues, and were not baptysed of hym.

¶ And the Lorde sayde: * Wber vnto Wall Jly: ken the men of this generaciō: and what thynges are they lyke? They are lyke vnto chyldren syttinge in the market place, & cryenge one to another, and sayeng: We haue pyped vnto you, and ye haue not daused: we haue mourned to you, & ye haue not wepte. For Jhon Baptiste came, neither * eatyng bread nor drynkynge wyne, and ye saye he hath the deuell. The sonne of man is come, and eateth and drynketh, and ye saye: beholde a gluttonous man, and an vnmeasurable drynker of wyne a frend of Publycans and synners. And wyldest thou iustified of al her chyldren.

¶ And one of the Pharises despyed hym that he wolde rate wyth hym. And he went into the Pharyses house, and sat downe at meat. * And beholde a womā in that cytie (whych was a synner) as sone as she knewe that Jesus sat at meat in the Pharises house, she brought an alabastrer boxe of opyntment, and stode at hys fete behynde hym wepyng, and beganne to walsh hys fete wyth teares, and dyd wepe them wyth the heeres of her brad, and kyssed hys fete, and anoynted them wyth the opyntment.

¶ When the Pharise whych had byddē hym sawe & he spake within him selfe, sayeg: If this man were a Prophete, he wolde surceipe knowe who, and what maner of woman thys is that touched hym, for she is a synner. And Jesus answered, & sayde vnto hym: Simon I haue somwhat to saye vnto the. And he sayde: Master, saye on. There was a certayne lender whych had two detters, the one oughte fyue hundred pence, and the other syftye. When they had nothyng to paye, he forgave them bothe. Tell me therefore, whych of them wyl loue hym moost? Symon answered and sayde: I suppose that he to whom

I entred into thyne house, thou gaueste me no water for my fete, but she hath washed my fete with teares, and wyped the wyth the heares of her head. Thou gaueste me no kyss: but she, sence the tyme I cam in, hath not ceased to kisse my fete. Myne head with oyle thou dyddest not anoynt: but she hath anoynted my fete wyth oymment. Wherfore I saie vnto the: many synnes are forgiven her, for she loued much. To whom lesse is forgiven, the same doth lesse loue. And he sayde vnto her: thy synnes are forgiven the. And they that sat at meat wyth hym, beganne to saie wythin them selues: Who is this which forgiveth synnes allos? And he sayde to the woman: * Thy faith hath saued the. Go in peace. I

The viii. Chapter.

Chryst wyth hys Apostles gorch from towne to towne and preacheth, wherch the parable of the sowe, teileth to hye in hys mother and hys brother, spileth the ragynge of the see, deliuereth the possessed, and dysparyth the deuce into the hearde of swyne, helpeyth the speke woman, and Petrus daughter.

And it fortuneth afterwarde that he hym selfe also went throughout cyties and townes preachynge the wynged the kyngdome of God, and the twelve wyth him. And also * certayne women, whych were healed of euill spertes, and infirmyties. Marce whych is called Magdalene (out of whome went seven deuils,) and Joanna wyfe of Chusa Herodes steward and Susanne, and many other, whychemyngstred vnto hym of theyr substance. * When much people were gathered together, and were come to hym out of al cyties, he spake by a similitude. * The sower went out to sowe hys sowe: and as he sowed, some fel by the wape syde, and it was troden downe, and the foules of the ayre deuoured it vp. And some fell on a stone, and as sone as it was spronge vp it wythzed a wape because it lacked moystnes. And some fell amonge thornes, and the thornes spronge vp wythit, & choked it. And some fell on good grounde, and spronge vp, and bare frute, an hundred folde. And as he sayde these thynges he cryed: he that hath eares to heare, let hym heare.

25 * And his discyples asked hym, sayeng what maner of similitude is this? And he sayd vnto you is it geuen to knowe the secretes of the kyngdome of God: but to other by parables: that whan they se the shulde not se: * and when they heare, they shulde not vnderstande.

The parable is this. * The sowe is the worde of God. Those that are besyde the wape, are they that heare, then cometh the deuell, and taketh awaye the worde out of theyr hertes, least they shoulde beleue and be saued. They on the stones, are they whych when they heare receaue the word wyth ioye, and these haue no rotes: whych for a whyle beleue, and in tyme of temptation go awaye. And that whych fell amonge thornes, are they whych when they haue herde, go forth, and are choked wyth cares and cythes, and voluptuous lypynge, & byynge forth no frute. That whych fell in the good grounde, are they, whych wyth a pure & good herte heare the worde, and kepe it, and byynge forth frute thozowe pacience. I

* A man when he lygbleth a candell, coureth it wyth a vessel, or putteth it vnder a table but setteth it on a candellsticke, that they which entre in, maye se the lyght. * Nothynge is in secrete, that shal not come abroad. Neyther any thyng hid, that shal not be knowe and come to lyght. Take hede therfore, howe ye heare. For whosoeuer hath, to him shalbe geue: * And whosoeuer hath not, fro him shalbe taken: euen that same whych he supposeth that he hath.

* Then came to hym hys mother, and hys brethren, and could not come at hym for pzease. And it was tolde hym, and sayde: Thy mother and thy brethren stande wythout, and wolde se the. He answered and sayde vnto them: my mother and my brethren are these, whych heare the worde of God and do it.

I And it chanced on a certayne daye, that he went into a ship, and hys discyples also, and he sayde vnto them: Let vs go ouer vnto the other syde of the lake. And they launched forth. But as they sayled he fell asleepe. * And there arose a storme of wynd in the lake, and they were fylled wyth water, and were in leopardeye. And they came to hym, & awoke hym, sayenge: Master, we are losse. Then he arose and rebuked the wynde and the tempest of water, and they ceased, & it wared calme. And he sayd vnto them: where is your faith? They feared & wondered amonge the seules, sayenge What (thynke ye) is this: for he commaundeth both the wyndes and water, and they obey hym. I * And they sayled vnto the region of the Gadrenites, whych is ouer agaynst Galile.

And when he went oute to lande, there met him out of the cytie a certayne man, whych had a deuill longe tyme, and ware no clothes nether abode in any house but in graues. When he saw Iesus and had cryed, he fell downe before hym, and wyth a loude voyce sayde: * What haue I to do wyth the Iesus, thou sonne of the God moost hyest? I beseech the torment me not: for he commaunded the foule sperte to come out of the man. For often tymes he had caught hym, and he was bounde wyth chaynes, and kepte wyth fetters: and he brake the bandes, and was carryed of the sende into wyldernesse.

And Iesus asked hym sayenge: What is thy name? And he sayde: Legion, because many deuils were entred into hym. And they besought hym that he wolde not commaunde them, to go out into the depe. And ther was there an herde of many swyne, fedynge on an hyll. and they besought hym, that he wolde suffer them to enter into them. And he suffered the. Then wente the deuils out of the man and entred into the swyne. And the heard ran headlynge wyth violence into the lake, and were choked. When the herdme sawe what had chanced, they fled, and tolde it in the

in the cytie, and in the byllages.

And they came out to se what was done, and came to Iesus, and founde the man (out of who the deuels were departed) sittinge at the fete of Iesus, clothed, and in his right mynd, and they were afrayed. They also whiche sawe it, tolde them by what meanes he (that was possessed of the deuell) was healed. And al the multitude of the Saderenptes, besought hym, that he wolde departe fro the, for they were taken wyth great feare. * And he gat him vp into the shyp, and returned backe agayne. The man, out of who the deuels were departed besought hym that he myght be wyth him. But Iesus sent him away, sayenge: Go home agayne to thynne owne house, and shewe what thynges soeuer God hath done for the. And he wente hys waye and preached thowowe out all the cytie, what thynges soeuer Iesus had done vnto hym.

And it fortuneth that whan Iesus was come agayne, the people receaued hym. For they all wayted for hym. * And beholde, ther came a mā named Jairus (and he was a ruler of the Synagoge) and he fell downe at Iesus fete prayenge hym, that he wolde come into hys house, for he had but one daughter onely, vpo a twelue yeres of age, and she laye a dyenge. But as he went, the people thronged hym.

* And a woman haupnge an pssue of bloude twelue yeres (which had spent al her substance vpon Physycons, neyther coulde be holpen of any) came behynde hym, and touched the hem of hys rayment & immediatly her pssue of bloude stauched. And Iesus sayde: Who is it that touched me? When euery man denyed, Peter (and they that were wyth hym) sayde: After, the people thruste the and vexe the, and sayest thou who touched me? And Iesus sayd: Some bodye hath touched me. For I perceauethat vertue is gone out of me. When the woman sawe that she was not hpyd, she came tremblynge, and fell at hys fete, and tolde hym before all the people, for what cause she had touched hym, and howe she was healed immediatly. And he sayde vnto her: Doughter, be of good comforte * thy faythe hath saued the, go in peace.

Whyle he yet spake, there came one from the rulers of the Synagoges house, which sayde to hym thy daughter is dead, dyscuse not the Master. But when Iesus herde that worde, he answered the father of the damosell: * Feare not, beleue only, & she shalbe made whole. And when he came to the house he suffred no man to go in wyth hym, save Peter, James and Ihon, and the father and the mother of the mayden. Euery body wepte & sorowed for her. And he sayd Wepe not. The damosell is not dead, * but slepeth. And they laughed hym to scorne, knowynge that she was dead. And he thrust them all gyle, & caught her by the hande, and cryed sayenge: Mayde, aryse. And her spiete came agayne, and she rose straight waye. And he commaunded to geue her meate. And the father & the mother of her were astonied. But he warned them that they shulde tell no man, what was done.

The ix. Chapter. ✠

He sendeth out the twelue Apostles to preche Herodes heareth tell of hym. He seith b. m. men. he seith. b. loaves and two fishes, & dysciples chosse him to be the sonne of God. he transfigureth hym selfe vpon the mount. dynges rich the possessed, and teacheth hys dysciples to be lowly. They helpe bringe aunner, but he reproueth them.

Iesus called the *twelue together, & gaue the power and authoryte ouer all deuels, and that they myght heale dyscuses. And he sent them to preache the kyngdome of God, * and to heale the sycke, and he sayd vnto the: Take nothing to your iourney: neyther staffe nor scrippe neyther breade, * neyther money, neyther haue two coates: * whatsoeuer house ye enter into, there abyde, and thence departe. And whosoever wyll not receaue you, when ye go out of the cytie, shake of the very duste from your fete, for a testimony agaynst them. And they departed and went thowowe the townes, preachinge the Gospel, and healinge euery where.

* And Herode the Tetrarche heard of al that was done by hym, and doubted, because that it was sayd of some, that Ihon was rysen agayne from death: & of some, that Elias had appeared, & of some, that one of the olde prophetes was rysen agayne. And Herode sayde: Ihon haue I beheaded but who is this of whom I heare such thynges? And he desired to se hym.

And the Apostles returned and tolde hym al that they had done. * And he toke them, & went asyde into a solitary place, vnto the cytie, which is called Bethsaida. Whiche when the people knewe, they folowed hym. And he receaued the, and spake vnto them of the kyngdome of God, and healed them that had nede to be healed. And when the daye beganne to wexe awaye, then came the twelue and sayde vnto hym: sende the people awaye, that they maye go into the townes and nexte byllages and lodge, and get meat for we are here in a place of wyldernes. But he sayd vnto them: Geue ye them to eate. And they sayde: We haue no mo but fyue loaves and two fishes, excepte we shoulde go and bye meate for all this people. And they were about fyue. Men. And he sayd to hys dysciples: Cause them to syt downe by fyfties in a company. And they dyd so, and made them all to syt downe. And he toke the fyue loaves and the two fishes, and looked vp to heauen and blessed them and brake, & gaue to the dysciples, to set before the people. And they all dyd eat, & were satisfied. And ther was take vp of that remayned to them, twelue baskettes full of broken meate.

* And it fortuneth as he was alone prayenge hys dysciples were with hym, and he asked them sayenge: Who saye people that I am? They answered and sayd: Ihon Baptist. Some saye: Elias, and some saye that one of the olde prophetes is rysen. He sayde vnto them: But who saye ye that I am? Symon Peter answered and sayde: * thou art the Christ of God. And he warned and commaunded them that they shulde tell no man that thyng, sayenge: * the sonne of man muste suffre many thynges, and be reproued of the of the elders, and of þe preastes, & scribes, and be slayne and cyle agayne the thyrde daye.

And he sayde to the all, yf any man wyl come after me, let him deny him selfe, and take vp his crosse dayly, & folowe me. * For whosoever wyl saue his lyfe shall lose it. But whosoever dothe lose his lyfe for my sake, the same shall saue it.
For what anawrageth it a man yf he wyne þe whole worlde, and lose hym selfe, or runne in dammage of hym selfe? For whoso is ashamed of me, & of my wordes, of hym shall the sonne of man be ashamed, when he cometh in hym's matestye, and in the maiestye of hym's father, and of the holy angels. Tell you of a truthe: there be some standynge here, whiche shall not taste of death, tyll they se the kyngdome of God.

* And it fortuneth that aboute an. viii. dayes after these sayenges, he toke Peter and Jhon & James, and went vp into a mountayne to praye.
And as he prayed, the fashion of his countenance was chaunged, and hym's garment was whyte, & shone. And beholde there talked wyth hym two men, whiche were Moses and helias, þe appeared in the maiestye, and spake of hym's departynge whiche he shoulde ende at Jerusalem. But Peter and they that were wyth hym, were heuyn with sleepe. And when they awoke they sawe his matestye, and two men standynge wyth hym.

* And it chaunced as they departed fro hym, Peter sayde vnto Iesus Master, it is good be-rynge here for vs. Let vs make also thre tabernacles, one for the, & one for Moses, and one for helias (and wythe not what he sayde) whyle he thus spake, there came a cloude & ouershadowed them, and they feared when they were come into the cloude. And ther came a voyce out of þe cloude sayenge. This is my deare sonne, heare hym.

And as sone as the voyce was past, Iesus was founde alone. And they kept it close and told no man in those dayes, any of those thynges which they had seene. * And it chaunced that on the next daye, as they came downe from the hyll, muche people met hym. And beholde, a man of the company cryed oute, sayenge Master, I beseeche the beholde my sonne, for he is al that I haue, and se a spete taketh hym, and sodenly he cryeth, and teareth hym, that he someth a-gayne, and with much payne departeth fro hym.

When he hath sente hym, and * I besought thy discyples to cast hym oute, and they coulde not.

Jesus answered and sayd O fayneble and cro-ked nation, howe longe shall I be wyth you, and suffer you? Wrynge thy sonne hyther. As he was yet a comynge, the sende rent hym, and tare hym. And Iesus rebuked the vncleane spete, and healed the chyld, and deliuered hym to his father. * And they were amazed at the myghty type power of God.

But whyle they wondred euery one at all thynges whiche he dyd, he sayde vnto his discyples. Let these sayenges syncke downe into your eares. For it wyl come to passe that the sonne of man shall be deliuered into the handes of men.
* But they wyl not what that word ment, and it was hyd from them, that they vnderstode it not. And they feared to aske hym of that sayenge.

And ther entred a thought amonge them which of them shoulde be the greatest. When Iesus perceaued the thought of theyr heartes, * he toke a chyld and set hym harde by hym, and sayde vnto them. Whosoever receaueth this chyld in my name, receaueth me. * And whosoever receaueth me, receaueth hym that sent me. For he that is least amonge you all, the same shall be great.

And Jhon answered, and sayde: Master, we sawe one castynge oute deuils in thy name, and we forbad hym, because he foloweth not wyth vs. And Iesus sayd vnto hym: * forbyd ye hym not. For he that is not agaynst vs, is with vs.

And it fortuneth when the tyme was come, þe he shoulde be receaued vp, he set his face to go to Jerusalem, and sente messengers before hym.
And they went and entred into a cytie of the Sa-maritanes, to make ready for hym. And they wolde not receaue hym, because his face was as though he wolde go to Jerusalem. When hym's discyples, James & Jhon sawe this, they sayde: Lorde, wylte thou that we commaunde fyre to come downe from heauen and consume the, euen as helias dyd? Iesus turned about, and rebuked them, sayenge: Ye wote not what mance spete ye are of. For the sonne of man is not come to destroye mens lyues, but to saue them. And they went to another towne. * And it chaunced that as they were walkynge in the waye, a cer-tayne man sayde vnto hym. * I wyl folowe the whether soener thou wylte go. Iesus sayd vnto hym. Foxes haue holes, and byrdes of the ayre haue nestes, but the sonne of man hath not wher to laye hym's heade.

And he sayde vnto another: folowe me. And the same sayde Lorde, suffre me fyrst to go and sonne of peace be there, your peace shall rest vpon hym: for not, it shall turne to you agayne. And in the same house saye I will, eatynge and drynkyng such as they geue. For the labourer is worthy of his reward.

B Go not from house to house, and into whatsoever cytie ye entre, and they receaue you, eat such thynges as are set before you, and heale the sick that are therein, and saye vnto them: the kyngdom of God is come nyc vpon you. * But into whatsoever cytie ye enter, and they receaue you not, go your wayes out into the stretes of the same, and saye: euen the very duste of your cytie, which cleaueth on vs, do we wype of agaynst you: Notwithstandynge, be ye sure of this, that the kyngdome of God was come nyc vpon you. I say vnto you: that it shall be easer in that daye for Sodome, then for that cytie.

C * Wo vnto the Chorazin, wo vnto the Bethsaida. For yf the myracles had bene done in Tyre and Sidon, which haue ben done in you, they had (a greete whyle ago) repented of theyr synnes, spttynge in heer cloth and ashes. Neuertheless it shall be easer for Tyre and Sidon, at the iudgement, then for you. And thou Capernaum (whiche art exalted to heauen) shalt be thruste downe to hel. * He that heareth you, heareth me, and he that despyseth you, despyseth me: and he that despyseth me, despyseth hym that sent me.

And the lxx. turned agayne wyth lope, sayenge: Lorde, euen the verpe deuils are subdued to vs thowme thy name. And he sayd vnto the:

C * I sawe Satanas (as it had bene lychtynge) fallynge downe from heauen. * Behold, I geue vnto you power, to tread on serpentes and scorpions, and ouer all maner power of the enemye, and not synge shall hurte you. Neuertheless in this reioyce not, that the spretes are subdued vnto you: but reioyce, that your names are wyrtten in heauen.

B That same houre reioysed Iesus (in the holp) goost, and sayd I thanke the, O father, * Lorde of heauen and earth, for thou hast hyd these thynges from the wyse and prudent, and hast opened them vnto babes. Euen so father, for so pleased it the. * All thynges are geuen me of my father. * No man knoweth who the sonne is, but the father: and who the father is but the sonne, and he to whom the sonne will shewe hym.

And he turned to his disciples, & sayd secretly:

C * Happy are the eyes, which se the thynges that ye se. For I tell you, that many Prophetes and kynge haue desyred to se those thynges, which ye se, and haue not sene them, & to heare those thynges which ye heare & haue not heard them. And beholde, a certayne lawyer stode by and tempted hym, sayenge: * Master, what shall I do, to inheret eternall lyfe? He sayd vnto him: What is wyrtten in the lawe? Howe readest thou? And he answered and sayde: * Loue the Lorde thy God, wyth all thy herte, and wyth all thy soule, and wyth all thy strength, and wyth all thy mynde and thy neyghbour as thy selfe.

And he sayde vnto hym: Thou hast answered ryght. This do & thou shalt lyue. But he wyllynge to iustifye hym selfe, sayde vnto Iesus: And who is my neyghbour?

Iesus answered, and sayde: A certayne man descended from Ierusalem to Hierico, and fell amonge theues whiche robbed hym of his rayment, and wounded hym, and departed, leuynge hym halfe deade. And it chanced, that there came downe a certayne pcesse that same way, and when he sawe hym, he passed by. And lyke- wyse a Leuite, when he wente nyc to the place, came, and looked on hym, and passed by. But a certayne Samaritane, as he iourneyed, came vnto hym: and when he sawe hym, he had compassyō on hym, and went to, and bounde vpon his woundes, and pored in oyle and wyne, and set hym on his owne beast, and brought hym to a comen ynne, and made prouysyon for hym. And on the morowe, when he departed, he toke oute two pence, and gaue them to the host, and sayd vnto hym: Take care of hym: and whatsoever thou spendest more, whē I come agayne, I will recompense the. Whiche now of these thre, thynekest thou, was neyghbour vnto hym that fell amonge the theues? And he sayde: he that shewed mercy on hym. Then sayd Iesus vnto him: So, and do thou lyke wyse.

C It fortuneth that as they wente, he entred into a certayne towne. And a certayne woman named Martha, receaued hym into her house. And this woman had a syster, called Marce, whiche also sat at Iesus fete, and hearde his word. But Martha was combred about much seruyng, and stode and sayde: Lorde dost thou not care, that me syster hath left me to serue alone? Wpd her therfore, that she helpe me. And Iesus answered, and sayde vnto her: Martha, thou art carefull, and troubled about many thynges, verely one is nedefull. Marce hath chosen the good parte, whiche shall not be taken awaye from her.

The xi. Chapter.

C He teacheth byn dyssiples to praye, dyssueth agaynst the dyrell, and rebuketh the blasphemous Pharisees. He receyue the quene of syennes and tokens. He eateth wyth the wharfe, and reproveth the pharisees of the wharfe, & pharisees.

And it fortuneth as he was prayenge in a certayne place: whē he ceased, one of his disciples sayd vnto hym: Lorde, teache vs to praye, as thou also taughtest thy disciples. And he sayd vnto the: When ye praye, saye: * O our father whiche art in heauen, halowed be thy name. Thy kyngdome come. Thy wyl be fulfilled, euen in earth also as it is in heauen. Our daylye breade geue vs this daye. And forgue vs our synnes. For euen we forgue euery man that trespasseth vs. And leade vs not into temptation. But deliuer vs from euell.

And he sayd vnto them: * If any of you shall haue a frende, and shall go to hym at mydnyght and saye vnto hym: frende, lend me thre loaues, for a frende of myne is come oute of the waye to me, and I haue nothyng to set before hym, and he wythin answere, and saye: trouble me not, the doore is shute, and my chyldren are with me in the chambere, I can not ryse, and geue the. I saye vnto you, though he wyll not aryse, and geue hym: yet because of hys importunytie he wyll ryse, and geue hym as many as he nedeth. And I saye vnto you, * aske, and it shalbe geuen you. Seeke, and ye shall fynde. Knocke, and it shalbe opened vnto you. For euery one that asketh, receaueth and he that seeketh, fyndeth: and vnto hym that knocketh, shall it be opened. If the sonne shal aske breade, of any of you, that is a father, wyl he geue him a stone? Or yf he aske fysh, wyl he for fysh geue hym a serpent? Or yf he aske an egge, wyl he offer hym a scorpion? Yf ye then beynge euell, ca geue good gyftes vnto your chyldren, howe muche more shall poure father of heauen geue the holy sperte to the that desyre it of hym. ¶

¶ And he was castynge oute a deuell, and the same was domine. And whē he had cast oute the deuell, the domine spake, and the people wōdred. But some of them sayde: * he casteth oute deuells thowowe Beelzebub the chefe of the deuells. And other tempted hym and requyred of hym a sygne from heauen. But he knowynge they thought, sayde vnto them. Euery kyngdome deuyded agaynst it selfe, is desolate, and one house doth fall vpon another. If Sathan also be deuyded agaynst hym selfe, howe shall hys kyngdome endure? Because ye saye, that I cast out deuells thowowe Beelzebub. If I by the helpe of Beelzebub caste oute deuells, by whose helpe do your chyldren cast them out? Therfore shall they be poure iudges. But yf I wyth the finger of God cast out deuells, no doubt ye kyngdome of God is come vpon you.

¶ When a stronge man armed, watcheth his house, the thynges that he possideth are in peace. But when a stronger the he cometh vpon hym, and ouercometh hym, he taketh from hym all hys harnes (wherein he trusted) and deuydeth hys goodes. He that is not wyth me, is agaynst me. And he that gathereth not wyth me, scattereth abroade.

¶ When the vncleane sperte is gone oute of a man, he walketh through drye places, seekynge rest. And whē he fyndeth none, he sayeth I wyl retorne agayne vnto my house, whence I came out. And when he cometh, he fyndeth it swept and garnished. The goeth he and taketh to him seuen other spertes worse then hym selfe, & they enter in and dwel there. And the ende of that mā is worse then the begynnynge.

And it fortuneth, that as he spake these thynges, a certayne woman of the companie lyft vp her voyce, and sayde vnto hym. Happy is the wombe that bare the, and the pappes whiche gaue the sucke. But he said Yee, happy are they that heare the worde of God, and kepe it. ¶

nietes, so shall also the sonne of man be to this nation. * The quene of the South shall ryse at the iudgement, with the me of thys nation, and cōdempe them: for she came from the vtmooste partes of the earthe, to heare the wysedome of Salomon. And beholde, a greater then Salomon is here. The men of Ninue shall ryse at the iudgement wyth thys nation, and shal cōdempe them for they were broughte to repentaunce, by the preachynge of Jonas. And beholde a greater then Jonas is here.

¶ No man lyghteth a candel, and putteth it in a preuye place, neyther vnder a busshell, but on a candeltycke, that they whiche come in may see the lyght. * The lyght of the body, is the eye. Therfore when thyne eye is synge, all thy body shalbe full of lyght. But yf thyne eye be euell, thy body also shalbe full of darknes. Take hede therfore, that the lyght whiche is in the, be not darkenes. If all thy body therfore be cleare haunge no parte darke, then shall it all be full of lyght, euen as when a candell doth lyght the wythbrighnes. ¶

And as he spake, a certayne Pharyse besought hym to dyne wyth hym and Jesus went in and sat downe to meate. When the Pharyse sawe it, he was wroth, that he had not synge washed before dyner. And yf Lorde sayd vnto hym: * Howe do ye Pharyses, make cleane the oute syde of the cuppe, and the platter, but poure inward parte is full of rauenyng & wychednes. Ye fooles, dyd not he that made that whiche is wythout make that whiche is wythin also? Neuerthelesse, * geue almoose of that ye haue, and beholde, all thynges are cleane vnto you. * But wo vnto you Pharyses, for ye tyth mynte and rewe and all maner herbes, and passe ouer iudgement and the loue of God. These ought ye to haue done, and yet not to leaue yf other vndone.

¶ Wo vnto you Pharyses for ye loue the vppermooste seates in the synagoges, & grettynge in the market. Wo vnto you Scribes & Pharyses ye hypocrites, for ye are as graues whiche appeare not, and the men that walke ouer them, are not ware of them. Then answered one of the lawyers, and sayd vnto hym: After thus sayenge, thou puttest vs to rebuke also. And he sayd. * Wo vnto you also ye lawyers, for ye lade men with burchens, whiche they be not able to beare, and ye poure selues touche not the packes with one of your spngers. Wo vnto you * ye buyde the sepulchres of the prophetes, and poure fathers kyled them, trulpe ye beare wytnes, that ye allowe the dedes of your fathers, for they kyled the, and ye buyde they sepulchres. Therfore sayde the wysedome of God. * I wyl sende them Prophetes and Apostles, and some of them they shall slaye, and persecute: that the bloude of all Prophetes which is shedd from the begynnynge of the world, maye be requyred of thys generation, from the bloude of * Abel, vnto yf bloude of zachary, which perished betwene the aulter & the temple. Clerelye I saye vnto you: it shalbe requyred of thys nation.

¶ Wo vnto you lawyers, for ye haue taken awaye way þe kepe of knowledge, ye entred not in your selues, and them that came in, ye forbad. When he thus spake vnto them, the lawyers and the Pharisees beganne to were busye aboute hym, and capcyoullie to aske hym many thynges, layenge wayte for hym, and sekynge to catche some thyng oute of hys mouth, wherby they myght accuse hym.

The. xii. Chapter.

The leuen of the Pharisees, whiche comforteth his disciples agaynst persecucion, warneth the to beware of couetousnes, by the similitude of a certayne ryche man, he wil not haue the to hange byp eathen thynges, but to watche, and to be readye agaynst his comynge.

And there gathered together an innumerable multitude of people (in so muche that they trode one another) he beganne to saye vnto hys disciples. If ye of all * beware of the leuen of the Pharisees, whiche is hypocrysy. * For there is nothyng couered, that shall not be vncouered, neither hye that shall not be knowne. * If ye wyl chynge ye haue spoken in darkness, shall be made in the lychte. And that whiche ye haue hid in the care, euen in secrete places shall be preached on the toppe of the houses. * I saye vnto you, myntrendes, be not afrayed of the that kille the bodye and after that haue nomore that they can do. But I wyl shewe you, whome ye shall feare. For hym whiche after he hath kylled, hath power to caste into hell. Yee, I saye vnto you, feare him. Are not fyue sparowes bought for two farthynges? And not one of the is forgotten of God. Also are the very heeres of your head are all nombred. Feare not therfore, ye are moze of value then many sparowes.

I saye vnto you, euery one: whosoever confelleth me before men, hym shall the sonne of man knowe also before the angels of God. And whoso denyeth me before men, shall be denyed before the angels of God. * And whosoever speaketh a worde agaynst the sonne of man, it shall be forgiven hym. * But vnto hym that blasphemeth the holye gooste, it shall not be forgiven. When they byng you vnto the synagoges, & vnto þe rulers, and offycers, take ye no thought howe, or what thyng ye shal answere, or what ye shall speake. For the holye goost shall teache you in the same houre, what ye ought to saye.

One of the company sayd vnto hym: Master, speake to my brother, that he deuide the enherytaunce wyth me. And he sayde vnto hym: Man, who made me a iudge, or a deuyder, ouer you? And he sayde vnto the that he deuyde & beware of couetousnes. For no man lyfe standeth in þe aboundaunce of þe thynges whiche he posselleth. And he put forth a sympletyde vnto them, sayenge: The grounde of a certayne ryche man brought forth plentyful frutes, and he thoughte wythin hym selfe, sayenge what shall I do: because I haue no towne, where to bestowe my frutes? And he sayde. Thus wyl I do. I wyl destroye my barnes, and buylde greater, & therein wyl I gather all my goodes that are growen vnto me, and I wyl saye to my soule: Soule, * Thou haste muche goodes layed by in store for many yeres, take thyne ease, eate, drynke, and be mery. But God sayd vnto hym: * Thou fool, this nyght wyl they fetch away thy soule agayne from the. * Then whose shal those thynges be, which thou hast prouided. So is it with hym that gathereth ryches to hym selfe, and is not ryche toward God.

And he spake vnto his disciples: Therfore I saye vnto you: * Take no thought for your lyfe, what ye shall eate: neyther for the bodye what ye shal put on. The lyfe is moze then meat and the bodye is moze then raymente. Consyder the rauens, for they neyther sowe nor reape, which neyther haue store house nor barn, and God feedeth them. How much are ye better then feathered foules?

* Whiche of you (with his takynge thought) can adde to hys stature one cubyte? If ye then be not able to do that thinge which is least, why take ye thought for the remnant? Consyder the lylies how they growe. They labour not, they spyne not: and yet I saye vnto you, that Salomon in all hys royaltie, was not clothed lyke one of these. If God so cloth the grasse (whiche to daye in the felde, and to morowe is caste into the fornaie) howe muche moze wyl he clothe you, O ye of lytle fayth. And aske not ye what ye shall eate, or what ye shall drynke, neyther clymyne ye vp an hye. For all suche thynges do the heathen people of the worlde seke for. Your father knoweth, that ye haue nede of such thynges. Wherefore * seke ye after the kyngdome of God, and al these thynges shal be mynysshid vnto you. * Feare not lytell floske for it is your fathers pleasure to geue you the kyngdome.

* Sell that ye haue, and geue alines. And prepare you bagges, whiche were not olde, euen a treasure, that faileth not in heauen, where no thefe cometh, neyther mothe corrupteth. For where your treasure is, there wyl your hearte be also. * Let your lynes be grynne aboute, and your lychtes brennyng (in your handes,) and ye your selues lyke vnto men, that wayte for the Lord, when he wyl retorne from the weddyng: that whan he cometh and knocketh they maye open vnto hym immediatly. Happy are those seruauntes, whome the Lord (when he cometh) shall fynde wakynge. Clerelye I saye vnto you, that he shal gyde hym selfe, and make them to sytte downe to meate, and walke by, and mynster vnto them. And yf he come in the seconde watche, yee yf he come in the thyrde watche, and fynde them so, happye are those seruauntes. This vnderstande, that yf the good man of the house knewe what houre the thefe wolde come, he wolde surely wathe, and not suffer his house to be broken by. * Wepeth therfore readye also, for the sonne of man wyl come at an houre when ye thynke not.

Peter sayde vnto him: * Master, tellest thou this sympletyde vnto vs or to all men? And þe Lord sayd whome his lord shal make ruler ouer his householde, to geue them theyr due of meate in due season: * happye is that seruaunte, whome hys lozde whan he cometh, shall fynde so doynge.

Of a truthe I saye vnto you that he wyl make hym ruler ouer all that he hath. But and yf the seruaunte saye in his herte: * My lordc wyl de-ferre hys comynge ( and shall begyn to smyte the seruautes and maydens, and to eate and drynke, and to be drunken ) the lozde of that seruaunte wyl come in a dape whan he thynketh not, and at an houre, whan he is not ware, and wyl hewe hym in peeces, and geue hym hys re-warde wyth the vnbelueys.

* The seruaunt that knewe hys masters wyl and prepared not hym selfe, neyther dyd accordunge to hys wyl, shall be beate with many stry-pes. But he that knewe not and dyd comynge thynges worthy of stryppes, shall be beaten wyth fewe stryppes. For vnto whom soeuer muche is geuen, of him shall be muche requyred, and to whom men haue comyncted muche, of hym wyl they aske the more. I am come to sende fyre on the earth, and what is my desyre, but that it were al ready kindled? Not wythstandynge I muste be baptysed wyth a baptysme: & howe am I pay-ned, tyll it be ended? Suppose ye y I am come to sende peace on the earth? I tell you naye, but rather deuysion. For from hence forth there shall be fyre in one house deuoyded, thre agaynst two and two agaynst thre. The father shall be deuyded agaynst the sonne, and y sonne agaynst the father. The mother agaynst the daughter, and the daughter agaynst the mother. The mother in lawe agaynst her daughter in lawe, and the daughter in lawe, agaynst her mother in lawe.

He sayde also to the people: * whan ye se a cloud ryse out of the west, straight way ye saye: there cometh a shower, and so it is. And whan ye se the southe wynde blowe, ye saye, it wyl be hote, & it cometh to passe. Ye pprophete, ye can discerne the outward appareance of the skye and of the earth but howe happeneth it, that ye can not skyll of thys? Yee, and why iudge ye not of your selues what is ryght?

* When thou goest with thyne aduersary to the ruler, as thou art in the waye, geue dyligēce that thou mayest be deliuered from him, least he brynge the to the iudge, and the iudge deliuer the to the tapler, and the taplar cast the into pre-son. I tell the, thou shalt not departe thence, tyl thou hast made good the vtmost myte.

The xiiij. Chapter.

Of the Galileans whom I plate serue, and of those that dwelt in Siloe. The sympletye of the figge tree.
Whiche beareth the syncke woman. The parable of the mustarde seede and leuen. Howe there was the kyngdome of heuē reproued by herode and Ierusalem.

Her were present at the same season certayne men that shewed hym of the Galyleans, whose bloude Pylate had myngled wyth theyr owne sacryfyce. And Iesus answered and sayd vnto them. Suppose ye that these Galyleans were greater synners the al the other Galileans, because they suffered suche punysshment?
I tell you naye but excepte ye repent: ye shall all lyke wyse perishe. Of those xviii. vpon whiche the towre in Siloe fell, and slewe them, thynke ye that they were synners aboue all men that dwelt in Ierusalem? I tel you naye: But except ye repent ye shall all lyke wyse perishe.

He tolde also this sympletye: a certayne man had a figge tree planted in his vyneyard and he came and sought frute thereon, and found none. Then sayde he to the dresser of hys vyneparde: beholde, this thre yere haue I come, and sought frute on this figge tree, and fynde none: cut it downe, why combyeth it the ground? and he answered and sayde vnto hym: Lordc, let it alone thys yere also, tyll I dygge round about it, and donge it, to se whether it wyl beare frute and yf it beare not then, after that shallte thou cut it downe. And he taught in one of theyr synagoges on the Sabbath dayes. And beholde, there was a woman whiche had a spiete of infy-myte. xviij. yeres, and was bowed togeather and coude in no wyse lyfte vp her heade. When Iesus sawe her, he called her to hym, and sayde vnto her: woman, thou arte deliuered from thy dysease. And he layd his handes on her, and im-mediatly, she was made straight, and glorified God. And the ruler of the Synagoge answered with indignacion (because thit Iesus had healed on the Sabbath daye) & sayde vnto the prople: There are syxe dayes, in which men oughte to worke, in them come that ye maye be healed, and not on the Sabbath daye.

But the Lozde answered hym & sayde: Thou pprophete, dothe not reche one of you on the Sab-both daye, & loose hys oxe or his asse fro the stall and leade hym to y water? And ought not thys daughter of Abraham, whome Sathan hath bounde ( lo. xviij. yeres ) be loosed from thys bond on the Sabbath daye? And whē he thus sayde, al hys aduersaries were ashamed, and al the people reioysed on al the excellēt dedes that were done by hym.

Then sayd he what is the kyngdome of God lyke? or wherto shall I compare it? * It is lyke a grayne of mustarde seede, whiche a man toke, & sowed in hys garden, and it grewe and wared a greate tree, and the foules of y ayre made nestes in the braunches of it.

And agayne he sayde, whereunto shall I p-ken the kyngdome of God? * It is lyke leuen, whiche a woman toke, and hyd in thre peckes of meale, tyll all was leuened. And he went throrowe all cyties and townes, teachynge and tozneyng towarde Ierusalem. Then sayde one vnto hym. Lordc, are there fewe that be sauēd?
And he sayd vnto hym. Arise to enter in at the the straght gate: for many ( I saye vnto you ) wyl seeke to enter in, & shall not be able. Whan the good man of the house is rylen vp, and hath shut to the doze, and ye begynne to stande with-oute, and to knocke at the doze, sayenge: Lordc, Lordc, open vnto vs, and he shall answere, and saye vnto you: ( I knowe you not whēce ye are ) Then shall ye begyn to saye, we haue eate & dronken in thy presence, and thou hast taught in our streets. And he shall saye: I tell you, I knowe you not you not whence ye are: departe from me all ye þ wozke iniquitie. There shalbe weeping and gnaulynge of teth, when ye shall se Abraham and Isahac, and Jacob, and all the prophetes in the kyngdom of God, and ye pour selues thrust out. * And they shall come from the east & from the west, and from the north and from the south and shall sit downe in the kyngdome of God.

And beholde, * ther are last, which shalbe fyrst.
And there are fyrst, whych shalbe last.

G The same daye came there certayne of þ Pha rises, and sayd vnto hym: get the out of the way and departe hence: for Herode wyl kyll the. And he sayde vnto them: Goe and tell that fore, he holde, I cast out deuels, and heale the people, to daye and to morowe, and the thyrde day I make an ende. Neuerthelesse, I muste walke to daye, and to morowe, and the daye folowynge: for it can not be that a Prophete perishe any other where, saue at Ierusalem.

Ierusalem, Ierusalem, whych kyllest the Prophetes, and stonest them that are sente vnto the: howe oft wolde I haue gathered thy chyld dren together, as a byrde doth gather her yonge vnder her wynges, and ye wolde not. Beholde, poure habytacyon is lefte vnto pou desolate. I tell you, ye shall not se me vntyll the tyme come that ye shall saye. * blessed is he that commeth in the name of the Lorde.

The xliii. Chapter. ✠

¶ Jesus eateth with the Pharisee healeth the dropsie þout the Sab. oth, teacheth to be lowe, telleth of the great supper, and warneth them that will folowe hym to take thei accomptes befoze, what it wyl cost them:
The sale of the earth.

And it chaunced, that he wente into the house of one of the chefe Phari ses to eate breade on the Sabbath daye, and they watched hym. And beholde, there was a certayne man before hym, whych had the dropsie. And Jesus answered, and spake vnto the lawers and Pha rises, sayenge: * Is it lawfull to heale on the Sabboth day? And they helde thei peace. And he toke hym, and healed hym, and let hym go, & answered them, sayenge: Whiche of you shall haue an asse or an oxe fallen into a pyt, and wil not straght wape pull hym oute on the Sab both daye? And they coude not answere hym agayne to these thynges.

He put forth also a synplytude to the gastes when he marked how they pleased to the hyest rowmes, and sayde vnto them: When thou art bydden of any mā to a wedding, sit not downe in the hyest rowme, lest a more honorable man then thou be bydden of hym, and he (that hadde hym an. the) come, and saye to the: geue thy man rowme, and thou than begyn wyth shame to take þ lowest rowme. But rather when thou art bidden, go and sit in the lowest rowme that when he that had the, commeth he may saye vn to the: * frende sit vp hyer. Then shalt þ haue worship in the presence of them that sit at meat with the. * For whosoever exalteth hym selfe, shalbe brought low. And he that humbleth hym selfe, shalbe exalted. ✠

Then sayde he also to hym, that had desyzed hym to dyner: ✠ When thou makest a dyner or a supper, call not thy frendes, nor thy brethren, nether thy kynsmen, nor thy ryche neyghbours lest they also byd the agayn, and a recompense be made the. But when thou makest a feaste, call the poore, the feble, the lame, and the bynde and thou shalt be happy, for they can not recom pense the. But thou shalt be recompensed at the resurreccyon of the iuste men.

When one of them (that sat at meate also) hearde these thynges, he sayd vnto hym: happy is he that eateth bread in the kyngdome of God.

Then sayde he vnto him. ✠ A certayne mā ordyned a great supper, and bad many, & sente his seruaunt at supper tyme, to say to them that were bydden, come: for all thynges are now rea dy. And they all at once began to make excuse.
The fyrste sayde vnto hym: I haue bought a farne, and I must nedes go and se it, I praye the haue me excused. And another sayde: I haue bought fyue yocke of oren, and I go to proue the, I praye the haue me excused. And another sayde: I haue maryed a wyfe, and therefore I ca not come. And the seruaunt returned & brought hys mayster worde agayne therof.

Then was the good man of the house dys pleased, and sayd to his seruaunt: Go out quyk ly into the stretes and quarters of the cytie, and byrge in hyther the poore, and the feble, and þ halte, and the bynde. And the seruaunte sayde: Lorde, it is done, as thou hast commaunded, and yet there is rowme. And the Lorde sayde to the seruaunt: Go out vnto the hye wayes & hedges, and * compell the to come in, that my house may

¶ And he sayde: A certayne mā had two son-nes, and the yonger of them sayde vnto the father: Father, geue me the portion of the goodes yonger sonne had gathered al that he had together, he toke hys iorney into a farr countre, and there he wasted hys goodes wyth ryotous lyuynge. And whan he had spent all, there arose a greate dearth in all that lande, and he began to lacke, and went, and came to a ctyzen of y same countrey, and he sent hym to hys farme, to kepe swyne. And he wolde fayne haue fylled his bely

¶ Then he came to hym selfe, and sayde: howe arose, and came to his father. ¶ But whē he was had compassyon and ranne, and fel on his necke brother was in the felde: and when he came and drewen ye to the house, he heard mynstrells and daunsynge, and called one of hys seruautes, & asked, what those thynges mente. And he sayde vnto hym: thy brother is come, and thy father hath kylled the fat caulfe, because he hath re-ceaued hym safe and sounde. And he was angry and wolde not go in. Then came his father out, and entreated hym. He answered and sayde to hys father: Lo, these many yeres haue I done

The. xvi. Chapter.

The parable of the two bad manen. Not one tittle of Gods worde shall perishe. Of the ryche man, and of the poore Lazarus.

¶ And he sayde also vnto hys discyples ¶ There was also a certayne ryche mā, whiche had a steward, & the same was accused vnto hym that he had wasted hys goodes. And he called hym, and sayde vnto hym: howe is it, þe I heare this of thee? Geue accomptes of thy stewardshyppe: for thou mayest be no longer steward.
The steward sayde wythin hym selfe: what shall I do, for my master taketh away from me the stewardshyppe. I can not bygge, & to begge I am ashamed. I wote what to do, that when I am put out of the stewardshyppe, they may receauie me into theyr houses.

¶ So when he had called all hys masters detters together, he sayd vnto the fyrst: howe much owest thou vnto my master? And he sayde: an hundred connes of oyle. And he sayd vnto hym: take thy byll, and syt downe quychlye, & wyte fiftye. Then sayde he to another: howe muche owest thou? And he sayde: an hundred quarters of wheate. He sayde vnto hym: Take thy byll, & wyte foure scoore. And the Lorde commendeth the vnjust steward, because he had done wyse-ly. For the chyldren of thys worlde are in theyr nacpon, yfther then the chyldren of lyght. And I say vnto you: make you frendes of the vnyghteous Mammon, that when ye shal haue nece, they may receaue you into euerlastynge haby-tacions. ¶ ¶ He that is fapthfull in y whiche is least, is fapthfull also in much. And he that is vnyghtheous in the least, is vnyghtheous also in much. So then, yf ye haue not bene fapthfull in the vnyghtheous Mammon, who wyl beleue you in that whiche is true? And yf ye haue not bene fapthfull in another mannes bulpyng, who shall geue you that whiche is your owne? ¶ No seruaunt can serue two masters: for ether he shall hate the one, and loue the other, or elles he shall leane to the one, and despyse the other. Ye can not serue God and Mammon.

The xviii. Chapter.

The teachynges be seynt in prynces continual pe of the Pharise and the Publicane. The kyngdome of God belongeth vnto chyldren. Christe answered the ruler, and promysed reward vnto all such as suffer losse for his sake, and folowe hym. The blinde man is restored to hys syght.

And he put forth a parable vnto the synnyng men ought * alwayes to praye, and not to be weery, sayenge: Ther was in a certayne cytie a iudge, whych feared not God, ne-ther regarded man. And there was a certayne wydowe in the same cytie, & she came vnto hym sayenge: auenge me of myne aduersarye. And he wolde not for a whyle. But afterwarde he sayd wythin hym selfe: though I feare not God, nor care for man, yet because thys wydowe is importune vpon me I wyll auenge her, lest she come at the last and ryle on me. And the Lorde sayd: heare what the vnyghteous iudge sayeth. And shall not God auenge his elect, whych crye daye and nyght vnto hym? yee. though he deferre the I tel you, that he wyll auenge the, & that quickly. * Neuerthelesse, whē the sonne of man cometh, shall he fynde sayth on the earth?

And he tolde thys parable vnto certayne which trusted in the selues, that they were per-fyte, and despyled other. Two men went vpon to the temple to praye: the one a Pharise, & the other a Publicane. The Pharise stode & prayed thus wythin hym selfe: God, I thanke the, that I am not as other men are, extorsioners, vniust aduouterers, or as thys Publicane. I fast twyle in the weke, * I geue tythe of all that I possesse. And the Publicane standynge as farre of, wolde not lyft vp hys eyes to heauen, but smote vpon hys brest, sayenge: God be merciful to me a synner, I tel you, thys man departed home to hys house iustified, more then the other. * For every one exalteth hym selfe, shall be brought lowe. And he humbled hym selfe, shall be exalted.

They brought vnto hym also yonge chyldren, that he shoulde touche them. When his discyples sawe it, they rebuked them. But Jesus (whan he had called the vnto hym) sayd: Suffre chyldren to come vnto me, and forbode them not. For of such is the kyngdome of God. Cle- rely I saye vnto you: whosoever receaueth not the kyngdome of God * as a chyld, shall not en- ter therein. * And a certayne ruler asked hym, sayenge: Good master: what ought I to do, to obtayne eternall lyfe? Jesus sayde vnto hym: Why callest thou me good? None is good, saue God onely. Thou knowest the commaundemē-tes. * Thou shalt not committe aduoutre, thou shalt not kyll, thou shalt not steale, thou shalt not beare false witness, honoure thy father and thy mother. And he sayde all these haue I kept from my yowth vp. Whē Jesus hearde that, he sayde vnto hym: Yet thou lackest one thyng.

* Sell all that thou hast and dystribute vnto the poore, and thou shalt haue treasure in heauē and come, folowe me. Whan he hearde thys, he was sorowful for he was very ryche.

Whan Jesus sawe that he was sorowful, he sayd: * with what difficultie shall they that haue mo- ny, enter into the kyngdome of God: it is easer for a camel to go thorow a nedels eye, then for a ryche mā to enter into the kyngdome of God. And they that herde it, sayd: And who can then be saued. And he sayd: * The thynges which are vnpowable wyth men, are possyble wyth God.

Then Peter sayd: * Lo, we haue forsaken all and folowed the. he sayde vnto them: Clerely I say vnto you: there is no man that hath forsake house, ether father or mother, ether brethren, or wyfe, or chyldren (for the kyngdome of Goddes sake) whych shall not receaue much more in this world, & in the world to come, lyfe euerlastyng.

Jesus toke vnto hym the twelue, & sayde vnto them: * Beholde, we go vp to Ierusalem, and all shall be fulfilled, that are wyrtten by the Prophetes of the sonne of man. For he shall be deliuered vnto the Gentyls, and shall be mocked and spytfully entreated, and spytte on. and when they haue scourged hym, they wyll putte hym to death. * And the thyrde daye he shall a- ryse agayn. * And they vnderstode none of these thynges. And thys sayenge was hydde from them, so that they perceaued not the thynges whych were spoken.

And it came to passe, that as he was come npe vnto hierico, a certayne blinde man sat by the waye syde beggynge. And when he herd the people passe by, he asked what it meante. And they sayde vnto hym: that Jesus of Nazareth passed by. And he cryed, sayeng: Jesu thou sonne of Dauid, haue mercye on me. And they whych went before, rebuked hym, that he shoulde holde hys peace. But he cryed so much the more: * thou sonne of Dauid haue mercye on me. And Jesus stode styll, and commaunded hym to be brought vnto hym. And whē he was come nere, he asked hym, sayenge: what wylte thou that I do vnto the? And he sayd: Lord, that I maye receaue my syght. And Jesus sayde vnto hym: receaue thy syght thy faith hath saued the. And immediat- ly he receaued his syght, and folowed hym, pray- synge God. And all the people, when they sawe it, gaue prayse vnto God. I came downe hastely: & receaued him ioyfully.

And whē they sawe it, they al grudged, sayeng:

And zache stode forth, and sayde vnto the Lorde beholde Lord, the halfe of my goodes I geue to the poore, and yf I haue done any man wronge, I restore hym foure folde. Iesus sayde vnto hym: thys daye is heald happened vnto thys house, because that he also is become the chylde of Abraham. * For the sonne of man is come to seke, & to save that whych was lost. I

And as they herde these thynges he added thereto a parable, because he was nye to Jerusalem, and because they thought, that the kyngdome of God shulde shortly appere. He sayde therfoze: * a certayne noble man went into a to them: Occupye tyl I come. But his chylde dated hym, & sent a message after hym, sayeng: We wyll not haue thys man to rapgne ouer vs.

And it came to passe, that when he had recea-ued his kyngdome, he returned, & commaunded these seruauntes to be called vnto hym, to whō he had geuen the money to wyt howe muche ehe sayde vnto hym: wel thou good seruaunte: because thou hast bene fapthfull in a very ltytel thyng, haue thou authorite ouer ten cyties.

And another came sayenge: Lorde, thy pounde hath made fyue poude. And to the same he said be thou also ruler ouer fyue cyties.

And another came sayeng: Lord, beholde here is thy pounde, whych I haue kept in a napkin: for I feared the, because thou art a strait. mā: thou takest vp that thou laydest not downe, & thus spoken, he proceeded forth, taking his iour-ney, to go vp to Jerusalem. I

* And it fortunied when he was come nye to Bethphage & Bethany, besydes þ mount which is called Oluet, he sent tow of his disciples, say-enge go ye into the towne, whych is ouer agaynst you into the whych, as lone as ye are come, uer man sat. Loose hym, & byngc hym hether.

And yf any man aske you, why do ye loose hym thus shall ye saye vnto hym. The Lorde hath nede therof.

They that were sent, wet they way, & fōude euen as he hadde sayde vnto them. And as they were a losyng the colte the owners therof sayd vnto the: why lose ye the colte? And they sayde for þ Lord hath nede of hym. And they brought hym to Iesus, and caste they raymente on the colte, & set Iesus thereon. And as he wente, they spredde they clothes in the wape.

And when he was nowe come nye to the goynge downe of the mount Olucte, the whole multitude of the disciples began to reioyce, & to praple God with a loude voyce for al the myra-cles that they had sene, sayeng: * blessed be the kyng that cometh in the name of the Lorde: prace in heauen, & gloze in the hyst. And some of the Pharises of the company sayd vnto him Master rebuke thy disciples. He sayd vnto the I tel you, that yf these holde they peace, * then shall the stones crye.

* And when he was come neare, he behelde the cytie, and wept on it sayenge If thou haddest known those thynges which belonge vnto thy peace, euen in this thy day, thou wouldest take hede. But nowe are they hydde from thine eyes. For the dayes shall come vnto the, * that & make the ene wyth the grounde & thy chylde the one stone vpon another because thou know-west not the tyme of thy visitacion.

* And he went into the temple, & beganne to caste out them that solde therein, and them that bought, sayenge vnto them: It is writen * my house is the house of prayer, but ye haue made it a denne of thenes: And he taught dayly in the

and the chefe of the people wente aboute to de-

For al the people stakke by him whē they herde

And when the tyme was come he sent a seruaunt to the husbandmen, that they shoulde geue hym of the fruite of the vyneparde. And they be-

And agayne, he sente the thyrde also, and hym they wounded, and caste him out. Then sayd the Lord of the vyneparde: what shall I doe? For seue had her to wyfe. Jesus answered and maye wyue, and are marryed but they whiche shal be counted worthy of that worlde and the

(of these thynges which ye se) there shall not be lefte one stone vpon another, that shall not be throwe downe. And they asked him saye: Master, when shall these thynges be, & what sygne wyll ther be when suche thynges shall come to passe? And he said: take hede, that ye be not de-ceayd. For manye shall come in my name, & saye that they are Christe: and theye draweth neare. Followe ye not them therfore. But when ye heare of warres and sedicions be not afrayd. For these thynges must first come to passe, but the ende foloweth not by and by. Then sayde he vnto them: Nacion shall rise agaynst nacion and kyngdome agaynst kyngdome, and greete earthquakes shall be in all place, and hunger, & pestilence & fearful thynges. And great sygnes shall ther be from heauen.

But before al these, they shall lave handes on you, and perscute you, delivertyng you vnto the synagoges & into prison, & shall byrnyng you vnto kynges & rulers for my names sake: And this shall chaunce you for a testimoniall. Be at a sure poynt therfore in your hertes, not to sturpe before. What ye shall answer: for I wyll gyve you a mouthe & wysedome, where agaynst al your aduersaries: shall not be able to speake nor resist. Moreover ye shall be betray-

And when ye se Jerusalem beseged wyth an host, then be sure that the desolacyon of the same is nye. Then let them which are in Jerusalem, fflye to the mountaynes. And let them which are in the myddell of it, departe out. And let not them that are in other countries, enter therein. For these be the dayes of vengeance, that all thynges which are wyrtten maye be fulfilled. But wo vnto them that be wyth chylde, and to them that gyve sucke in those dayes: for there shall be great trouble in the lande, and whateouer all this people. And they shall fall thorow the edge of the swerde, and shall be led awaye captiue into all nations. And Jerusalem shall be troden downe of the gentyls, vntill the tyme of the gentyls be fulfilled.

And there shall be sygnes in the soure, and in the moone, and in the starres and in the earth: the people shall be at theyr wyrttes ende, thorow dyspayre. They see and the water shall roare, and myennes hertes shall saye them for feare, and for loking after those thynges which shall come on the earth. For the powers of heauen shall moue. And then shall they se the sonne of man come in a cloude wyth power and great gloire. When these thynges begynne to come to passe: then loke vp, and lyfte vp your heades for your redemption draweth nye.

And he shewed them a similitude: beholde the figge tree, and al the trees when they shote forth theyr buddes ye se & know of your owne selues that sommer is then nye at hand. So ly-ke wyll also (when ye se these thynges come to passe) be sure, that the kyngdome of God is nye. Cleerly I saye vnto you: this generacion shall not passe, till all be fulfilled. Heauen and earth shall passe but my wordes shall not passe.

Take hede to your selues lest at any tyme your hertes be overcome with surfetyng and drunkennes and cares of this lyfe, and so the day come vpon you vnwares. For as a snare shall it come on al them that dwell on the face of the whole earth: watch ye therfore continu-

In the day tyme, he taughte in the temple: and at nyghte, he wente out, and abode in the mount that is called Olivet. And all the pro-

The xxii. Chapter.

Christ is betrayed. They rate the Passer lamb. The institution of the sacrament. They streue who shalbe greater. He reboueth them. He prayeth three times vnto the fader. They take hym and byrnyng hym to the byr-den house. Peter denieth hym thrise, & they byr-den hym before the counsell.

In the feast of sweete breade nye which is called Easter, and the hye prestes, and scribes soughte how they myghte kyl hym, for they feared the people. Then entered Sathas into Judas, whose surname was Iscariot (whyche was of the nombre of the twelue) & he went his waye, and communed wyth the hye prestes and offycers, howe he myghte betraye hym vnto the. And they were glad, & promysed to gyve hym, mony. And he consented, & sought oportunitie to betraye hi vnto the wher the people were asyembled.

Then came the daye of sweete breade, when of necessity Passouer muste be offered. And he sente Peter & John, sayenge: go & prepare vs Passouer, that we maye eate. They sayde vnto hym: Where wylte thou, & we prepare? And he sayd vnto them: Beholde, when ye enter in to the cite, ther shall a man mete you, bearyng a pytcher of water, hym folowe into the same house that he entreteth in, and ye shall saye vnto the good man of the house: The master sayeth vnto the: where is the gelle chamber, where I shall eate Passouer with my disciples? And he shall shewe you a greete parlour paved. Then make ready. And they wente and founde as he hadde sayde vnto them, and they made readye the Passouer.

And when the houre was come, he sate downe, and the xii. Apostles with him. And he sayde vnto them: I haue inwardlye despyed to eate this Passouer wyth you, before that I suffice. For I saye vnto you: henceforth I wyll not eate of it any more, vntill it be fulfilled in the kyngdome of God. And he toke the cup, and gaue thanks and sayd: Take this, and deuyn-de it amonge you. For I saye vnto you: I wyll not drynke of the frute of the vyne, vntill the kyng-

And he toke breade, and when he hadde ge-sayenge. This is my body, which is geuen for you. This doynyt & membraunce of me. Lyke wyse also whē he had supped, he toke the cuppe sayenge. This cup is the newe testament in my bloude, whiche is shed for you.

¶ Yet beholde, the hande of hym that betrayeth me, is wyth me on the table. And trulpe the sonne of mā goeth as it is appoynted. But wo vnto that man by whom he is betrayed. And they beganne to enquire among them selues, which of them it was, that shoulde do it.

¶ And there was a stryfe amonge them, whiche of them shoulde seme to be the greateste. And he sayd vnto them the kynges of nacpous raygne ouer them, and they that haue auctorite vpon them are called gracious Lordes. But ye shal not be so. * But he þ is greatest among you, shalbe as the yonger: and he that is cheefe, shalbe as he that doth minister. For whether is greater, he that syttest at meate, or he that serueth? Is not he þ syttest at meate? But I am amonge you, as he that ministrerth. Ye are they whiche haue bydden wyth me in my temptacions. And I apoynt vnto you a kyngdome, as my father hath apoynted to me: that ye maye cate and drynke at my table in my kyngdome, and syt on seates, iudgyng the twelue trybes of Israell. ¶ And the Lorde sayde. Symon, Symon, beholde. Satan hath desired to sytce you, as it were wheat: but I haue prayed for þ, that thou say the sacle not. And when thou art conuerted, strenght thy brethren. And he sayde vnto hym. * Lorde, I am ready to go with the into pryson, and to deathe. And he sayde. I tell the Peter, the cocke shal not crowe this dape, tyll thou hast thysle denyed that thou knowest me.

¶ And he sayde vnto them. * When I sent you wythout wallet and scrippe and shoes lacked ye any thyng? And they sayd, no. The he sayd vnto them but now he that hath a wallet, let hym take it vp, and lyke wyse his scrippe. And he þ hath no swearde, let hym sel his coate, and bye one. For I say vnto you, that yet the same whiche is wyrtten, muste be perfourmed in me: * even among the wyched was he reputed. For those thynges whiche are wyrtten of me haue an ende. And they sayde. Lorde, beholde, here are two swerdes. And he sayde vnto them it is ynough. * And he came oute, and wente (as he was wonte) to mount Oliue. And the disciples folowed hym. And when he came to the place, he sayde vnto them: * praye, leaste ye fall into temptation. * And he gate him selfe from thē, about a stonys cast, and knelled downe, & prayed sayenge: Father yf þ wylt, remoue this cup fro me. Neuer thelesse, * not my wyll, but thynne be fulfilled. And there appeared an aungell vnto him from heauen, confortyng him. And he was in an agonye, and prayed the longer. And his sweat was lyke droppe of bloude, trycklyng downe to the grounde. And when he rose vp fro prayer and was come to his disciples, he found them slepyng for heuynesse, and sayde vnto the why slepe ye? Ryse, and praye, lest ye fall into temptation.

* Whyle he yet spake, beholde, there came a company, and he that was called Judas one of the twelue, went before them, and pleased nye vnto Iesus, to kisse hym. But Iesus sayde vnto hym: Judas, betrayest thou the sonne of mā wyth a kysse? When they whiche were aboute hym sawe what wolde folowe, they sayd vnto hym: Lorde, shall we synge with swerd? * And one of them smote a seruaunt of the hye preste, and stroke of his ryghte eare. Iesus answered and sayde. suffre ye thus farre forth. And when he touched his eare, he healed hym.

¶ Then Iesus sayde vnto the hye prestes and rulers of the temple and the elders which were come to hym. Ye become oute, as vnto a thefe wyth swerdes and staves. When I was dayly wyth you in the temple, ye stretched forth no handes agaynst me. But thys is euen poure very house, and the power of darckenes. Then toke they hym, and led hym, and brought hym to the hye prestes house. But Peter folowed afarre of. And when they had kyndled a fyre in the myddes of the palace, and were set done together, * Peter also satte downe amonge them. But when one of the torches behelde hym, as he satte by the fyer, and looked vpo hym, he sayd: thys same felow was also wyth hym. * And he denyed hym sayenge woman, I know hym not. And after a lytle whyle another sawe hym, and sayde thou arte also of them. And Peter sayde: man, I am not.

¶ And aboute the space of an houre after, another assayed, sayenge verely this felowe was wyth hym also, for he is of Galile. And Peter sayde man I wote not what thou sayeste, I am immediatly whyle he yet spake, the cocke crew. And þ Lorde turned backe, & looked vpo Peter. * And Peter remembred þ word of the Lorde, how he had sayde vnto hym before the cocke crowe, thou shalt denye me thysle. And Peter wente oute and wepte bitterly.

¶ And the men that toke Iesus, mocked hym and smote hym: * when they had byndefolde hym, they stroke hym on the face, & asked hym, sayenge arede, who is it þ smote the. And many other thynges dyspytfully sayd they agaynst hym. And assone as it was dape, the elders of the people and the hye prestes and the scribbes came together, and led hym into theyr coucell. sayenge art thou very Christ tell vs? And he sayde vnto them yf I tell you, ye wyl not beleue. And yf I aske you, ye wyl not answer me, nor let me go. * Hereafter shall the sonne of man syt on the ryght hande of þ power of God. Then sayde they all art thou then the sonne of God? He sayd, ye say that I am. And they sayd * what nede we any further wyrtnes? For we out selues haue herde of his owne mouthe.

And all the people cryed at once, sayenge a-wayne with hym, and delpuer to vs Barabaz: (which for a certayn insurreccyon made in the cite and for murther was caste in prison) Pylate spake agayne to them wyllyng to let Jesus looe. But they cryed, sayenge: Crucifye hym. Crucifye hym. He sayde vnto them the thyzde tyme: what euill hath he done? I fynde no cause of death in hym: I wyl therefore chasene him, and let him go. * And they cried with loude voyces, requyring that he myght be crucified. And the voyces of them and of the hye Priestes preuailed.

And Pylate gaue sentence, that it shulde be as they requyred * and he let looe vnto them hym that for insurreccyon and murther was cast into prison, whome they had despyed and he delpuered vnto them Iesus, to do with hym what they wold. * And as they led him a way, they caught one Symon of Syren, commyng out of the felde, and on him layd they the crosse, that he myght beare it after Iesus.

And there folowed hym a greate compaignie of people, and women * whiche bewailed and lamented hym: But Iesus turned backe vnto them, and said: Ye daughters of Ierusalem, wepe not for me: but wepe for your selues, and for your chyldren. For behold, the dayes wyl come in the which they shal saye: * happy are the baren and the wombes that neuer bare, and y paypes whiche neuer gaue sucke. Then shall they begynne to saye to the montaynes, fal on vs & to the hylles, couer vs. For if they do thys in a grene tree, what shal be done in the dryer?

And there were two euill doers led wpth him to be slayne. * And after y they were come to the place which is called Caluary, ther they crucified hym, & the euill doers, one on the right hande, and the other on the lefte. Then sayd Jesus, father forgue the for they wote not what they do. * And they parted his raimente and cast lottes. And the people stode, and behelde.

And y rulers mocked him with the, saynge: he saued other men let him saue himselfe, if he be very Christ, the chole of God. The souldyers also mocked him, and came, and offered hym by-negar, & sayde, if thou be the kyng of the Jewes, saue thyselfe. * And a superscription was written ouer hym, with letters of Greke, and Latin and hebrew. Thys is the kyng of the Jewes.

And one of the euill doers whiche were hanged caryed on hym sayeng If thou be Christe, saue thy selfe and vs. But y other answered, & rebuked hym sayenge. Fearest thou not God seyng thou arte in the same dampnacion? We are ryghteously punyshed for we receaue accor-dyng to oure dedes. But thys man hath done nothing amysse. And he sayd vnto Iesus Lord remembre me, whē thou comest into thy kingdome. And Iesus sayd vnto hym: Certes I say vnto y to day shalt thou be w me in Paradyse:

* And it was aboute the sytte houre. And there was darcknes ouer all the earth, vntill the nynt houre, and the Sonne was darkened.

* And the vayle of the temple dyd rent, cut tho-rowe the myddes. And when Iesus had cryed wth a loude voyce, he said. Father into thy hades I commende my sprete. And when he thus had sayd he gaue vp the goost. * When the Centuron sawe what had happened, he glorified God sayenge: Certes thys was a ryghteous man. And all the people that came together to that syght and saw the thynges whiche had happened, synote they were wised and returned. And all hys aquauntances * and the women that folowed hym from Galyle, stode afarre of, behol-dyng these thynges.

And beholde * ther was a man named Joseph a counsellour, and he was a good man and iuste, the same had not consented to the counsel and dede of them, whiche was of Aramatia a cite of the Jewes, whiche same also waped for the kyngdom of God he went vnto Pylate and begged y body of Iesus and toke it downe and wrapped it in a lincloth & layed it in a sepulchre that was hewen in stone, wherin neuer man before was layed. * And that daye was preparyng of the Sabboth, and the Sabboth drew on: The women that folowed after, which had come wpth hym fro Galyle, behelde the sepulchre, and how his body was layed. And they returned & prepared swete odours and oynment.

The fyrst Chapter. ✠

The euergylpynge byth of Chyist, and howe he became man. The testymony of Iohn. The callynge of Andreye, Peter, &c.

In the begynnynge was the worde, and the worde was with God: and God was the worde. The same was in the begynnynge wpth God. * Al thynge was made by it and wythout it was nothynge, & was made. * In it was lyfe, and the lyfe was the<sup>1</sup> lyght of men, & the lyghte shyneth in darkenesse. and the darkenesse cōpre-hended it not. There was sent a man from God whose name was Iohn. The same came as a wytnesse of the lyght, that all men through him might beleue * he was not that lyght bi. * was sent to beare wytnes of the lyght. That lyghte was the true lyght, whych lyghteth euery man that cometh into the worlde. he was in the worlde, and the worlde was made by hym. and the worlde knewe hym not.

He came amonge his owne, and his owne re-ceaued hym not. But as many as receaued hym * to the gaue he power to be the sonnes of God: euen them that beleued on hys name whych were borne, not of bloude, nor of the wyll of the fleshe, nor yet of the wyll of man: but of God.

* And the same word became fleshe, & dwelte amonge vs: * and we sawe the glory of it, as the glorye of the onely begotten sonne of the father, full of grace and truthe. ✠

* Iohn beareth wytnesse of hym, and cryeth, sayenge: * he was he of whome I spake, whych he though he came after me, wente before me for he was before me. * And of hys fulnesse haue all we receaued euen grace for grace. For the lawe was geuen by Moyses: but grace and truthe came by Iesus Chyriste: * No man hath sene God at any tyme.

The onely begotten sonne which is in the bosonne of the father, he hath declared hym. ✠

* And thys is the recorde of Iohn: when þ Jewes sent Preastes and Leuites from Jerusalem, to aske hym: what art thou? And he confessed and denyed not, and sayde playnly: I am not Chyriste. And they asked hym what thou * art thou helyas? And he sayeth: I am not.

* Art thou that Prophete? And he answered:
no. Then sayde they vnto hym: what art thou, that we maye geue an answer vnto them that sent vs? What sayest thou of thy selfe? he sayd:

* I am þ voyce of a cryer in þ wyldernes, make strayght the waye of the Lorde, * as sayde the prophete Elayas. And they whych were sente were of the Pharisees. And they asked hym, and sayde vnto hym: Why baptystest thou then, yf thou be not Chyrist, nor helyas, neither that Pro-phete? Iohn answered them, sayenge: * I baptysse with water, but there standeth one amōge you, whome ye knowe not, he it is whych though he came after me, was before me, whose sho latched, I am not worthy to vnloose. These thynges were done in Bethabara beyonde Iordane, * where Iohn dyd baptysse. ✠

* The nexte daye, Iohn seeth Iesus comynge vnto him, and sayth * beholde the lambe of God, whych taketh awaye the synne of the worlde. This is he of whome I sayde: After me cometh a man, whych went before me, for he was before me, and I knewe hym not: but that he shoulde be declared to Israel, therfore am I come baptysynge wpth water.

* And Iohn bare recorde sayenge: I sawe the spete descende from heaue, lyke vnto a doue, & abode vpon hym, and I knewe him not. But he that sent me to baptysse in water, the same sayde vnto me: vpon whome thou shalt se the spete descende, and tarpe styll on hym, the same is he whych baptyseth w the holy goost. And I sawe and bare recorde that he is the sonne of God. ✠

The nexte daye after, Iohn stode agayne, and two of hys dysciples, and he behelde Iesus as he walked by, and sayeth: beholde the lambe of God. And þ two disciples hearde him speake & they folowed Iesus. And Iesus turned about and sawe them folowe him, and sayth vnto the:
What seke ye? They sayde vnto hym: Rabbj (whych is to saye yf one interprete it, Master) wher dwellest thou? he sayth vnto them: come and se. They came and sawe where he dwelte: & abode with hym that daye. For it was aboute the tenth houre.

One of the two whych heard Iohn speake, and folowed him, was Andrew Simon Peters brother. The same founde hys brother Symon fyrst, and sayeth vnto him. we haue founde Mes-sias, whych is by interpretation, annointed & brought him to Iesus. And Iesus behelde him, and sayd thou art * Simon the sonne of Ionas, thou shalt be called Cephas, whych is by interpretacion a stone. The daye folowynge, Iesus wold go into Galyle, and founde Philip, & sayth vnto him folow me * Philip was of Bethsaida the cytie of Andrew and Peter. Whylpp founde Nathanael and sayth vnto hym we haue founde him, of whom * Moyses in the lawe and the<sup>1</sup> Prophetes dyd wyte, Iesus the sonne of Joseph of Nazareth. And Nathanael sayd vnto him * can there any good thyng come oute of Nazareth?
Whylpp sayeth vnto hym come and se.

Iesus sawe Nathanael comynge to hym and sayth of him. Beholde a ryght Israelite, in who is nogyle. Nathanael sayth vnto hym: whence knowest thou me? Iesus answered and sayd vnto hym. Before that Whylpp called the, when thou wast vnder the fygge tre, I sawe the. Nathanael answered and sayde vnto hym: Rabbi, thou art euen the verie sonne of God, thou arte the kyng of Israel. Iesus answered, and sayde vnto hym: Because I sayde vnto the, I sawe the vnder the fygge tre, thou beleueste. Thou shalt se greater thynges then these. And he sayeth vnto hym. Verelpe, verelpe, I saye vnto the you:

The ii. Chapter. ✠

✠ As it turneth the water into wyne, and dyspured the buyers and sellers out of the temple.

And the thyrde daye was there a marriage in Cana a cytie in Galile, and þe mother of Iesus was there. And Iesus was called (þe his dysciples) vnto þe marriage. And when the wyne fayled, the mother of Iesus sayeth vnto hym: they haue no wyne. Iesus sayth vnto her: womā * what haue I to do wþ þe, myne houre is not yet come. His mother sayeth vnto the mynisters. whatsoeuer he sayth vnto you, do it. And ther were standing there, lyxe waterpottes of stone after the maner of the purspenge of þe Jewes, cōtaynyng twy or thre syrkyns a pece. Iesus sayth vnto them: fyl the waterpottes with water. And they fylled the vp to the bryme. And he sayth vnto the: drawe out now, and beare vnto the gouernour of the feast. And they bare it. When the ruler of the feast had tasted the water that was turned into wyne, and knewe not whēce it was, but the mynisters whych drewe the water knewe. he calleth the byrdegrome, & sayeth vnto him. Euery man at þe begynnynge doth set forth good wyne, and whē men be dronke, then þe whych is worse. But thou haste kepte the good wyne vntill now. This begynnynge of myracles dyd Iesus in Cana of Galile, and shewed hys glorie, and hys dysciples beleued on hym. ✠ * After thys he went downe to Capernaum, he and hys mother and hys brethren, and hys disciples, & there continued many dayes.

✠ * And the Jewes Easter was euen at hande. And Iesus wente vp to Ierusalem, and founde syttinge in the temple, those that solde oxen, and shepe, and dones, and chaungers of money. And when he hadde made (as it were) a scourge of small coardes, he droue them all out of the temple, wþ the shepe and oxen, and potyzed oute þe chaungers moneye, and ouerthrewe the tables, & sayde vnto them that solde dones: haue these thynges hence, and make not my fathers house, an house of marchaundyse. And his disciples remembered it, that is wyrtten: * the zeale of thyne house hath euen eaten me.

Then answered the Jewes, and sayde vnto hym: what token shewest thou vnto vs, seynge that thou doest these thynges? Iesus answered and sayd vnto them. * Destroye this temple, and in thre dayes I wyl reare it vp. Then sayde the Jewes. xlvj. yeres was thys temple abydynge, and wylte thou reare it vp in thre dayes? But he spake of the temple of hys bodye. As soon therfore as he was rysen fro death agayne hys dysciples remembered that he thus hadde sayde: And they beleued the scripture, and the wordes whych Iesus had sayde.

When he was in Ierusalem at Easter in the feast daye: many beleued on hys name, when they sawe hys myracles whych he dyd. But

Iesus dyd not comyt hym selfe vnto them, because he knewe all men, and neded not, that any man should testify of hym. ✠ For he knewe what was in man. ✠

The iii. Chapter. ✠

✠ The communycacion of Iesus wþ Nicodemus. The doctrine and baptyse of Ihon, and what myghte he deareth of Chyist.

There was a man of the Pharyses named Nicodemus, a ruler of the Jewes. ✠ The same came to Iesus by nyght, and sayd vnto him Rabbi, we knowe that thou art a teacher come from God. for no man coulde do suche myracles as thou doest, except God were wþ hym. Iesus answered and sayd vnto him. Verely, verely, I saye vnto the, excepte a man be borne from aboue, he can not see the kyngdome of God. Nicodemus sayeth vnto hym: howe can a man be borne when he is olde can he enter into his mothers wombe & be borne agayne? Iesus answered: ✠ Verely, verely, I saye vnto the, excepte a man be borne of water and of the sprete, he can not enter into the kyngdome of God. ✠ That whiche is borne of the flesche, is flesche, and that whiche is borne of the sprete, is sprete. Maruayle not thou that I sayde to the, ye muste be borne from aboue. The wynde bloweth where it lysteth, and thou hearest þe sounde thereof * but canst not tell whence it cometh, & whither it goeth. So is euery one that is borne of the sprete.

Nicodemus answered and sayde vnto hym: howe can these thynges be? Iesus answered and sayd vnto hym: art thou a master in Israel, and knowest not these thynges? Verely, verely, I saye vnto the, we speake that we do knowe, and testify that we haue sene: and ye receaue not our wytnes. ¶ I haue tolde you, earthlye thynges, and ye beleue not. howe shall ye beleue, ¶ I tell you of heauenly thynges?

* And no man ascendeth vp to heauen, but he that came downe from heauen, euen the sonne of man whych is in heauen.

* And as Moyses lyfte vp the serpent in the wyldernesse, euen so muste the sonne of man be lyfte vp, that whosoeuer beleueth in hym, perissh not, but haue eternall lyfe. ✠

✠ * For God so loued the worlde, that he gaue hys onely begotten sonne, that whosoeuer beleueth in hym, shoulde not perishe, but haue euerylastynge lyfe. ✠ For God sent not hys sonne into the worlde, to condempne the worlde: but that the worlde throughe hym myght be saued. he that beleueth on hym is not condempned. But he that beleueth not is condempned already, because he hath not beleued in the name of the onely begotten sonne of God. And thys is the condempnation: * that lyght is come into þe worlde and men loued darkenesse more then lyght, because theyr dedes were euill. ✠ For * euery one that euill doeth, hateth the lyght: neyther cometh to the lyght, lest hys dedes shoulde be reproued. ¶ he that doeth truthe, cometh to the lyght, & his dedes maye be knowne, howe þe they are red, and ye are entred into theyr laboures.

Many of the Samaritans of that cuntry be-lieued on him, for the sayeng of the womā, which testified that he tolde her all that euer she dyd.
So, when þe Samaritans were come vnto him they besought hym, that he wolde tarpe wpyth them. And he abode there two dayes. And many mo beleued because of hys owne wordes, and sayd vnto the woman. Nowe we beleue, not because of thy sayeng: for we haue hard hym oure selues, and knowe that thys is euen Christus, the Sauoure of the worlde. I

After two dayes he departed thence, and wēt awayne into Galile. I For Jesus him selfe testified, þa prophet hath none honour in hys owne countre. Then, as sone as he was come into Ga-lile, the Galileans receaued hym: whan they had sene all the thynges that he dyd at Ierusalem at the daye of the feast. For they went also vnto þe feast daye. So Jesus cam agayne into Cana of Galile, where he turned the water into wyne.
I And ther was a certayn ruler, whose sonne was sycke at Capernaum. As sone as the same herde that Jesus was come oute of Jewrye into Galile, he went vnto hym, and besought hym, þe he wolde come downe, and heale hys sonne. For he was ruen at the poynte of death. Then sayde Jesus vnto hym: excepte ye se sygnes and wonders, ye wyl not beleue. The ruler sayeth vnto hym: Syr, come downe oz euer that my sonne dye. Jesus sayeth vnto hym. So thy waye, thy sonne lyueth. The man beleued the worde that Jesus had spoken vnto hym. And he wente hys waye. And as he was goynge downe, the seruauntes met hym, and tolde hym, sayenge: Thy sonne lyueth. The ruler enquired be of the houre when he beganne to amende. And they sayd vnto hym. Yesterdaye, at the seuenth houre, the ser-uēt left hym. So the father knewe, that it was the same houre, in the whiche Jesus sayde vnto him. Thy sonne lyueth. I And he beleued and al his household. I This is agayne þe seconde my-racle, that Jesus dyd, whā he was come oute of Jewrye into Galile.

The. v. Chapter. I

The healeth the man that was sycke eynge a thyrtē yeares. The Iewes accuse hym, he answereth for hys selfe, and reproueth them.

After thys was ther a feaste daye of the Jewes, and Jesus wēt vp to Jerusalem. And ther is at Ierusalem by þe slaughter house, a pole (whych is called in the hebrue tōge, Bethesda) hauinge fyue porches, in whiche laye a great multitude of sycke folke, of blynde, balde and wythered, waytyng for the mounyng of þe water. For an angel went downe at a certayne ceason into the people, and stered þe water. Who soever then syt (after the steryng of the water) stepped in, was made whole, of whatsoeuer dyscase he had. And a certayne man was there, whych had bene dyscased. xxxviij. yeres. Whē Jesus sawe hym lye, & knewe that he nowe logtyme hadde bene dyscased, he sayeth vnto hym: Wylt thou be made whole? The sycke man answered hym. Syr, I haue no man when the water is troubled, to put me into the pole: But in þe meane tyme, whyle I am aboute to come, another steppeth downe before me.

Jesus sayth vnto hym: I saye, take vp thy bed and walke. And immediatlye the mā was made whole, and toke vp hys bed, and walked. And þe same daye was the Sabboth. The Jewes therfore sayde vnto hym, that was made whole: It is the Sabboth daye, it is not lawfull for the to carpe thy bed: he answered them: he that made me whole, sayde vnto me. Take vp thy bed, and walke. Then asked they hym: What manis that, whych sayde vnto the: take vp thy bedde and walke. And he that was healed, wylte not who it was. For Jesus had gotten hym selfe a-wayne, because that ther was ptease of people in that place.

Afterwarde, Jesus founde hym in þe temple, and sayde vnto hym: beholde, þart made whole synne nomore, lest a worse thyng happen vnto the. The mā departed and tolde the Jewes that it was Jesus whych had made hym whole. I And therfore the Jewes dyd persecute Jesus, and soughte the meanes to sleie hym, because he had done these thynges: on the Sabboth dayes.
And Jesus answered them: I saye, My father worketh hyther to, and I worke. Therfore the Jewes sought the more to kyll hym, not onelye because he had broken the Sabboth: but sayde also that God was hys father, and made hym selfe equall wpyth God.

Then answered Jesus and sayde vnto them: Clerey, verely, I saye vnto you. I saye, the sonne can do nothing of hym selfe, but that he seeth the father do. For whatsoeuer he doeth, that doeth the sonne also. For the father loueth the sonne, and he weth hym all thynges that he hym selfe doth.
And he wyl shewe hym greater workes then these, because ye shuld maruaile. For lyke wyse as the father rayseth vp the dead, & quykkeneth them, euen so the sonne quykkeneth whome he wyl. I Neitherudgeth the father any man: but hath commytted all iudgement vnto the sonne, because that all men shoulde honoure the sonne, euen as they honoure the father. He that honoureth not the sonne, the same honoureth not the father, whych hath sent hym. Clerey, verely, I saye vnto you: I saye, he that heareth my word, and beleueth on hym that sent me, hath euerlastyng lyfe, and shall not come into dampnation. but is scaped from death vnto lyfe.

Clerey, verely, I saye vnto you I saye, the houre shall come, and nowe it is, when the deade shall heare the voyce of the sonne of God. And they þe heare shall lyue. I saye, for as the father hath lyfe in hym selfe, so lyke wyse hath he geue to the sonne to haue lyfe in hym selfe: and hath geuen hym power also to iudge, because he is the sonne of man. Maruaile not at thys for the I saye, the houre shall come, in the whiche all that are in the graues shall heare hys voyce, and shall come forth: they that haue done good, vnto the resurreccyon of lyfe: and they that haue done euell, vnto the resurrec-cyon of dampnation. I

I can of myne owne selfe do nothinge. As I heare, I iudge, and my iudgement is iust, because I like not myne owne wyll, but the wyll of the father whych hath sent me. * If I shoulde beare wytnes of my selfe, my wytnes were not true. There is another that beareth wytnes of me: and I am sure, that the wytnes whych he beareth of me is true.

Iohn. i. b. * He sent vnto Iohn, & he bare wytnes vnto the truth. But I receaue not the recorde of man. Neuerthelesse, these thynges I sape & ye myght be safe. He was a burning and a shynnyng lyght and ye wolde for a season haue reioysed in hys lyghte. * But I haue greater wytnes, then the wytnes of Iohn. * For the workes whych the father hath geuen me to synspire, the same workes that I do, beare wytnes of me, that the father hath sent me. And the father him self whych hath sent me, * hath borne wytnes of me. Ye haue not heard his voyce at any tyme, nor sene hys shape, hys worde haue ye not abydyng in you. For whom he hath sent hym ye beleue not.

Search the scriptures, for in them ye thynke ye haue eternall lyfe: and they are they whych testifye of me. And yett wyll ye not come to me & ye myght haue lyfe. I receaue not prayse of me. But I knowe you, that ye haue not the loue of God in you. I am come in my fathers name and ye receue me not. * If another come in hys owne name, hym wyll ye receaue: howe can ye beleue whiche receaue honoure one of another, and like not the honoure that cometh of God onely? Do not thynke that I wyl accuse you to my father. There is one that accuseth you: euen Moses in whome ye truste. For had ye beleued Moses ye wolde haue beleued me: for he wrote of me. But ye beleue not hys wyrtynge: howe shall ye beleue my wordes? I

The vi. Chapter. I

¶ Jesus feareth some shoulde be men, departeth aboue that they shoulde not make hym a kynge, and reproueth the scribes & pharisees of hys wyse. The carnall are offended at hym.

After these thynges * Jesus went hys waye ouer the see of Galile, whych is the see of Tyberias * and a great multitude folowed him, because they saw hys myracles whych he dyd on them that were diseased. And Jesus went vp into a mountayne and there he sat wth hys disciples. And after, a feast of the Jewes was nye. I

Iohn. vi. b. * When Jesus then lyfte vp hys eyes, and sawe a great company come vnto hym, he sayth vnto Philip: whence shall we bye bread that these maye eat? Thys he sayd to proue hym for he hym selfe knewe, what he wolde do.

Philippe answered hym * two hundred peny worthe of breade are not sufficient for them that euery man maye take a pte. One of hys disciples (Andrew, Symon Peters brother) sayeth vnto him: There is a lad here, whiche hath fyue barley loaves and two fyshes: but what are they amonge so many? And Jesus sayde: Make the people sit downe. There was muche grasse in that place. So the men sat downe in nombre, aboute fyue thousande. And Jesus toke the bread

And when he had geuen thanks, he gaue to the dysciples, and the dysciples to them that were set downe. And ykewyle of the fyshes as much as they wolde.

When they had eaten ynough, he sayeth vnto hys dysciples: gather vp the broken meate whych remaineth, that nothinge be losse. And they gathered it together, & fylled twelue baskets wth the broke meate of þe fyue barley loaves, whych broken meate remained vnto them that had eaten. Then those men, when they had sene the myracle that Jesus dyd, sayde: thys is of a truth * the same prophete, that shuld come into the worlde. I When Jesus therfore perceaued that they wold come, and take hym vp to make hym a kynge, * he departed agayne into a mountayne hym selfe alone. * And when euen was nowe come, hys dysciples went downe vnto the see, and gat vp into a shyppe and came ouer the see vnto Capernaum. And it was nowe darcke, and Jesus was not come to them. And the see arose wth a great wynde that blew. So whē they had rowen about a. xxv. or xxx. furlonges they sawe Jesus walkyng on the see and drawyng nye vnto the shyppe, & they were afrayed. But he sayth vnto them. It is I, be not afrayed. Then wolde they haue receaued hym into the shyppe, and immediately the shyppe was at the lande, whether they went.

The daye folowynge, when the people (whych stood on the other syde of the see) sawe that there was none other shyp there, save that one wher into hys dysciples were entred, and that Jesus wente not wth hys dysciples into the shyppe, but that hys dysciples were gone awaye alone (howbeit, there came other shippes from Tyberias, nye vnto the place, where they dyd eate breade, after that the Lorde hadde geuen thanks, when the people therfore sawe that Jesus was not there, neyther hys dysciples, they also toke shyppe, and came to Capernaum, seekinge for Jesus. And when they hadde founde hym on the other syde of the see, they sayde vnto hym: Rabbi, when cameste thou hyther? Jesus answered them, and sayde: verely, verely, I say vnto you: ye like me, not because ye sawe the myracles, but because ye dyd eate of the loaves and were fylled. I Laboure not for the meate whych perysheth, but for that whych endureth vnto euertlastyng lyfe, whych meate the sonne of man shall geue vnto you. For him hath God the father sealed. Then sayde they vnto hym: what shall we do that we myghte worke the workes of God? Jesus answered and sayde vnto them: thys is the worke of God that ye beleue on hym, whome he hath sente. They sayde therfore vnto hym, * what sygne shewest thou then, that we maye se, & beleue the? What doest thou worke? Our fathers dyd eate Manna in þe deserte, as it is wyrtten. He gaue them * breade from heauen to eate. The Jesus sayde vnto the verely, verely, I say vnto you: Moses gaue you not þe bread fro heuē * but my father geueth you þe true bread fro heuē. For the breade of God is he whych cometh downe from heauen, and ge-with lyfe vnto the worlde.

Then sayde they vnto him: Lorde, enermore geue vs thys bread. And Iesus sayd vnto them: I am the bread of lyfe. He that cometh to me, shal not hunger: and he that beleueth on me shall neuer thurst. But I saye vnto you that yea so haue sene me and yet ye beleue not. All that the father geueth me shall come to me: and hym I cometh to me, I caste not away. For I am come downe from heauen: *not to do that I wyl but that he wyl, whych hath sent me. And thys is the fathers wyl whych he hath sente me, that of all whych he hath geuen me, I shal loose nothyng, but rayse them vp agayne, at the last daye. And thys is the wyl of him I sent me: that euery one whych seeth the sonne *and beleueth on hym, haue euerlastyng lyfe. And I wyl rayse hym vp at the last daye. The Jewes then murmured at him, because he sayd: I am the breade of lyfe, which came downe from heauen. And they sayde: *Is not thys Iesus the sonne of Ioseph, whose father and mother we knowe? howe is it then that he sayth, I am downe fro heauen? Iesus answered and sayde vnto the: murmure not amonge you selues.

*No man can come to me, except the father whych hath set me, drawe him. And I wil rayse hym vp at the laste daye. It is wyrtten in the Prophetes: *and they shal be all taught of God. Euery man therefore that hath hearde, and hath learned of the father, cometh vnto me. *Not that any man hath sene the father, saue he whych is of God, the same hath sene the father.

Verely, verely, I saye vnto you he I putted his truste in me, hath euerlastyng lyfe. I am I bread of lyfe, Your fathers dyd eate Manna in the wyldernes, and are dead. Thys is I breade, which cometh downe from heauen that a man maye eate therof, and not dye. I am that leuyng bread, whych came downe from heauen. If any man eate of thys breade: he shall lyue for euer.

*And the bread that I wyl geue, is my fleshe, which I wyl geue for the lyfe of the worlde.

The Jewes therefore stroue amonge them selues saying: howe can this fellowe geue vs that fleshe of his to eate? The Iesus sayde vnto the: Verely, verely, I saye vnto you: excepte ye eate the fleshe of the sonne of man and dryncke his bloud, ye haue no lyfe in you. Whoso eateth my fleshe and dryncketh my bloud, hath euerlastyng lyfe, and I wyl rayse hym vp at the laste daye. For my fleshe is meate in dede: and my bloud is dryncke in dede. He I eateth my fleshe and dryncketh my bloud dwelleth in me, and I in hym. As the lyuyng father hath sent me, and I lyue for the father: Euen so he that eateth me shall lyue by I meane of me. This is the bread, which came downe from heauen: not as your fathers dyd eate Manna, and are dead. He that eateth of this bread, shall lyue euer.

These thynges sayd he in the Synagoge, as he taught in Capernaum. Many therefore of his dysciples, when they had herde thys, sayd thys is an harde sayeng: who can abyde the hearpyng of it? Iesus knewe in hym selfe, that hys dyscples murmured at it: and he sayde vnto them: Doth thys offende you? What and yf ye shall se that sonne of man ascende vp thither where he was before? It is the spete that quykenneth, I fleshe profyteth nothyng. The wordes that I speake vnto you are spete and lyfe. But there are some of you I beleue not. For Iesus knewe from the begynnyng, which they were, that beleued not, & who shulde betraye hym. And he sayd therfore sayde I vnto you that *no man can come vnto me, except it were geue vnto him of my father. Fro that tyme many of his dysciples went backe, and forsoke hym, and walked nomore w him. Then sayde Iesus to the twelue: wyl ye al so go awaye? Then Symon Peter answered: hym Lorde, to whome shall we go? Thou haste the wordes of eternall lyfe, *and we beleue and are sure that thou art Christ the sonne of the lyuyng God. Iesus answered them: haue not I chosen you twelue, and one of you is a dyuell? He spake of Judas Iscariot the sonne of Symon. For he it was, I shuld betraye hym, beyng one of the twelue.

The vii. Chapter.

Iesus cometh to Ierusalem at the feast, teacheth the Jewes and reproveth them: There are dyuerse opinions of hym amonge the people. The pharisees rebuke the dysciples, because they haue not brought hym, & thys wylth Nicodemus for takynge his parte.

After these thynges, Iesus went aboute in Galyle: for he wolde not go about in Jewry because that the Jewes sought to kyl him. The Jewes feast of tabernacles was at hande. Hys brethern therefore sayde vnto hym get the hence, & go into Jewry, that thy dysciples also maye se thy workes that thou doeste. For there is no man that doeth any thyng in secrete, and he him selfe seeketh to be knowne openly. If thou do such thynges, shewe thy selfe to the worlde. For hys brethren beleued not in hym.

Then Iesus sayde vnto them. My tyme is not yet come: but your tyme is alwaye readye. The worlde cannot hate you. *But me it hateth because I testifie of it, that I workes therof are euell go ye vp vnto this feast, I wyl not go vnto this feast, for my tyme is not yet full come. When he had sayd these wordes vnto them, he abode still in Galile. But as sone as his brethren were come, then went he vp also vnto the feast, not openly, but as it were pruely. Then sought I Jewes him at I feast, & sayd: *where is he? And much murmurig was ther of him amonge I people. For some sayd: *he is good, other said nay, but he deceyeth I people. Howbeit no man spake openly of hym, for feare of the Jewes.

*Nowe when halfe of the feast was done, Iesus wente vp into I temple, and taught. And the Jewes maruailed, sayeng: howe knoweth he the scriptures, seynge I he neuer learned? Iesus answered them, & sayd: My doctryne is not myne: but his I sent me. If any man wyl be obedient vnto his wyl, he shal knowe of I doctryne whether it be of God, or whether I speake of my my selfe. He that speaketh of hym selfe, seeketh hys owne prayse. But he that seeketh his prayse that sente hym, the same is true, and no vnygheteousnesse is in hym.

Exod. xx. 2. * Wpd not Moses geue you a lawe, and yet Deut. b. 10 none of you kepeth the lawe: why go ye aboute to kyll me? The people answered & sayde: Thou hast the deuell: who goeth aboute to kyll the?
John. b. 10 Jesus answered, and sayde vnto them: * I haue done one worke, and ye all maruaile. Moses therfore gaue vnto you the circumcision not be-Gen. xxi. 3 cause it is of Moses. but * of the fathers. And yet ye on the Sabbath dape, circumcise a man. If a man on the Sabbath dape receaue circumcysion, without breakynge of the lawe of Moses bydape ye at me, because I haue made a man euery whyt whole, on the Sabbath dape? Judge Deut. i. c. not after the vtrer apperaunce, but iudge with Deut. xxi. c. a ryghteous iudgement.

Then sayd some of them of Ierusalem: is not thys he, whome they go aboute to kyll? But lo, he speaketh boldye, and they saye nothyng to hym. Do the rulers knowe in dede, þ this is betray Christ? Howbeit * we knowe thys mā whēce he is. but when Christ cometh, no mā knoweth whence he is. Then cryed Jesus in the temple (as he taught) sayeng: ye both knowe me, & whence I am, ye know. And I am not come of my selfe but he that sente me is true, whom ye knowe not.

John. b. 10 But I knowe hym. (And ye saye that I knowe hym not, I haue a tēpēlke vnto you, but I knowe hym.) for I am of hym, and he hath sente me. * Then they sought to take hym, but no mā layde handes on hym, because hys houre was not yet come. * Then a ny of the people beleued on hym, & and sayde: when Christ cometh, wyl he do any mo myra-cles then these that thys man hath done?

John. b. 10 The Pharyses hearde that the people murmured such thynges concernynge hym. * And the Pharyses and the prestes * sent mynysters to take hym. Then sayde Jesus vnto them: Yet am I a lytell whyle wyth you: & then go I vnto hym that sente me. Ye shall seeke me, and shall not fynde me: * and where I am, thither can ye not come. Then sayde the Jewes amonge them selues: Whether wyl he go, that we shall not fynde hym? Wyl he go amonge the Gentyles, (whiche are scattered abroad) and teach the Gentyles? What maner of sayunge is thys that he sayd: ye shall seeke me, and shall not fynde me: and where I am thither can ye not come.

In the last dape, that greate dape of the feast John. b. 10 Jesus stode and cryed, sayenge: * If any man thyrste, let hym come vnto me, and dryncke. He that beleueth on me (as sayth the scripture) out of hys belly shall flowe ryuers of water of lyfe.
But thys spake he of the sprete, which they that beleue on hym, shoulde receaue. * For the holpe goost was not yet there, because Jesus was not yet glorified.

John. b. 10 * And any of the people therfore (when they hearde this sayeng, sayde * of a truthe thys is a Prophete. but other sayde: thys is Christ. But some sayde: Shall Christ come oute of Galyle?
Sayth not the scripture, that Christ shall come of the seide of Dauid: & out of the towne of Beth leem, where Dauid was? So was there dyscen-sion amonge the people because of hym. And some of them wolde haue taken hym, but no mā layed handes on hym. Then came the mynysters to the hye prestes and Pharyses. And they sayd vnto them. why haue ye not brought hym? The mynysters answered: neuer man spake as thys man doeth. Then answered them the Pharyses: are ye also dyscaued? Doth any of the rulers or of the pharyses beleue on hym? But thys comē people whiche knowe not the lawe, are cursed.

Nicodemus sayeth vnto them (* he that came to Jesus by nyghte, and was one of them: ) Doeth our lawe iudge any man, before it heare hym, & knowe what he hath done? They answered and sayde vnto hym: Arte thou also of Galyle?
Search and loke. For oute of Galyle aryseth no Prophete. And euery man wente vnto hys owne house. John. iii. 2

The viii. Chapter. **✠

✠ A woman is taken in aduoutre. Christ delpurereth her The fress of such as followe Christ, when they accuse to haue the deuell wythin hym, and go about to stone hym.

✠ Jesus went * vnto mount Olpue, and early in the mornynge he cam a-gayne into the temple, and al the people came vnto hym, & he sat downe and taught them. And the Scribes and Pharyses brought vnto hym a woman taken in aduoutre: and when they had set her in the myddel, they saye vnto hym Master, thys woman was taken in aduoutre, euē as þ dede was a dopng. * Moses is the lawe commaunded vs, that suche shoulde be stoned. But what sayest thou? Thys they sayde to tempt hym that they myght accuse hym. But Jesus stouped downe, and wyth his spynge wrote on the grounde. So when they contynued askynge hym, he lyft him selfe vp, and sayde vnto them: let hym that is amonge you wythout synne, caste the fyrste stone at her. And agayne he stouped downe, & wrote on the grounde. And allone as they hearde thys they went out one by one, begynnynge at the eldest. And Jesus was left alone, and the woman standynge in the myddes. When Jesus had lyft vp hym selfe, and sawe no man, but the woman he sayd vnto her: woman, where are those thyne accusers? Hath no man condemned the? She sayd: No mā, Lord. And Jesus sayde. Neether do I condemne the. Go and * synne no more. John. b. 8

✠ Then spake Jesus agayne vnto them, say-enge: * I am the lyght of the worlde he that fo-loweth me, doth not walke in darknes, but shal haue the lyghte of lyfe. The Pharyses therfore sayd vnto him: þ bearest recoorde of thy selfe, thy recoorde is not true. Jesus answered, & sayde vnto them: though I beate recoorde of my selfe, yet my recoorde is true: for I knowe whence I came and whither I go. But ye cannot tel whence I come, and whither I go. Ye iudge after þ fleshe, I iudge no man. And if I iudge, my iudgement is true. For I am not alone: but I and the father that sente me. * It is also wyrtten in youre lawe, that the testymony of two men is true

✠ I am

I am one that beareth wytnesse of my selfe, and the father that sent me, beareth wytnesse of me. Then sayd they vnto hym: where is thy father? Jesus answered: ye neyther knowe me: nor yet my father. If ye had knowne me, ye shoulde haue knowne my father also. These wordes spake Jesus in the treasury, as he taught in the temple, and no man layde handes on him: for his houre was not yet come.

Then sayde Jesus agayne vnto the: I go my waye, and ye shall seeke me, and shall dye in your synnes. Whether I go, thither can ye not come. Then sayde the Jewes wyl be kyll hym selfe: because he sayeth, whither I go, thither can ye not come? And he sayde vnto them: ye are from beneath, I am from aboue. Ye are of this worlde, I am not of this worlde. I sayde therfore vnto you, that ye shall dye in your synnes. For if ye beleue not that I am he, ye shall dye in your synnes. Then sayde they vnto hym: who arte thou? And Jesus sayeth vnto them: Euen the verpesame thyng that I speake vnto you. I haue many thynges to saye, & to iudge of you. For, and he that sent me, is true. And I speake in the worlde, those thynges, whiche I haue hearde of hym. Howbeit, they vnderstode not that he spake of his father. Then sayde Jesus vnto them: When ye haue lyfte vp an hylde sonne of man, then shall ye knowe, that I am he, and that I do not hyng of my selfe, but as my father hath taughte me, euen so I speake these thynges: and he that set me, is with me. The father hath not lefte me alone, for I do alwayes those thynges that please hym. As he spake these wordes, many beleued on hym.

Then sayd Jesus to those Jewes, whiche beleued on hym: If ye contynue in my worde, then are ye my very disciples, & ye shall knowe the truth, and the truth shall make you free. They answered hym: We be Abrahams seed, & were neuer bonde to any man, howe sayest thou then: ye shall be made free?

Jesus answered them: Verely, verely, I saye vnto you, that whosoever commytteth synne is the seruaunte of synne. And the seruaunt abydeth not in the house for euer. But the sonne abydeth euer. If the sonne therfore shall make you free, then are ye free in dede. I knowe that ye are Abrahams seed, but ye seke meanes to kyll me, because my word hath no place in you. I speake that whiche I haue seene with my father, and ye do, that whiche ye haue seene with your father. They answered and sayd vnto hym: Abraham is our father. Jesus sayth vnto the: If ye were Abrahams chyldren, ye wold do the dedes of Abraham. But now ye go aboute to kyll me, a man that hath tolde you the truth, whiche I haue hearde of God: this dyd not Abraham. Ye do the dedes of your father. Then sayde they to hym: we were not borne of fornication. We haue one father euen God. Jesus sayde vnto them: If God were your father, truly ye wold loue me. For I proceeded forth, and came from God. Neither came I of my selfe, but he sent me. Why do ye not knowe my speech? Euen because ye can not abyde the hearynge of my worde.

Ye are of your father the deuel, and the lustes of your father wyl ye serue. He was a murthe- rer from the begynnyng, & abode not in the truth because there is no truth in hym. When he speaketh a lyke, he speaketh of his owne: For he is a liar, & the father of the same thyng. And because I tell you the truth, therfore ye beleue me not.

Whyche of you rebuketh me of synne? If I saye the truth, why do not ye beleue me? He that is of God, beareth Goddes wordes. Ye therfore heare them not, because ye are not of God. Then answered the Jewes, and sayde vnto hym: Saye we not well, that thou art a Samaritane, and haste the deuell? Jesus answered: I haue not the deuell: but I honoure my father, and ye haue dyshonoure me. I seake not myne owne praple, there is one that seeketh, and iudgeth. Myse, verely, I saye vnto you: if a man kepe my sayenge: he shall neuer see death. Then sayd the Jewes vnto hym: Howe knowe we that thou hast the deuell? Abraham is dead, & the Prophetes, and thou sayest: if a man kepe my sayenge, he shall neuer taste of death. Art thou greater then our father Abraham, which is dead, and the Prophetes are dead? Whome makest thou thy selfe? Jesus answered: If I honoure my selfe, myne honoure is nothyng. It is my father, that honoureth me, which ye say, is your God, and yet ye haue not knowne hym: but I knowe hym. And if I saye: I knowe hym not, I shall be a lyar lyke vnto you. But I knowe hym, and kepe his sayenge.

Your father Abraham was glad to see my daye: and he sawe it, and reioyced. Then sayde the Jewes vnto hym: thou arte not yet I. ye are olde, and hast thou seene Abraham? Jesus sayde vnto them: Verely, verely, I saye vnto you: per Abraham was borne, I am. Then toke they vp stones, to caste at hym: But Jesus byd hym selfe, and went out of the temple.

The ix. Chapter.

Christ maketh the man to see that was borne blynde.

As Jesus passed by, he sawe a man whiche was blynde from his birth. And his disciples asked hym, sayenge: Master, who dyd synne, this man, or his father, that he was borne blynde? Jesus answered: Neither hath this man synned, nor yet his father and mother: but that the workes of God shoulde be shewed in hym. I muste worke the workes of hym that sente me, whyle it is daye. The nyght cometh, when no man can worke. As long as I am in the worlde, I am the lycht of the worlde.

As he had thus spoken, he spat on the grounde, and made claye of the spittle, and robed the claye on the eyes of the blynde, and sayde vnto hym: Go, washe the in the pole of Siloe, which by interpretation is almuch to saye, as sent. He went his waye therfore, & washed, and came agayne, sayenge. So the neyghboutes and they that had seene hym before (how that he was a begger

A beggar sayde: Is not this he that sat & begged? Some sayde: this is he. Agayne, other sayde: No, but he is like hym.

He hym selfe sayde: I am enen he. Therefore sayde they vnto hym: Howe are thyne eyes opened? He answered and sayde: The man that is called Iesus, made claye, & annoynted myne eyes, and sayd vnto me: Go to the pool Siloe, and washe. And when I went and washed, I receaued my syghte. Then sayde they vnto hym where is he? He sayde: I can not tell.

They brought to the pharises, hym that a li-tel before was blynde: and it was the * Sab-both daye, when Iesus made claye, and opened his eyes. The agayne the Pharises also asked hym, howe he had receaued hys syghte. He sayde vnto them: he put claye vpon myne eyes, and I washed and do so. Therefore sayde some of the Pharises: this man is not of God, because he keperh not the Sabbath daye. Other sayde, * howe can a man that is a synner do suche myra-cles? And there was a stryfe amonge the. They spake vnto the blynde mā againe. What sayest thou of hym whyche hath opened thyne eyes?
He sayde: * He is a prophete.

But the Jewes dyd not beleue of the mā how that he had ben blynde, and receaued his syghte) vntill they called the father and mother of him that hadde receaued his syghte. And they asked them sayenge. Is this your sonne whome you saye was borne blynde? Howe doth he now se then? Hys father and mother answered them, and sayde: we knowe that this is oure sonne, & that he was borne blynde: but by what meanes he now seeth, we can not tell. Or who hath opened his eyes, ca not we tel. He is olde ynough aske hym, let him answere for him selfe. Suche wordes spake his father & mother, because they fered the Jewes. For the Jewes had conspyred all redy, that if any man dyd confesse that he was Christ, * he shoulde be excommunicat out of the Synagoge. Therefore sayde hys father and mother: he is olde ynough, aske hym.

Then agayne called they the man that was blynde, and sayd vnto hym Gyue God þ prayse we knowe that this man is a synner. He answered therefore, and sayde: Whither he be a synner or no, I can not tell. One thyng I am sure of that where as I was blynde nowe I se. Then sayd they to hym agayne. What dyd he to the?
Howe opened he thyne eyes? He answered the I tolde you perwhyte, ye dyd not heare, wherfore wolde ye heare it agayne? Wylle ye also be hys dyscyples? Then care they hym, and sayde: We thou hys dysciple. We are Moses disciples We are sure, that God speake vnto Moses. As for this fellow, we knowe not from whence he is.

The man answered, and sayde vnto them this is a maruelous thing, that ye wote not frō whence he is, and yet he hath opened myne eyes.
For we be sure, that God heareth not synners.
But if any man be a worshypper of God, and obediente vnto his wyll, him heareth he. Sence the world began, was it not hearde, that any mā opened the eyes of one that was borne blind de. If this man were not of God, he could haue done nothyng. They answered, and sayd vnto him thou arte all together bozne in synne, and dost thou teache vs? And they cast hym out.

Iesus hearde that they had excommunicate hym, and whan he hadde founde him, he sayd vnto him dost thou beleue on þ sonne of God? He answered & sayde who is it Lord that I might beleue on him. And Iesus sayd vnto him. Thou hast sene hym, * and he yt is that talketh wyth the. And he sayde: Lord I beleue, and he wor-shyped hym. * And Iesus sayde vnto hym: I am come vnto iudgement into this world: that they whiche se not, myght se, and they whiche se, myght be made blynd. And some of the Pharises whiche were wyth hym, herde these wo-rdes and sayd vnto hym are we blinde also? Jesus sayd vnto the: * If ye were blynde, ye shoulde haue no synne. But now ye say: we se, therefore your synne remaineth.

The x. Chapter. ✠

Christ is the true shepheard and the doze of the shepe, he telleth the trueth, and therefore the Jewes take vp stones to cast at him and call hys preachynge blasphemie and go aboute to take hym.

Merely verely, I saye vnto you, he that entreteth not in by the doze into the shep-fold, but climeth vp some other waye the same is a thefe and a murtherer.

But he that entreteth in by the doze, is the shep-herde of the shepe, to hym the porter openeth, & the shepe here hys voyce, and * he calleth hys owne shepe by name, and ledeyth them out. And when he hath sent forth hys owne shepe, he goeth before them: and the shepe folowe hym for they knowe hys voyce. A straunger wylle they not folowe, but wylle fyre frō him: for they know not þ voyce of straungers. This prouerbe spake Iesus vnto the. But they vnderstod not what thynges they were whyche he spake vnto them.
Then sayde Iesus vnto them agayne Clerelye verelye, I saye vnto you: * I am the doze of the shepe. All (euen as many as come before me) are theues and murtherers: but the shepe dyd not here them. I am the doze by me if anye mā enter in, he shal be safe, and shal go in and out, and fynde pasture, & these cometh not but for to steale, kyl and to destroy. I am come that they myght haue lyfe, & that they myght haue it more abundantly.

✠ I am * the good shepheard. A good shepheard gyueth his lyfe for the shepe. An hy-red seruaunt and he which is not the shepheard (neither the shepe are hys owne) seeth the wolfe comynge, and leaueth the shepe, and flyeth, & the wolfe catched and scattereth the shepe. The hyred seruaunt flyeth, because he is an hyred seruaunt, and careth not for the shepe, I am the good shepheard, and * knowe my shepe, and am known of myne. * As my father knoweth me, euen so knowe I also my father. And * I gyue my lyfe for the shepe: and other shepe I haue whyche are not of this folde. Them also muste I brynge, and they shal heare my voyce, and there shal be one folde and one shepheard.

Therefore doth my father loue me, because a waye of my selfe, I haue power to put it from me, and I haue power to take it agayne. This commaundement haue I receaued of my father There was a dissentio therfore agayne among the Jewes for these sayenges, and manye of the sayde: * he thah the dyuell, and is made why he are ye him? * Other sayd: these are not the wor-des of him that hath the deuill. Can the deuill open the eyes of the blynde?

And it was at Jerusalem the feaste of the dedycatyon, and it was wynter: & Jesus walked in the temple, euen in Salomons porche.
Then came the Jewes rounde aboute hym, and sayde vnto hym: Howe longe doest thou make vs doute? If thou be Chyste tell vs playnely.
Jesus answered them: I tolde you, and ye beleue not. The workes that I do in my fathers name, they beare wytnesse of me. But ye beleue not, because ye are not of my shepe. As I sayde vnto you * my shepe here my voyce: And I know them, and they folowe me, & I geue vnto them eternall lyfe and they shal neuer perishe, neither shall any man plucke the out of my hand My father whych gaue the me, is greater then all, and no man is able to take them out of my fathers hande: I and my father are one.

Then the Jewes agayne toke vp stones, to stone hym withall. Jesus answered the many good workes haue I shewed you from my father, for whyche of them do you stone me? The Jewes answered hym sayenge. For thy good workes sake we stone the not: but for thy blasphemye, and because that thou beynge a man, makest thy selfe God. Jesus answered them Is it not wyrtten in youre lawe? * I sayde, ye are goddes. If he called the goddes, vnto who the worde of god was spoken (and the scryp-ture can not be broken concernynge him whom the father hath sanctified, and sente into the worlde). To ye say that I blasfeme: because I sayde I am the sonne of God? * If I do not the workes of my father, beleue me not. But if I do, and if ye beleue not me, beleue the workes that ye maye knowe, and beleue that the father is in me, and I in hym.

Agayne they wente aboute to take hym: & he escaped out of thei hande, and wente away agayne beyonde Iordane into the place where John before had baptised, and there he abode.
And many resorted vnto hym, and sayde: John dyd no myracle, but * all thynges whych John spake of thys man were true. And many beleued on hym there.

The xi. Chapter.

Christ chaseth Lazarus from death, & he dyed & was wher he was & a counsell agayne hym. He getteth hym out of the wape.

Certaine man was spcke, named Lazarus of Bethania & towne of mary, & her sister Martha. It was & Mary * whych annointed Jesus with oylment, & wyped hys fete with her heare, whose brother Lazarus was spcke. Therfore, hys sisters sent vnto him, say-enge: Lorde, beholde he whome thou louest, ys spcke. When Jesus herde that, he sayde this in sympte is not vnto deathe: but for the prayse of God, & the sonne of God * myghte be praysed by reason of it. Jesus loued Martha and her sister and Lazarus. When he had hearde therfore that he was spcke, he abode two dayes stil in the same place where he was.

Then after that, sayde he to hys disciples: let vs go into Jewry agayne. hys disciples sayd vnto hym. Master, the Jewes lately soughte to stone the and wilt thou go thither agayne?
Jesus answered: are there not. xii. houres of the daye? If a man walke in the daye, he stombleth not, because he seeth the lyghte of thys worlde. But if a man walke in the nyght he stobleth, because there is no lyght in hym. Thys sayde he, and after that he sayd vnto them, oure freind Lazarus * slepeth, but I go to wake hym out of slepe. Then sayde hys disciples: Lorde, if he slepe, he shall do well ynough. Howbeit Jesus spake of his deathe, but they thought he had spoken of the naturall slepe. Then sayd Jesus vnto them: playnely Lazarus is dead, and I am glad for your sakes, that I was not ther because ye maye beleue. Neuertheles, let vs go vnto hym. Then sayde * Thomas (whyche is called Didimus) vnto the disciples let vs also go, that we maye dye with hym. Then went Jesus, and founde that he had lyen in hys graue foure dayes already. Bethany was nye to Jerusalem, about tyfene furlonges of, & manye of the Jewes came to Martha and Mary to com-forte them ouer thei brother. Martha asone as she herde that Jesus was commynge, wente and met hym, but Mary sat still in the house.

Then sayde Martha vnto Jesus Lorde, * if thou haddest ben here, my brother had not died: neuerthelesse, now I knowe that whatsoeuer thou askest of God, God wil geue it the.
Jesus sayeth vnto her. Thy brother shall ryse agayne. Martha sayeth vnto hym, I knowe that he shall ryse agayne in the resurrection at the last day. Jesus sayeth vnto her: I am the resurrection and the lyfe: * he that belueth on me, pee though he were dead, yet shall he lyue.
And whosoever lyueth and belueth on me shal neuer dye: beleuest thou thys? She sayde vnto hym. yea lorde, I beleue that thou art Chyste the sonne of God, whyche shulde come into the worlde. And asone as he hadde so sayde, she went her waye, & called Mary her sister secretly, sayeng. The Master is come, and calleth for the. Asone as she herde that, she arose quykly, and came vnto him. Jesus was not yet come in to the towne: But was in the place wher Martha mette hym. The Jewes then why the were with her in the house and comforted her, (whē they sawe Mary that she rose up hastelye, and went out, folowed her sayenge. She goeth vnto the graue to wepe there.

Then when Mary was come where Jesus was, and sawe hym, she cometh nye vnto hys fete, and sayth vnto hym. Lorde, * if thou had dest bene here, my brother hadde not bene deade hen Jeſus ſix. daies before Eaſter, came to Bethany, wher Zarus had ben dead, who he raiſed fro deathe. There they made him a ſupper, & Martha ſerued, but Lazarus was one of them & ſate at ſ table with hym. * Then toke Mary a pounde of oynment (called Nardus, perfectre & precyouse) and anoynted Jeſus ſete, and wiped hys ſeate with her heate, and the houſe was fylled wth the odoure of the oynment. * Then ſayde one of hys diſcyples (even Judas Iſcari-oth Symons ſonne, whych afterwarde betrayed hym) why was not this oynment ſolde for thre hundred pence, and giuen to the poore? This he ſayde, not that he cared for the poore, but becauſe he was a thefe and * had the bagge, & bare that whych he was gyuen. Then ſayde Jeſus let her alone: agaynſt the day of my buryng hath ſhe kepte this. For the poore alwayes ſhall ye haue with you, but me haue ye not alwaye.

Each people of ſ Jewes therfore had knowledge that he was there. And they came not for Jeſus ſake only, but ſ they myght ſe Lazarus also * whome he raiſed fro deathe. But the hie prieſtes helde a counſell, that they myght put Lazarus to death alſo, becauſe that for his ſake many of the Jewes went a way and beleued on Jeſus. ¶

* On the nexte daie moche people that were come to the feaſte, when they hearde that Jeſus ſhulde come to Jeruſalem, toke bꝛanches of palme trees, and went forth to mete hym, and cryed. Hoſanna, * bleſſed is he that in the name of the Lorde, cometh kyng of Iſrael. And Je-ſus got a ponge aſſe, & ſat thereon, as it is wyrt-ſpyſte but whan Jeſus was gloryfied, then re-membred they that ſuche thynges were wyrtte of hym, and that ſuche thynges they had done vnto hym. The people ſ was wth hym, when he called Lazarus out of hys graue, and raiſed hym fro deathe bare recorde. Therefore met him the people alſo, becauſe they heard that he had done ſuch a miracle. The phariſes therfore ſaid amonge them ſelues: perceaue ye, how we preuaile nothyng: beholde (all the while) woꝛlde go

* There were certayne grekes amonge them that came to woꝛſhypp at the feaſte. the ſame came therfore to Philyp whych was of Bethſaida a cyte of Galile, and deſpyed hym ſaying: Syr, we wolde ſayneſe Jeſus. Philyp came and tolde Andrew. And againe Andrew and Philip tolde Jeſus. And Jeſus answered the ſaying: the houre is come, ſ the ſonne of man muſt be gloryfied.

* Clerely verely, I ſaye vnto you: I receypte the wheate corne ſal into the grounde, and dye, it bydeth alone. If it dye, it byngeth forth much

Whē Jeſus therfore ſadde her woꝛde, & ſ Jewes ned in the ſpyꝛte, & was troubled in hym ſelfe, & ſayd where haue ye layed hym? They ſaid vnto him, lorde come & ſe. And * Jeſus wept. The ſayd ſ Jewes beholde how he loued hym. And ſome of them ſayde. colde not he which * opened Jeſus ſayde take ye awaye the ſtone. Martha the ſiſter of hym that was dead, ſayde vnto bene dead foure dayes. Jeſus ſayde vnto her: Sayde I not vnto the, that if thou dyddeſt beleue, thou ſhouldeſt ſe the gloꝛye of God? Then they toke awaye the ſtone from the place where he that had ben dead, was layed. And Jeſus liſt vp hys eyes, and ſayde. Father, I thanke the, that thou haſte herde me. Howebeit, I knewe, ter a whyle ye shal se me: and that I go to the father? They sayde therfore, what is this that he sayth after a whyle? We cannot tell what he saythe. Iesus perceyued that they wolde aske hym, and sayde vnto them. Ye enquire of thys betwene yours selves, because I sayde after a whyle ye shal not se me, & agayne after a whyle ye shal se me. Verely verely. I say vnto you: ye shal wepe and lamente, but contrarywise, the worlde shal reioyce. Ye shal sorowe, but your sorowe shal be turned to ioye.

¶ These thynges haue I spoken vnto you by prouerbes. The tyme wyl come, when I shal no more speake vnto you by prouerbes. but I shal shewe you playnly from my father. At y daye shal ye aske in my name. And I saie not vnto you that I wil speake vnto my father for you. For the father him selfe loueth you, because ye haue loued me, and haue beleued, y I came out from God. I went out from the father, and came into the world agayne, I leaue y worlde and * go to the father.

¶ Hys disciples sayde vnto hym: Lo, nowe talkest thou plainly and speakest no prouerbe. ¶ Nowe are we sure that thou knowest al thynges, and needest not that any man shulde aske y any question. Therefore beleue we, that thou comest fro God. ¶ Iesus answered them: Howe ye do beleue. ¶ Beholde the houre draweth nye and is alredy come, that ye shal be scattered euery man to hys owne, and shal leaue me alone. And yet am I not alone. For * the father is wyth me.

These wordes haue I spoken vnto you that in me ye myght haue peace. For in y world shal ye haue tribulacion. but be of good chere I haue overcome the worlde.

The. xvii. Chapter.

¶ The most hart and louing prayer of a child vnto his father, for all such as receaue the truth.

I haue these wordes spake Iesus and lyft up hys eyes to heauen, and sayde: father, * the houre is come glorifye thy sonne that thy sonne also maye glorifye the: as thou hast gyuen him power ouer al flesh that he shuld gyue eternal lyfe to as many as thou hast gyuen hym. This is * lyfe eternal y they might know the, the only true God & Iesus Christ whom thou hast sent. I haue glorified the on the earth. * I haue fulfilled the worke, whych thou gauest me to do. And now glorifye thou me, o father, with thine owne selfe, wyth the glory, whych I had with the, y the worlde was, I haue declared thy name vnto the men, whych thou gauest me out of the worlde. Thyne they were and thou gauest them me, and they haue kepte thy word. Nowe they haue knowne y all y thynges what so. uer thou hast gyuen me, are of the. For I haue geue vnto them the wordes whiche thou gauest me, and they haue receaued the, and haue knowne surely, that I cam out from the: and they haue beleued, that thou dyddest sende me.

¶ I pray for them, I pray not for * the worlde but for them: whych y haue geuen me, for they are thyne. And all myne are thyne, & thyne, are myne, and I am glorified in them. And nowe am I not in the worlde, and they are in y worlde and I come to the. ¶ name, the whych thou hast geuen me, that they also may be one, as we are. Whyle I was with them in the worlde I kept them in thy name.

* Those that thou gauest me, haue I kept, and none of them is lost, but that losse chyld, that the scripture myght be fulfilled.

Now come I to the, and these wordes speake I in the worlde, that they myghte haue my ioye full in them. I haue geuen them thy worde, and * the worlde hath hated them, because they are not of the worlde, euen as I also am not of the worlde. I desyre not that thou shuldest take the out of the worlde but * that thou kepe them fro euell. They are not of the worlde: as I also am not of the worlde. Sanctifye them thozowe thy truth. Thy worde is the truth. As thou dyddest sende me into the worlde, euen so haue I also sente them into the worlde, and for they shal be sanctified thozowe the truth.

Nevertheless, I praye not for them alone but for them also whych shal beleue on me thozowe they preacheinge that they al may be * one, as thou father art in me, and I in y, and that they also may be one in vs: that the worlde maye beleue, that y hast sent me. And the glory whiche thou gauest me, I haue gyuen them, that they maye be one, as we also are one. I in them, and thou in me, y they may be made perfecte in one and that the worlde may know, that thou hast sent me & hast loued the as thou hast loued me.

Father, I wyl that they whych thou hast gyuen me * be wyth me where I am, that they may see my glory, whiche thou hast giue me. For y louedest me before the making of the worlde. * O ryghteous father, the worlde also hath not knowne the. but I haue knowne the and these haue knowen. that thou hast set me. And I haue declared vnto them thy name, and wyl declare it that the loue wher wyth thou hast loued me, may be in them, and I in them. **¶

The. xviii. Chapter.

When Iesus had spokē these wordes I * he went forth wyth hys disciples ouer y broke of Cedron, where was a garden, into the whych he entred & his disciples. Judas also whych betrayed hym, knewe the place. For Iesus ofte tymes resorted thither wyth hys disciples. Judas then after he hadde receyued a bonde of me (and mynsters of the hye prestes & Pharysees) came thither wyth lanternes, & fyercyandes & weapons. And Iesus knowynge all thynges y shuld come on hym, went forth, and sayde vnto them: whom seke ye? They answered hym: Iesus of Nazareth. Iesus sayth vnto them I am he. Judas also whych betrayed him, stode wyth them. Aflone then as he had sayde vnto them I am he, they went backward and fel to y grounde. Then asked he them agayne: Whome seke ye? They sayde: Iesus of Nazareth. Iesus answered: I haue tolde you, that I am he. Yf ye seke me me therefore, let these go they way That I sayinge myght be fulfilled whiche he spake: * of the: whiche thou gauest me, haue I not lost one.

Then Symon Peter haupng a sword, dꝛue it, and smote the hꝛe pꝛeestes seruaunt, and cut of hys ryghte eare. The seruauntes name was Malchus, Therefore sayeth Jesus vnto Peter:

* Put vp thy sword into the sheath, shal I not drynke of the cuppe, whiche my father hath geuen me? Then the companie and the captayne, and ministers of the Jewes toke Jesus, & bound hym, and led hym awaye to Anna spꝛake: for he was father in lawe vnto Caphas, which was the hꝛe pꝛest that same year. Caphas was he whiche gaue counsel to the Jewes: that it was expedient, that one man shuld dye for the people.

* And Symon Peter folowed Jesus, & so dyd another disciple that disciple was knowen vnto the hꝛe pꝛest, and wente in with Jesus into the palace of the hꝛe pꝛest. But Peter stode at the doꝛe wꝛthoute. Then went oute that other disciple (whiche was knowen vnto the hꝛe pꝛest) and spake to the damasell that kepte the doꝛe, & brought in Peter. Then sayde the damasell that kepte the doꝛe, vnto Peter. Arte not thou also one of thys mannes discyples? He sayde: I am not. The seruauntes and mynisters stode ther, which had made a fyꝛe of cooles, for it was cold and they warmed them selues. Peter also stode amonge them, and warmed hym.

* The hꝛe pꝛest then asked Jesus of hys disciples and of hys doctrine. Jesus answered him I spake openly in the world. I neuer taughte in the Synagoge, and in the temple whiche al the Jewes resort, and in secrete haue I sayde nothyng. Why askest thou me? Like them which herd me, what I haue sayd vnto them. Behold they can tel what I sayd. Whē he had thus spoken, one of the ministers whiche stode by, smote Jesus on y face, saying: and answerest thou the hꝛe pꝛest for? Jesus answered hym: If I haue euell spoken, beare witness of the euell. But yf I haue wel spoken, why synnest thou me? And Annas sent hym bounde vnto Caphas the hꝛe pꝛest.

Symon Peter stode, and warmed hym selfe Then sayd they vnto him art not thou also one of hys discyples? He denyed it, and sayde: I am not. One of the seruauntes of the hꝛe pꝛest, hys colyn whose eare Peter smot of, sayd vnto him dyd not I see the in the garden wꝛth hym? * Peter therefore denyed agayne: and immediatlye the cocke crew. Then led they Jesus from Capphas into the hall of iudgement. It was in the mornyng, and they them selues went not into the iudgement hal, lest they shuld be defiled, but that they myghte eate Pasche. Pylate then wente oute vnto the and sayde: what accusacion bypꝛinge ye agaynst thys man? They answered and sayde vnto hym: Yf he were not an euell doer we wold not haue deliuered hym vnto the.

Then sayde Pylate vnto them take ye hym, & iudge hym after your owne lawe. The Jewes therefore sayde vnto hym. It is not lawfull for vs to put any mā to death. That the wordes of Jesus myght be fulfilled: which he spake, synnyſpenge, what death he shulde dye.

* Then Pylate entred into the iudgement hal agayn, & called Jesus, & sayd vnto hi art thou the king of the Jewes? Jesus answered sayd I that of thy selfe, or dyd other tel it of me? Pyllate answered: Am I a Jewe? Thyne owne na-cion and hꝛe pꝛeestes haue deliuered the vnto me What hast thou done? Jesus answered my kingedome is not of this world. If my kyngdome were of this worlde: then wold my ministers surelye fyghe, that I shulde not be deliuered to the Je-wes, but now is * my kyngdome not from hece Pylate therefore sayde vnto hym: Arte thou a kyng? Jesus answered: thou sayeste that I am a kyng: For this cause was I borne, and for this cause came I into the world, & I am beare wꝛtnes vnto y truth. And al y are of the truth beare my voyce. Pylate sayde vnto hym, What thyng is truth? And whan he had sayde thys he went out agayne vnto the Jewes, and sayeth vnto them * I fynde in hym no cause at all. Ye haue a custome, that I shuld deliuer you one loose at Ester, wil ye that I loose vnto you the kyng of the Jewes? Then cryed they all agayne, saying: * Not hym but Barrabas. the same Barrabas was a murtherer.

The xix Chapter.

John, & yeh and is buried.

Then Pylate toke Jesus therefore, & scourged hym. * And the souldyers hine tonge, Gabbatha. It was the preparpunge dape of the Easter, about the syxt houre. And he saith vnto the Jewes: behold your king: They cryed, a waye wpth hym, a waye wpth, crucifye hym. Pilate sayeth vnto them: Shall I crucifye your kyng? The hye prestes answered: we haue no kyng, but Cesar. * Then deliuered he hym vnto them, to be crucified. And they toke Iesus, and led hym a waye. And he bare hys crosse, * And went forth into a place, whiche is called the place of deadmens sculles. But in hebrue, Golgatha, where they crucified hym, and two other wpth hym, on eyther syde one, and Iesus in the myddes. And * Pilate wrote a tytle, and put it on the crosse. The wyrtynge was: Iesus of Nazareth kyng of the Jewes. Thys tytle reade many of the Jewes. For the place where Iesus was crucified, was nye to the cytie. And it was wyrtten in hebrue, and Greke, and Latyn. Then sayde the hye Prestes of the Jewes to Pilate: wyrt not kyng of the Jewes, but that he sayde: I am kyng of the Jewes. Pilate answered: what I haue wyrtten; that haue I wyrtten.

Then the souldyers, * when they hadde crucified Iesus, toke hys garmentes, and made foure partes, to enery souldyer a parte, and also his cote. The cote was without seame, wrought vpon thowowe out. They sayd therfore amonge them selues: Let vs not deuyde it, but caste lottes for it, who shall haue it. That the scripture myght be fulfilled, saynge: * They haue departed my rayment amonge them, and for my cote dyd they cast lottes. And the souldyers dyd suche thynges in dede.

There stode by the crosse of Iesus his mother and his mothers syster, Mary the wyfe of Cleophas and Mary Magdalene. When Iesus therfore sawe hys mother and the dysciple stadyng * whome he loued he sayeth vnto hys mother: woman, be olde thy sonne. Then sayde he to the dysciple: behold thy mother. And fro that houre the dysciple toke her for his owne.

After these thynges, Iesus knowynge that all thynges were now performed, that * the scripture myght be fulfilled, he sayth. I thyrste. So there stode a vessel by, full of vyneger. * Therfore they fylled a sponge wpth vyneger & wound it aboute wpth yflope, and put it to hys mouth. As Iesus then receaued of the vyneger, he sayd: * It is fynished, and bowed hys heade, and gaue vp the goost. The Jewes therfore, because it was the preparpunge of the Sabbath, & the bodys shulde not remayne vpon the croue, on the Sabbath dape (for that Sabbath dape was an hye dape) besoughte Pilate, that they legges myght be broken, and that they myghte be taken downe. Then came the souldyers, and brake the legges of the fyrst, & of the other whiche was crucified wpth hym. But when they came to Iesus, and sawe that he was deade alreadye, they brake not hys legges but one of the souldyers with a speare thrust hym into the syde, and forthwpyth came there out bloude and water.

And he that sawe it bare recoorde, and hys recorde is true. And he knoweth that he sayth true that ye myghte beleue also. For these thynges were done, that the scripture shuld be fulfilled. * Ye shall not breake a bone of him. And agayne another scripture sayth: * they shall loke on hym whom they pearced. * After this, Ioseph of Arimathea, whiche was a dysciple of Iesus, but secretly for feare of the Jewes, besought Pilate that he might take downe the body of Iesus. And Pilate gaue hym lycence, & he came therfore, & toke the body of Iesus. And there came also Nicodemus (whiche at the beginning came to Iesus by night) and brought of myrrre and aloes myngled together, about an hundred ponde waighte. Then toke they the body of Iesus, and wounde it in linnen clothes wpth the odoures, as the maner of the Jewes is to burye. And in the place where he was crucified, ther was a garden, and in the garden a newe sepulchre, wherein was neuer man layde. There layde they Iesus therfore, because of the preparpunge of the Sabbath of the Jewes for the sepulchre was nye at hande. ¶

The. xx. Chapter. ¶

¶ The resurrecyon of Christ, whiche appeareth to Mary Magdalene and to all hys dysciples, to theys greute conforte.

He * fyrste dape of the Sabbathes. ¶ I cam Mary Magdalene early whē it was yet darke) vnto the sepulchre and sawe the stone taken a waye fro the graue. Thē she ranne, and came to Symon Peter, & to the other dysciple * whō Iesus loued, and sayeth vnto them: They haue taken a waye the Lord out of the graue, and we can not tell where they haue layde hym. Peter therfore went forth, and that other dysciple, and came vnto the sepulchre. They ranne both together, and the other dysciple dyd outrunne Peter, and came fyrst to the sepulchre. And whā he had stouped downe, he sawe the linnen clothes lyeng yet went he not in. * Then came Symon Peter folowynge hym, & went into the sepulchre, & sawe the linnen clothes lyng, & the napken that was about hys head, not lyeng wpth the linnen clothes, but wrapped together in a place by it selfe. Thē wente in also that other dysciple, whiche came fyrst to the sepulchre, & he sawe, & beleued. For as yet they knewe not the * scripture, that he shuld rylse agayne from death. ¶ Then the dysciples went a waye agayne vnto theyr owne home.

hym, and I wil set hym. Jesus sayeth vnto her: Mary she turned her selfe, & sayde vnto hym: Rabboni, which is to say master. Jesus sayeth vnto her: Touche me not, for I am not yet ascended to my father. But go to my brethren, & saye vnto the: I ascende vnto my father & poure father & to my God, & poure God. * Mary Magdalene came & tolde the dysciples, y the had sene the Lorde, and that he had spoken such thynges vnto her. * The same day at night which was the fyrst day of y Sabothes, when the doores were shut (wher the dysciples were assembled together for feare of the Jewes) came Jesus, & stode in the myddes, and sayth vnto them: peace be vnto you. And whē he had so sayd, he shewed vnto them his handes, and his syde. Then were the dysciples glad when they sawe the Lorde.

Then sayd Jesus to them agayn: peace be vnto you. As my father sent me, euen so sende I you also. And whē he had sayde those wordes, he brethed on them, and sayth vnto them: Receaue ye the holpe gooste. Whosoever synnes ye remyt, they are remytted vnto them. And whosoever synnes ye retayne, they are retained.

But Thomas one of the twelve (which is called Didimus) was not with the when Jesus came. The other dysciples therefore sayde vnto him: we haue sene y Lorde. But he sayd vnto the: except I se in his handes y prync of the nayles, & put my fynger into y prync of y nayles, & thrust my hand into his syde, I wyl not beleue. And after vii dayes agayn his dysciples were within and Thomas with the. Then came Jesus whē y doores were shut, & stode in the myddes, & sayde: Peace be vnto you. And after y sayd he to Thomas: brynge thy fynger hither, & se my handes, and reach hither thy hande, & thruste it into my syde, & be not saythlesse, but beleuynge. Thomas answered & sayd vnto him: my Lord, & my God. Jesus sayeth vnto hym: Thomas, because thou hast sene me, & hast beleued, blessed are they that haue not sene, & yet haue beleued. * And many other sygnes truly dyd Jesus in the presence of his dysciples, which are not wyrtte in this booke. These are wyrtten that ye myght beleue, y Jesus is Christ the sonne of God, and that in beleuynge, ye myght haue lyfe thowowe his name.

The xxi Chapter.

¶ He appereth to his dysciples agayne by the see of Tiberias, and commaundeth them to fische for man.

Afterward dyd Jesus shew him selfe agayne, at the see of Tiberias. And on this wyse shewed he himselfe. Ther were together Symon Peter & Thomas (which is called Didimus) and * Nathanael of Cana in Galile, & the sonnes of Zebedei, & two other of his dysciples. Symon Peter sayeth vnto the: I wyl go a fshynge. They saye vnto him: we also wyl go with the. They went they waye, & entred into a shyp immediatly, & that nyght caught they nothyng. But when y mornynge was nowe come, Jesus stode on the shore, neuer thelesse y dysciples knewe not that it was Jesus. Jesus sayth vnto the: chylde, haue ye any meate? They answered hym: no. And he sayeth vnto them: * cast oute the net on y ryght syde of the shyppe, and ye shall fynde. They cast oute therefore, and anon they were not able to drawe it, for the multitude of fshes.

Then sayd y disciple whō Jesus loued vnto Peter: It is y Lorde. Whē Symon Peter herd y it was y Lorde, he gyrd his cote vnto him, for he was naked, & sprang into y see. The other dysciples came by shyp, for they were not farre frō land, but as it were two hundred cubytes, & they drew y net w fshes. A lōne then as they were come to lāde, they sawe hote coles, & fshes layde thereon, & bread. Jesus sayeth vnto the: brynge of the fshes which ye haue nowe caught. Symon Peter went vp, & drew y net to the lande full of great fshes, an hundred & lxx. And for all there were so many, yet was not the net brokē. Jesus sayth vnto the: come, & dyne. And none of the dysciples durst aske hym: what art thou? for they knewe y it was y Lorde. Jesus then came, & toke bread, & gaue them, and fshes lyke wyse. This is nowe y thyrde tyme that Jesus appeared to his dysciples, after that he was risen agayne from death. So whā they had dynd, Jesus sayeth to Symon Peter. Symon Joanna, louest thou me more then these? he sayd vnto him: yee Lorde, y knowest, y I loue y. he sayth vnto him: fede my lābes. he sayth to hym agayne y seconde tyme: Symon Joanna, louest y me? he sayth vnto hym: yee Lorde, thou knowest y I loue y. he sayd vnto him: fede my shepe. he sayd vnto him y thyrde tyme: Symon Joanna louest y me? Peter was sorow, because he sayd vnto him the thyrde tyme: louest thou me, & he sayd vnto hym: Lorde, thou knowest al thynges, thou knowest that I loue the. Jesus sayeth vnto hym: fede my shepe.

¶ Clearly, verely, I saye vnto the: when thou wast yonge, thou gyrdedst thy selfe, & walkedst whither thou woldest, but when thou art olde, * thou shalt stretch forth thy handes, & another shall gyde the, and lead the whither thou woldest not. That spake he, sygnifyenge by what death he shulde glorifye God.

And when he had spoken this, he sayeth vnto him: folowe me: Peter turned aboute, & sawe the dysciple, * whome Jesus loued, folowynge (which also leane on hys breste at supper, and sayde: Lorde, which is he that betrayeth the?) When Peter therefore sawe hym, he sayth to Jesus: Lorde, what shall he here do? Jesus sayeth vnto hym: yf I wyl haue hym to tarye tyll I come, what is that to the, folowe thou me. The went this sayenge abrode amonge the brethren that, that disciple shuld not dye. Yet Jesus sayd not to hym: he shall not dye, but yf I wyl that he tarye tyll I come, what is that to the? The same dysciple is he, whiche testyfeth of these thynges, & wrote these thynges. And we knowe that hys testimonye is true. * There are also many other thynges, which Jesus dyd, & which yf they shulde be wyrtte euery one, I suppose, y worlde coude not contayne the booke y shulde be wyrtten.

The Actes of the Apostles.

The first Chapter.

Of the ascension of Christ, and Matthias is chosen in steade of Judas.

In the former treatise (deare Theophilus) we haue spoken of all that Iesus began to do and teache, vntill the daye in which he was taken vp, after that he thowde þ holp goost had geuen commaundemen-tes vnto the Apostles, whom he had chosen, to whome also he shewed hym selfe alyue after his passyon (and that by many tokens, appearinge vnto them fourtye dayes, and speakinge of the kyngdome of God, and gathered them togeather, * and commaunded them, that they shoulde not departe from Ierusalem, but to waite for the promys of the father, * whereof, sayeth he, ye haue hearde of me. For Ihon truly baptysed wyth water, but ye shal be baptysed wyth the holpe gooste after these fewe dayes. When they therfore were come together, they asked of hym, sayenge, Lorde, wilt thou at this tyme, restore agayne the kyngdome to Israel? And he sayde vnto them: * It is not for you to knowe þ tymes, or þ seasons, whyche the father hath put in hys owne power. but * ye shal receaue power, after that the holy goost is come vpon you. And * ye shal be wytnesses vnto me, not onely in Ierusalem, but also in all Jewrye and in Samary, & euen vnto the worldes ende.

And when he hadde spoken these thynges, whyle they behelde, * he was taken vp an hie and a cloud receaued hym vp out of theyr syght.
And whyle they looked stedfastlye vp toward heauen, as he wente, behelde, two women stode by them in whyte apparell, which also sayd: ye me of Galyle, why stande ye galyng vpon into heauen? This same Iesus, whiche is taken vp fro you into heauen, * shall so come, euen as ye haue sene hym go into heauen. ¶ Then returned they vnto Ierusalem, from the mounte that is called Olyuete, whiche is from Ierusalem a Sabboth dayes iorneye. And when they were come in, they wet vp into a parter, where abode both * Peter and James, and Ihon & Andrieu, Phylp and Thomas, Barthelmewe & Matthewe, James the sonne of Alphus, and Symmon zelotes, and Judas the brother of James.
These all continued wyth one accord in prayer and supplicacion wyth the women, and Marye the mother of Iesu, and wyth hys brethzen.

¶ And in those dayes Peter stode vp in the myddes of the dysciples, and sayde, the nombre of names that were together, were about an tū-dred and twentye. ¶ Ye men and brethzen, this scripture must nedes haue bene fulfilled, whiche the holy gooste, thowde the mouthe of Dauid spake before of Judas, * whiche was guyde to them that toke Iesus. ¶ For he was nombred wyth vs, and had obtayned felowshyppe in this mystryation. And the same hath nowe possessed a plat of grounde wyth the rewarde of in-quitye. and when he was * hanged, he burst asunder in the myddes, and all his bowels gushed out. And it is knowen vnto all the inhabyters of Ierusalem, in so muche that the same felde is called in theyr moother tonge, Acheldama, that is to sayd, the bloudy felde. For it is wyrtten in the booke of Psalmes: * hys habytacyon bevoyde, and no man be dwellynge therein, * and his dyschord let another take: Wherefore of these men whiche haue companied wyth vs (all the tyme that the Lorde Iesus had all hys con-uersacion amōge vs, begynnynge at þ baptyme of Ihon, vnto that same daye that he was take vp from vs, must one be ordeyned, to be a wytnes wyth vs of hys resurrection.

And they apoynted two, Joseph which is called Barsabas whose surname was Justus, & Matthias. And when they prayed, they sayde thou Lorde which * knowest the hertes of all me-

The ii. Chapter.

Of the commynge of the holy goost, the sermon of Peter before the congregacion at Ierusalem, and the choysynge of Stephen.

When the fyrstie dayes were come to an ende, they were all wyth one accorde together in one place. And so-only there came a sounde fro heauen, as it had bene the commynge of a myghyde wynde, and it fylled all the house where they late, and there appeared vnto them cloud tonges, lyke as they had bene of fyre, and it late vpon eche one of them, * and they were al fylled wyth the holy goost, and began to speake wyth other tonges, eue as the same sprete gaue them vnderstaunce.

¶ Ther were dwellynge at Ierusalem, Jewes deuoute men, oute of euery nacyon of them that are vnder heauen. Whē this was noyed about the multitude came togeather, & were as sonnyed because that euery man hearde the speake wyth his owne language. They wondred al, and maruailed, sayenge amonge them, selues, beholde, this are not all these whiche speake, of Galyle? And howe heare we euery man hys owne tōge wher in we were borne: Parthians, and Medes, and Elamites, and the inhabyters of Mesopotamia and of Jewrye, and of Capadoeia, of Pontus, and Asia, Bithynia, and Pamphilia, of Egypte and of the parties of Lybia, whiche is besyde Syren, and straungers of Rome, Jewes and * Proselytes. Grekes and Arabians: we haue heard them speake in our owne tōges the greates workes of God. ¶ They were all amazed, and wondred, sayenge one to another: what mea-neth this? Other mocked, sayenge: these men are full of newe wyne.

¶ It is But

C But Peter stepped forth wth the eleven, and yfte v<sup>p</sup> hys voyce, and sayde vnto them: Ye men of Iewry, and all ye that dwell at Ierusalem, be this knowen vnto you, and with your eares heare my wordes. For these are not dreames, as ye suppose, sayng it is but the thyrde houre of the daye. But this is that whiche was spoken by the Prophete Joel: And it shalbe in the last dayes, sayth God, of my sprete I wil powre oute vpon all fleshe. * And your sonnes & your daughters shal prophesye, & your younge men shal se visions, & your old men shal dreame dreames. And on my seruantes, and on my hande maydens I wil poure out of my sprete in those dayes, and they shal prophesye. And * I will shewe wonders in heauen aboue, and tokens in the earth beneath, blood and fyre, and the vapour of smoke. The sonne shalbe turned into darke-nes, and the mone into bloude before that great and notable daye of the Lorde come. And it shal come to passe, that * whosoener shal call on the name of the Lorde, shalbe saved. I

D The men of Israel, heare these wordes: Jesus of Nazareth a man aproued of God among you wth myracles, wonders and sygnes, which God dyd by hym in y<sup>e</sup> myddes of you, as ye your selues knowe: hym haue ye taken by the handes of vnyghteous persones, after he was deliuered by the deternynate councell and forknowledge of God and haue crucyfyed & slayne hym: whome God hath rayled v<sup>p</sup>, and loosed the sorowes of death, because it was vnpossible that he shoulde be holden of it. For Dauid speaketh of hym. * Afore hande I sawe God alwayes before me, for he is on my ryghte hande, that I shoulde not be moued. Therefore dyd my herte reioyse, & my tonge was glad. Moreover also my fleshe shal rest in hope, because thou wylt not leue my soule in hel, neyther wylt thou suffer thynne body to se corruption. Thou hast shewed me the wayes of lyfe, thou shalt make me full of ioye wth thy countenance. I

E Ye men and brethren, let me frelye speake vnto you of the patriarke Dauid. * For he is both dead and buryed, and hys sepulchre remaneth wth vs vnto this day. Therefore sayng he was a prophete, and knewe that God hadde sworne wth an oth to him, that Christ, as cōcernynge the fleshe, shoulde come of the frutes of hys loynes, and shoulde sytte on his seate, he knowynge this before, spake of the resurrection of Christ: that hys soule shoulde not be lefte in hell: neyther his fleshe shoulde se corruption. This Jesus hath God rayled v<sup>p</sup>, * wherof we all are wytnesses.

Sence nowe that he by the ryghte hande of God is exalted, and hath receaued of the father the promyse of the holy goost, he hath shed forth this * spere whiche ye nowe se, and heare. For Dauid is not ascended into heauē, but he sayeth: * The Lorde sayd to my Lorde: syt thou on my ryghte hande, vntyll I make thy foes thy foote stooles. Soberthofore, let all the house of Israel knowe for a suretye, that God hath made that same Jesus (whome ye haue crucyfyed) Lorde and Christ.

When they hearde this, they were pycked in theyr hertes, and sayde vnto Peter, and vnto the other Apostles: Ye men and brethren, * what shall we do? Peter sayde vnto them: repente of your synnes, and be baptysed euery one of you in the name of Jesus Christe, for the remysyon of synnes, and ye shall receaue the gyfte of the holy gooste. For the promyse was made vnto you and to your chyldren, & to al that are as farre of, euen as many as the Lorde our God shal call. And wth many other wordes bare he wytnes and exhorted them, sayenge: Saue your selues from this vntowarde generacyon. Then they that gladly receaued hys preachynge were baptysed: and the same daye ther were added vnto them about thre thousande soules.

And they cōtinued in the Apostles doctryne & fellowship, & in breakynge of bread, and in pray-ers. And feare came ouer euery soule. And many wonders and sygnes were shewed by the Apostles: (at Jerusalem. And greete feare came vpon all men.) And all that belened, kept them selues together and hadde all thynges comen, and solde theyr possessyons and goodes, and parted them to all men, as euery man had neede. And they continued dayly wth one accord in the temple, & brake breade from house to house, and dyd cate theyr meate together wth gladnes and synghenes of herte, praysynge God, & had fauoure wth all the people. And the Lorde added to the congregacyon daly, such as shoulde be saved.

The iii. Chapter. I

The harte is restored to hys lord. Peter preacheth Christ vnto the people.

Peter and Ihon went v<sup>p</sup> together into the temple at the nygthe houre of prayer. And a certayne mā that was halt from hys mothers wombe, was broughte, whome they layde daylye at the gate of the temple (whiche is called betytyful) to aske almes of them that entred into the temple. When he sawe Peter and Ihon that they wolde go into the temple, he desired to receaue an almes. And Peter fastened hys eyes on hym wth Ihon, and sayde: Loke on vs. And he gaue hede vnto them, trustyng to receaue some thyng of them. Then sayde Peter: Sopluer and golde haue I none, such as I haue, geue I the. In the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth * ryse v<sup>p</sup>, and walke. And he toke hym by the ryghte hande, and lyfte hym v<sup>p</sup>. And immediatlye hys fete and ancle bones receaued strengthe. And he sprang, stode, and walked, and entred wth them into the temple, walkynge, and leappynge, and praysynge God.

And all the people sawe hym walke, & prayse God. And they knewe hym, that it was he which sat and begged at the betytyful gate of the temple. And they wondred, and were sore astonyed, at that whiche had happened vnto hym. And as the halt which was healed, helde Peter & Ihon all the people ranne amased vnto them in * the porche that is called Salomons.

When Peter sawe that, he answered vnto the people: Ye men of Israel, why maruaile ye at

The Apostles are taken and brought before the turne them into prayer, and are more obedient vnto

The. v. Chapter.

The bysellynge of Ananias, and Saphyra to punishyd. Miracles are done by the Apostles which are taken, but the Angell of God byngeth the soule of prson. They are brought before the counsell. The sentence of Gamaliel. The Apostles are beat they resorte in trouble.

A Certaine man, named Ananias, wpth Saphyra hys wyfe, solde a pcellen, and kepte awaye parte of the pryce ( hys wyfe also beyng of counsell ) and brought a certayne parte, and layd it at the Apostles fete. But Peter sayd Ananias, how is it, that Sathan hath fylled thyne harte, that thou shouldest lye vnto the holpe goost, and kepe awaye part of the pryce of the lande: Pertayned it not vnto the onely, and after it was solde, was it not in thyne owne power: Why hast thou conceaued thys thyng in thyne herte? Thou hast not lyed vnto men, but vnto God. When Ananias herde these wordes, he fell downe, and gaue vp the goost. And great feare came on all them that herde these thynges. And the yonge men rose vp, and put hym apart, and caried hym out and buryed hym.

¶ And it fortunyd, that ( as it were aboute the space of thre houres after, his wyfe came in, ygnorante of that whiche was done. And Peter sayde vnto her: Tell me, solde ye not the lande for so much? And she sayd yee, for so much. The Peter sayde vnto her. Why haue ye agreed together, to tempte the sprete of the Lorde: Beholde the fete of them which haue buryed thy husbande are at the doore, and shall carpe the out. Then fell she downe straighte waye at hys fete, and yel- ded vp the gooste. And the yonge men came in and founde her dead, and caried her out, and buryed her by her husbande. And greate feare came on all the congregacyon, and on as many as heard it.

¶ By the handes of the Apostles * were many sygnes and wonders shewed amonge the people. And they were altogether wpth one accorde in * Salomons porche. And of other durste no man ioyne hym selfe to them, neuerthelesse the people magnified them. The nombre of them that beleued in the I O R D E bothe of men and women, grewe more and more: in so muche that they brought the sycke into the stretes, and layde them on beddes and couthes, that at the least waye the shadowe of Peter, whan he came by, myght shadowe some of them, * ( and that they myght all be deliuered from theyr infirmities. ) There came also a multitude out of the cyties rounde about vnto Ierusalem, byngynge sycke folkes, & the whiche were vexed wpth vncleane spretes. And they were heald euery one.

¶ Then the chefe prest rose vp, and all they that were wpth hym ( which is the secte of the Sadducees ) and were full of indignacyon, and layde handes on the Apostles, and put them in the common prelson. * But the angell of the Lorde by nyght opened the prelson doores, and brought the forth, and sayde: go, stand and speake in the temple to the people, al the wordes of thys lyfe. When they herd that, they entred into the temple early in the mornynge, and taught. But the chefe prest came and they that were wpth hym, and called a counsell together, and all the elders of the chyldren of Israel, and sent men to the prelson, to fet them. When the mynysters came, and founde them not in the prelson, they returned and tolde, sayenge the prelson truly founde we shut wpth all dyligence, and the keepers standynge wpthout before the doores. But when we had opened, we founde no man wpthin. When the chefe prest and the ruler of the temple, and the hye prestes herde these thynges, they doubted of the wherunto thys wolde growe.

¶ Then came one and shewed them: beholde, the men that ye put in prelson, stande in the temple, and teache the people. Then went the ruler of the temple, wpth mynysters and brought the wpthout by violence. For they feared the people, lest they woulde haue bene stoned. And when they hadde brought them, they set them before the counsell. And the chefe prest asked them, sayenge: * dyd not we stretefully commaunde you, that ye shuld not teache in thys name? And beholde, ye haue fylled Ierusalem with your doctryne, & intende to bynge * thys mans bloude vpon vs.

¶ Peter and the other Apostles answered, and sayd. * We ought more to obeye God then men. The God of our fathers raysed vp Iesus, whome ye slew, and hanged on a tree. hym hath God lyfte vp, wpth hys ryghte hande, to be a ruler and a saupoure, for to geue repentance to Israel, and forgynesse of synnes. And we are recordes of these thynges, whiche we saye, and so is also the holpe goost, whome God hath geuen to the that obeye hym. God verely spake on this wyse * that his seide shulde sojourn in a straunge lande, and that they shulde kepe them in bondage, and entreat them euell. ut I preares. And the nacyon (to whome they shal be in bondage) wyl I iudge, sayd God. And after that shall they come forth and I rurne in this place. * And he gaue hym a couenaunt of cyrcumcysion. * And he begat Isaac and cyrcumcysed hym the eyght daye, and * Isaac begat Jacob. * Jacob begat the twelue patryarkes. * And the patryarkes ha- ynge in dignacyon, sold Joseph into Egypte. And God was wyth hym, and deliuered hym oute of all his aduersytes, and gaue him fauoure and wys- dome in the syght of Pharaohynge of Egypte, And he * made hym gouernoure ouer Egypte, and ouer all hys household.

* But there came a deth ouer all the land of Egypte and Canaan, and great afflyccon that oure fathers founde no sustenance. But when Jacob herde that there was corne in Egypte, he sent out fathers fyrst. * And at the seconde tyme Joseph was known of his brethren, & Josephs kynted was made known vnto Pharaoh. Then sent Joseph a message, and caused hys father to be brought, & all hys kynne. lxxv soules. * And Jacob detourne into Egypte, * and dyed bothe he and oure fathers, and were caried ouer into Sichem and layde in the sepulchre, * that Abrah- am boughte for money of the sonnes of Emor, the sonne of Sichem.

ff. lvi. But

E But when þe tyme of the promesse drew nye (whiche God had sworne to Abraham) * the people grewe and multiplied in Egypte: and another kynge arose whiche knewe not of Joseph. The same dealt subtilly with our kynred, and enel in treated our fathers, and made the cast out they: poung chylidren, that they shuld not remayne a- lyue. * The same tyme was Moses borne, and was acceptable vnto God, and nourished vp in hys fathers house thre Monethes. When he was cast out, Pharaos daughter toke him vp & nourished him vp for her owne sone. And Mo- ses was learned in all maner wysedome of y E- gyptians, & was myghtie in dedes & in wordes.

And when he was full fortye yere olde, it came in hys herte, to vylet hys brethren þe chyl- idren of Israel. And when he sawe one of them suffice wrong, he defended hym, and auenged his quarel that had the harme done to hym, & smote the Egypcia. For he supposed his breth: shold haue understande, howe that God by hys hande shulde delpue them. But they understode not.

D And the nexte daye he shewed hym selfe vnto them as they stroue, and wolde haue set them at one agayne, sayeng. Whye ye are brethren, whye hurt ye one another? But he that dyd his neygh- boure wronge, thrust hym awaye, sayeng. * Who made the a ruler and a iudge ouer vs? wilt thou kylle me, as thou dydest the Egypcian yester- daye? Then said Moses at that sayenge, & was a straunger in the lande of Madian, where he be gat two sonnes.

* And when fortye yeres were expyred, they appeared to hym in the wylde nesse of mounte Syna an angell of the Lorde in a flambe of fyre in a bushe. The Moses sawe it, he wondered at the lyghte. And as he drew neare to beholde, the voyce of the Lorde came vnto hym. * I am the God of thy fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob. Moses tre- bled, & durst not beholde. Then sayde the Lorde to hym. * Put of thy shoes from thy fete, for the place where thou standest, is holie grounde. I haue perfectly sene the adlycepon of my people, which is in Egypte, and I haue heard their gro- nyng, and am come downe to delpue the. And nowe come, and I will sende the into Egypte.

E Thys Moses whome they forsoke (sayenge * Who made the a ruler and a iudge? the same dyd God sende to be a ruler and a delpueer by the handes of the angel whiche appeared to hym in the bushe. And the same brought them oute, the wynges wonders and sygnes in Egypte, & in the red see, and in the wylde nesse fortye yeres. This is that Moses, whiche sayd vnto the chyl- idren of Israel: * A prophete shall the Lorde poure God rapse vp vnto you of poure brethren, lyke vnto me, hym shall ye heare.

Thys is he that was in the congregaciō in þe wylde nesse w the angel whiche spake to hym in the mount Syna, and wth our fathers. Thys man receaued the worde of lyfe to geue vnto vs, to whome our fathers wolde not obey, but cast it from them, and in they: hartes turned backe agayne into Egypte, sayenge vnto Aaron:

* make vs goddes to go before vs. For as for thys Moses that brought vs out of the land of Egypte, we wote not what is become of hym. And they made a calfe in those dayes, and offered sacryfice vnto the ymage, and reioysed ouer the workes of they: owne handes.

Then God turned hym selfe, and * gaue them vp, that they shulde worshyppe the hoozte of the skye, as it is wyrtten in the booke of the prophe- tes. * O ye of the house of Israel, gaue ye to me sacryfices and meates offrynges, by the space of fortye yeres in the wylde nesse? And ye toke vn- to you the tabernacle of Moloch, and the starre of poure God Remphan, figures whiche ye made to worshyppe them. And I will translate you beyonde Babylon.

Our fathers had the tabernacle of wytnesse in the wylde nesse, as he had appoynted them, speakyng vnto Moses. * that he shuld make it accordyng to the fashion þe had sene. Which tabernacle also oure fathers that came after, * brought in wth Iosue into the possessiō of þe Centyles, whom God draue out before the face of our fathers, vnto the tyme of Dauid: * which founde fauoure before God, & wolde sayne haue found a tabernacle for the God of Jacob. * But Salomon buylt hym an house.

* Howbeit he that is best of all, dwelleth not in temples made with handes, as sayeth the pro- phet. * heauen is my seate, and earth is my fote- stole. What house will ye buyld for me sayeth the Lorde: or whiche is the place of my rest, hath not my hande made all these thynges?

Ye shal checked and of vncyrcumcised hertes and eares: ye haue alwayes resysted the holie goost. * as your fathers dyd, so do ye. Whiche of the prophetes haue not your fathers persecuted? And they haue sayne the whiche shewed before of the comyng of that iust, whom ye haue nowe betrayed, & murdered. And ye also haue recea- ued the lawe * by the mynystracion of angells, and haue not kept it.

* When they herde these thynges, they: her- tes claued asunder, & they gnashed on hym wth they: tethe. But he beyng ful of the holy goost looked vp stedfastlye wth his eyes into heauen, and sawe the glory of God, and Iesus standyng on the ryght hande of God, and sayde: Beholde, I see the heauens open, and the sonne of man stan- dyng on the ryght hande of God. Then they gaue a shoute wth a loude voyce, and * stopped they: eares, and ranne vpon hym al at once, and cast hym out of the cite, and * stoned hym. And the wytnes layd downe they: clothes at a yōge mans fete, whose name was Saule. And they stoned Steuen, callyng on, and sayeng. Lorde Iesu, * receaue my sprete. And he kneled downe and cryed wth a loude voyce. Lorde, * lape not thys synne to they: charge. And when he hadde thus spoken he fell asleepe. E

On the morow as they went on they: loz-Eney, and drew nye vnto the ctyte, Peter wente vp* vpon the toppe of the house to pray, about the syrt houre, And when he tiered an hongred he wolde haue eaten. But whyle they made rea-dye he fell into a traunce, and sawe heauen opened, and a certayn vessel come downe vnto him as it had bene a great shet, krypt at the foure corners, and was let downe to the earth, wherein were* all maner of fourfoted beastes of þe earth and verme and toozmes and foules of the ayre And ther came a voyce to hym, yfse Peter, kyt and eate. But Peter sayde: not so lord, for I haue neuer eaten anpe thyng that is commen oz vncleane. And the voyce spake v. to hym a gayne the seconde tyme: * what God hath clea-sed that call not thou commen. Thys was done thysle, and the vessel was receyued vp agayne into heauen. Whyle Peter also mused in hymselfe what this vision (which he had sene) meāt beholde, the men whych were sent from Cornelius had made inquirance for Symons house and stode before the doore: and called oute one, and asked whether Simon whych was spyna-med Peter were lodged there. Whyle Peter thought on the vision, the spyt sayd vnto hym beholde, men seke the: arys therfore, and get þ downe, and go with them, and doubte not, for I haue sent them. Peter wente downe to the men whych were sente vnto him from Cornelius & sayde Beholde, I am he whome ye seke, what is the cause wherfore ye are come? They sayde Cornelius the captayne a iuste man, and one þ feareth God, and of good reposte amonge all þ people of the Jewes was warned by an holpe angel to send for the into his house, and to heare wordes of the. Then called he them in* and lodged them, And on the morowe, Peter wente awaye wyth them, and * certeyne brethren from Joppa accompanied hym. And the thyrde day entred they into Cesarea. And Cornelius waited for them, and had called together hys kinsmen and special frendes. And as it chanced Peter to come in: Cornelius met hym, & fell downe at hys fete, and worshipped hym. But Peter toke hym vp, sayinge stande vp, * I my selfe also am a man. And as he talked wyth hym, he came in, and founde many that were come together. And he sayde vnto them: Ye knowe howe that * it is an unlawfull thyng for a man that is a Jewe, to company oz come vnto an aliente But God hath shewed me, that I shuld not cal-any man commen oz vncleane: therfore came I vnto you withoute delaye, allone as I was set for. I aske therfore, for what intent haue ye set for me. And Cornelius sayde: This daye nowe foure dayes aboute thys houre, I satte fastyng and at the nynthe houre I prayde in my house, and beholde, a man stode before me in bryghte

Descende as it had ben a greate spete. let downe from heauen by the four corners and ycame to me. Into þ which when I had fastened mine eyes, I conspyred and sawe * fourfoted beastes of the earth and vermen of wormes, and foules of the ayer. And I herd a voyce sayeng vnto me arylse Peter, slape, and eate. But I sayde, not so Lord, for nothyng comen oꝝ vncleane hath at tyme entred into my mothe. But the voyce answered me agayne from heauē: consist not thou t hose thynges comen whpche God hath cleue sed. And this was done thre tymes. And al wer taken vp agayne into heauen.

And beholde, immediatlye there were thre men alre dy come vnto the house where I was, sent fro Cesarea vnto me. And the spretesayde vnto me, that I shulde go with them wpythoute doutyng. Moreover, * these syxe byethren accompanied me, and we entred into the mans house. And he shewed vs, howe he had sene an angell in hys house, which stode and sayde to him send men to Joppa, and call for Symon, whose syzname is Peter he shall tell the wordes, wher by both thou and all thpne house shalbe saued:

¶ And as I began to preache, the holy gooste fell on them, * as he dyd on vs at the begynnynge. Then came it to my remembraunce, howe that the Lorde sayde: * Iohn baptised w water, but ye shalbe baptised w þ holy goost. For as much then as God gaue them lyke gyftes as he dyd vnto vs, when we beleued on the Lorde Iesus Chyrste: what was I that I shulde haue wpyth stande God? When they hearde thys, they held thepyr peace, and glorified God sayinge: then hath God also to the Gentyles graunted repentaunce vnto lyfe.

* They also whpche were scattered abrode thozow the affliccyon that arose aboute Steuen, walked thozowe out vnto Phenices & Cyprus, and Antioche, preachyng the worde to no man but vnto the Jewes only, Some of the were men of Cyprus and Syren, whpche when they were come to Antioche, spake vnto þ Grekes, and preached þ Lord Iesus. And the hande of the Lorde was with them, and a great nombre beleued and turned vnto the Lorde.

¶ Cydynge of these thynges came vnto the eares of þ congregacyō, which was in Ierusalem. And they sent forth Barnabas, that he shulde go vnto Antioche. Whpche when he came, and hadde sene the grace of God, was glad, and exhorted them all, that wpyth purpose of hert they wolde continually cleaue vnto the lord. For he was a good man, and ful of the holy ghoſte and of faith & much people was added vnto þ Lord. Then departed Barnabas to Tarsus, for to seke Saul. And when he hadde founde hym he broughte him vnto Antioche.

And it chaunced that a whole yere they had thepyr conuersacyon with the congregacion there, and taughte muche people, in so muche, that the discyples of Antioche were the syxte that were called Chursten.

* In those dayes came prophetes from the cypre of Ierusalem vnto Antioche. And there stode vp one of them named Agabus, and sygnified by the spete, that there shulde be great derty thozow out all the world whpche came to passe in the Emperour Claudius dayes. Then the discyples eury man accordynge to hys abilitye, purposed to sende * socour vnto the byethren whpche dwelt in Jewrye. Whpche thyng they also dyd, and sent it to the elders by the handes of Barnabas and Saul.

The xii. Chapter.

¶ Herode persecuteth the Chyrtien. Killeth James, and putteth Peter in prison. Whome the Lorde deliuereth by an angell. The shamesfull deach of Herode.

¶ The same tyme Herode the kynge stretched forth hys handes to bere certen of the congregacion. And he kylled * James the brother of John wpyth the swerde. And because he sawe that it pleased the Jewes he proceeded further, and toke Peter also. Then were the dayes of swete breade. And when he had caught hym, he put him in prison also, & deliuered hym to foure quatermions of souldyers to be kept, entendyng after Easter to bringe him forth to the people. And Peter was kepte in prison. But prayer was made without ceasing of the congregacyō, vnto God for hym. And when Herode wolde haue broughte hym out vnto þ people, the same nyght slept Peter betwene two souldyers, bound wpyth two chapnes, & the keepers befoze the dore kepte the prison. And beholde, * the angell of the Lorde was there present, & a lyght shyned in the habitacyn. And he smote Peter on the syde, & sterred hym vp, sayenge: arylse vp quykely. And hys chapnes fell of from hys handes. And þ angell sayde vnto hym: gyde thy selfe, and bynde on thy sandales. And so he dyd. And he sayeth vnto hym: caste thy garment aboute the, and folowe me. And he came oute and folowed hym, & wpyth not that it was truth whpche was done by the angell, but thought he hadde sene a vision. When they were past þ fyrste and the seconde watch, they came vnto þ yron gate, that leadeth vnto the ctye, & whpche opened to them by the owne accorde. And they went out, and passed thozowe one strete, and forthwpyth, the angell departed from hym.

And when Peter was come to hym selfe, he sayd now I knowe of a suertye, that the Lord hath sent hys angell, & hath deliuered me out of the hande of Herode, & from all the waytynges for, of the people of the Jewes. ¶ And as he conspyred the thyng, he came to the house of Mary the mother of one John, whose syzname was Marke, where many were gathered together * in prayer. As Peter knocked at the entyre dore, a damsell came forth to herken, named Rhoda. And whan she knewe Peters voyce she opened not the entyre for gladnes, but ran in, and tolde how Peter stode befoze the entyre. And they sayd vnto her: thou arte madde: But she affirmed þ it was even so. Then sayde they: it is hys angell. But Peter continued knockyng, and when they had opened the dore, and

And he departed, and went into another place.

¶ As it was daie, there was no lye tell ado amonge the Ioudes, what was become of Peter. When Herode had soughte for hym, and founde hym not, he examyned the keepers, and commaunded them to be carried awaie. And he descended from Ierusalem to Cesarea, and there abode. Herode was displeased wth them of Tyre and Sidon, But they came all with one accorde to hym, and made intercession vnto Blastus the kynges chamberlaine, and desired peace, because theyr countre was noyed by the kynges prouision. And vpon a daie appointed, Herode arrayed hym in royall apparell, and set him in his seate, & made an oracion vnto the. And the people gaue a shoute, sayng: it is þe voyce of a God, and not of a mā. And immediatly þe angel of þe Lord smote him, because he gaue not God the honoure, & he was eaten of wormes & gaue vp the goost. And the worde of God grewe & multiplied. And Barnabas and Paul retuned to Jerusalem, when they hadde fulfilled theyr office, & toke with them. * John whose surname was Marke.

The xliii. Chapter.

¶ Paul and Barnabas are called to preache amonge the heathen, of Sergius Paulus & Symon the forcerer. Paul preaches at Antioche

¶ There were in the congregacion that was at Antioche, certayne prophetes, and teachers: as Barnabas and Symon that was called Nigres, and Lucius of Cyrene, and Manahen. Herode the Tetrarches norrellowe, and Saul. As they ministered to the Lorde and fasted, the holy goost sayd: separate me Barnabas and Saul, for the worke wherunto I haue called the. And when they had fasted and prayed, and layde theyr handes, on them, they let them go. And they after they were sente forth of the holy goost, departed vnto Seleucia, and from thence they sayled to Cyprus. And when they were at Salamine, they shewed the worde of God in the synagoges of the Jewes. And they had John to theyr minister.

¶ When they hadde gone thorow the yle vnto Paphos, they founde a certain forcerer, (a fals prophete, a Jewe) whose name was Barjesu, whiche was wth the ruler of the countre one Sergius Paulus a prudent man: The same ruler called vnto hym Barnabas and Saul, and desired to heare the worde of God, But Elimas the forcerer (for so is his name by interpretation) wthstode them, and soughte to turne the ruler away fro the fapth. Then Saul whiche (also is called Paul, beyng full of the holy goost, set his eyes on hym, and sayde: O ful of all subtilty and disceyfulness, thou chyld of the deuell, thou enemy of all ryghteousnesse: wyle thou not cease to peruerste the straghte wayes of the Lorde?

And now beholde, the hande of the Lorde is vpon the and thou shalt be blynde, and not se the sunne for a season. And immediatlye, there fell on hym a myste and a darkenes, and he wente aboute, sekynge them that shulde leade hym by the hande. Then the ruler when he sawe what had happened beleued, and wōdred at the doctrine of the Lorde.

¶ When Paul departed from Paphos, they that were wth hym, came to Perga in Pamphilia. and * John departed from them, and returned to Jerusalem. But they wandred thorow the countreys, and came from Perga to Antioche in Pisidia, and went into the synagoge on the Sabbath daie, and late downe. And after the lecture of the lawe and the prophetes the rulers of the synagoge sente vnto them, sayinge yemen and brethren, if ye haue any sermō to exhorte the people, saie on.

¶ Then Paul stood vp, and * beckened with the hand for silence, and sayde: Men of Israel and ye that feare God, geue audience. The god of thys people chose oure fathers, and exalted the people, when they dwelt as strangers in the lande of Egypte, and * wth an hye arme broughte hethen out of it, and about the tyme of fourtye yeares, suffered he their maners in the wylbernes. And he destroyed seuen nacions in þe lande of Canaan, * and deuided theyr lande to them by lot. And afterward, * he gaue vnto the iudges aboute the space of foure hundred and fyfthe yeares, vnto the tyme of Samuell the prophete. And afterward, they * desired a king and God gaue vnto them * Saule the sonne of Cis, a men of the tyebe of Ben Iamin by the space of fourtye yeares, And whan he was put downe, he set vp dauid to be theyr kyng, of whom he reported sayinge. * I haue founde dauid the sonne of Jesse, a man after myne owne hert, whych shall fulfill all my wyl.

* Of thys mannes seede hath the God of Israel, a saviour: one Jesus, when John had first preached before his commynge * the baptyme of repentance to Israel. And when John had fulfilled his course, he sayd: * Whome ye thynke that I am, the same am I not. But behold, ther cometh one after me, whose shoes of his fete I am not worthy to loofe.

¶ Yemen and brethren, chyldren of the generacion of Abraham, and whosoever amonge you feareth God, * to you is thys worde of saluacion sente. For the inhabitants of Jerusalem and theyr rulers, because * they knew hym not, nor yet the voyces of the prophetes whiche are redde euery Sabbath daie, they haue fulfilled them, in condemnyng hym: * And when they found no cause of death in him, yet desired they pylate to kyll hym. And whan they had fulfilled all that were written of him, they toke him downe fro the tree, and put hym in a sepulchre, But God raysted him againe from death, (the which is shewed) and * he was sene many dayes of them: whiche came by wth hym from Galile to Jerusalem: whiche * are his wytnesses vnto the people

And we declare vnto you, how that the promise (which was made vnto the fathers) God hath fulfilled vnto the children (euen vnto vs) in that he aryled vp Iesus agayne. Heuen as it is wyrtten in the seconde psalme: * Thou art my sonne, this daye haue I begotten the. As concernynge that he aryled him vp from death, now nomoze to retorne to corrupcion he sayd on thys wyse: * The holy promyses made to Dauid, wyl I geue saythfully to you. Wherefore he sayeth also in another place. * Thou shalt not suffer thynne holp to be corrupcion. For Dauid after he had in thys tyme fulfilled the wyl of God) * fell on slepe, and was layde vnto hys fathers, and sawe corrupcion. But he whome God rayled agayne sawe no corrupcion.

¶ Be it knowen vnto you therfore (ye men and brethren) that * thowhe thys man is preached vnto you forgiuenes of synnes, & that by him, all that beleue, are iustified from all thynges frome whych you coude not be iustified by the lawe of Moyses. Beware therfore, lest that fall on you, which is spoken of in þe prophetes. * We holde, ye despylers, & wonder, and perperpe. for I do a worke in poure dayes, whych ye shall not beleue, thought a man declare it you.

¶ When the Jewes were gone oute of the congregacion, the Gentyls besought þe they wold preache the worde the next Saboth. When the congregacion was broken vp, many of the Jewes and vertuous proselites folowed Paule and Barnabas, whiche spake to them: * Exhorted them to continue in the grace of God,

¶ And þe next Saboth daye came almost the whole cite together, to heare þe worde of God. But whē the Jewes sawe the people, they were full of indignacion and spake agaynst those thynges, whych were spoken of Paule spelyng agaynst it, and raylinge on it: Then Paule and Barnabas wered holde and sayde: it was mete

* that the worde of God shulde byste haue bene preached to you. But sepng ye put it from you, and thynke ye are selues vnworthy of euerslyng lye. lo, we turne to the Gentyls: for so hath the Lorde commaunded vs. * I haue made the alyght of the Gentyls, that thou be the saluacion vnto the ende of the worlde.

¶ When the Gentyls herde this, they were glad and glozfyed the worde of the Lorde, and beleued, eue as many as were ordeyned vnto eternall lyfe. And the worde of the Lorde was publyshed thowhe out all the region: But the Jewes moued the deuoute and honest women, and the chiefe men of the cite: and reased persecucion agaynst Paule and Barnabas, and expelled them out of the cite: * But they shoke of the duste of the cite agaynst them, and cam vnto Iconium. And the disciples were fylled with ioye and with the holy goost. ¶

The xiii. Chapter.

¶ Paule and Barnabas preache at Iconium, some beleue, some here by sedicion. At Lystra they wolde be sacrificers to Barnabas and Paule, whiche refuse it and exhorthe the people to worshippe the true God. Paule is stoned: after that cometh he to Derba, Lystra, Iconium, and to Antioche.

¶ And it fortuned in Iconium that they went both together into þe synagoge of the Jewes, and so spake, that a greate multitude bothe of the Jewes and also of the Grekes beleued. But the unbeleuing Jewes, sterd vp, and ynquyeted the myndes of the gentyls agaynst the brethren: Longe time abode they there, and quyt them selues boldely wth the helpe of the Lorde, whych gaue testimonye vnto the worde of hys grace, and * graunted signes and wonders to be done by thei handes. But the multitude of the cite was deuided: and parte helde to the Jewes, and parte wth the Apostles.

¶ When there was an assaute made bothe of the gentyls & also of the Jewes wth thei rulers to do them violence, and to stone them they were ware of it, and fled vnto Lystra and Derba, cytyes of Lycaonia, and vnto the regyon þe lyeth rounde about, and there preached the gospel. (and all the multitude was moued at thei doctrine, but Paul & Barnabas taried at Lystra.) And there sat a certen man at Lystra weake in his fete byng a crepel from hys mothers wombe, and neuer had walked. The same hearde Paule preache, whiche beholdyng hym, and perceauynge that he hadde sayd to be whole, sayde wth a loude voyce stande vpryght on thy fete. And he sterd vp and walked. And whē the people saw what Paule had done, they lyfte vp thei voyces, sayenge in the speache of Lycaonia: * Goddes are come downe to vs in the lykenes of men. And they called Barnabas Jupiter, and Paul Mercurius because he was the preacher. Then Jupiters prest, þe dwelt before thei cite, brought oren and garlandes vnto the porche, and wold haue done sacrificy wth the people.

¶ Whiche when the Apostles Barnabas and Paule herde of, they rente thei clothes, and ran in amonge the people, cryenge and sayng, srys why do ye thys? * We are mortall men lyke vnto you, and preach vnto you, that ye shall turne from these vanyties vnto the lyuynge God, * whiche made heauen and earth and the see and all thynges that are therein: the whych in tymes past suffered al nacions to walke in thei owne wayes. * Neuerthelesse, he leste not him selfe woute wytnes, in that he shewed hys beneyfites from heauen, in geupnge vs rayne and fruteful seasons fyllynge oure hertes wth foode and gladnes. And with these sayenges, scrace refrayned the people, that they had not done sacrificy vnto them.

¶ Thether came certayne Jewes from Antioch & Iconium whych (whan they had obtayned the peoples consent) and had stoned Paule) drewe hym out of the cite, supposynge he had bene dead. Howbeit as the disciples stode round aboute him, he arose vp, and came into the cite. And the next day he departed wth Barnabas to Derba. And whan they had preached to that cite & had taught many, they returned agayne to Lystra, and to Iconium and Antioche, and strengthened the disciples soules agayne, and * exhorted them to continue in the saythe, affirmyng whan they hadde preached the worde in Perga they descended into the cite Italia, and thence departed by shippe to Antioche from whence they were committed vnto the grace of God to the worke whiche they fulfylled. When they were come, and had gathered the congregacion together, they reherled all that God had done by them and howe he hadde opened the doore of fayth vnto the Gentyls. And there they abode longe tyme with the disciples.

¶ Marfaunce aboute circumcyon. The Apostles pacyfyed the matter at Jerusalem. Paul and Barnabas preach at Antioche.

¶ And certayn men whiche came downe from Jewrye, taughte the brethren * excepte ye be circumcysed after the maner of Moyses, ye can not be saued.
So when there was rpsen dyscencyon and disputynge not a lytell vnto Paule and Barnabas agaynst them, they determyned that Paul and * Barnabas, and certayne other of them shulde go vnto Jerusalem vnto the Apostles and elders about this questyon. And after they were brought on theyr way by the congregacion, they passed ouer Phenices and Samaria, declarynge the conuersion of the Gentyls, and they brought greate ioye vnto all the brethren.
And when they were come to Jerusalem, they were receaued of the congregacyon and of the Apostles & elders. And they declared all thynges that God had done by them. Then rose vp certayne of the secte of the Pharyses, whiche dyd beleue, sayenge that it was nedfull to circumcysse them and to commaunde them to kepe the lawe of Moyses. And þe Apostles and elders came together, to reason of this matter.
And when there was moche disputynge, Peter rose vp, and sayde vnto them: Ye men and brethren, Ye knowe how that a good whyle ago, God dyd shewe vnto vs, þe Gentyls by my mouthe shulde heare the worde of the Gospell, and beleue. And God which * knoweth the her-tes, bare them wytnesse, and gave vnto them the holy goost, euen as he dyd vnto vs, and put no difference betwene vs and them sayenge that wyth fayth be * purifyed theyr hertes. Nowe therfore, why tempte ye God, to put on the dis-

Barnabas and Paul, whiche tolde what sig-

Gentyls by them.

¶ And when they helde theyr peace, James an-me. Symeon tolde, howe God at þe begynning that we trouble not them: whiche from among the Gentyles, are turned to God: but that we

The xvi. Chapter.

Timothy is circumcised. Paul preacheth at Philippi, and there he put in prison.

When came he to Derba and to Listra And beholde, a certayn discypple was there named Timotheus a womans sonne which was a Jewelle and beleued: but his father was a Greke. Of whome reported well the brethren that were at Lystra and Iconium. hym wolde Paul that he shulde go forth wyth hym, and toke and circumcised hym, because of the Jewes which were in those quarters: for they knewe all, that his father was a Greke. As they went thorow the cities they deliuered them þe decrees for to kepe, that were ordeyned of the Apostles and elders, whych were at Ierusalem. And so were the congregacyons stablyshed in the fapth, and encreased in nombre dayly.

When they had gone thorow out Phrygia and the region of Galacia, and were forbydden of the holy goost to preache the worde in Asia, they came to Mysia, and soughte to goo into Bithynia. But the spyte suffered them not: but when they had gone thorow Mysia, they came downe to Troada. And a vision appeared to Paul in the nyght. Ther stode a man of Macedonia and prayed hym, sayenge: come into Macedonia, and helpe vs. After he had sene the vision, immediatly we prepared to go into Macedonia, beyng certified that the Lorde hadde called vs, for to preache the Gospell vnto them. When we lowled forth from Troada, we came with a straite courseto Samothracia & the nexte day to Neapoli, and from thence to Philippi whych is þe chiefe cytie in the partes of Macedonia, and a fre cytie. We were in that citie abydyng certayne dayes. And on the Sabbath dayes we went oute of the cyt. & besydes a ryuer, where men were wont to praye. And we satte downe, and spake vnto the women whiche resorted thither. And a certayn womā (named Lydia) a seller of purple, of the cytye of Thyatira, whych worshipped God, gaue vs audience. Whose hert the Lorde opened, that she attended vnto the thynges, whych Paul spake. When she was baptised, & her household, she besought vs, sayenge: If ye thynke that I beleue on the Lorde come into my house, and abyde there.

And she constrained vs. And it fortuned as we went to praye, a certayne damsell possessed with a spyte that prophesied, met vs, whiche brought her master, & masters moche vantage wyth prophesyinge. The same folowed Paul and vs and cryed, sayenge. * these men are the seruauntes of the mooste hye God, whych speke vnto vs the waye of saluacyon. And this dyd she many dayes, But Paul not contēt, turned aboute, and sayd to the spyte. I comaunde the in þe name of Iesu Christ, that thou come oute of her. And he came out the same houre.

And when her master and maistres sawe that þe hope of their ganyng was gone, they caught Paul and Syllas, and drew the into the market place vnto the rulers and brought them to the officers sayenge. These men trouble our cytie sayinge they are Jewes and preache ordinaunces, whych are not lawfull for vs to receaue, neyther to obsecue, sayinge we are Romaynes. And the people ranne agaynst them and the officers rente theyr clothes, and commaunded the to be beaten with rodde. And when they had beaten them sore, they cast the into prison, commaundyng the sayler of the prison to kepe the diligently: whych when he had receaued such comaundement, thrust them into the inner prison, and made theyr fete fast in the stocks.

At mydnyght Paul and Syllas prayed, and praised God. And the prisoners hearde them. And sodenly ther was a greates earthquake, so that the foundaciō of the prison was shaken, & immediatly al the doores opened & euery mans bandes were loosed. When the keeper of the prison waked out of his slepe and sawe the prison doores open, he drew out his sword & wold haue kylled him selfe supposyng that the prisoners had bene fled. But Paul cried with a loud voice sayng, do thy selfe no harme, for we are al here. Then he called for a lyght, & sprang in, and came tremblyng vnto Paul, & fell downe at the fete of Paul, and Syllas, & brought the out, & sayde Syr * what muste I do to be saued? And they sayd beleue on the Lord Iesus and thou shalt be saued & thy household. And they preached vnto him the word of the Lorde, & to al that were in his house. And he toke them the same houre of the nyght, and washed theyr woundes, and was baptised and al theyr of his household strayght waye. And when he had brought the into his house, he set meate before them, and loyed that he wyth all his household, belened on God.

And when it was daye, the officers sent the ministers, sayenge let those men go. The keeper of the prison tolde this sayinge to Paul, the officers haue sent worde to loose you. Nowe therefore, get you hence and go in peace. Then sayd Paul vnto them: they haue beaten vs openly vncōdemned, for all that we are Romaynes, and haue cast vs into prison: and now wolde they sende vs awaye pryncely? Hape verily, but let them come thyn selues, & fet vs oute. When the mynysters tolde these wordes vnto the officers, they feared when they herde, that they were Romaynes: & they came and brought them: and broughte them oute, and desyred the to departe oute of the cyt.

And they went out of the prison, and entred in to

to the house of Lidia, and whē they had sene the brythren, they confortēd them, and departed.

Paul. Cometh to Thessalonica, where the Jewes see the cōfession of Paul's escape, & cometh to Athens wher

But the Jewes whych beleued not, had in-were vagabondes, and gathered a cōpanie, and set all the cite on a roare, & made assaute vnto house of Jason, & sought to bypunge them out to the people. And when they founde the not, they drew Jason, & certayne brythren vnto the heaworlde are come hyther also, whom Jason hath receaued pruely. * And these all do contraye to officers of the cite, whē they hearde these thynges.

And whē they were suspiciouly answered of Jason, & of the other, they let them go.

And the brythren immediatly sent a waye Paul & Sylas by nyght vnto Berrea. Whych when they were come thither, they entred into the Synagoge of the Jewes. These were the noreceaued the word with all dyligence of mynd, and searched * scriptures dailly, whether those thinges were euen so. And many of the beleued: also of worshipful women whych were Greekes, and of men not a fewe. Whē the Jewes of Thessalonica had knowledge of the word of God was preached of Paul at Berrea they came & moued the people there. And then immediatly the bry-thren sent a way Paul to go as it were to the see but * Sylas and Timotheus abode there still.

And they by guyde Paul, brought hym vnto Athens & receaued a cōmaundement vnto Sylas and Timotheus, for to come to hym with speede & came they way. Whyle Paul wayted for the at Athens, bys sperte was moued in hym, whē he sawe the cite geul to worshippynge of ymages.
Then dysputed he in the synagoge wpth the Je-wes, and wpth the deuout perlonnes: and in the market dailly wpth them that came vnto hym by chaunce. Certayne Philosophers of the Epicures & of the Stoyckis, dysputed wpth hym.
And somether were which sayd what wyl this habler saye: Other sayde: he seemeth to be a typynges bringer of newe deuels, because he preacheth vnto the Iesus and the resurrection. And they toke hym, & brought him into Marce strete sapenge. maye we not knowe what thys newe doctryne wherof thou speakest, is? For I bypngest straunge thynges to our eares. We wolde know therfore, what these thynges meane. For all the Athenians and straungers which were there, gaue the selues to nothyng els, but ether to tell, or to heare some newe thyng.

Paul stode in the myddes of Marce strete, & sayde: ye men of Athens, I perceaue that in all thynges ye are superstitious. For as I passed by, and behelde the maner howe ye worshyppe poure goddes, I founde an auter wherein was wrytten: vnto the unknown God. Whome ye then ignorantlye worshyp, hym shewe I vnto you. * God that made the world and al that are in it (saynge that he is Lorde of heauen & earth) & dwelleth not in temples made with handes, nether is worshipped wpth mennes handes, as though he neded of any thyng, sayng he hymselfe * geueth lyfe and brythe to all men euery where and hath made of one bloude all nacions of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth, and hath allyned before, howe longe tyme, and also the endes of theyr inhabytacion, that they shoulde seke God, yf they myghte fele and fynde hym, though he be not farre from euery one of vs.
For in hym we lyue, moue, and haue our byng, as certayne of poure owne poetes sayde: For we are also bys generacion. For as muche then as we are the generation of God, we ought not to thynke that the Godhead is lyke vnto golde, syluer, or ston, grauen by crafte and ymagina-cion of man.

* And the tyme of this ignorance God regarded not. * But nowe byddeth all men euery where repent because he hath appoynted a day in the whiche he wyl iudge the worlde wpth trygheousnelle, by that man by whome he hath appoynted, and hath offered saythe to all men, after that he had raysed hym from deathe.

Whenthey hearde of the resurrection from death, some mocked, & other sayd we wyl heare the agayne of this matter. So Paul departed from amonge the. Howbeit certayne men claue vnto hym and beleued amonge the whiche was Dionysius a senatoure, and a woman named Damaris, and other wpth them.

The. xvii. Chapter.

Paul preacheth at Corinthum continuing there a yere and a halfe goeth agayne into Syria cometh to Ephesus Cefarea and Antio. he. Of Apollos Aquila and Priscilla.

After this, Paul departed fro Athens and came to Corinthū, & founde a certaine Jewe named * Aquila, bozne in Pontus, lately come fro Italie, wpth his wyfe Priscilla, because that the Emperoure Claudius had cōmaunded all Jewes to departe from Rome) and he drew vnto them, because he was of the same crafte, he abode wpth them, and wroughte. they crafte was to make cōtes.

The Actes

And he preached in the synagoge every Saboth

Day. (Lettinge forth in the meane whyle the name of the lord Jesus) and exhorted the Jewes and the gentyles.

When * Syllas and Timotheus were come from Macedonia, Paule was constrained by spete. to testyfy to the Jewes that Jesus was very Christ. And whē they sayde contrarie and blasphemed * he shoke hys raiment and sayd vn to them. your bloude be vpon your owne hea-des. from hence forth wyl I go blamelesse vnto the gentyles. And he departed thence, and entred into a certayne mannes house, named Justus, a worshypper of God, whose house ioynd harde to the synagoge. Howbeit, one Crispus & chefe ruler of the synagoge * beleued on the Lord with all hys household, and manye of the Cozynthi-ans whan they gaue audience beleued, and were baptysed.

Then spakethe Lorde to Paul in the nyght * by a vpyon: be not afrayde, but speake, and holde not thy peace: for I am with the, and no man shall inuade the: that shal hurte the. For I haue muche people in this cytie. And he continued there a yere and syxe monethes, and taught the the worde of God.

When Gallio was ruler of the countre of Acaia, the Jewes made insurreccyon with one accozde agaynst Paule, and brought hym to the iudgemente scate, sayenge: thys felowe counce-lith men to worshypp God contrary to the lawe.
And when Paule nowe was aboute to open his mouth, Gallio sayde vnto the Jewes, yf it were a matter of wronge, or an euill dede (O ye Je-wes) reason wolde that I shulde heare you, but yf it be a questyon of wordes or of names, or of your lawe, loke ye to it your selues. For I wyl be no iudge of suche matters, and he draue them from the scate. Then all the Grekes toke So-stenes the chefe ruler of the Synagoge, & smote hym before the iudges scate. And Gallio cared for none of those thynges.

Paule after thys, tarped there yet a good whyle, and then toke hys leaue of the brethren & sayled thence into Cyria, Pryscylla and Aquilla accompanynge hym. And * he chose hys read in Cenchrea, for he had a vowe: And he came to Ephesus and left them there, but he hym self entered into the Synagoge, and reasoned with the Jewes. When they despyred hym to tary longer tyme with them, he consented not, but badde the fare well, sayenge. I muste nedes (at thys feaste that cometh, be in Jerusalem: but I wyl returne agayne vnto you * yf God wyl. And he departed from Ephesus: and whan he was come vnto Cesarea, and ascended vp and saluted the congregation, he departed vnto Antioche: and when he had tarped there a whyle, he departed. & went ouer all the countre of Galacia & Phrygia by order, strengthyng al the dyscyples.

And a certayne Jewe named * Apollos, borne at Alexandria, came to Ephesus, an eloquent man, and myghty in the scriptures. The same was informed in the waye of the Lorde, & spake feruentlye in the synagoge, and taught dilygently the thynges of the Lorde and knewe but the baptyme of Ihon onely. And the same begā to speake boldly in the Synagoge. Whō when Priscylla and Aquilla hadde hearde, they toke hym vnto them, and expounded vnto hym the waye of God more perfectly. And when he was dysposed to go into Acaia, the brethren wrote, exhortynge & dyscyples to receaue hym. Which when he was come helped them muche whiche had beleued thowow grace. For he overcame the Jewes myghtely, and that openly, shewynge by the scriptures, that Jesus was Christ.

The xij. Chapter.

Of the church that were baptysed at Ephesus and what myracles were done by Paul. Demetrius moueth sedycyon in the cytie.

Fortuned that whyle Apollo was at Cozynthū, Paule passed thowowe the vpper coastes and came to Ephesus, and founde certayne dyscyples, and sayde vnto them: haue ye recea-ued the holpe gooste, sence ye beleued? And they sayd vnto hym: no, we haue not hearde whether there be any holy goost or no. And he sayd vnto them, wherewith were ye then baptysed? And they sayde: with Ihons baptyme. Then sayde Paule: * Ihon verelye baptysed with the bap-tyme of repentaunce, sayenge vnto the people & they shulde beleue on hym, whiche shulde come after hym that is on Christe Jesus. When they herd thys, they were baptysed in the name of the Lorde Jesu. And when Paule * layde hys han-des vpon them, * the holpe gooste came on them, and they * spake with tonges, and prophesied, and all the men were about twelue.

And he wente into the Synagoge, and behaued hym selfe boldlye for the space of thre monethes, dysputynge and geuyng them exhor-tacyons of the kyngdome of God. ¶ Whan dyuers wered harde perted and beleued not, but spake euell of the waye of the L O R D E (and that be. oze the multitude) he departed from them, and separated the dyscyples. And he dysputed baptye in the scole of one called Ty-rannus. And thys contynued by the space of two yeaues: so that all they whiche dwelte in Asia, hearde the worde of the Lorde Jesu, bothe Jewes and Grekes. And God * wrought sprec-all myracles by the handes of Paule. so that fro hys bodye, were broughte vnto the synagoge, nap-kys and parteleetes, and the vpleases departed from them, and * the euell spretes wente out of them.

Then certayne of the vagabounde Jewes crocyfites, toke vpon them to call ouer them (whiche hadde euell spretes) the name of the L O R D E Jesus, sayenge: We adoure you by * Jesu whome Paule preacheth. And there were seuen sonnes of one Sceua a Jewe, and chefe of the prestes whychdyd so. And the euell spete answered and sayde: Jesus I knowe, and Paule I knowe: but who are ye? And the man in whome the euell spete was, ranne on them, on them and overcame them, and prevailed agaynst them, so that they fled out of that house naked and wounded. And this was knowen to all the Jewes and Grekes also which dwelt at Ephesus and feare came on them all, & the name of the Lorde Jesus was magnified.

And many that beleued, came, and confessed and shewed theyr workes. Many of them whiche used curyous craftes: brought theyr bookes, and burned them before all men, and they counted the price of them, and founde it fyftee thousande syluerlinges. So myghtely grewe the worde of God and prevailed. After these thinges were ended, Paule purposed in hys spere (whā he had passed ouer Macedonia & Achaia) to go to Ierusalem, sayinge: after I haue bene ther I must also se Rome. So sent he into Macedonia two of them that ministered vnto hym euen Timotheus and Erastus but he him selfe remayned in Asia for a season.

The same tyme there arose no lytel adoo about that way. For a certayne man named Demetrius, a syluer smyth (whiche made syluer shrines, for Diana) was not a lytel beneficiall vnto the craftes men. Whom he called together with the workmen of lyke occupaciō, and said: Mys, ye knowe that by this craft we haue advantage. Moreover ye see and heare y not alone at Ephesus, but almoste thorowoute all Asia, this Paule hath perswaded and turned awaye moche people, sayinge that they be not goddesses whiche are made with handes. So that not one lytles our craft cometh into paryl to be se at nought: but also that the temple of the grete goddess Diana shuld be despyled, and her magnificence shuld be destroyed, whom all Asia and the worlde worshyppeth.

When they hearde these sayenges they were full of wrath, and cryed out sayinge: Great is Diana of the Ephesians. And all the cytie was on a roze, and they rushed into the comen hall wyth one assent, and caught Gaius & Aristarcus men of Macedonia, Pauls companions.

When Paule wold haue entred in vnto the people, the disciples suffered him not. But certayne of the chiefe of Asia (which were his frendes, set vnto hym, despyng hym, that he wolde not preache into the comen hall. Some therefore cryed one thyng and some another, and the congregacyon was all out of quyet, and the more parte knewe not wherfore they were come together.

Some of the company dyue for the Alexander, the Jewes thrust hym forwarde, Alexander bekened wyth the hande, and wolde haue geuen the people an answer. When they knewe that he was a Jewe, there arose a shoute almoste for the space of two hours, of al men, cryenge: great is Diana of the Ephesians.

When the towne clark had ceased the people, he sayde: ye men of Ephesus, what man is it that knoweth not that the cytie of the Ephesians is a worshypper of the grete goddess Diana, of the pnyage whiche came from heauen.

Seeinge then that no man saith here agaynst, ye ought to be content, and to do nothyng e rashly for ye haue brought hyther these men: whiche are nether robbers of churches nor yet despisers of your goddess. Wherefore, yf Demetrius and the craftes men whiche are wyth hym, haue a matter agaynst any man, the lawe is open, and there are rulers, lette them accuse one another. But yf ye go aboute any other thyng, it shalbe determined in a lawfull congregacyon. For we are in iopardy to be accused of this dayes outrage, for as moche as there is no cause, whereby we maye geue a rekenyng of this concourse of people. And when he hadde thus spoken, he let the congregacyon departe.

The .xx. Chapter.

Paule went into Macedonia & into Grece. At Troas he caught by a dead body. At Ephesus he callith the elders of the congregacyon together, sheweth the heppage of Gods worke vnto them, wethereth them of false teachers, maketh his prayer wyth them, and departed to Smyrne.

After that rage was ceased, Paule called the disciples vnto hym, and toke his leaue of them, and departed for to go into Macedonia. And whē he hadde gone ouer those parties, and hadde geuen them a longe exhortacyon, he came into Grece and there abode. iii. monethes. And when the Jewes layd wayt for hym as he was about to saile into Smyrna, he purposed to retorne thorow Macedonia. Ther accompanied him into Asia, Sopater of Berea, & of Thessalonica, Aristarcus and Secundus and Gaius of Derba, and Timotheus: & out of Asia Tychicus and Trophimus. These goynge before tarped vs at Troas. And we sayled awaye from Philippos after the dayes of twet breade, and came vnto them to Troas in fyue dayes, where we abode seuen dayes.

And vpon one of the Sabbath dayes, when the disciples came together for to breake bread Paul preached vnto them (ready to departe on the morowe) and contynued the preachyng vnto midnyght. And there were many lyghtes in the chāber, where we were gathered together, and there sat in a wyndowe a certayne yonge man (named Euticus) beynge fallen into a depe slepe. And as Paule was preachyng he was the more overcome wyth slepe and fell downe from the thyrde lofte, and was taken by deade. But when Paule went downe, he fell on hym and embraced hym and sayde: make nothyng ado, for hys lyfe is in hym. So whē he was come vp agayn, and had brokē the breade and eaten, and talked a longe whyle (euen tyll the mornyng) at the laste he departed. And they broughte the yonge mā alpyue & were not a lyttel comforted.

And we winne afoze to Smyrne, and lowsed vnto Asson there to receaue Paule. For so had he appoynted, & wold him selfe go afoze. When we were come together at Asson we toke him in, and came to Mitilenes. And we sayled thence, & came the nexte day, ouer agaynst Chios. And the next day we arriued at Samos, & tarped at Troglod. The nexte daye we came to Miletō: for Paul had determined to saile ouer by Ephesus, because he wolde not spende y tyme in Asia ¶ Pauls journey by Syrie. Of Philip the euangeliste, and Agabus the prophete, which warned Paul not to go to Jerusalem. He remaneth stedfast in his purpose and is taken in the temple.

The Actes

But when Cyprus beganne to appere vnto vs, we leste it on the lyfte hande, & sayled vnto Syria, and came vnto Tyre. For there the Sypppe vnladed the burthen. And when we had found brethren, we tarped there. vii. dayes. And they tolde Paule thowoe the sprete * that he shuld not go vp to Jerusalem. And when the dayes were ended we departed & wrote oure way, & they all brought vs on our waye, wth wyues and chyldren tyll we were come oute of the ctyte. And we kneled downe in the shewere & prayed. And when we had take our leaue ¶ of another, we toke Sypp and they returned home agayne.

¶ When we hadde full ended the course from Tyre, we went downe to Ptolomaida, and saluted the brethren, & abode wth them one daye. The nexte daye, we that were of Pauls companye departed, and came vnto Cesarea. And we entred into the house of * Philip the euangelist which was one of the leuit, and abode wth him. The same man had foure doughters virgyns, which did * prophete. And as we tarped there a good many of dayes, ther came a certayne prophet fro Jewrie, named Agabus. Whē he was come vnto vs, he toke Pauls girdell, & bounde hys fete and handes, and sayde: Thus sayth the holpe gost * so shall the Jewes at Jerusalem bynd the man that oweth thys girdell, and shal delyuer hym into the handes of the Gentyls.

¶ When we heard thys, bothe we and othe whiche were of the same place besoughte hym that he wolde not go vp to Jerusalem. Then Paul answered, and sayd: What do y<sup>e</sup> wepyng and veynging myne herte? I am redye, not to be bounde onely, but also to dye at Jerusalem for the name of the lord Iesu. When we could not turne his mynde, we ceased, sayng: * the wyll of the Lord be fulfilled. After those dayes we toke vp oure burthens, and went vp to Jerusalem. There went wth vs also certayne of the discyples of Cesarea, and brought wth them one Mnason of Cyprus an olde discyppe, wth whom we shulde lodge. And when we were come to Jerusalem, the brethren receaued vs gladly. And on the morowe Paule wet in wth vs vnto James.

¶ And al the elders came together. And when he had saluted them, he tolde by order all thynges that God hadde wrought among the Gentyls by his ministracion. And when they hearde it, they glorified the Lord, and sayde vnto hym thou seest brother, howe many thousande Jewes

For he halted (yf it were possible for hym) to kepe at Jerusalem the daye of Penthecoste. And fro Miletum he sent messaungers to Ephesus, & called the elders of the congregacion. Which when they were come to hym, he sayd vnto the. We knowe from y<sup>e</sup> fyrst day that I cam into Asia: after what maner I haue bene wth you at all seasons, scrupynge y<sup>e</sup> Lord wth al humblenes of mynde, & wth many teares and temptacions whiche happened vnto me by the laynges awayt of the Jewes, because I wold kepe backe nothyng that was profitable vnto you: but to shewe you and teache you openly, & thowoe out euerye house: wth testyfyng both to the Jewes, and also to the Grekes, the * repentaunce, that is towarde God, and the fayth whiche is towarde oure Lord Iesus. And now beholde I go bounde in the sprete vnto Jerusalem, not knowenge the thynges that shall come on me there, but that * the holy ghoost wth testyfyeth in euerye ctyte, sayng: that bandes and trouble abyde me. But none of these thynges moue me. ¶ Neether is my lyfe deare vnto my selfe, that I myght fullfyll my course wth hope, and the ministracion ¶ (of the worde) which I haue receaued of the Lord Iesu, to testyfy the Gospel of the grace of God. And now behold, I am sure, that henceforth ye all (thowoe whome I haue gone preachynge the kyngdome of God) shall se my face no moze. Wherefore, I take you to recorde this daye that I am pure from the bloude of al men. For I haue spared no laboure, but haue shewed you all the counsell of God. Take heed, therfore vnto yowr selues and to all the flocke amonge whom the holy ghoost hath made you ouersheers, to rule the congregacyon of God which he hath purchased wth hys bloude.

¶ For I am sure of thys, that after my departinge shall greuous wolues entre in amonge you, not sparing the flocke. Moreouer, of yowr owne selues shall men aryse, speaking peruerse thynges to drawe discyples after them. Therfore awake, and remember, that by the space of iii. yeres: I ceased not to warne euery one of you nyght and daye wth teares.

¶ And now brethren, I commend you to God and to the worde of his grace, whiche is able to buyde farther, and to geue you an inheritance among al the whiche are sanctified. I haue despyed no mans splur, golde, or vesture. Ye yowr selues knowe y<sup>e</sup> these bandes haue minystrad vnto my necessytes, & to the y<sup>e</sup> were wth me. I haue shewed you all thynges, howe that so labourynge ye oughte to receaue the weake, and to remember the wordes of the Lord Iesu, how that he sayd it is moze blessed to geue then to receaue.

¶ And when he hadde thus spoken, he kneled downe * and prayed wth them all. And they al wepte sore and fell on Pauls necke, and kyssed hym sozowynge mooste of all for the wordes whiche he spake, that they shulde se his face no moze. And they conuayned hym vnto the Sypppe.

Jewes there are whiche beleue, and they are all earnest folowers ouer the lawe. And they are informed of the, that thou teachest all the Jewes, whiche are amonge the gentyles, to forsake Moyses and sayest, that they ought not to carye the chylidren, nether to lye after the customes. What is it therefore? The multitude must nedes come together. For they shall heare þy thou arte come. Do therefore this, that we say to the. We haue. iiii. men, which haue a vowe on the. Them take & purghe thy selfe with them, & do cooke on them, that they may haue theyr heades: and all shall know, that those thynges which they haue heard concernynge the, are nothyng: but that thou thy selfe also walkest and keptest the lawe. But as touchynge the gentylls which beleue: we haue wyrtten & concluded, that they obserue no suche thyng: save only þat they kepe them selues from thynges offered to ydoles, and fro bloudde and from strangled, & from fornicacion. Then þe next day Paule toke the men, & purghe hym selfe wth them & entred into the temple, declaring that he obserued the dayes of the purificacion, vntill þan offeringe shulde be offered for euerp one of the. And whan the seven dayes were now almost ended, the Jewes which were of Asia (whan they sawe him in the temple moued all the people, & layde handes on hym to cryenge: He of Israel, helpe. This is the man, þat teacheth al men euery where agaynst þe people & the law and this place. He hath also brought Grekes into the temple and hath polluted this holy place, For they had sene wth hym one in the cytie: Trophimus an Ephesian, whom they supposed that Paule had brought into the temple. And all the cytie was moued, and the people swarmed together. And they toke Paul and drew him out of þe temple, and forthwyt the doores were shut. As they went about to kyll hym, tydnynges came vnto the hye captayne of the souldyers, that all Jerusalem was moued. Which immediatly toke souldyers and vndercaptaynes, & ranne downe to them. When they sawe the vpper captayne & the souldyers: they left smytynge of Paul. Then the captayne came nere and toke hym, and commaunded hym to be bounde with two chaynes, and demaunded what he was, and what he had done. And some cryed one thyng, some another amonge þe people. And when he coude not knowe the certayntie for the rage, he commaunded him to be caried into the castell. And when he came vnto a staple, it fortuneth that he was bozne of the souldyers for the violence of the people. For the multitude of the people folowed after, cryenge: a waye wth hym.

And whan Paul began to be caried into the castell, he sayde vnto the hye Captayne maye I speake vnto the? Which sayd. Cast thou speake Greke? Art not thou that Egeptian, which before those dayes madest an vproure: and leddest out into the wyldernes. iiii. thousand men that were murderers? But Paul sayd: I am a man which am a Jewe of Tharsus a cytie in Cyle, a cytiesyn of no vyle cytie. I beseeche the suffre me to speake vnto the people. And when he had geuen hym licence Paul stode on the stapes, & and beckened with the hand vnto the people: & when there was made a greare silence, he spake vnto them in the hebrue tonge, sayenge:

¶ Paule answered the Jewes. He is scourged and sayde in prison agayne.

Men, brethren and fathers, heare ye myne answer whiche I make now vnto you. When they herde, that he spake in the hebrue tonge to them, they kept the more silence. And he sayeth: I am verely a man whiche am a Jewe bozne in Tharsus a cytie in Cyle: neuertheles, yet brought vp in this cytie, at þe fete of Samarie, & informed diligently in þe law of the fathers, & was feruēt mynded to Godward, as ye al are this same daye. & I persecuted thys way vnto þe death, byndyng & deliuerynge into prison both men & wemen, as the chiefe prest doth beare me wytnes, & al the estate of the elders of whō also I receaued letters vnto the brethren, & went to Damascus to byng them, (which were there bounde) vnto Jerusalem for to be punysshed.

And it fortuneth, þas I made my iourney and was come nye vnto Damascus about noone) suddenly ther shone fro heauen a great lyght rōde aboute me, and I fell vnto the earth, and heard a voyce sayenge vnto me: Saule, Saule, why persecutest thou me? And I answered what art thou Lord. And he sayde vnto me: I am Iesus of Nazareth, whom thou persecutest. And they that were with me, sawe verely a lyght, & were afrayed but they herde not the voyce of hym þat spake wth me. And I sayde: what shall I do Lord? And the Lord sayd vnto me: Arise, and go into Damascus, and there it shall be told the of all thynges, whiche are appoynted for the to do. And when I sawe nothyng for the byghtnes of that lyght, I was leade by the hande of them that were wth me, and came into Damascus.

* And one Ananias a perfect mā, and (as per saynyng to the lawe, hauing a good report of al the Jewes whiche there dwelt) came vnto me and stode, and sayd vnto me. Brother Saul, receaue thy sight. And the same houre I receaued my lyght, and sawe hym. And he sayde: the God of our fathers hath ordeyned the before, that thou shouldest knowe his wyll, and se the thyng that is ryghtfull, and shouldest heare the voyce of his mouth, for thou shalt be his wytnes vnto al men of those thynges, whiche thou hast sene and hearde. And now, why tarpest thou? Arise, & be baptysed and waixe a way thy spyrytes in calling on the name of the Lord. And it fortuneth that when I was come agayne to Jerusalem, and prayed in the temple, I was in a traunce, & sawe hym, sayeng vnto me: Make hast and get the quickly out of Jerusalem, for they wyl not receaue thy wytnes, that thou bearest of me.

And I sayd: Lord, they knowe þat I presoned and bet in euery Synagoge the þat belued on the. And when the bloud of thy wytnesse Stephen was shed, I also stode by, and consented vnto his death, and kept the rayment of them that slew hym. And he sayd vnto me departe, for I wyl

They gaue hym audyence vnto thys worde, and then lyft vp theyr voyces and sayde awayne with suche a felowe from the earth: for it is no reason that he shuld lyue: And as they cryed, & cast of their clothes, and thyned dust into the ayre the captayne commaunded hym to be brought in to the castell, & bad that he shulde be scourged, & to be examyned, that he myght know, wherfore they cryed so on hym. And when they bound hym wyth thonges, Paule sayd vnto the Centurion that stode by hym: Is it lawfull for you to scourge a man that is a Romayne & vncōdemned. When the Centurion hearde that, he wente and tolde the vpper captayn, sayng: What intende st thou to do? For this mā is <sup>(a cytyzen)</sup> of Rome.

E Then the vpper captayne came, and sayd vnto hym: tell me, art thou a Romayne? He sayde: Yee. And the captayne answered, wyth a greate iumme obtayned I thys freedom. And Paule sayde: I was free borne. Then straght way departed from hym, they which shuld haue examyned hym. And þe captayne also was afrayd, after he knewe that he was a Romayne, and because he had bounde hym.

On þe morowe (because he wolde haue knowen the certayntie, wherfore he was accused of the Jewes) he losed hym fro his bandes & commaunded the hye prestes & all þe counsel to come together & brought Paule forth and set him befoze them.

And they that stode by, sayd * reuplest thou Goddes hye preast? Then sayd Paule: I wyll not brethren, that he was þe hye preast. For it is wytten: * thou shalt not curse the ruler of thy people. When Paul perceived that the one parte were Saducees, and þe other Pharyses, he cryed out in the counsel. And when there arose a great debate, the captayne (fearynge, lest Paul shuld haue ben plucked a sondre of them) commaunded the souldyers to go downe, and to take hym from amonge the and to brynge hym into the castell.

* The nyght folowynge, God stode by hym and sayde: be of good cheare Paule: for as thou hast testyfied of me in Jerusalem * so must thou beare witness also at Rome. And whan it was daye, certayne of the Jewes gathered them selues together, and made a vowe, sayenge: þe they wolde neither eate nor drynke, tyll they had kylled Paule: they were mo then fourty men, whiche had made thys conspyracion. Nowe therfore geue ye knowledge to the vpper captayne and to the counsell, that he brynge hym forth vnto vs to morowe, as though we wold knowe somethynge moze perfectly of him. But we (or euer he come neare, are ready to kyl hym. When Pauls sisters sonne heard of thys lapenge awayne, he wente, and entred into the castell, and told Paule. And Paule called one of the vnder captaynes vnto him and sayd. brynge thys pounge man vnto the hye captayne, for he hathe a certayne thyng to shewe hym. And he toke hym, and brought him to the hye captayne and sayde: Paule the prisoner called me vnto hym, and prayed me to brynge thys pounge man vnto the, whiche hathe a certayne matter to shewe the.

The hye captayne toke hym by the hande and wente wyth hym oute of the wape, and asked hym: what is it that thou haste to tell me? And he sayd. The Jewes are determyned to despyce the, that thou woldest brynge forth the Paule to morowe into the counsell, as though they wold enquire somewhat of hym moze perfectly. But felowe not thou theyr myndes: for there lye in waite for hym of them, mo then fourty men which haue bounde them selues wyth a vowe, þe they wyl neither eate nor drynke, tyl they haue kylled hym. And nowe are they ready, and loke that thou shuldest promys.

The vpper captayne then let the pounge man departe, and charged him, sayenge: se thou tel it out to no man, that thou hast shewed these thynges to me. And he called vnto hym two vnder captaynes, sayenge: make ready two hundred souldyers to go to Cesarea, and horsemen thye scoze and ten: and spare men two hundred at the thyrde houre of the nyghte. And deliuer them brasses, that they maye sette Paule on, & brynge hym safe vnto Felix the hye debpte, (For he dyd feare lest happily the Jewes shulde take him away and kyl hym, and he hym self shulde be afterwarde blamed, as though he wolde take money,) and he wrote a letter after thys maner.

Claudius Lysias vnto the mooste myghtye ruler Felix, sendeth greetynge. * Thys man was taken of the Jewes, and shoulde haue bene kylled of them.  sent hym strayghte waye to the, and gaue com-which they haue agaynst hym, they shoulde tell hym by nyght to Annapatars. On the morowe they lefte the horse men to go wpth hym, and returned vnto the castell. Which when they came to Cesarea, (and deliuered the epytyle to the de-byte) presented Paul also befoze hym. When the debyte had red the letter he asked of what coun-tre he was. And whē he vnderstode that he was of Celicia: I wyl heare of: sayde he: when thine accusars are come also: and he commaunded hym

The xxiii. Chapter.

Paul is accused befoze Felix, he answereth for hym selfe.

After fyue dayes Ananias the hye priest descended wpth the elders, & wpth a certayne oratoure, named Tertullus, which enformed the de-byte agaynst Paul. And whē Paul was called forth Tertullus beganne to accuse hym, sayenge: We praye that we lye in greate quyetnes the by meanes of the, and that manye good thinges are done vnto this nacyon throrowe thy prouidence, that alowe we euer and in all places moost noble Felix wpth all thanks.
 Not wpthstandynge, that I be not rebious vnto the, I praye the, that thou woldest heare vs of thy curtesy a fewe wordes.

For we haue founde this man a pestylente felowe, and a mouer of debate vnto all the Je-wes in the whole worlde, & a mayntayner of sedycion, of the secte of the Nazarites, which hath also enforced to pollute the temple. Whom we toke, and wolde haue iudged accordynge to our lawe: but the hye captayne Lysias came vpon vs, and wpth greate violence toke hym awaye out of our handes, commaundyng his accusars to come vnto the. Of whome thou mayeste (if thou wylte enquire) knowe the certaynte of all these thinges, wherof we accuse hym. The Je-wes lyke wyse admyed. sayeng, that these thin-ges were euen so.

Then Paul (after that the debyte hymselfe had beckened vnto hym that he shoulde speake) answered: With a moze quyet mynde do I an-swere for my selfe, for as much as I vnderstand that thou haste bene of many peaces a iudge vnto this people, because that thou mayest knowe that there are yet but twelue dayes sence I wēt vnto Ierusalem for to worshyp, and the nether founde me in the temple dysputynge wpth any man, ether rapyng vnto the people, neher in the Synagoges, nor in the cytie. Neether can they proue the thinges wherof they accuse me.

But this I confesse vnto the, that after the waye (whiche they call herespe) so worshyppe I the God of my fathers, beleuyng all thynges whiche are wyrtten in the lawe and the prophetes, & haue hope towarde God, that the same resurrection of the dead (whiche they them selues loke for also) shalbe, bothe of iuste and vniuste. And therfore I studye to haue alwaye a cleare conscience toward God, and toward men. But after many peaces, I came and brought almes to my people and offerynge (and bowes) in the whiche they founde me purpyed in the temple, neher wpth multytude nor yet wpth vniquestnesse (and they toke me, and cayed, sayenge: away wpth our enemye).

 Howbeit there were certayne Jewes out of Asia, whiche ought to be here present befoze the, and accuse me, if they had ought agaynst me. or els let these same here saye, if they haue founde any euell doyng in me, whyle I stande here in counsell: excepte it be for this one voyce that I cryed standynge amonge them: of the resurrection from death am I iudged of you this daye.

When Felix heard these thinges, he deferred them, for he knewe verie well of that waye, and sayd. When Lysias the captayne is come downe, I wyl knowe the uttermoost of youre matter.
 And he commaunded an vnder captayne to kepe Paul, and to let hym haue rest, and that he shuld forbyd none of his acquaintaunce to mynyshe vnto hym, or to come to hym.

And after a certayn dayes, when Felix came with his wyfe Drusilla (whiche was a Jewesse) he called for the Paule, and heard hym of that whiche is towarde Christe. And as he preached of ryghte counseile, temperaunce, and iudgement to come, Felix trembled and answered: Go thy waye for this tyme: when I haue a conuenient season, I wyl sende for the. He hoped also, that money shuld haue ben geuen hym of Paul, that he myght loose hym. wherfore he called hym the oftener and comened wpth hym. But after two yere, Festus Porcius came into Felix towne.
 And Felix wplyng to shewe the Jewes a pleasure, lefte Paule in prison bounde.

The xxv. Chapter.

The Jewes accuse Paule befoze Festus, he appeareth vnto the Emperoure, and is sent vnto Rome.

When Festus had receaued the offyce, after thre dayes, he accended from Cesarea vnto Jerusalem. Then enformed hym the hye priestes, & the chiefe of the Jewes, of Paul. And they besought hym, and desyred fa-uoure agaynst hym, if he wold sende for hym to Ierusalem: & they layd awayte for hym in the waye, to kyll hym. Festus answered, that Paule shoulde be kepte at Cesarea, but that he hymselfe wolde shortly depart thither.
 Let them therfore (sayd he) whiche amonge you are able, come downe with vs, and accuse hym, if there be any faute in the man.

scate, and commaunded Paule to be broughte. Whiche when he was come, the Jewes whiche were come from Jerusalem, stode about hym, & layde many and greuous complayntes agaynst Paul, which they coulde not proue, as longe as he answered for hym selfe, *that he had neyther agaynst the lawe of the Jewes, neyther agaynst the temple, nor yet agaynst Cesar offended any thyng at all.

Act. xxiii. c.
2. 27. 28. b

C Festus *wyllyng to do the Jewes a pleasure answered Paule, and sayde: Wyle thou go vp to Jerusalem, and there be iudged of these thynges before me? Then sayde Paule: I stande at Cessars iudgement scate, where I ought to be iudged. To the Jewes haue I no harme done, as thou very well knowest. If I haue hurte them, or committed any thyng worthy of death, I refuse not to dye. If none of these thynges are, wherof they accuse me, no man may deliuer me to them. I appeale vnto Cesar. Then spake Festus wyth helyberacion, and answered: Thou haste appealed vnto Cesar: vnto Cesar wylte thou go.

Act. xxiii. c.

Act. xxiii. c.

W And after a certayne dayes kynge Agrippa and Bernice cam vnto Cesarea to salute Festus. And when they hadde bene there a good season, Festus rehearsed Pauls cause vnto the kynge sayeng: *there is a certen man sette in prison of Iherusalem, about whom when I came to Jerusalem, *the hye preastes and elders of the Jewes enfourmed me, and desired to haue iudgement agaynst him. To whom I answered it is not the maner of the Romaynes, for sauoure to deliuer any man, that he shoulde perishe, before that he which is accused, haue the accusers before hym, and haue lycence to answer for hym selfe, concerninge the crime layde agaynst hym. Therefore when they were come hether wythoute any delaye, on the morowe I sat to geue iudgement and commaunded the man to be broughte forth.

Act. xxiii. c.

Agaynst whom, when the accusers stode vp, they broughte none accusation of such thynges as I supposed, but had certayne questyons agaynst hym of theyr owne supersticion, and of one Jesus which was dead, whom Paule affirmed to be alijue. And because I doubted of such manner of questyons, I asked hym, whether he wold go to Jerusalem, and there be iudged of these matters. But when Paule had appealed to be kepte vnto the knowledge of Cesar, I commaunded hym to be kept, tyll I myghte sende hym to Cesar. Agrippa sayde vnto Festus: I wolde also heare the man my selfe. To morowe, (sayde he) thou shalt heare him: And on the morowe when Agrippa was come and Bernice, wyth greate pompe, and were entred into the counsell house, with the captaynes and chesemen of the cytie, at Festus commaundement was Paule broughte forth. And Festus sayde: Kynge Agrippa, and all ye men which are here present wyth vs, see this man, about whom all the multitude of the Jewes haue entreated me, bothe at Jerusalem and also here, cryenge: that he ought not to lyue any longer. Yet founde I nothyng worthy of death, that he had committed. Neuertheles, seynge that he hath appealed to Cesar, I haue determined to sende hym. Of whome I haue no certen thyng to wyte vnto my Lorde. Wherefore, I haue brought hym vnto you, and specially vnto the (Kynge Agrippa) that after examination had, I myghte haue somwhat to wyte for me. I thinke it vnreasonable, for to sende a prisoner, and not to shewe the causes which are layde agaynst hym.

The xxvi. Chapter.

Kynge Agrippa heareth Paul, which telleth hym his callinge from the heauynge.

Agrippa sayd vnto Paule. thou art permitted to speake for thy selfe. The Paul stretched forth the hand, and answered for hym selfe: I thinke my selfe happye kynge Agrippa, because I shal answer thyse daye before the, of all the thynges wherof I am accused of the Jewes: namely because thou arte expert in all customes and questyons whiche are amonge the Jewes. Wherefore I beseeche the, to heare me patiently.

Wyllyng that I haue leade of a chyldre (whiche was at the first amonge myne owne nation at Jerusalem) knowe all the Jewes which knewe me from the begynnyng, if they wolde testifie. *For after the most stryfeteste secte of our religioun, I lyued a Pharisee. And nowe I stande and am iudged for the hope of the promys made of God vnto our fathers: vnto which promys our twelue tribes (instantly scrupinge God day and nyght) hope to come. For whiche hopes sake, kynge Agrippa, I am accused of the Jewes. Why shoulde it be thoughte a thyng incredible vnto you, that God shuld rase agayne the dead? I also verely thought in my selfe that I ought to do many contrarie thynges, cleane agaynst the name of Jesus of Nazareth: which thyng I also dyd in Jerusalem. And many of the sayntes dyd I shut vp in prison, and had receyued auctorite of the hye prestes. And when they were put to death, I gaue the sentence. And I punished them oft in every synagoge, and compelled the to blaspheme, and was yet more mad vpon them, and persecuted them, euen vnto straunge cyties. Aboute whiche thynges as I went to Damascus, with auctorite and lycence of the hye preastes: euen at mydday, (Kynge) I sawe in the waye a lyghte from heauen aboue the brightnes of the sunne shynynge rounde about me and them which iourneyed wyth me. When we were all fallen to the earthe, I hearde a voyce speakynge vnto me, and sayenge in the hebrewe tonge: *Saull, Saull, why persecutest thou me? It is harde for the to hearken agaynst the prykes. And I sayde: Who art thou Lorde. And he sayde: I am Jesus whome thou persecutest, but rise and stande vpon thy fete. those thinges which thou hast sene, and of those thynges in the whych I wyll appere vnto the, deliueringe the from the people, and from the Gentyles, vnto whome nowe I sende the, to open theyr eyes, that they maye be turned from darkenes to lycht, and from the power of Satan vnto God, that they maye receaue forgiveness of synnes, and inheritaunce amonge them which are sanctified by fapth þis towarde me.

Wherefore (O kynge Agrippa) I was not dysobedient vnto the heauens byspon: but shewed fyrst vnto them of Damasco, and at Jerusalem, and thorow out all the coastes of Jewrye, and then to the Gentyles that they shulde repent and turne to God, and do suche workes as become them that repent. For this cause the Jewes caughte me in the temple, and wente aboute to kyll me. Seeynge therfore that I haue obtayned helpe of God: I continue vnto this daye, wythynge both to small and to grate, sayeng none other thinges, than those which the prophetes and Moses dyd say shuld come. that Christe shulde suffer, and that he shulde be the fyrst that shuld ryse from death and shuld shew lycht vnto the people, and to the Gentyles, As he thus spake for hym selfe, Festus sayde w a loude voyce: Paule, thou arte besyde thy selfe much learyng doth make the made. And Paul sayde: I am not mad (moost deare Festus) but speake forth the wordes of trouth and sobernes. For the kynge knoweth of these thinges, before whom also I speake frely: neyther thyneke I þ any of these thynges are hydden from hym. For this thyng was not done in a corner. Kynge Agrippa beleuest thou the Prophetes: I wote wel þ thou beleuest. Agrippa sayde vnto Paul: Somewhat thou bringest me in mynde for to become Christen. And Paule sayde: I wolde to God þ not onely thou: but also al that heare me to daye were, not somewhat onely but all together, suche as I am, excepte these bondes. And when he hadde thus spoken, the kynge rose vp, and the debite, and Bernice, and they that sat wyth them. And when they were gone aparte, they talked betwene them selues, sayenge. This man doth nothyng worthy of death, or of bondes. Then sayde Agrippa vnto Festus: This man myght haue bene let loose, yf he hadde not appealed vnto Cesar.

¶ The xxvii. Chapter.

¶ Paul sheweth towarde Rome. Julius the captayne entreated hym courtously, and at the laste they sailed to Rome.

When it was concluded, that we shulde sayle into Italye, they deliuered both Paul, and certayne other prisoners, vnto one named Julius, an vnder captayne of Cessars soudyers. And we entred into a shyp of Adramitium, and loosed from lande, apointed to sayle by the coastes of Asia, one * Aristarcus oute of Macedonia of the countre of Thessalonica carpenge syl wyth vs. And the nexte daye we came to Sidon.

And Julius * courteously entreated Paul and gaue him lyberte, to go vnto his frendes, and to refresh hym selfe. And when we had launched from thence, we sayled harde by Cyprus because the wyndes were contrarie. And when we had sayled ouer the see of Cilicia and Pamphylia, we came to Myra which is in Lycia.

And there the vnder captayne founde a shyp of Alexandria ready, that sayled into Italye, & he put vs therein. And when we had sayled slowly many daies, & scarce were come ouer against Cydon because the wynde wythstode vs, we sayled hard by the coast of Candy, ouer against Salmo, and with muche worke sayled beyonde it, and came vnto a place which is called þ faire hauens. Ape wynter was the ctyte of Lasea. When much tyme was spent, and whē sayling was nowe leopardus, because also þ they hadde ouerlong fasted, Paul put them in remembrance, & sayde vnto them: Myrys I perceaue, that this vyage wyl be wyth hurte and damage, not of þ sayding and shyp onely, but also of your lyues. Neuer theles the vnder captayne beleued the gouernour and the mayster of the shyppe more then those thinges which were spoken of Paul. And because þ hauen was not comodious to wynter in, many toke counsel to depart thence, yf by any meanes they myghte attayne to Phenice and there to wynter, which is an heauen of Candy, and lyeth towarde the south west and north west wynde. When þ south wynde blew, they supposyng to obtayne theyr purpose, loosed vnto Ailon, and sayled paste all Candy.

But not longe after, there arose agaynst their purpose a flawe of wynd out of the north east. And when the shyp was caught and colde not resyst the wynde, we let her go, and draue wyth the wether. But we were carped into an yle which is named Claudia, & had muche worke to come by a bote, which they toke vp and vsed helpe, and made faste þ shyp, fearynge, lest they shuld fall into þ wyntes. And so they let downe a vessel, and were carped. The nexte daye (whē we were tossed w an excedyng tempest) they lyghened the shyppe, and the thyrde daye we cast out wyth our owne handes the taklyng of the shyppe. When at the laste, nether the sunne nor starres in many dayes appeared & no small tempeste laye vpon vs, all hope that we shulde escape, was then taken awaye. But after long abstinence, Paule stode forth in the myddes of them and sayde: Myrys, ye shuld haue berkened to me, & not to hure loosed from Candy, nether to haue brought vnto vs this harme and losse. And nowe I exhort you to be of good chere.

For there shalbe no losse of any mans lyfe among you, saue of the shyp onely. For there stode by me this nyght þ angel of God, whose I am and whome I serue, sayenge: feare not Paule * thou muste be brought before Cesar. And lo God hath geuen the al them that sayle wyth þ. Wherefore lys he of good chere: for I beleue God, þ it shalbe euen as it was told me. Howbeit we must be cast into * a certayne plande.

But when the fourteneth nyght was come

The Actes

(as we were saylynge in Asia, aboute myd-nyght) the shypmen demed, that there appeared some countre vnto them: and sounded, & founde it. xx. faddoms. And whē they had gone a lptell further, they sounded agayne, and founde. xv. faddoms. Then fearynge lest they should haue fallen on some rocks, they cast foure ankers out of the sterne, and wysshed for the daye. As the shypmen were about to flee out of the ship, whē they had let downe the bote into the see, vnder a couloure, as though they wolde haue cast ankers out of the forshyppe) Paul sayd vnto the vndercaptayne & to the soudpers: excepte these abyde in the shyp ye cannot be safe. Then the soudpers cut of the rope of the bote, & let it fall away.

¶ And when the daye began to appere, Paule besought them all to take meate, sayenge thys is the fourtenth daye, that ye haue tarped, and continued fastynge, receaupnge nothyng at al. Wherefore I praye you to take meate: for thys no doute is for youre health for there shal not an hear fall fro the head of any of you. And whē he had thus spoken, he toke bread & gaue thankes to God in presence of them all, and when he had broken it, he began to eate. Then were they al of good cheare, and they also toke meate. They were altogether in the shyppe, two hundred thre score and sytene soules. And when they hadde eaten ynough, they lyghtened the shyp, and cast out the wheate into the see.

¶ When it was day, they knewe not the land but they spyed a certayne hauē wyth a banke, into the which they were minded (yf it were possible) to thrust in the shyp: And when they had taken vp the ankers, they committed them selues vnto the see, and loosed the rudder bondes and hoysed vp the mayne sayle to the wynde, & dretwe to lande. And when they chaunced on a place, whiche hadde the see on both sydes, they thruste in the shyppe, And the fore parte stuck fast and moued not, but the hynder parte brake wyth the vyolence of the waues.

The soudpers counsell was to kyll the prisoners, lest any of them, whē he had come out shulde runne awaye. But the vndercaptayne, wyllynge to saue Paule, kepte them fro theyr purpose, and commaunded that they whiche coulde swimme, shulde caste them selues fyrste into the see, and scape to land. And the other he commaunded to go, some on bozdes, and some on broken peces of the shyp. And so it came to passe, that they escaped all safe to lande.

The. xxviii. Chapter.

¶ The wynde hurtyd not Pauls hande, he healeth Publius father, and preaceth Christ at Rome.

¶ And whē they were scaped, then they knewe, that the ple was called Milet. And the straungers shewed vs no litel kindnes: for they kyndled a fyre, & receaued vs euery one, because of the present rayne, and because of the colde. And when Paule hadde gathered a bondel of styches, and layde them on the fyre, there came a wynde oute of the heate, and caught him by the hand. Whē the straungers sawe the beast hange on his hand they sayde amonge them selues: no doute thys man is a myrthener: Whome (though he haue escaped the see) yet vengeance suffreth not to lyue. And he shooke of the wynde into the fyre, & felt no harme. Howbeit they waped when he shuld haue swolne, or fallen downe dead sodely. But after they had loked a greate whyle, and sawe no harme come to him, they chaunged their myndes, and sayde that he was a God.

In the same quarters were landes of the chefe mā of the ple (whose name was Publius) whiche receaued vs, and lodged vs thre dayes curteously. And it fortuneth that the father of Publius, laye sycke of a fever, and of a bloudye fyre. To whom Paule entred in and prayed, & layde his handes on hym & healed hym. So whē thys was done, other also whiche had diseases in the ple, came and were healed: whiche also dyd vs great honoure. And when we departed they lauded vs wyth suche thynges as were necessary.

After thre monethes we departed in a shyppe of Alexandrye, whiche had wyntered in the ple, whose badge was Castor and Pollux. And whē we came to Syracusa, we tarped there thre dayes. And from thence we fet a compasse, & came to Regium. And after one day the south wynde blew, and we came the next daye to Butiolus: where we founde brethren, and were desyred to tary wyth them seuen dayes, and so came we to Rome. And fro thence, when the brethren herde of vs, they came to mete vs at Apphozium, and at the thre tauernes. When Paule sawe them he thanked God, and wered bolde. And when we came to Rome, the vndercaptayne deliuered the prisoners to the chefe captayne of the host: but Paule was suffered to dwell by hym selfe wyth a soudper that kept hym.

And after thre dayes, Paule called the chefe of the Jewes together. And whā they were come, he layde vnto them. Men and brethren though I haue committed nothyng against the people or lawes of the elders, yet was I deliuered prisoner from Ierusalem into the handes of the Romaynes. Whiche when they had examyned me, wolde haue let me go, because there was no cause of death in me. But when the Jewes spake contrarye I was constrained to appeale vnto Cesar: not that I had oughte to accuse my people or. For this cause then haue I called for you, euen to se you, and to speake with you: because that for the hope of Israel I am bound wyth thys cheyne.

And they sayd vnto hym: we nether receaued letters out of Jewry pertaynyng vnto the, ne ther any of the brethren that came shewed or spake any harme of the. But we wyl heare of what thou thynkst. For as concernyng this sect we knowe that euery wher it is spoken agaynst. And when they hadde appoynted hym a daye, ther came many to hym into his lodgyng. To whom he expounded and testified the kyngdom of God and preached vnto them of Iesus: bothe out of the lawe of Moses and out of the prophetes, euen from moynyng to nyght. And some

And when they agreed not amonge them selues, they departed, after that Paule had spoken one worde. wel spake the holy gooste by Elaye the prophete vnto oure fathers, sayenge: * So vnto this people, and say: Wyth pouce eares shall ye heare, and shall not understande: and wyth your eyes shall ye se, & not perceaue. For the hert of this people is waxed grosse and wyth theyr eares haue they had not lust to heare, and their eyes haue they closed lest they shoulde se wyth theyr eyes, and heare wyth theyr eares, and understande wyth theyr hertes, and shoulde be conuerted, & I shuld heale the. Be it knowen therfore vnto you, that this saluacyon of God is sent to the Gentyles, and they shal heare it. And when he had sayde these wordes, the Jewes departed from him and had great despycions amonge them selues.

And Paule dwelt two yeres full in hys lodgyng, and receaued all that came in vnto him, preachyng the kyngdome of God, & teachyng those thynges which concerne the Lorde Iesus with all confidence, no man forbyddyng him.

The Epystle of the Apostle saynte Paule to the Romaynes.

The fyrst Chapter.

Pauls declaration howe loue towards the Romaynes, howe much he loveth the Gospell, with the grace thereof, and thus both the beauties of the Deathe.

PAule the seruante of Iesus Christe, called to the offyce of an Apostle, * put a parte for þe Gospell of God, * which he had promysed afore by hys Prophetes in the helpe scriptures of his sonne, whych was borne of the lode of Dauid after the fleshe: and hath bene declared to be the sonne of God wyth power after the sperte that sanctifieth, sence þe tyme that Iesus Christ our Lorde rose agayne fro deathe * by whom we haue receaued grace and Apostleshipp, that obedyence myghte be geuen vnto the saythe in hys name amonge all heathen, of whose nobyrye you be, the electe of Iesu Christ.

To all you that be at Rome, beloued of God and sayntes by election. * Grace be wyth you & peace froin God oure father, and from the Lord Iesus Christe. Fyrst verely I thanke my God thorow Iesus Christe for you all, that your saythe is spoken of in all the world. For God is my wytnes (whom I serue, * wyth my sperte in the Gospell of hys sonne, that without ceasyng I make mencyon of you, prayeng alwayes in my prayers, that by some meane, at þe laste (one tyme or other) a prosperous iourney, by þe wyll of God, myghte fortune me, to come vnto you. For I long to se you, that I myght bestowe amonge you some spyrituall gyfte, to strengthe you wyth all, that is, that I myght haue consolacion together with you, through the common saythe, which both ye and I haue.

I wolde that ye shuld knowe (brethe) howe that I haue oft tymes purposed to come vnto you * but haue bene lette herteto, to haue some frute also amonge you, as amonge other of the Gentyles, I am better both to the Grekes and to the vngrekes, to the learned and to the vnlarned. So that (as much as in me is) I am redye to preach the Gospell to you that are at Rome also. * For I am not ashamed of þe Gospell of Christ, because it is þe power of God vnto saluacyon to euerye one that belueth, to the Jewe fyrst, and also to the Gentyll.

For by it is the ryghteousnesse of God opened from saythe to saythe. As it is wyrtten. * the luste shall lye by saythe.

For the wrath of God appeareth from heauen against all vngodlynes and vnyghteousnes of men, whiche wythholde the truthe in vnyghteousnes. seynge * that it whiche maye be knowne of God, is manifest amonge them, because God hath shewed it vnto them. * For his inuysible thynges (that is to saye hys eternall power & godhed) are sene, for as muche as they are understande * by the workes, from the creation of the worlde: So that they are wythoute excuse, because that wher they knewe God, they glorifyed him not as God, neither were thankful, but waxed full of vanities in their pygynacions. * And their folyshe hert was blynded. When they counted them selues wyse, they became foolys, * and turned the glozpe of the immortal God, vnto an ymage, made not onely after the symilitude of a mortall man: but also of byrdes, and foure footed beastes, and of creeping beastes. Wherefore, God gaue them vp to vncienes, thorow the lustes of their owne hertes to defyle theyr owne bodies amonge them selues: whiche chaunged hys truthe for a lye, & worshipped and serued þe thynges that he made more then him that made them. whiche is to be preyed for euer. Amen. Wherefore, God gaue them vp vnto shameful lustes: * For eue theyr women dyd chaunge the naturall vse into that whych is agaynst nature. And lyke wyse also þe men, lest the naturall vse of the woman, and brente in theyr lustes one wyth another, * men wyth men wrought fylthynges, and receaued to them selues the rewarde of theyr erreure, as it was accordyng.

And as they regarded not to knowe God * such so God deliuered them vp into a lewde mynde, that they shuld do those thynges which were not comenly, beyng full of all vnyghteousnesse, fornicacion, wyckednes, couetousnes, malycyousnes, full of enuye, murder, debayte, disceyte, euil condicioned, whysperers, backbiters, haters of God, disdainful, proud boasters, byngers vp of euil thynges, disobedient to father and mother, wythout understandyng, constant treachante breakers, vnloving, truce breakers, vnmercifull Whych men though they knewe, the ryghteousnes of God (comparred not) howe they whych comyt suche thynges, are worthy of death not only (they do) do the same but al so, they whych haue pleasure in them do them.

The.ii. Chapter.

He reduceth the Jewes, whiche as touchenge synne are lyke the heathen.

Herfore art thou inexcusable, O man whosoever thou be that iudgeste. For in that same where in thou iudgest another, thou condemnest thy selfe. For thou that iudgest doest euen the same selfe thynges. But we are sure, that the iudgement of God, is accordinge to the truth agaynst them whiche comytte such thynges. Thou knowest thou thyselfe, O thou man that iudgest them whych do such thynges, and doest euen the very same thy selfe, that thou shalt escape the iudgement of God? Ept thou despysest thou the riches of his godnes, and patience and longe sufferance, not knowynge, that the kyndnes of God leadeth the to repentance?

But thou after thy stubbernes, and hert that cannot repent, heapest vnto thy selfe wrath agaynst the daye of vengeance, when shall be opened the ryghteous iudgement of God, whych will rewarde euery man accordynge to his dedes that is to saye, prayse, honoure and immortallite, to them whych continue in good doynges and seke immortallite. But vnto them that are rebelles, and that do not obeye the truth, but followe vnryghteousnes, shall come indignacion and wrath, tribulacion and angursh, vpon the soule of euery man that dothe euell, of the Jewe fyrste, and also of the Gentyle. To euery man that doth good, shall come prayse, and honoure, and peace, to the Jewe fyrst, and also to the Gentyl.

For there is no respecte of persons, with God. For whosoever hath synned withoute lawe, shall also perishe withoute lawe. And as many as haue synned in the lawe, shall be iudged by the lawe. For in the synghete of God they are not ryghteous whych beare the lawe: but the doers of the lawe shall be iustified. For when the Gentyles whych haue not the lawe, do of nature the thynges cōteyned in the lawe then they haue not the lawe, are a lawe vnto the selues, whych shewe the dede of the lawe wyrtten in theyr hertes. Whyle theyr conscience beareth wytnes vnto them, and also their thoughtes, accusing one another, or excusynge, at the daye when the Lord shall iudge the secretes of men, by Iesus Christ, accordynge to my Gospel.

Beholde thou arte called a Jewe, and trustest in the lawe, and makest thy boast of God, thou knowest his wyl and allowest the thynges that be excellent, and art inforced by the law: and beleueste that thou thy selfe arte a guyde of the blynde, a lpyght of them whych are in darckenes an informer of them whych lacke dyscrecyon, a teacher of the vnlearned, which hast the ensample of knowledge, & of the truth by the law. Thou therfore whiche teachest another, teachest not thy selfe. Thou preacheest, a man shoulde not steale. yet thou stealest, Thou that sayest, a man shoulde not comytte aduoutre breakeste wedlocke Thou abhorrest ymages, and yet robbest God of his honoure. Thou makest thy boast of the lawe, thou breakest the lawe by thyshonourest God. For the name of God is euell spoken of amonge the Gentyles, thowowe thou as it is wyrtten. For circumcysion verely auayleth, yf thou kepe the lawe. But if thou be a breaker of the lawe, thy circumcysion is turned to vncircumcysion. Therfore, yf the vncircumcysed kepe the ryght thynges contayned in the lawe, shall not his vncircumcysion be counted for circumcysion? And he that is not vncircumcysed which by nature (yf it kepe the lawe) iudge the, which begyn vnder the letter and circumcysion, doest transgresse the lawe? He is not a Jewe, whiche is a Jewe outwarde. Neither is it circumcysion which is outwarde in the fleshe. But he is a Jewe which is hyd with in, and the circumcysion of the hert is the true circumcysion, whiche consisteth in the sprete and not in the letter, whos prayse is not of men but of God.

The.iii. Chapter.

He sheweth what preferment the Jewes haue, and that both the Jewes and Gentyles are vnder synne, & are iustified only by the grace of God in Christ.

What preferment then hath the Jewe? Or what aduantage hath circumcysion? Surely very muche. fyrste because that vnto them were comytted the wordes of God. What then though some of them dyd not beleue? Shall their vnbelefe make the promes of God without effect? God forbid. Let God be true, and eueyry man a lyar, as it is wyrtten. that thou myghtest be iustified in thy sayenges, and overcome when thou art iudged.

But yf our vnryghteousnes make the ryghteousnes of God more excellent: what shall we saye? Is God vnryghteous, whych keth vengeance? I speake after the maner of men) God forbid. For howe then shall God iudge the world? For yf the truth of God appeare more excellent thowowe my lye, vnto his prayse, why am I hence forth iudged as a synner: and not rather (as men speake euell of vs, and as some aspyme that we saye) lette vs do euell, that good maye come therof. Whose dampnacion is iust.

What then? Are we better then they? No, in no wyse. For we haue alreadye proued, howe both Jewes and Gentyles are all vnder synne, as it is wyrtten. There is none ryghteous, no not one there is none that vnderstandeth, there is none that seeketh after God: they are all gone out of the waye, they are all vnprofitable, there is none that doth good, no not one. They thowowe is an open sepulchre, with theyr toges they haue dyscreued: the popson of aspes is vnder theyr lippes. Whose mouth is ful of cursynge and bytternes. Their fete are swyft to shed bloud. Destruction and wretchednes are in theyr wayes, & the waye of peace haue they not knowen: There is no feare of God before theyr eyes.

We knowe that whatsoeuer thynges the lawe sayth, it sayth it to them whych are vnder the lawe. That all mouthes maye be stopped, & that all the worlde maye be subdued to God, be cause that * by the dedes of the lawe ther shal no fleshe be iustified in hys syght. For by the lawe cometh the knowledge of synne.

But nowe is the ryghteousnes of God declared wythout the lawe, for as much as it is allowed by the testymonye of the lawe and of the Prophetes. The ryghteousnes of God, cometh by the fayth of Iesus Christ, vnto all and vpon all them that beleue. (on hpm.)

Ther is no dyfference. for al haue sinned, and are destitute of the gloze of God: but * are iustified frely by his grace, through the redempcion that is in Christ Iesu, whome God hath set forth * to be p obtayner of mercy thowowe fayth by the meanes of hys bloud, to declare his ryghteousnes, in that he forgiveth p synnes that are passed, whiche God dyd suffer, to shewe at thys tyme hys ryghteousnes, that he myght be counted iust, and the iustifier of hym which beleueth on Iesus. Where is then thy reioysynge? It is excluded. By what lawe? of workes? Naye: but by the lawe of fayth.

Therefore we holde, that * a man is iustified by faythe wythout the dedes of the lawe. Is he the God of the Jewes onely? Is he not also the God of the Gentyles? Yes, eue of the Gentyles also. For it is God onely whiche iustifyeth the circumcysion that is of fayth, and vncircumcysion thowowe fayth. Do we then destroie p lawe thowowe faythe? God forbidd: But we rather mayntayne the lawe.

The. iiii. Chapter.

The declared by the example of Abraham that sayth iustifyeth, and not the lawe, nor the workes therof.

What shall we saye then, p Abraham our father (as partaynyng to the fleshe) dyd synd? If Abraham were iustified by dedes, the hathe he wherein to reioyse: but not wyth God. For what sayeth the scripture? * Abraham beleued

God, & it was counted vnto hym for ryghteousnes. To hym p worketh, is the reward not rekened of fauoure, but of due ty. To him p worketh not, but beleueth on hym that iustifyeth the vngodly, is hys faythe counted for ryghteousnes, (accorpyng to the purpose of the grace of God.)

Euen as Dauid describeth the blessednes of that man, vnto whom God imputeth ryghteousnes wythout dedes. * Blessed are they, whose vnrighteousnes are forgiven, and whose synnes are cou-ered. Blessed is that man, to whome the Lorde wyll not impute synne. Came thys blessednes then vpon the vncircumcysion, or vpon the circumcysion also? For we saye, that faythe was rekened to Abraham for ryghteousnes. Howe was it then rekened? whan he was in the circumcysion? or when he was in the vncircumcysion?

* For in the tyme of circumcysion, but when he was yet vncircumcysed. And he receaued the * sygne of circumcysion, as a seale of the ryghteousnes of fayth, whych he had yet beyng vncircumcysed, that he shoulde be the father of all them that beleue, though they be not circumcysed. that ryghteousnes myght be imputed to the also. and that he myght be father of circumcysion, not vnto them onely whiche came of the circumcysed, but vnto them also that walke in the steppes of the faythe that was in our father Abraham, before the tyme of circumcysion.

For the promys (that he shuld be the fether of the world) happened not to Abraham or to hys seide thowowe the lawe: but thowowe the ryghteousnes of fayth. * For if they whiche are of the lawe, be hepyes, then is fayth but vayne and the promys of none effecte. Because the lawe causeth wrathe. For where no lawe is, there is no transgression. Therefore by fayth is the enheritaunce geuen, that it myghte come of fauoure. p the promys myght be sure to all the seed. Not to them onely whych are of the lawe: but to them also whych are of the fayth of Abraham, * whych is the father of vs all. (As it is wyttē: I haue made the a father of many nacpons) euen before God, who he beleued, whych restoreth the deade vnto lyfe. & calleth those thynges whiche be not as though they were.

Which Abraham, contrarie to hope, beleued in hope, that he shoulde be the * father of many nacpons, accorpyng to that whych was spokē: * euen so shall thy seide be, (as the starres of heauen, and the sand of the see.) And he saynted not in p fayth nor yet consydred hys owne bodpe whych was nowe dead, eue when he was almost an hundred yere old nethe yet p Sara was past chyldebearing. He staketed not at the promys of God thowowe vnbefese: but became stronge in faythe and gaue God the prayse, beyng full certysed, that he whych had promysed the same was able also to make it good. And therefore was it rekened to hym for ryghteousnes.

* Furtherthele it is not wyrtten for hym onely, that it was rekened to hym: (for ryghteousnes) but also for vs, to whome it shalbe counted (for ryghteousnes) so that we beleue on hym that was rapled by Iesus our Lorde from the dead whiche was deliuered for oure synnes, and was rapled agayne for oure iustificacyon.

The. v. Chapter.

The power of fayth, hope and loue, and howe death is rayged from Adam vnto Christ, by whome onely we haue forgiveness of synnes.

Because therefore that we are iustified by fayth, we are at pcece wyth God, thowowe our Lorde Iesus Christ, by whome also it chaunced vnto vs to be brought in thowowe faythe, vnto thys grace, wherin we stande, and reioyce in hope of the gloze (of the chylde) of God. Not that onely, but also we reioyce in tribulacions knowyng that * tribulacion bynggeth pacience, pacience bynggeth experience, experience bynggeth hope. And hope maketh not ashamed: because p loue of God is shed abroad in our hertes, by the holy goost whych is geuen vnto vs.

1. Job. iiii. 1

For * when we were yet weak, according to the time, & by the death of vs which were vngodly. Yet scarce wyl any man dye for a righteous man. Paraventure for a good man durste a man dye. But * God setteth out his loue to ward vs, by the death of his sonne. muche more sayng we are reconcyled, we shal be preserued by his lyfe. Not onely this, but we also loue in God by the meanes of our Lord Iesus Christ by whome we haue nowe obtained the attonement.

Gene. ii. 2
Rom. vi. 11

Wherefore, as by one man, synne entered into the worlde, and death by the meanes of synne. Euen so death also went ouer all me, in so muche as all we haue synned. For euen vnto the lawe was synne in the worlde: but synne is not imputed, when ther is no law. neuertheless death rayned from Adam to Moyses, euen ouer them also that had not synned wth lyke transgression as dyd Adam: which beareth the synnitude of hym that was to come. But the gyfte is not lyke as the synne. For yf thowse the synne of one, many be dead: much more plenteous vpon many was the grace of God, and gyfte by grace: * whiche was of one man Iesus Christ.

John. i. 1

And the gyfte is not ouer one synne: as death came thowse one synne of one that synned. For dampnacion came of one synne vnto condemnation. but the gyfte came to iustifye from many synnes. For yf by the synne of one, death rayned by the meanes of one: much more they (whiche receaue aboundaunce of grace and of the gyfte of righteousnes, shall raygne in lyfe by the meanes of one (that is to saye) Iesus Christ.

Gal. iii. 1

As lyke wyse then as by the synne of one there was charge vpon all men to condemnation: euen so by the righteousnes of one spryngeth good vpon all men to the righteousnes of lyfe. For as by one mannes disobeyence, many became synners: so by the obediēce of one shal many be made righteous. But * the lawe in the meane tyme entered in, that synne shuld encrease. Reuerthelater where aboundaunce of synne was there was more plenteousnes of grace. That as synne had rayned vnto death, euen so myghte grace raygne thowse righteousnesse, vnto eternall lyfe, by the helpe of Iesu Christ.

The vi. Chapter.

For so much as we be deliuered thesow Christ from synne, we must fashion our selues to lue as the seruauntes of God, and not after our owne lustes. & be bulke rewarde of righteousnes and lyfe.

For yf we be grafte in death lyke vnto hym, euen so shal we be partakers of the resurrection: knowyng this, that our olde man is crucified wth hym also, that the bodye of synne myght utterly be destroyed, that henceforth we shoulde not be seruauntes vnto synne. For he that is dead, is styfied from synne. Wherefore * yf we be dead wth Christ, we beleue, that we shal also lue wth hym: knowyng, that Christ beyng ray-sed from death, * dyeth no more. Death hath no more power ouer hym. For as touchyng that he dyed, he dyed concernyng synne once. And as touchyng that he lyueth, he lyueth vnto God. Lyke wyse consydre ye also, that ye are dead as touchyng synne, but are aloue vnto God thowse Iesus Christ oure Lorde. Let not synne raygne therfore in poure mortall bodye, that ye shulde the vnto obey by the lustes of it. Neither geue ye poure members as instrumentes of vnrightheousnes vnto synne: but geue ouer poure selues vnto God as they that of dead, are aloue. And geue ouer poure members as instrumentes of righteousnes vnto God. For synne shal not haue power ouer you. Because ye are not vnder the lawe, but vnder grace.

What then? Shal we lue, because we are not vnder the lawe but vnder grace? God forbid. Knowe ye not, howe that * to whomsoever ye comyt poure selues as seruauntes to obeye bys seruauntes ye are to whome ye obey: whether it be of synne vnto death, or of obediēce vnto righteousnes? God be thanked, that though ye were the seruauntes of synne, ye haue yet obeyed wth hert vnto the rule of the doctrine, that ye be broughte vnto. * Ye are then made free from synne, and are become the seruauntes of righte-ousnes. I speake grossly, because of the insymptie of your fleshe. As ye haue geuen poure members seruauntes to vncleannes and to inquyte, (from one iniquyte to another) euen so nowe geue ouer your members seruauntes vnto righteousnes, that ye maye be sanctified. For when ye were the seruauntes of synne, ye were bodye of righteousnes. What frute had ye then in those thynges, wherof ye are now ashamed? For the ende of those thynges is death. But nowe are ye deliuered from synne, and made the seruauntes of God, and haue your frute to be sanctified, & the euer lasting lyfe. For * the reward of synne is death, but eternall lyfe is the gyfte of God, thowse Iesus Christ oure Lorde.

The vii. Chapter.

As Christ hath ben raysed by from the awe and death. Howe shal we that be dead wth hym, and callith it the lawe of the members.

Howe ye not brethren? I speake to them that knowe the lawe, howe the lawe hath power ouer a mā, as longe as it endureth. For * the woman whiche is in subiection to a mā is bounde by the lawe to the man, as longe as he lyueth. But yf the man be dead: he is losel fro the lawe of the man. So then * yf whyle the mā lyueth he couple her selfe wth another mā she shal be counted a wedlocke breaker. But yf the

the man be deade, he is free from the lawe of the husbnde, so that he is no wedlocke breaker, tho' he be coupled her selfe wth another man.

Even so ye also (my bzythre) are dead concerning the lawe, by the body of Christ. y<sup>e</sup> should be coupled to another (I meane to him y<sup>e</sup> is risen agayne fro' death) y<sup>e</sup> we should bring forth frute vnto God. For whā we were in the flesh the lustes of synne which were stirred up by the lawe, rayned in our members, to bring forth frute vnto deathe. But nowe are we deliuered from the lawe, and dead vnto it, wherunto we were in bondage, that we shuld serue in a newe conuersation of the sperte, and not in the olde conuersation of the letter.

What shall we saye then as the lawe synne? God forbid, neuertheles, I knewe not synne, but by the lawe. For I had not knowen what lust had in me, excepte the lawe hadde sayd: thou art not lust. But synne took an occasion by the meanes of the commaundemente and wrought in me all maner of concupiscence. For withoute the lawe, synne was deade. I once liued without lawe: but when the commaundement came, synne reuiued, and I was deade.

And the verye same commaundemente, whiche was ordeyned vnto lyfe, was found to be vnto me an occasion of death. For synne took occasion by the meanes of the commaundemente, to discipline me, & by the same to kepe me. Wherefore the lawe was good to me.

But the which was good made death vnto me. For by the lawe it was synne, that synne myghte appeare (by it which was good) to walke in the lawe, that I mighte be free from the lawe.

For the commaundement mighte be oute of me, sure synful. For we knowe that the lawe is spiritual, but I am carnal. I lide vnder synne, because I allowe not that which I do. For what I wold, it do I not, but what I hate, that do I. If I do nowe that which I wold not, I consent vnto the lawe that it is good. So then now, it is not I that do it, but synne y<sup>e</sup> dwelleth in me.

For I knowe, that in me (that is to saye, in my fleshe) dwelleth no good thing. For to wyl is good, but to do is not.

For the good that I wold, do I not, but the euil which I wold not, that do I. If I do that I wold not, then is it not I that do it, but synne that dwelleth in me. I fynd then by the lawe, that when I wold do good, euil is present wth me. For I deelyte in the lawe of God, after the inward man: but I see another lawe in my members, rebelling agaynst the lawe of my mynde, and subduing me vnto the lawe of synne, which is in my members.

O wretched man that I am: who shall deliuer me from this body subdued vnto deathe? I thanke God thorow Jesus Christ our Lord. So then wth the mynde I serue the lawe of God, but wth the flesh the lawe of synne.

So then now, it is not I that do it, but synne y<sup>e</sup> dwelleth in me. For I knowe, that in me (that is to saye, in my fleshe) dwelleth no good thing. For to wyl is good, but to do is not.

For the good that I wold, do I not, but the euil which I wold not, that do I. If I do that I wold not, then is it not I that do it, but synne that dwelleth in me. I fynd then by the lawe, that when I wold do good, euil is present wth me. For I deelyte in the lawe of God, after the inward man: but I see another lawe in my members, rebelling agaynst the lawe of my mynde, and subduing me vnto the lawe of synne, which is in my members.

O wretched man that I am: who shall deliuer me from this body subdued vnto deathe? I thanke God thorow Jesus Christ our Lord. So then wth the mynde I serue the lawe of God, but wth the flesh the lawe of synne.

For the lawe of the sperte geueth lyfe. The sperte of God maketh vs Chrystians & serues wth Christ. The lawe of the flesh geueth deathe. The lawe of the flesh geueth deathe.

For the lawe of the sperte, of lyfe thorow Jesus Christ, hath made me free from the lawe of synne, and deathe. For what the lawe could not do (in as much as it was weake because of the flesh) that performed god and sent his sonne in the flesh, to take away the synne, and by synne damned synne in the flesh, that the righteousnes of the law, might be fulfilled in vs, which walke not after the flesh, but after the sperte.

For they that are carnal, are carnally mynded. But they that are spiritual, are spiritually mynded. To be carnally mynded, is death. But to be spiritually mynded, is lyfe and peace.

Because that the fleshy mynde is enemye agaynst God, for it is not obedient to the lawe of God, nether can be. So then they that are in the flesh, can not please God.

But ye are not in the flesh, but in the sperte y<sup>e</sup> so be that the sperte of God dwell in you. If any man haue not the sperte of Christ, he is none of his. If Christ be in you, the body is dead because of synne, but the sperte is lyfe for righteousnes sake.

Wherefore, y<sup>e</sup> the sperte of hym that raised vp Jesus from death, dwell in you, euen he that raised vp Christ from death shall quicken your mortall bodies, because of his sperte that dwelleth in you.

For if we be dead to the flesh, to liue after the flesh. For y<sup>e</sup> we liue after the flesh, ye shall dye. But y<sup>e</sup> y<sup>e</sup> thorow the sperte y<sup>e</sup> do mortifie the dedes of the body, ye shall lyue. For as many as are led by the sperte of God, they are the sonnes of God.

For ye haue receiued the spirit of adoption, whereby we crye: Abba father. The same spirit beareth witness with our soules, that we are the sonnes of God. If we be sonnes, then are we also heires. I meane of God & heires annexed with him.

For if we be heires, then shall we also be heires with him. For if we be heires, then shall we also be heires with him. For if we be heires, then shall we also be heires with him.

For if we be heires, then shall we also be heires with him. For if we be heires, then shall we also be heires with him. For if we be heires, then shall we also be heires with him.

For if we be heires, then shall we also be heires with him. For if we be heires, then shall we also be heires with him. For if we be heires, then shall we also be heires with him.

For if we be heires, then shall we also be heires with him. For if we be heires, then shall we also be heires with him. For if we be heires, then shall we also be heires with him.

For if we be heires, then shall we also be heires with him. For if we be heires, then shall we also be heires with him. For if we be heires, then shall we also be heires with him.

For if we be heires, then shall we also be heires with him. For if we be heires, then shall we also be heires with him. For if we be heires, then shall we also be heires with him.

For if we be heires, then shall we also be heires with him. For if we be heires, then shall we also be heires with him. For if we be heires, then shall we also be heires with him.

For if we be heires, then shall we also be heires with him. For if we be heires, then shall we also be heires with him. For if we be heires, then shall we also be heires with him.

For if we be heires, then shall we also be heires with him. For if we be heires, then shall we also be heires with him. For if we be heires, then shall we also be heires with him.

offended at. And whosoener beleueth on hym, shall not be confounded.

The x. Chapter.

The vnsaythfulness of the Jewes.
A new manner of ryghteousnes.

Brethren, my hartes desyre & prayer to God for Israel is, that they myght be saued. For I beare them recorde, & they haue a feruente mynde to Godwarde, but not accordynge to knowledge. For they beynge ignorant of Gods ryghteousnes, and goynge about to stablish theirowne ryghteousnes, haue not bene obedient vnto the ryghteousnes of God. For Christe is the fulfyl-lynge of the lawe, to iustifie all that beleue.

For Moses wyrteth of the ryghteousnes whych cometh of the lawe, howe that the man whych doth þe thynges of þe lawe, shall lyue ther-by. But the ryghteousnes whiche cometh of fayth, speaketh on thys wyse: Sape not thou in thyne herte, who shall asende into heauen, that is euen to fetch Christe downe from aboue. Or ther who shall descende into the depe, that is euen to fetche vp Christe agayne from death.
But what sayth he? The word is nye the, euen in thy mouth and in thyne herte.

Thys same is the worde of fayth, whych we preach. For if thou knowledgeth with thy mouth that Iesus is the Lord, and beleue in thyne herte that God raised hym vp from death, thou shalt be safe. For to beleue with the herte iustify-eth: & to knowledgeth with the mouth maketh a man safe. For the scripture sayth: Whosoener beleueth on hym, shall not be confounded.

There is no difference betwene the Jewe and the gentyl. For one is Lord of al, whych is sayd vnto al that cal vpon him. For whosoener doth call on the name of the Lord, shall be safe. Howe then shall they call on hym, on whom they haue not beleued? howe shall they beleue on hym, of whom they haue not heard? howe shall they heare, wythout a preacher? And howe shall they preach except they be sent? As it is wyrted: howe beautyfull are the fete of them whych byngi & bynges of peace, and byngi & bynnges of good thynges. But they haue not al obeyed to the Gospel.

For Elap sayth: Lord, who hath beleued our sayenges? So then sayth cometh by hearynge and hearynge cometh by the word of God. But I aske: haue they not hearde? No doubte: they founde went out into all landes, and they wodes into the endes of the worlde.

But I demaunde, whether Israel dyd knowe or not? For Moses sayeth: I wyl prouoke you to eny, by them that are no people: by a fo-lythe nation I wyl anger you: Elap after that is bolde and sayeth: I am founde of them, that sought me not. I am manifest vnto them, that asked not after me. But agaynst Israel he sayeth: all daye longe haue I stretched forth the my-hades vnto a people that beleueth not, but speaketh agaynst me.

The xi. Chapter.

As the Jewes are not cast away, therefore shall Iwarne the gentyles þe called not to be bye mynde nor to despyce the Jewes, for the iudgements of God are depe & secret.

Sape then, hath God cast awaye his people? God forbid. For euen I also am an Israelyte, of þe seed of Abraham of the trybe of Benjamin. God hath not cast awaye his people whych he knewe before. Note ye not, what the scripture sayth of Elias, howe he maketh intercession to God agaynst Israel, sayng: Lord, they haue kylled thy prophetes, and dygged downe thyne alters: and I am lefte alone, and they seeke my lyfe. But what sayeth the answer of God vnto hym? I haue reserued vnto my selfe seuen thousande men, whych haue not bowed the knee to þe ymage of Baal. Euen so also at thys tyme is there a remnaunt left, accordynge to the electyō of grace. If it be of grace, then is it not nowe of workes. For then grace is nomore grace. But if it be of workes, then is it nowe no grace. For then were deseruynge nomore deseruynge. What then? Israel hath not obtayned that whiche he seeketh, but the election hath obtayned it. The remnaunte are blynded, accordynge as it is wyrt-ten: God hath geuen them the sperte of vniquetye eyes that they shulde not se, & eares that they shulde not heare, euen vnto this day. And Dauid sayeth: Let theyr table be made a snare to take them wyth all, and an occasyon to fal, & a reward vnto them. Let theyr eyes be blynded that they se not, & bowe thou downe theyr backe alwaye.

I sape then: haue they therfore stumbled, that they shulde utterlye fal away together? God forbid. but to shewe theyr fall is saluacyon hapned vnto the Gentyles, for to prouoke the wyth all. Wherefore if the fall of the be the ryches of the worlde & the mynysynge of the þe ryches of the Gentyles: howe muche more theyr perfect-nesse? I speake to you Gentyles, in as muche as I am the Apostle of the Gentyles, I wyl ma-gnifye myne offyce, if by any meane I may prouoke them which are my fleshe, and myght saue some of them. For if the casting awaye of the be the reconceylynge of the worlde, what shall the reconceylynge of them be, but lyfe agayne from death? For if one perre be holpe, the whole heape is holpe. And if the roote be holpe, the braunches shall be holpe also.

Though some of the braunches be broken of,
and thou bynge a wyld olpnetree, wast graft in amonge them, and made partaker of the rote and fatnes of the olpnetree, boast not thy selfe agaynst the braunches. For if thou boast thy selfe, thou bearest not the rote, but the rote the.
Thou wylt sape then: the braunches are broken of, that I myght be grafte in. Thou sayest well because of vnbelleue they were broken of, & thou stodest stedfast in faythe. Be not hye mynded, but feare. For seynge that God spared not the naturall braunches, take hede, lest it come to passe that he spare not the also.

Beholde therefore the kyndnes and rygorousnes of God: on them whiche fell, rygorousnes: but towarde the, kyndnes: if thou contynue in his kyndnes. Or els thou shalt be hewen of, and they agayne: if they byde not styl in vnbelleue, they shall be

The Epistle

Shalbe grafted in agayne. For God is of power to graffe them in agayne. For yf thou walte cut out of a natural wylde olyue tree, and was grafed contrary to nature in a true olyue tree howe much more shal the natural bzaunches be grafed in theyr owne olyue tree agayne.

I wolde not that thys secreete shoulde be hyd from you my brethren (lest ye shulde be wyse in your owne conceytes) that partye blyndnes is happened in Israel, vntyll the fulnes of the gentyles be come in: and so all Israel shalbe saued. As it is wyrtten: * There shal come out of Syon he that doth deliuer, and shal turne awaye vngodlynes fro Jacob. And this is my couenaunt vnto them, when I shal take awaye theyr synnes. As concernynge the Gospell they are euemyes for poure salues: but as touchynge the election they are loued for theyr fathers sakes.

For verelye, the gyftes and callinge of God are such, that it can not repente hym of them for loke, as ye in tyme passed haue not beleued God yet haue nowe obtayned mercye thowowe theyr vnbefele: euen so nowe haue they not beleued the mercye whych is happened vnto you: that they also maye obtayne mercye. For God hath wrapped all nacions in vnbefele, that he myght haue mercy on all.

O the depnes of the ryches both of the wyse- dome and knowledge of God: howe vnsearcheable are hys iudgementes, and hys wayes paste fyndynge out. For * who hath knowen hys mynde of the Lord? Or who hath bene his counsellor? eyther who hath geuen vnto hym spyte, and he shalbe recompensed agayne: for of hym, & thowowe hym and for hym are all thynges: To hym be glorie for euer. Amen.

The xii. Chapter.

The sweete conuersacion, loue, and workes of sorow as beleue in Christ.

Besech you therfore brethren, by the mercifulnes of God, that ye make your bodies a quych sacrifice, holy and acceptable vnto God: whiche is your reasonable seruyng of God and fasthyon not your selues lyke vnto thys wozlde, but be ye chaunged in your shape, by the renewynge of your mynde, that ye maye proue what thyng is good, and acceptable, and perfecte wyl of God is. For I saye (thowowe the grace h butome geuen is) to euery man among you that * no man stude hye in hys owne conceyte more then it becommeth hym to estyme of hym selfe: but so iudge of hym selfe, that he be gentle and sober, accordyng as God hath dealt to euery man the measure of fapth.

For as we are many members in one bodye, and all members haue not one offyce. so we being many are one bodye in Christe, and euerye man amonge our selues, one anothers members.

* Seynge that we haue dyuers gyftes accordyng to the grace that is geue vnto vs: yf any man haue the gyfte of * prophete, let hym haue it that it be agreynge vnto the fapth. * Let hym that hath an offyce, wayte on hys offyce. Let hym that teacheth take hede to his doctrine. Let hym that exhorteth, geue attendaunce to his exhortacion. Yf any man geue, let hym do it wyth synglenes. Let hym that ruleth, do it wyth dylygence. Yf any man shewe mercye, let hym do it wyth cheifnes. Let loue be wythout dissimulation. Hate h which is euell, & cleaue vnto that whiche is good. Be kynde one to another wyth brotherly loue. * In geuyng honoure, go one before another. * Be not slouthfull in the busynesse whych ye haue in hande. Be seruent in the sperte. Apply your selues to the tyme. Be ioyful in hope. Be patient in tribulation. Continue in prayer: Distribute vnto the necessitye of the sayntes: * be ready to herbour. * Blesse the which persecute you. blesse (I saye) and curse not. Be mercy wyth them that are mercye. Wepe also wyth the that wepe. Be of lyke affectyon one towardes another. Be not hye mynded. but make your selues equal. to them of the lower sorte. * Be not wyse in your owne oppynions. Recoyne to no man euell for euell. Prouyde aforeshad thynges honest (not onely before God, but also) in syght of all men. Yf it be possyble, (as muche as is in you) lyue peaceably wyth all men. Dearly beloved, auenge not your selues, but rather geue place vnto wrath. For it is writte. * Vengeance is myne, I wyl rewarde, sayeth the Lord.

Therefore, yf thyne enemye hunger, fede hym, yf he thyrst, geue hym dryncke. For in so doyng thou shalte heape coles of fyre on hys heade. Be not overcome of euell, but overcome euell wyth goodnes.

The xiii. Chapter.

The obedienc of men vnto theyr rulers. Howe fulfyll the same. It is nowe no tyme to folowe the workes of darkness.

Euery soule submyt him selfe vnto the auctorite of the hyer powers. For * there is no power but of God. the powers that be, are ordeyned of God. Whosoever therfore respyeth power, respyeth the ordynaunce of God. But they that respyt, shal receaue to the selues damnacion. For rulers are not fearefull to the that do good, but to them that do euell. Wylt thou be wythoute feare of the power? Do well then: and so shalt thou be prayled of the same. For he is the mynister of God, for thy welth. But and yf thou do that whych is euell, then feare. for he beareth not the sword for nought. for he is the mynister of God, to take vengeance on hym that doth euell. Wherefore, ye must needs obeie, not onely for feare of vengeance: but also because of conscience. And euen for thys cause paye ye tribute. For they are Goddes mynisters, seruyng for the same purpose.

Geue to euery man therfore his durt: * tribute to who tribute belongeth custome, to who custome is due. feare to whome feare belongeth: honoure, to who honoure pertayneth. * We nothyng to any man: but thys, that you loue one another. For he that loueth another hath fulfilled the lawe. For these commaundementes * Thou shalt not commytte aduoutry: thou shalt not kyll thou shalt not steale: thou shalt not beare false wytnesse: thou shalt not lust, & so forth

1. Cor. 12. 13.

for the (yf ther be any other commandement) it is all comprehended in thys lawe, namelpe: Loue thy neyghboure as thy selfe. Loue butteth not hys neyghboure. Therefore is loue the fulfyllinge of the lawe. R

This also we knowe the season howe it is tyme, that we shuld nowe awake out of slepe. For nowe is our saluacion nercer then when we beleued. The nyght is passed, day is come nye. Let vs therfore cast away the dedes of darknes and let vs put on the armour of lpyghte. Let vs walke honestly, as it were in daye lpyghte *not in eatynge & drynkynge, neyther in chabryng & wantonnes, neyther in stryfe and enuynges, but put ye on the Lorde Jesus Christ. R And make not proupl, for the fleshe to fulfyll y lustes of it.

The xliij. Chapter.

The weak ought not to be despised. No man shoulde offend another's conscience, agayne for our wardes thyn-ges shulde no man condemne another.

Im that is weake in the faythe, receauie not in disputynge and troublyng his conscience. One beleueth that he maye eat al thyng: Another whych is weake eateth herbes. Let not him that eateth, despyse him that eateth not And let not hym whych eateth not, iudge hym that eateth. For God hath receued him. What art thou that iudgeste another mans seruante whether he stande or fall, & pertayneth vnto hys owne master? yee, he shalbe holden vp, & he may stande. For God is able to make hym stande.

This man putteth difference betwene daye and daye. Another man coueteth al dayes alpe.
Let euerye mans mynde satysfye hym selfe. He that obserueth the daye, doth it vnto the Lorde.
And he that doeth not obserue the daye, doth it for y Lorde also. He that eateth doth it to please the Lorde, for he geueth God thanks. And he y eateth not, eateth not to please the Lorde wyth all, and geueth God thanks. For none of vs lyueth for hym selfe, & no man dyeth for hym selfe.
For yf we lyue, we lyue vnto the Lorde. And yf we dye, we dye vnto the Lorde. Whether we lyue therfore or dye, we are the Lordes. For Christe therfore dyed, and rose agayn, and reuyned, that he myght be * Lorde of dead and quyeke.

But why dost y then iudge thy brother? Ep-ther, why dost y despyse thy brother? We shal-be all brought before y iudgemēt seat of Christ.
For it is wyrtē, as true as I lyue, sayeth the Lorde *all knees shall bowe to me, & al tonges shall geue prayse to God. So shall euery one of vs geue accomptes of hym selfe to God. Let vs not therfore iudge one another any more.

But iudge thys rather, that no mā put a st-blyng blocke, or an occasyon to fall in hys brothers waye. For I knowe, and am full certy-fyed by the Lorde Jesus, that *ther is no thyng commune of it selfe, but vnto hym that iudgeth it to be comune, to hym is it comune. If thy brother be greued wyth thy meate, nowe walkeste thou not charytablye. Destroye not hym wyth meate, for whom Christe dyed. Cause not poure treasure to be euell spoken of. For the kyngdom of God is not meat and drynke: but ryghteousnes, and peace, and ioye in the holy goste. For he that in these thynges serueth Christe, pleaseyth God and is commended of men.

Let vs therfore folowe those thynges which make for peace, & thynges wher wyth one maye edefye another. Destroye not the worke of God for a lytle meates sake. * All thynges are pure: but it is euell for that man, whych eateth wyth hurte of conscience. It is good nether to eat fleshe neyther to drynke wyne, neyther any thyng wherby thy brother combleth, eyther fallerh, or is made weake. Haste thou sayth: haue it wyth thy selfe before God. happy is he, that condem-neth not hym selfe, in the thyng wherby he also ueryth. For he that maketh conscience is damned yf he eat: because he eateth not of fayth. For what soeuer is not of fayth, the same is synne. R

The xlv. Chapter.

The insympte & frailties of the weak ought to be borne wyth all loue and kyndnes, after the ensample of Christe.

Whyche are stronge *oughte to beare the frailties of them whych are weake, and not to stande in our owne conceytes. Let euerye man please hys neyghboure vnto hys wraile and edefyng. For Christe pleased not hym selfe but as it is written. * The rebukes of them whych rebuked the, fell on me.

Whatsoeuer thynges are wyrtē afore tyme they are wyrtē for our learning, that we thorowe pacience and comforte of the scriptures, myght haue hope.

The God of pacience and consolacyōs, graūt you, to be lyke mynded one towarde another, after the ensample of Christe Jesu: * that ye all agreyng together may wyth one mouth prayse God, the father of oure Lorde Jesus Christe.
Wherefore, receauie ye one another, as Christ re-ceaued vs, to the prayse of God. And thys I say that Jesus Christe was a mynyster of the crycumcyspon for the truth of God to confyrme the promyses made vnto the fathers: * that the getyles myght prayse God for hys mercy, as it is wyrtē. * For thys cause I wll prayse the amonge the gentyles, and synge vnto thy name.
And agayne he sayeth: * Receiue ye gentyles wyth hys people. And agayne: * prayse y Lorde al ye gentyles, and laude hym all ye nations together. And agayne Elape sayeth: there shalbe the roote of Jesse, & he that shal ryse to raygne ouer the gentyles in him shal the gentyles trust.
The God of hope fylle you wyth al ioye, & peace in beleupnge: that ye maye be ryche in hope, tho-rowe the power of the holy goost. R

I my selfe am full certyfied of you (my brethren) that ye also are full of goodnes, & fylled wyth all knowledge, to llyng to exhorte one another. Neuerthelesse brethren I haue somewhat more boldly wyrtē vnto you, partlye to put you in remembraunce, thowoe the grace y is geuen me of God, that I shulde be y mynister of Jesu Christ amonge the gentyles, and shulde mynister the Gospell of God, y the offeringe of the gentyles myght be acceptable, & sanctified by the holy goste, I haue therfore wherof I may reioyce thowthe Christe Iesu, in those thynges whych pertaine to God. For I dare not speake of any of those thynges, whych Christ hath not wrought by me, to make the Gentiles obedient with worde and dede, in myghty signes & wonders, by the power of the spirite of God: so that from Jerusalem and the coastes rounde aboute vnto Illyricum, I haue tyllid all countreys with the Gospell of Christ.

E So haue I enforced my selfe to preach the Gospell, not wher Christ was named, least I shoulde haue built on another mans foundacio: but as it is wrytten: * To whome he was not spoken of, they shall see: and they that herde not, shall vnderstande. For this cause I haue bene off let: (as am let as yet) that I coulde not come vnto you: but now, scynge I haue nomore to do in these countreys, & also haue bene desirous many yeres to come vnto you, whensoever I take my iourneye into Spayne, I wyll come to you. For I truste to see you in my iourney, & to be brought on my waye thetherwarde by you, after that I haue somewhat enioyed your acquaintance.

Now go I vnto Jerusalem, and mynister vnto the sayntes, for it hath pleased the of Macedonia & Achaia to make a certayne dystrycucion vpon the poore sayntes, which are at Jerusalem. It hath pleased them verely, & they betters are they. For yf the gentyles be made partakers of theyr spiritual thynges, theyr dutye is to minister vnto the in bodily thynges. When I haue perfourmed this, & haue brought the this frute sealed, I wyll come backe agayne by you into Spayne. I am sure that wher I come vnto you, I shall come wyth aboundaunce of the blessing of the Gospell of Christ. I beseeche you brethren for our Lorde Iesus Christes sake, & for the lone of the spirite, that ye helpe me in my busyness with your prayers to God for me, that I maye be deliuered from them whiche beleue not in Jewrye: & that this my scrupce, whych I haue to do at Jerusalem, maye be accepted of the sayntes, & I maye come vnto you with lope, by the wyl of God and may with you be refreshed.

The God of peace be with you all. Amen.

The xvi Chapter.

A chapter of salutations. He warneth them to beware of mens doctrine, and commendeth vnto them certayne good men, that were iudges and brethren in the church.

I Commende vnto you Phoebe our sister (whiche is a mynister of the congregacion of Cenchrea) & ye receaue her in Christe, as it becometh sayntes, & that ye assist her in whatsoeuer busyness she needeth of pouer apde. For she hath suckered many, & myne owne selfe also. Grete Prisca & Aquila my helpers in Christe Iesu, whych haue for my lyfe layd downe theyr owne neckes. Vnto whom not I onely geue thanks, but also all the congregacions of the gentyles. Lyke wyse grete the congregacion that is in their house. Salute my welbeloued Ephenetes, whych is the fruite of Achaia in Christe. Grete Marpe whych bestowed muche labour on vs. Salute Andronicus & Junia my colyns, and prisoners wyth me also, whych are wel taken amonge the Apostles, and were in Christe before me. Grete Amplias my beloued in the Lorde. Salute Urban our helper in Christ, and Stachis my beloued. Salute Appelles approued in Christ. Salute them, whych are of Aristobolus household. Salute Herodion my kynsman. Grete the that be of the household of Narcissus, whych are in the Lorde. Salute Triphena and Triphosa, whych laboure in the Lorde. Salute the beloued Persis, whych laboured much in the Lorde. Salute Rufus chosen in the Lorde, and his mother and myne. Grete Asyncritus, Philegon, Nerman, Patrobas, Recurpus, and the brethren whiche are wyth them. Salute Philogus and Julia, Peneus and his sister, and Olympas, & all the sayntes whych are wyth them. * Salute one another wyth an holy kysse. The congregacions of Christ salute you.

I beseeche you brethren, marke the which cause dyuysion and geue occasiouns of euill, contrary to the doctrine whiche ye haue learned, and auoyde them. For they that are suche, serue not the Lorde Iesus Christe, but theyr owne belyes, and wyth swete and flatterynge wordes, deceaue the hartes of the innocents. For youre obedyence is gone abroade vnto all men. I am glad therfore no doute, of you. But yet I wolde haue you wyle vnto that whych is good, and to be innocent as concernynge euill. The God of peace shall tread Satan vnder your fete shortly. The grace of our Lorde Iesu Christ be wyth you. Timotheus my worke felowe, and Lucius and Jason, and Socipater my kynsmen salute you: I Tertius salute you, whych wrote this Epistle in the Lorde. * Sayus my host and the hooste of all the congregacions saluteth you. Erastus the treasurer of the cite saluteth you. And Quartus a brother saluteth you. The grace of our Lorde Iesu Christe be wyth you all. Amen.

To hym that is of power to stablyshe you, accordynge to the Gospell, and preachynge of Iesus Christ in utterynge of the mysterie which was kepte secreete sence the world beganne, but nowe is opened by the scriptures of the Prophetes at the commaundement of the everlastynge God to stee by obedience to the fapth published amonge all nacions. To the same God, whych alone is to be honoure and prayse thowthe Iesus Christ, for ever. Amen.

The fyrste Epistle of saunct Paule the Apostle to the Corinthians.

The fyrst Chapter.

He commendeth the Corinthians, exhorteth the to be of one mynde, and rebuketh the druggon þ was amonge them Worship wysdome is folyshnes before God: þer ther is no wysdome but in the despyed crosse of God.

Paul called an Apostle of Jesus Christ, thowoe þ wyll of God and brother Sostenes.

Unto the congregacyon of God whych is at Corinthum.
To the that are sanctified by Christ Jesu called saintes with all þeal on the name of our Lorde Jesus Christ in euery place, ryther of theys or of oures.

* Grace be vnto pou and peacc fro God oure father, and from the Lorde Jesus Christ.

þ I thanke my God alwayes on pource behalfe, for þ grace of God whych is geuen pou by Jesus Christ, þ in al thynges ye are made ryche by hym, in all vterance and in all knowledge by the whiche thynges the testymony of Jesus Christ was confyrmid in pou, so that ye are behynde in no gyfte, waytynge for the apperayng of oure Lorde Jesus Christe, whiche shall also strengthen you vnto the ende, that ye may be blamelle in the daye of our Lorde Jesus Christe. þ God is saythfull, by whome ye are called vnto the felowshyppe of hyr sonne Jesus Christ our Lorde. I beseeche you brethren by the name of our Lorde Jesus Christ, that ye all speake one thyng, and that there be no discypion amonge you: but that ye maye be a whole body: of one mynde and of one meanyng. For it is shewed vnto me (my brethren) of you, by them whiche are of the house of Elo, that ther is stryfe amonge you. I speake of the same that euery one of you sayeth: I holde of Paule: I holde of * Appollo: I holde of Cephas. I holde of Christe. Is Christ denyed? Was Paule crucified for you? eyther were ye baptised in the name of Paul: I thanke God, þ I baptised none of you, but Crispus and Gayus: lest any shuld saye, that I had baptised in myne owne name. I baptised also þ house of Stephanas. Furthermoze knowe I not whether I baptised any man (of you) or no.

þ For Christ sente me not to baptise, but to preache þ Gospell, not wyth wysdome of wodes, lest the crosse of Christ shuld haue ben made of none effecte. For the preachynge of the crosse, is to them that perishe, folyshnes. but vnto vs whych are saued: it is the power of God. For it is wytten: I wyll destroye the wysdome of þ wyse, and wyll cast awaye the vnderstandynge of the prudente. Where is the wyse? Where is the scribe? Where is the dyputer of this world hath not God made the wysdom of this world folyshnes?

For after that the worlde thowoe wysed knewe not God, in the wysed of God it pleased

God thowoe folyshnes of preachynge, to saue them that beleue. For the Jewes requyre a sygne, and þ Grekes seke after wysedome. But we preache Christ crucified, vnto the Jewes an occasyō of fallynge, and vnto the Grekes fo-lyshnes. but vnto them whiche are called both of the Jewes and Grekes, we preache Christe the power of God and the wysedome of God. For the folyshnes of God is wyser then me, and the weaknes of God is stronger then men. Brethren ye se pource callynge, howe that not many wyse men after the fleshe, not many myghty, not many of hye degree, are called. But God hath chosen the folysh thynges of the world, to confound the wyse. And God hath chosen the weak thyn-ges of the world, to confound the thynges whych are myghty. And vyle thynges of the world and thynges whych are despyed, hath God chosen, þer, and thynges of no reputacyon, for to brynge to nought thynges of reputacyon, that no fleshe shulde reioyce in hyr presence. And of hym are ye, in Christ Jesu, whych of God is made vnto vs wysdome, and ryghteousnes, and sanctyfyenge, and redemption. That accordynge as it is wytten. he whych reioysed, shulde reioyse in the Lorde.

The ii. Chapter.

It is no eloquence and gloriouse paynted wordes of wysdome, that can edifye and conuert soules vnto Christ, but the playne wordes of the scrpture for they make mencyon of hym and hys crosse.

And I brethren (whē I cam to you) I came not in gloriouse wordes or of wysdome, shewynge vnto you the testymony of God. Neether word I my selfe that I knewe any thyng amonge you, saue Jesus Christ, even the same that was crucified. And I was amonge you in weakenes, and in feare, and in muche treblyng. And my wordes and my preachynge was not wyth entysynge wordes of mans wysdome. but in shewynge of þ sprete and of power, that your sayth shuld not stande in the wysdom of men, but in the power of God.

We speake of wysdome amonge them that are perfecte. not the wysdome of this world, neyther of the rulers of this world ( whych go to nought) but we speake of þ wysdome of God, whych is in secrete and lyeth hyd, whiche God ordyned before the worlde vnto our glory, whiche wysdome none of þ rulers of this world knewe For had they had knowledge, they wolde not haue crucified the Lorde of glorye. But (as it is wytten: ) * The eye hathe not sene, and the eare hathe not harde, neether haue entred into the herte of man, the thynges whych God hath prepared for them that loue hym.

But God hath opened them vnto vs by hyr sprete. For the sprete searcheth al thynges, þer the bottome of Goddes secretes. For what man knoweth the thynges of a man: saue the sprete of man whych is wythin hym? Enē so the thynges of God knoweth no man, but the sprete of God. And we haue not receaued the sprete of the worlde: but the sprete whych cometh of God. for to knowe the thynges that are geuen to vs by hyr of God

The fyrt Epistle

of God which thyngeſ alſo we ſpeake (not with wordes that mannes wyſedome teacheth, but with wordes whych the holy goost doth teach) makynge ſpirituall compariſon of ſpyrituall thyngeſ. The naturall man perceaueth not the thyngeſ that belonge to the ſpyrite of God. For they are but folpynes vnto hym. Neyther can he perceaueth, becauſe they are ſpyrituall & amyned. But he that is ſpyrituall, diſcuſſeth all thyngeſ: yet he hym ſelfe is iudged of no man. * For who hath knowe the mynde of the Lorde ept he who ſhall informe hym: But we vnderſtande the mynde of Chriſt.

The iii. Chapter.

Paul rebuketh the ſectes & aduocates thereof, Chriſte is the foundacion of his church. No man ought to reioyce in man, but in God.

And I coulde not ſpeake (vnto you brethren) as vnto ſpyrituall: but as vnto carnall, euen as vnto babes in Chriſte. * I gaue you mylk to drynke, and not meate. For ye then were not ſtrong, nether are ye as yet. For ye are yet carnall. As longe were ye as there is amonge you enuenge, and ſtrep and ſectes: are ye not carnall, and walke after the maner of men? For whyle one ſapeth: I holde of Paul, and another I am of * Apollo, are ye not carnall? What is Paul? What thynge is Apollos? Onely miniſters are they by whom ye beſeued euen as the Lord gaue euery man grace. I haue planted, Apollos watered: but God gaue the increaſe. So then, neyther is he that planteth any thynge, neyther he that watereth, but God that geueth the increaſe. He that planteth and he that watereth are one. Euerie man yet ſhall receaue his rewarde, accordynge to his labour. For we are Goddes labourers, ye are Goddes husbanders: ye are Goddes buyldynge, accordynge to the grace of God geuen vnto me, as a wyſe buylder haue I layde the foundacion. And another buyldeth thereon. But let euery man take hede, howe he buyldeth vpon. For another foundacion can no man laye, then that is layde: whych is Jeſus Chriſt. If any man buylde on thys foundacion, gold, ſyluer, precious ſtones, tymbre, haye or ſtoble: euerie mannes worke ſhall appeare. For the daye ſhall declare, which ſhall be ſhewed in fyre. And the fyre ſhall trye euerie mannes worke, what it is. If any mannes worke that he hath buylde vpon, byde, he ſhall receaue a rewarde. If any mannes worke burne, he ſhall ſuffre loſſe, but he ſhall be ſafe hym ſelfe. neuertheleſſe yet, as it were thozow the fyre.

I* knowe ye not that ye are the temple of God? & howe that the ſpyrite of God dwelleth in you? If any man deſyle the temple of God, hym ſhall God deſtroye. For the temple of God, is holy, whych temple ye are. Let no man deceaue hym ſelfe. If any man ſeme wyſe to him ſelfe amonge you, let hym become a foole in this woꝛlde, that he maye be wyſe. For the wyſedome of thys woꝛlde is folpynes with God. For it is wytted * he copalleth the wyſe in theyꝝ craftynes: And agayne, * God knoweth the thoughtes of the wyſe, that they be vayne. Therefore, let no man reioyce in men. For al thyngeſ are poures, whe ther it be Paul, ether Apollo, ether Cephas, whe ther it be the woꝛlde, ether lyfe, ether death, whe ther they be preſent thyngeſ, or thyngeſ to come: all are poures: and ye are Chriſtes, and Chriſte is Goddes. ¶

The iiii. Chapter.

The preachers are but myniſters. Iudgement belongeth only vnto God.

Et I a man this wyſe eſtyme vs, euen as the myniſters of Chriſte, and ſeruautes of the ſecretes of God. Furthermore it is requyred of ſtewardes, that a man be founde ſapthful. Unto me is it but a veyl ſmall thynge that I ſhuld be iudged of you, ether of mans iudgement. No I iudge not myne owne ſelfe. For I knowe, Iought by my ſelfe: yet am I not therby iuſtified. It is the Lord that iudgeth me. Therefore iudge nothing before the tyme vntill the Lord come, which wyll lpghten thyngeſ that are byd in darcknes, and open the counſels of the hertes. And the ſhall euerie man haue praiſe of God. ¶

These thyngeſ (brethren) I haue for an example deſcribed in myne owne perſon, and in Apollos, for youre ſakes, that ye myght learne by vs, ſo no man count of himſelf beyond the, which is aboue wytted. that one ſhall not agaynſte another for any mans cauſe. For who preferreth he the? * What haſt thou, that thou haſt not receaued? If thou haue receaued it, why reioyceſt thou, as though thou haſteſt not receaued it? Nowe ye are full: nowe ye are made ryche: ye raygned as kynges without vs, and I wold to God ye dyd raygne: that we myght raygne wyth you.

For me thynketh, that God hath ſet forth the vs which are the laſt Apollos, * as it were me appointed to death. For we are a gasping ſtock vnto the woꝛlde, and to the aungels, and to men. We are fooles for Chriſtes ſake, but ye are wiſe thozowe Chriſte. We are weak, but ye are ſtrong. Ye are honorable, but we are diſpyſed. Euen vnto thys tyme we hunger & thyrſte, and are naked, and are boſteted with ſtilles, and haue no certayn dwelling place, and labour, * wyth hunger withoure owne handes. We are reupled and yet we bleſſe. We are perſecuted, and ſuffer it. We are euil ſpoken of, and we praye. We are made as it were the fylthynges of the woꝛlde, the offſcowynge of all thyngeſ, euen vnto thys daye.

I wyte not theſe thyngeſ, to ſhame you: but as my beloued ſonnes I wane you. For though ye haue ten thouſande inſtrouctours in Chriſt yet haue ye not many fathers. In Chriſt Jeſu I haue begotten you thozowe the Goſpell. Therefore, I deſyre you to folowe me, * as I folowe Chriſt. For thys cauſe haue I ſent vnto you Timotheus, whych is my deare ſonne, & ſapthful in the Lord, whych ſhall put you in remembraunce of my wayes, that I haue in Chriſte, euen as I teache euerie where in al congregacions. The. v. Chapter.

¶ After what maner Paul curseth the man that had committed fornication wth his mother in lawe.

B Your reioysynge is not good. knowe ye not, that a lytle leuen soweth the whole lompe of dowe? & purge therfore the olde leuen that ye maye be newe dowe, as ye are swete bread. For Christ our passecouer is offered v<sup>er</sup> vs. Therfore, let vs kepe holye daye, not wth olde leuen, neyther wth the leuen of malyciousnesse and wyckednesse but with the swete bread of purenes and frute. I wrote vnto you in a p<sup>ri</sup>uile, that ye shuld not company wth fornicatours. And I meante not at all of the fornicatours of thys worlde, e<sup>it</sup>her of the couetouse, or of extortioners, e<sup>it</sup>her the ydolaters. for then muste ye nedes haue gone out of the worlde. But nowe I byd wyte vnto you, & that ye companie not together, yf any that is called a brother, be a fornicatoure or couetouse, or a worshyp<sup>er</sup> of ymages, e<sup>it</sup>her a rapler, e<sup>it</sup>her a dronkarde, or an extorponer: wth him that is such, se that ye eate not. For what haue I to do, to iudge them that are wthout? Do ye not iudge the that are wthin? Them that are without, God iudgeth. Put awaye the euill from amonge you.

The. vi. Chapter.

¶ He rebuketh them for gapynge to law together before the heathen, and reprimeth the y<sup>ou</sup>ng men.

A Are one of you haupnge busynesse wth another, go to lawe vnder the wycked, & not rather vnder p<sup>ro</sup>ph<sup>et</sup>es? & Do ye not knowe, p<sup>er</sup> the sayntes shall iudge the worlde? Yf the worlde shalbe iudged by you are ye not good ynough to iudge smal tryfles? knowe ye not how that we shall iudge the Angells? Howe muche more maye we iudge thynges that pertain to the lyfe? Yf ye haue iudgements of worldlye matters, take them whiche are despyed in the congregacion, & make the iudges. Thys I say to your shame. Is there utterly not one wyse man amonge you? What not one at all, that can iudge betwene brother and brother, but one brother goeth to lawe wth another and that vnder the vnbeleuers?

Now therfore, there is utterly a fault amonge you, because ye go to lawe one wth another. Why rather suffre ye not wronge? Why rather suffre ye not your selues to haue harme? naye ye poure selues do wronge, and robbe, & that the byeth. Do ye not knowe, howe that the vnryghteous shall not inheret the kyngdome of God? We not deceaued. For & neyther fornicatours, neyther worshyp<sup>ers</sup> of ymages, neyther aduouterers, neyther weakynge, neyther abusers of the selues wth mankynde, neyther theues, neyther couetous, neyther dronkarde, neyther cursed speakers, neyther pylers, shal inheret the kyngdome of God. And suche were some of you, but ye are washed, but ye are sanctified, but ye are iustified by the name of the Lorde Iesus, and by the sp<sup>ir</sup>ite of our God.

I maye do al thynges, but & al thynges are not p<sup>ro</sup>fitable. I maye do al thynges, but I wyl be brought vnder no mans power. Meates are ordeyned for the belly, and the belly for meates; but God shal destroye bothe it and the. Let not thy bodye be applyed vnto fornicacion, but vnto the Lorde, and the Lorde vnto the bodye. God hath rayled v<sup>er</sup> the Lorde, and shal rayse vs v<sup>er</sup> by hys power. & & ether knowe ye not, p<sup>er</sup> your bodies are the members of Christ: shal I notwe take the members of Christ, and make them the members of an harlot? God forbid. Do ye not knowe, that he whiche coupleth hym selfe wth an harlot, is become one bodye? & For two, sayth he, shal be one fleshe. But he that is ioyned vnto the Lorde, is one sp<sup>ir</sup>ite.

As fornicacion. Every synne that a man doth is wthout the bodye. But he that is a fornicatour, synneth agaynst hys owne bodye. E<sup>it</sup>her knowe ye not, howe that your bodies are the temple of the holye goost, which dwelleth in you whom ye haue of God, and howe that ye are not your owne? For ye are dearly bought. Therfore glorifie God in your bodies, and in your sp<sup>ir</sup>ites, which are Goddes.

The. vii. Chapter.

A Concernynge the thynges wherof ye wrote to me. It is good for a man, not to touche a woman. Nevertheless, to auoyde whoredome let euerye man haue hys wyfe: and let euerye woman haue her husbände. Let the husbände gene vnto the wyfe as he beneuolence. Lyke wyse also the wyfe vnto the husbände. The wyfe hath not power of her owne bodye: but the husbände. And lyke wyse the husbände hath not power of his owne bodye but the wyfe. & Wth drawe not your selues one from another except it be wth consente for a tyme, for to gene your selues to fastynge and prayer. And afterwarde come togeather agayne, lest Satan tempte you for your continence.

I saye of fauoure, and not of commaundement. For I wolde that al men were as I myselfe am but euery man hath hys proper gyfte of God, one after this maner, another after that I saye vnto them that be vnmarried and wydes

The fyft Epistle

1. Tim. b. 2 I do. But and * pf they can not abstayne, let the marry. For it is better to marry then to burne.

1. Cor. b. 7 Unto the maried commaunde, not I, but the Lorde: * Let not the wyfe be separated from the husband. If she separate her selfe, let her remayne unmaried, or be reconcyled vnto her husbande agayne. And let not the husbande put away his wyfe from hym.

C To the remnantt speake I, not the Lorde. If any brother haue a wyfe that beleueth not, pf she be content to dwell wyth him, let him not put her away. And the woman whiche hath to her husbande an infydele, & consente to dwell wyth her, let her not put hym away. For the vnbele-upnge husbande is sanctified by the wyfe, & the vnbeleupnge wyfe is sanctified by the husbande.
As els were your chyldren vncleane, but now are they holie. But and pf the vnbeleupnge departe, let hym departe. A brother or a sister is not in subieccion to such. But God hath called vs in peace. For howe knowest thou (o woman) whether thou shalt saue thy husband or no? Ep-ther howe knowest thou (o man) whether thou shalt saue thy wyfe or no? but euen as God hath bystrybuted to euery man.

1. Cor. b. 7 * As the Lord hath called euery mā, so let him walke & so ordeyne I in all congregacions. If any man be called beyng circuncised, let hym not adde vncircuncision. If any man be called vncircuncised, let hym not be circuncised. Circuncision is not hyng, and vncircuncision is nothyng, but the keepyng of the commaundementes of God.

1. Tim. b. 2 Let euery man abyde in the same callinge wherein he was called. * Art thou called a ser-uaunt? care not for it. Neuertheles pf thou mayest be fre, vse it rather. For he that is called in the Lorde, beyng a seruaunt, is the Lordes fre-man. If he wyll he that is called beyng fre, is Christes seruaunt. Ye are dearly bought, be not ye the seruantes of men. Brethren, let euery man wherein he is called, therein abyde wyth God. For as concernyng virgyns, I haue no comaundement of the Lorde, yet geue I counsell, as one that hath obtayned mercye of the Lorde, to be saythfull. I suppose therefore p it is good for the present necessity. For it is good for a mā so to be. Art thou bounde vnto a wyfe? seeke not to be loosed. Art thou loosed from a wyfe? seeke not a wyfe. But and pf thou marry a wyfe, thou hast not sinned. If he wyll, pf a virgyn marry, she hath not sinned. Neuertheles such shal haue trouble in theyr felthe, but I fauoure you.

1. Cor. b. 7 This saie I brethren, * the tyme is shorte. It remayneth, that they whiche haue wyues, be as though they had none, & they that wepe, be as though they wept not, and they that reioyce, be as though they reioyced not: and they that hve, be as though they possessed not. & they that vse thys worlde, be as though they used it not. For 1. Cor. b. 7 * the fashion of thys worlde goeth awaye. * I wolde haue you without care. He that is vnma-ried careth for the thynges whiche belonge to the Lorde, howe he maye please the Lorde. But he that hath married a wyfe careth for the thynges that are of the worlde, howe he maye please his wyfe. Ther is difference betwene a virgyn and a wyfe. The synge woman careth for the thyngges that are of the Lorde, that she maye be holie both in body and also in sprete: Agayne, she that is married, careth for the thynges that pertaine to the worlde, howe she may please her husbande.

Thys speake I for your profyte, not to tangle you in a snare, but that ye may folowe it whiche is honest and comelye, and that ye maye cleaue vnto the Lorde without seperacion.

If any man thynke that it is vncowly for his virgyn, pf she passe the tyme of maryage. And pf so nedde requyre, let him do what he lysteth, he synneth not: let them be coupled in maryage.
Neuertheles, he that purpolet surelye in hys herte, haue no nedde, but hath power ouer his owne wyl, and hath so decreed in hys herte, that he wyll kepe hys virgyn, both well. So then he that opneth his virgyn in maryage doeth wel.
But he that opneth not his virgyn in maryage doeth better. * The wyfe is bounde to the mary-age, as longe as her husband lyueth. If her husband dye, she is at libertye to marie wyth whō she wyll, onely in the Lorde. But she is happyer pf she so abyde, after my iudgement. And I thinke verely that I haue the sprete of God.

The viii Chapter.

1. Cor. b. 8 He rebueth them that vsurpe to the Altars of other, and sheweth howe men ought to behaue them selues toward such as be weake.

1. Cor. b. 8 M touchyng thynges * offered vnto ymages, we are sure that we all haue knowelledge. Knowledge ma-keth a man swell, but loue edifyeth yt any mā thinke p he knoweth any thyng, he knoweth nothyng yet as he ought to know. But pf any mā loue God, p same is knowen of hym. As concernyng featyng of those thynges p are offered vnto ydoles, we are sure, p * the ymage is nothyng in the worlde and that there is none other God, but one. And though they be that are called Goddes, whether in heauen or other in erth (as ther be Goddes many, and Lordes many) yet vnto vs is there but one God which is the father, of whō are all thynges, & we for hym, and one Lorde Iesus Christ, by whom are all thynges, and we by hym. But euery man hath not knowelledge. * Some haue no conspence because of the ymage, vntill thys houre, eate as a thyng offered vnto ymages: and so they conscience beyng weake is deuyled. But meate maketh vs not acceptable to God. Acyther pf we eate, are we the better. Acyther pf we eat not, are we the worse.

But take hede, lest by any meanes thys ly-bertye of yours be an occasyon of fallynge to them that are weake. For pf some man se the which hath knowelledge, syt and eate of meat offered vnto ymages, shall not the conscience of him whiche is weake, be boldened to eate those thyngges, whiche are offered to ymages? And so tho-rowe thy knowelledge shall the weake brother peryshe, for whom Christ dyed. When ye synne so agaynst the brethren, and wounde theyre weake conscience, ye synne agaynst Christe.

E What saye I then? * that the ymage is any thyng: or that it whyche is offered to ymages, is any thyng: Naye, but thus I saye: that the thynges which the gentyls offer, they offer to deuils, and not to God.

But I wolde haue you to knowe þe Christ is the head of euery mā. And the mā is the * womans head. And God is Christes head. Euery man prayeng or prophesying haupnge any thyng on hys heede, hameth hys head. Euery woman þe prayeth or prophesieth bare headed, dishonoureth her head. For that is euen al one, as if she were shauen, yf the woman be not couered, lette her also be shoren. * Yf it be shame for a woman to be shoren or shauen, let her couer her heade. A man ought not to couer hys head for as moche as he is þe ymage & glory of God. But þe woman is the glorye of the man. For * þe man is not of the woman but þe woman of the man. Nether was the man created for the womans sake: but the woman for the mannes sake. For this cause ought the woman to haue power on her heade, for the aungels sakes. For uerthelasse, nether is the man withoute the woman, nether the woman withoute the man, in the Lord. For as the woman is of the man, euen so is the man: by the woman: but all of God.

Judge in youre selues, whether it be comlye that a woman praye vnto God bareheaded. Dothe not nature it selfe teache you, that it is a shame for a man, yf he haue longe beare and a prayse to a woman yf she haue long beare: For her beare is geuen her to couer her wythall. Yf any man lust to streue, we haue no such custom nether the congregacyons of God.

This I warne you of, and commend not, that ye come not together after a better maner, but after a worse. For spelle of all when ye come together in the congregacyon, I here that there is dissencion among you: and I partely beleue it. For there muste be sectes amonge you, that they whyche are perfect amonge you myght be known. * When ye come together therfore in to one place, the Lordes supper can not be eaten. For euery mā beginneth afoze to eate his awne supper. And one is hungry, and another is drunken. Haue ye not houses to eate and to drynke in? Despylle ye the congregacyon of God, and shame the þe haue net. What shall I saye vnto you? Shall I prayse you? In this prayse I prayse you not. * That whyche I deliuered vnto you I receaued of the Lord. For the Lord Jesus the same nyght, in which he was betrayed, toke breade and whan he had geue thankes, he brake it and sayde. * Take ye, and eate this is my body, which is broken for you. This do ye in the remembraunce of me. After þe same maner also he toke the cup, when supper was done, sayinge This cuppe is the new testament in my bloude. This do as oft as ye dryncke it in remembraunce of me. For as often as ye shal eate this breade and dryncke this cup: * ye shall see the Lordes death: tyll he come. Wherefore, whosoener, shall eate of this breade, or dryncke of the cup of the lord without helpe, shalbe guiltye of the body and bloude of the Lord. * But let a man examine him selfe, and so let him eate of the breade and dryncke of the cup. For he þe eateth or drynke without helpe, eateth & drynke his owne damnacyon, because he maketh no difference of the Lordes bodye. For this cause manye are weak and speke among pon, and manye slepe. For yf we had iudged oure selues, we shuld not haue bene iudged. But when we are iudged of the Lord, we are chastened, that we shuld not be dampned with the * worlde. Wherefore my brethren when ye come together to eate, tarpe one for another. Yf any man hunger, let him eat at home, þe ye come not together vnto condempnacyon. * Other thynges wyl I set in order when I come.

The xii. Chapter.

For the diuersite of the giftes of the holy good geuen to the comferte and edifyinge of one another, as the members of a mans body serue one another.

Sinceritye spretual thynges (brethren) I wolde not haue you ignorant. * Yeknowe that ye were Gentyles, and wente youre wayes vnto dome ymages, euen as ye were led. Wherefore I declare vnto you, that *no mā speakynge by the sprete of God, despyeth Iesus. Also no man can saye that Iesus is the Lorde but by the holy ghost. * There are diuersytes of gyftes, yet but one sprete. And there are dyfferences of admynistracyns, and yet but one Lorde. And there are diuers manners of operations, & yet but one God, whych worketh all in al. * The gyfte of the sprete is geuen to euery man, to edifye wyth al. For to one is geuen the rote the sprete the utteraunce of wysdome. To another is gyuen the utteraunce of knowledg by the same sprete. To another is gyuen fapth by the same spret. To another the gyftes of healyng, by the same sprete. To another power to do myracles. To another to prophesye: To another * iudgement to discretne spretes. To another diuers tonges. To another the interpretacyon of tonges: But these all worketh euen the selfe same spret, deuidyng to euery mā a seuerall gyfte, euen as he wyl. I

* For as the bodye is one, and hath manye members, and all * he members of one bodye though they be many, yet are but one bodye, eue so is Christ. For by one sprete are we al baptised to make one body, whether we be Jewes or Gentiles, whether we be bonde or fre, and haue * al droncke of one sprete. For the bodye is not one member, but manye. If the fote saie: I am not the hand, I am not of þ body: is he therfore not of the body? And if the eare saie, I am not the eye, I am not of the bodye is he therfore not of the body? If al the bodye were an eye, where were then the eare? If all were hearyng where were then the smellynge? But now hath God set the members euery one seuerally in the bodye as it hath pleased hym. If they were all one member where were the bodye? Nowe are there manye members, yet but one body. And the eye can not say vnto the hande. I haue no nede of the, And gayne, the hande can not saie to the fete: I haue no nede of you. Yee, rather a greate deale those members of the bodye whych seme to be moze feble, are necessaie. And vpon those members of þ body whych we thinke lest honeste, put we moze honeste on. And oure vngodlye partes haue moze beautye on. For oure honest members nede it not. But God hath so disposed the body, and hath geuen the moze honoure to that part which lacked, lest there shoulde be any strife in the bodye: but that the members shuld indifferentlye care one for another, And if one member suffer, al suffer wyth hym. If one member be had in honour, all members be glad also.

Ye are the bodye of Christ, and members one of another. And God hath also ordeyned in the congregacyon, spiste * Apostles, seondare ly prophetes, thyrlye teachers, then them that do myracles after that, the gyftes of healyng, helpers, gouerners, dyuersitie of tonges.

Are all Apostles? Are all Prophetes? Are al teachers? Are al doers of myracles? Haue all the gyftes of healyng? Do al speake w tonges? Do al interpret? Couet after þ best gyftes. And yet shewe I vnto you a moze excellent wape.

The xii. Chapter.

The nature and conuersions of loue.

I though I speake w the tonges of men and of Angels, & haue no loue: I am euen as sounding brasle, or as a tynnyng cymball. And * though I coulde prophesy, and vnderstande all secretes, and all knowledg: ye if I haue all fapth, * so that I coulde moue mountaynes oute of theyr places & yet haue no loue, I am nothyng. And though I bestowe all my goodes to fede the poore, and though I geue my bodye euen that I burned, & yet haue no loue, it profiteth me nothyng.

Loue suffreth longe, & is courteous. Loue enuyeth not, Loue doth not frowardly, swelleth not, dealeth not dishonestly * seeketh not her owne, is not prouoked to anger, thynketh not euill, reioyseth not in iniquyte but reioyseth in the trueth, suffereth all thynges, belueth all thynges, hopeth all thynges, endureth all thynges. Though that prophesyes faile, ether tonges cease, or knowledg vanyshe awaye, yet loue falleth neuer away. For our knowledg is vnperfect, & oure prophesyinge is vnperfect. But whe þ whiche is perfect, is come, then that which is vnperfect, shal be done away. When I was a childe, I spake as a childe, I vnderstode as a chyld, I ymagyned as a chyld. But as sone as I was a mā, I put away chyldishnes. Now we se in a glas, euen in a darke speakynge: but then shal we se face to face. Nowe I know vnperfectly: but then shal I knowe euen as I am known. Nowe abydeth fapth, hope, and loue, euen these thre: but the chiefe of these is loue. I

The xiii. Chapter.

Wauld sheweth that the gyfte of prophesye, interpretynge or preachynge, excelleth the gyfte of tonges and howe they both ought to be vsed.

I About for loue, and couet spietuall gyftes. but moost chesly that ye may prophesy. For he that speaketh w the tonge, speaketh not vnto me, but vnto God. For no man heareth hym. Nowe be in the sprete he speaketh misteries. But he that prophesyth, speaketh vnto men for theyr edyfyinge, for theyr exhortacyon and for theyr conforte. He that speaketh wyth þ tonge profeteth hym selfe: * he that prophesith, edifyeth the congregacion. * I wolde that ye all spake w tonges: but rather þ ye prophesied. For greater is he that prophesyth, then he that speaketh w tonges excepte he expounde it: that the congregacion may haue edifyenge. Nowe brethren, if I com vnto you speaking w tonges: what shal I profet you, except I speake to you, ether by reuelacyon or by knowledg, or by prophesyinge, or by doctrine? Moreover, when thynges without lyfe geue sound? (whether it be a pype or an harpe, except they make a distynctiō in the soundes, howe shal it be known what is pyped or harped. For if the trompe geue an vncertaine voyce, who shal prepare hym selfe to the warre? Euen so lykwyle when ye speake w tonges, except ye speake wordes that haue signyfycacyon, howe shal it be vnderstand? what is spok? For ye shal but speake in þ ayer. Many

The seconde Epistle

Many kyndes of voyces are in the worlde, and none of them are without significacion. If I knowe not what the voyce meaneth, I shalbe vnto him þe speaketh, an alie: and he that speaketh, shalbe an alie vnto me. Euen so ye, (for as muche as ye couet spiritual gyftes) seke, that ye may exel. vnto the edyfyng of þe congregaciō Wherfor, let him þe speaketh with tōge, pray, that he may interpret also. For if I pray with tōge, my spyt prayeth, but my vnderstandyng dothe no good. What is it then? I wyl praye with the spyte, & wyl pray with the vnderstandyng. I wyl spynge with þe spyte, & wyl spynge wth the vnderstandyng. For els, when thou blestest with the spyte, howe shal be that occupieth the rowme of the vlearned, say: Amen at thy geuyng of thanks. Sepng he vnderstandeth not what thou sayest: Thou verely guesst thankes well, but the other is not edyfyed. I thanke my God þe I speake wth tōges more then ye al. Yet had I leuer in the congregacyō to speake fyue wordes with my vnderstandyng to the edyfication of other, rather then ten thousand wordes with the tōge.

Brethren, be not ye chyldren in wytte. Howbeit, as concernyng malycyousnes, be chyldren: but in wytte be perfect. In the lawe it is writte * wth sondre tōges, & wth sondre lppes wyl I speake vnto thys people, and yet for all that, wyl they not heare me. sayeth the Lorde. Wherfore tōges are for a spgne, not to them that beleue: but to them þe beleue not. Contrary wyle, prophesye seereth not for them þe beleue not but for them which beleue. If therfore, when all the congregacyō is come together, & all speake wth tōges, there come in they that are vlearned, or they whiche beleue not wyl they not saye, that ye are out of poure wytte? But and if all prophesye, and there come in one that beleueth not, or one vlearned, he is rebuked of all men, & is iudged of euery man, and so are the secretes of hys herte opened, & so falleth he downe on his face, & worshyppeth God, and sayth: that God is in you of a trueth. How is it then brethren? As oft as ye come together, euery one of you hath a songe, hath a doctrine, hath a reuelacyō an interpretacyō.

Let all thynges be done vnto edyfyng. If any mā speake with tōge, let it be by two or at the most by thre, & that by course, & let another interpret it. But if there be no interpreter, lette hym kepe sylece in þe congregacyō, and let hym speake to hym self & to God. Let the prophtes

If any man desire to be a prophet, let him be edyfied by the wordes of the prophets. For God is not cause of strife: but of peace, as it is written (1 Cor. 14:33) in all congregacions of the sayntes. Let your women kepe sylece in the congregacions for it is not permitted vnto them to speake: but to be under obedience, as sayth the lawe. If they wyl lette any thyng, let them aske theyr husbandes at home. For it is a shame for women to speake in the congregacyō. Sprynge the worde of God from you ether came it vnto you onelpe. If any man thinke him selfe to be a prophete, ether spiritual let him knowe, what thynges I wyte vnto you. For they are the commaundementes of the Lorde. But and if any man be ignoraunt, let hym be ignoraunt. Wherfore brethren, come to prophesye, and forbide not to speake with tōges. Let all thynges be done honestely and in order. (among you)

The xv Chapter.

The resurrection of the dead.

Brethren, as pertainyng to the Gospel I preached vnto you, whiche ye haue also accepted, an in the which ye continue, by the which also ye are saued: I do you to wytte, after what maner I preached vnto you, yf ye kepe it, excepte ye haue beleued in vayne.

For first of all I deliuered vnto you, that whiche I receaued: how that Christ dyed for our synnes, accordyng to the scriptures: And þe he was buryed, and that he arose agayne the thyrde daye accordyng to the scriptures: and þe he was sene of Cephas, then of the twelue. After that was he sene of mo then fyue hundred brethren at once: of whiche manye remayne vnto this day, and many are fallen a slepe. After that appeared he to James, then to al the Apostles. And last of all he was sene of me, as of one that was bozne out of due tyme. For I am the least of the Apostles, which am not worthy to be called an Apostle, because I persecuted the congregacyō of God: But by the grace of God, I am what I am. And bys grace whiche is in me, was not in vayne: But I labored more aboundantly then they all, yet not I, but the grace of God whiche is with me, therfore whether it were I, or they so we preach, and so haue ye beleued. If Christ be preached howe that he rose from the dead, how say some among you that there is no resurrection of the dead? If there be no resynge agayne of the dead then is Christ not risen agayne. If Christ be not risen agayne then is our preachyng in vayne, and your faith is also in vayne, ye and we are foude false witnessers of God. For we haue testyfyed of God, howe that he rased vp Christ, whom he rased not vp, yf it be so that the dead ryle not agayne. For yf the dead ryle not agayne then is Christ not risen agayne. If it be so that Christ rose not agayne, then is your faith in vayne, and ye are yet in your synnes. Wherfore they which are fallen a slepe in Christ, are perished. If in this lyfe onely we beleue on Christ, then are we of all men most miserable.

But nowe is Christ risen from the deade, & become the first frutes of them that slepe. For by a man came death, and by a mā came þe resurrection of þe dead. For as by Adā al dye: eue so by Christ, shal al be made alpye, but euerye man in hys owne order.

The first is Christ, then they that are Christes at hys commyng. Then cometh the ende

But some man wyl saye: how aryle I dead, w what bodye shall they come? Thou fool, * that which I sowest, is not quickened, except it dye. And what sowest thou? Thou sowest not that body that shalbe but bare corne as of wheat, or of some other, God geueth it a bodye at his pleasure, to euery seede his owne body. * Al the which is not one maner of flesh but ther is one maner of flesh of men, another maner of flesh of beasts, another of fowles, & another of byrdes. There are also celestiaall bodyes, and there are bodyes terrestriall. But the glory of the celestiaall is one, and the glory of the terrestriall is another. There is one maner glory of the sonne, & another glory of the moone, and another glory of the starres. For one starre differeth from another in glory. So is the resurrection of the dead. It is sown in corrupcion, it riseth agayne in incorruption. It is sown in dishonour, it riseth agayne in honour. It is sown in weaknes, it riseth agayne in power. It is sown a natural bodye, it riseth agayne a spirituall bodye. There is a natural body, and there is a spirituall bodye: as it is also written the fyrst man * Adam was made a lyuynge soule, & the last Adā was made a quyknyng sprete, howbeit, he is not fyrst whyche is spirituall, but he whyche is naturall, & then that whyche is spirituall. * The fyrst man is c. the earth, earthy: the seconde mā is of Lorde fro heauen. As is the earth, such are they that are earthy. And as is the heuvely, such are they that are heuvely. And as we haue borne the ymage of the earth, so shal we beare the ymage of the heuvely. This saie I brethren that fleshe and bloude can not inheret the kyngdome of God. Neither doth corrupcion inheret vncorruption. Behold, I shewe you a mystry. * We shal not all slepe: but we shal all be chaunged, & that in a momēt, in the twinkling of an eye by the last trompe. For the trompe shall blowe, and the dead shall ryle incorruptible, and we shalbe chaunged. For this corruptible must put on incorruption and this mortall must put on immortallite. When this corruptible hath put on incorruption, and this mortall hath put on immortallite: then shalbe brought to passe the sayinge that is written: * Death is swallowed vp in victory. * Death where is thy sting? Hei where is thy victory? The sting of death is synne and the strength of synne is the lawe: But thanks be vnto God which bath geuen vs * victory, thow our Lord Jesu Christ. Therefore my deare brethren, be ye stedfast and vnmouable, alwayes ryche in the worke of the Lorde, for as moch as ye knowe, how that youre labour, is not in vayne in the Lorde.

It is sown in corrupcion, it riseth agayne in incorruption. It is sown in dishonour, it riseth agayne in honour. It is sown in weaknes, it riseth agayne in power. It is sown a natural bodye, it riseth agayne a spiritual bodye. There is a natural body, and there is a spiritual bodye: as it is also written the first man * Adam was made a lyuynge soule, & the last Adā was made a quyknyng sprete, howbeit, this is not first whyche is spirituall, but this whyche is naturall, & then that whyche is spirituall. * The first man is of the earth, earthy: the seconde mā is of Lorde fro heauen. As is the earthy, such are they that are earthy. And as is the heuently, such are they that are heuently. And as we haue borne the ymage of the earthy, so shal we beare the ymage of the heuently. This saie I brethren that fleshe and bloude can not inheret the kyngdome of God. Neither doth corrupcion inheret vncorruption. Behold, I shewe you a mystery. * We shal not all slepe: but we shal all be chaunged, & that in a momēt, in the twinkling of an eye by the last trompe. For the trompe shall blowe, and the dead shall

When this corruptible hath put on incorruption, and this mortall hath put on immortallite: then shalbe brought to passe the sayinge that is written: * Death is swallowed vp in victory. * Death where is thy sting? Hei where is thy victory? The sting of death is synne and the strength of synne is the lawe: But thanks be vnto God which hath geuen vs * victory, thow our Lord Jesu Christ. Therefore my deare brethren, be ye stedfast and vnmouable, alwayes ryche in the worke of the Lorde, for as moch as ye knowe, how that youre labour, is not in vayne in the Lorde.

When I am come, whosoever ye shal allowe by your letters, they wyl I sende, to bynge youre lyberalitie vnto Ierusalem. And yf it be mete that I go also, they shal go wyth me. I wyl come vnto you whan I go ouer to Macedonia. For I wil go thowowoute * Macedonia. Wyth you peradventure I wyl abyde a while: or els tary all wynter, that ye maye bynge me on my waye, whither soeuer I go I wil not le pou now in my passage: but I trust to abyde a while wyth you, yf God shal suffre me. I wyl tary at Ephesus, vntil the first daye. For a great doze and a frutefull is opened vnto me: & there are many aduersaries. Yf Timotheus come, let he be wythout feare to you. For he worketh the worke of the Lorde, as I do: lette no man therfore despyse hym: but conuaye hym forth in peace, that he maye come vnto me. For I loke for hym wyth the brethren. To speake of brother * Apollo (a certayne you knowe) I greatly despyed hym, to come vnto you wyth the brethren, but his mynde was not at all to come at this tyme: howbeit he wyl come, when he shal haue conuenient tyme. Watch ye, stande fast in the fayth, quyte you lyke men, be strong. Let all your busynes be done wyth loue.

howe that as ye are partakers of the afflictions so shall ye be partakers also of the consolacion.

Bʒethzen, I wolde not haue you ignoraunt of oure trouble, whych happened vnto vs in * Asia. For we were greued out of measure, passing strenght - so greatlye that we dyspayred euen of lyfe. Also we receaued an awlwer of death i oure selues: * but in God whych rayseth the dead to lyfe agayne, and whych deliuered vs from so great a death and doth deliuer. On whome we truste that yet hereafter he wyl deliuer, by the helpe of your prayer for vs, that by the meanes of many persones, thākes may be giuen of many on oure behalfe, for þe gyfte geuen vnto vs.

For oure reioysyng is thys, euen the testymony of our consence, that in synghenes ( or but by the grace of God, we haue had oure con-

I trust ye shal fynde vs vnto the ende, eue as ye haue found vs partly for we are your reioysyng

* And in thys confydence was I mynded first to haue come vnto you, that I might haue hadde one pleasure more wryth you, and to passe by you into Macedonia, & to haue come agayne oute of Macedonia vnto you, & to be ledde forth of you toward Jerusalem. Whā I thus wyl was mynded, byd I vnto synghenes: Or thinke I car-hath also sealed vs, and hath geue the earnest of the sperte in oure hertes.

The.iii.Chapter.

A true preacher is diligent he corrupteth not the word of God, but seeketh the honour of Christ, pre though he is beset with the perils of his life.

the preaching of the law.

But we haue this treasure in * earthly vessels, that the excellencye of the power myght be Gods and not oures. We are troubled on euery syde, yet are we not without hope. We are in perueritye, but not utterly without some what. We suffer persecucion: but are not forsaken therein. We are cast downe: neuerthelesse we persecyue not. ¶ Therefore, we are alwaye of good cheare, and knowe, that as longe as we are at home in the bodye, we are absent from God. For we walke in fapth not after outwarde appareance. Ne-uerthelesse we are of good comforte, and hadde leuer to be absent from the bodye and to be present wth God. Wherefore, whether we be at home or from home, we endeouore oure selues, to please hym. * For we muste all appeare before the iudgement seate of Chyriste, that euery man maye receaue the woordes of his bodye according to that he hath done, whether it be good or bad. ¶ Seynge then that we knowe, howe the Lorde is to be feared, we fere fapre wth men. For we are known well ynought vnto God. I truste also that we are known in your consciences. For we prayse not oure selues a-gayne vnto you, but geue you an occasyon to re-ioyce of vs, yf we maye haue somewhat agaynst them whiche reioyce in the face, and not in the heart. For yf we be to seruent, to God are we to seruent, yf we kepe measure, for your cause kepe we measure. For the loue of Chyriste constraineth vs, because we thus iudge that yf one dyed for all, then were al dead, and * he dyed for all, that they which lyue, shulde not hence forth lyue vnto them selues, but vnto hym whiche dyed for them, and rose agayne. ¶ Wherefore, henceforth knowe we noman after the fleshe.
In somoche though we haue known Chyriste after the fleshe, now yet hence forth knowe we him so noman. Therefore if any man be in Chyriste he is a newe creature. Olde thynges are passed awaye, beholde all thynges are become * newe.
Neuerthelesse, all thynges are of God, whiche hath * reconcyled vs vnto hym selfe by Iesus made agreement betwene the worlde & hym selfe and imputed not theyr synnes vnto them, and hath committed to vs the preachynge of the attonement. Nowe then are we messengers in the towne of Chyriste, euen as though God dyd be-

E also as helpers exhorten you that ye receaue not the grace of God in vayne. For he sayth: * I haue heard the in a tyme accepted. and in the daye of saluacyon, haue I suckered the. Behold now is that accepted tyme: beholde nowe is that daye of saluacyon. Let vs geue no occasion of euyl, that in our office be founde no faute: but in all thynges let vs behaue oure sel-ues * as the ministers of God.

In much patience, in afflictions, in necessities, in anguyshes, in stryppes, in prisonmentes in stryppes, in labours, in watchynge, in fastyn-ges, in purenes, in knowledg, in long suffering, in kyndnes, in the holy ghost, in loue vnfayned, in the worde of trouth, in the power of God, by the armoure of righteousnes of the ryght hande and on the lefte by honour and by dishonour, by e-uyl reporte and good reporte: as by scauers, & yet true, and vknownen and yet known: as by finge, and behold, we lyue as chastened, and not kylled, as sorrowynge, and yet alwaye merre, as poore, and yet make many ryche: as hauyng no thyng, and yet possessynge all thynges. ¶

O ye Corinthians, oure mouth is open vnto you. Our heart is made large ye are in no strait in vs, but are in a straite i your owne bowelles I promyse vnto you lyke reward, as vnto chil-dre. Set your selues at large, & * beare not ye the yoke of the vncleiners. For what felow-shipp hath ryghtewnes wth vnyghtewnes? O what company hath lygh wth darknes? * O what concord hath Chyriste wth Beliall? Ether what parte hath he that beleueth wth an infidell? O how agreeth the temple of God wth Images: for * ye are the temple of the lyuynge God (as sayde God) * I wyll dwell amonge them, and waiche amonge them and wyll be theyr God: and they shalbe my people. Where-shall be my sonnes and daughters, sayeth the Lorde almyghty.

Synge that we haue suche promyses (dearlye beloved) let vs cleanse oure selues from all fylthynes of the fleshe and sprete and growe vp to ful holynes wth the feare of god Understand vs, we haue hurt no man: we haue corrupted no man: we haue defrauded no man. I speake not thys to condemne you: for I haue shewed you before, that ye are in oure hartes to dye and lyue wth you: I am verie bolde ouer you: I reioyce greatly in you. I am fylled wth comfort

comforte, and an exceedinge ioyous in all our tribulacion. For when we were come into Macedonia *oure fleshe hadde no resse, but we were troubled on euery syde. Outwarde was fyghtyng, inwarde was feare. Neuerthelesse * God that comforteth the abiecte, comforted vs by the companyng of Titus.

And not by his companyng onely but also by the consolaciō whych we receaued of you. When he tolde vs your desyre, your wepyng, your feruent mynde for me: so that I reioyced the more.
For though I made you sorow with a letter, I re-pente not, though I dyd repent. For I perceaue that the same Epistle made you sorow, though it were but for a season. But I nowe reioyce, not that ye were sorow, but that ye so sorowed that ye repented. For ye sorowed godly, so that in nothyng ye were hurte by vs. For godly so-rowe causeth repentaunce vnto saluacion, not to be repented of, contrarywys, * worldly so-rowe causeth death. For beholde, what dysp-gence thys godlye sorow that ye toke, hath wrought in you pee, it caused you to cleare your selues. It caused indygnacion, it caused feare, it caused desyre, it caused punishmente. For in all thynges ye haue obeyed youre selues, that ye were cleare in that mater. Wherefore, though I wrote vnto you, I dyd it not for hys cause that was hurte but for youre good mynde for vs myght appeare amonge you in the syght of God.

Therefore, we are comforted, because ye are co-forted. yee, & exceedingly the more ioyed we, for the ioye of Titus had because his sperte was refreshed of you all. I am therefore not norre ashamed, though I boasted my selfe to hym of you.
For as all thynges whiche we spake vnto you are true, euen so our boasting that I made vnto Titus, is founde true. And hys inward affection is more aboundant toward you, when he remembreth the obedience of you all how with feare & trembleng ye receaued hym. I reioyce that I maye be holde ouer you in all thynges.

The viii. Chapter.

He putteth them in remembrance to helpe the poore sayntes at Ierusalem, accordyng to the place donpans ord.

Certifye you brethren, of the grace of God, which was geuen in the cogregacions of Macedonia, howe the aboundaunce of theyr reioysynge is, that they are tryed wth muche tribulacion. And though they were exceedinge poore, yet haue they geuen exceedinge ryche-lye and that in synghem. For to theyr powers, I beare them recorde, yee, & beyond theyr powers, they were wyllynge of theyr owne accord, and prayed us wth great instance, that we wolde receave their benefite, & suffre the to be partakers with other * in mynistryng to the sayntes. And this they dyd, not as we looked for: but gaue their owne selues fyrst to the Lord, & after vnto vs by the wyl of God: so that we could not but de-syre Titus, to accomplishe the same beneuolence amonge you also, euen as he had begonne.

Nowe therefore, as ye are ryche in all parties, in fapth, in woꝛde, in knowledge, in al feruētnes and in loue, whych ye haue to vs, euen so, let that ye be plenteous in thys beneuolence also. Thys saie I, not commaundyng, but because of fer-uentnes. I do also the vnfaynednes of youre loue toward other men. For ye knowe the lyberaltype of oure Lord Iesus Christe, that though he was * ryche, yet for youre sakes he became poore, that ye thowowe hys pouertie, myght be made ryche.

And I geue counsell hereto. For thys is expedyent for you, whych beganne not to do onelye, but also to wyl a yere ago. Nowe therefore, per-forme the thyng whych ye beganne to do: that as there was in you a readynes to wyl, euen so ye maye performe the dede * of that whiche ye haue For * yf there be fyrst a wyllynge mynde, it is accepted accordyng to that a man hath, and not accordyng to that he hath not.

It is not my mynde that other be let at ease, and ye brought into combrance: but that there be equalnes nowe at thys tyme: and that youre aboundaunce maye sucke theyr lacke, and that theyr aboundaunce maye supplie youre lacke: that there maye be equalyte, agreynge to that whych is wyrtten: * he that hadde much, hadde not the more aboundaunce: and he that hadde a lytle, had neuer the lesse. Thanks be vnto God whiche put the same good mynde for you in the herte of Titus, whych accepted the request: yee, rather he was so well wyllynge, & of hys owne accorde, he came vnto you.

We haue sent wth hym the brother whose laude is in the Gospel thowowt all the cōgregacions and not that onelye, but is also chosen of the congregaciōs, to be a felow wth vs in our ioynepe, concernyng this beneuolence that is impūstred by vs vnto the prayse of the same Lord and to steepe vpon your prompte mynde.

For thys we eschewe, that any man shuld rebuke vs in thys plenteous distribucion, * that is impūstred by vs (to the store of the Lord) and make prouision for honest thynges: not onelye in the syght of the Lord, but also in the syght of men.

We haue sente wth them a brother of oures: whō we haue oft tymes proued diligent in many thynges but nowe muche more diligent. The great confydence whych I haue in you, hath caused me thys to do partly for Titus sake, whych is my felow & helper as concernyng you: partly because of other whych are oure brethren, and messengers of the congregacions, & the glory of Christ. Wherefore, shewe ye vnto the the proffe of youre loue, and of oure * boasting of you in the syght of the congregacions.

brethren, lest our boasting which I make of you, should be in vaine, in this behalfe, that ye (as I haue sayd) may prepare your selues. lest peradventure ye thep of Macedonia come w me and fynd you vnprepared, we (I wil not say ye) should be ashamed in this matter of boasting.

God is able to make you ryche in al grace & ye in al thynges haue sufficiency vnto the vtmost, may be ryche vnto al maner of good works, as it is wyrtten: ¶ He hath sparced abroad, and hath geuen to the poore, bys ryghteousnes remaneth for euer. ¶ For the offyce of this mynistryng, not only supplyeth the nede of the sayntes: but also is aboundaunt herein, that for this laudable mynistryng, thankes myghte be geuen to God of many, whiche prayse God for the obedyence of poure consentynge to the Gospel of Christ, and for poure synghenesse in dystributyng to them and to all men, & in theyr prayers for you whiche longe after you for the aboundaunte grace of God in you. Thankes be vnto God, for his vn-speakable gyfte.

The .x. Chapter.

¶ He toucheth the false Apostles, and defendeth his auctorite and calling.

I Paul my selfe beseeche you by the mekenesse and softenes of Christ, which when I am present amonge you, am of no reputacion: but am bolde toward you beyng absent. I beseeche you, that I nede not to be bolde when I am presente, wyth that same boldnesse, wherewith I am supposyd to haue bene bolde, agaynst some, which repute vs as though we walked carnally. For though we walke in the flesh, yet we do not walke fleshyly. ¶ For the weapons of our warfare are not carnall thynges, but thynges myghtye in God, to caste downe stronge holdes, wherewith we ouerthrowe counsels, and euery hie thyng that exalteth it selfe agaynst the knowledge of God, and bynge into captiuyte all pmyagynacion to the obedyence of Christ, and are readye to take vengeance on all disobedyence, when poure obedyence is fulfilled. Loke ye on thynges after the better appareance.

Eph. vi. 12

¶ If any man trust in hym selfe & he is Christs let hym consyder this agayne of hym selfe, that as he is Christs, euen so are we Christs. For though I boast my selfe somewhat more of our auctorite (which the Lorde hath geuen vs to edyfy, & not to destroye you) it shall not be to my shame: lest I shoulde seme as though I went aboute to make you astrayde wyth letters. For the epyistles (sayth he) are softe & strong but bys bodely presence is weak, & his speache rude. Let hym & is suche thyngke on this wyse: & as we are in wordes by letters, when we are absent, suche are we in dedes, when we are present.

¶ For we cannot fynde in our hartes to make our selues of the nombre of them, or to compare our selues to them, which prayse the selues. Nevertheless, whyle they measure the selues, with the selues, & compare them selues with the selues, they vnderstande nought. But we wyll not reioyce aboue measure: but accordyng to the measure of the rule, whiche God hath distributed vnto vs, a measure to reach eue vnto you. For we stretch not out our selues beyonde measure, as though we reached not vnto you. For eue to you also haue we come w the Gospel of Christ, & we boast not our selues out of measure of other mennes labours. Yee, & we hope it wyl come to passe that when poure sayth is encreased among you we shalbe magnified accordyng to our measure more largely, and that I shall preache the Gospel in those regyons whiche are beyonde you and not to boast of those thynges, which by another mannes measure are prepared already. But let him that reioyseth, reioyse in the Lorde. For he that prayseth hym selfe, is not allowed, but he whom the Lorde prayseth.

The .xi. Chapter.

Milde to God, ye coulde haue suffered me a lytel in my foolysheynes: yee, ye do also forbeare me. For I am gelous ouer you wyth godlye gelousye.

¶ For I haue coupled you to one man, that ye shoulde make poure selues a chaste byrgyn vnto Christ. But I feare lest it come to passe that as the serpente begyled Eue thowow bys subtilty, euen so poure wyttes shoulde be corrupte fro the synghenes that ye had toward Christe. For yf he & cometh preache another Jesus then hym whom we preached: or yf ye receaue another sperte then & which ye haue receaued, ether another Gospel then that ye haue receaued, ye myght right wel haue ben content. For I suppose that I was not behynd the these Apostles. But though I be rude in speakynge, yet I am not so in knowlege. Howbeit amonge you, we haue bene wel knowen to the vtmost what we are in all thynges. Wyd I therein synne, because I submytted my selfe, that ye myghte be exalted: and because I preached to you the Gospel of God fre: I robbed other congregacions, and toke wages of them, to do you seruyce. And when I was present w you, & had nede: I was chargeable to no man: for & whiche was lackynge vnto me, the brethren whiche came from Macedonia, supplied, & in all thynges I kepte my selfe so that I shuld not be chargeable to

to any man, and so wyll I kepe my selfe.

E Of the truthe of Christe be in me, this reioy-syng shall not be taken from me in the regyons of Achaia. Wherefore? Because I loue you not?
God knoweth. Neuerthelesse, what I do, that wyll I do, to cut awaye occasyon fro the whiche desyre occasyon: that they myght be founde lyke vnto vs, in that wherein they reioyse. For suche false Apostles are dysceitful workers, and fasshyon them selues lyke vnto the Apostles of Christ. And no maruaile for Satan him selfe is chaunged into the fashion of an angel of lycht.
Therefore it is no great thyng though his my-nistres fasshion them selues, as though they were the mynistres of ryghteousnes. Whose ende shal be accordyng to their dedes.

I saye agayne, least any man thynke that I am folyshe. or els euen now take ye me as a foole, & I also may boast my selfe a lytle. That I speake I speake it not after the Lord but as it were folyshly, in this mater of boastyng. Seynge that many reioyce after the fleshe, I wyll reioyce also. For ye suffre feoles gladly, seying ye your selues are wyse. For ye suffre, yf a man byng you into bondage, yf a man deuoure, yf a man take yf a man exalt hym selfe, yf a man smyte you on the face. I speake as cōcernyng rebuke, as though we had bene weake, & in this I chaunge.

E Howbeit, whereinsoeuer any man dare be bold (I speake folyshe) I dare be bolde also. * They are hebrues, euen so am I. They are Israelites euen so am I. They are the seed of Abraham, euen so am I. They are the mynistres of Christ (I speake as a foole) I am more. In laboures more aboundaunte. In stryppes aboue measure.

In prison more plenteously. In death ofte. * Of the Jewes fyue times receaued I euery tyme. xl. stryppes saue one. * Chylde was I beatē wth rods.
* I was once stoned, * I suffred chylde thyn-gys. Night and day haue I bene in the depe see. In iournege often. in perils of waters. in perils of robbers. in perils of wyldernes. in parels in the see. in perils amonge false brethren: in laboure and trauaile. in watchynges ofte. in honger & thyrst. in fastynges often in colde and nakednes. besyde the thynges whych outwardly happen vnto me. I am combred dayly, and do care for all congregacions. * Who is weake and I am not weake? who is offēded, & I burne not? yf I must nedes boast, I wyll boast of the thynges that concerne myne infirmities.

The. xii. Chapter.

¶ While he was taken into the thyrde heauen, and heareth wordes not to be spoken.

I He God and father of our Lord Jesus Christ, whycher is blessed for euermore knoweth that I lye not.

In the cytie of Damasco, the gouerner of the people vnder kynge Aretas layde waite in the cytie of the Damascens, and wold haue caught me. and * at a wyndowe was I let downe in a basket thowowe the wall, & so escaped I his handes. Doubtes, it is not expedient for me to boast, I wyll come to visions and reuelacions of the Lord. I knowe a man in Christ aboue fourtene yeres ago (whether he were in the bodye, I can not tell, or whether he were out of the bo-dye, I can not tell, God knoweth) howe that he was taken vp into the thyrde heauen. And I knowe the same man (whether in the bodye or out of the bodye, I can not tell, God knoweth) howe that he was taken vp into paradys, and hearde secrete wordes, which no man can vtter. Of this man wyll I boast, but of my selfe wyll I not boast, excepte it be of myne infirmities. For though I wold boast, I shal not be a foole. for I wold laye the truthe. Neuertheles, I spare you: lest any man shuld thynke of me, aboue that whych he seeth me to be, or that he heareth of me.

And lest I shulde be exalted out of measure thowowe the excellency of the reuelacions: there was geuen vnto me vnquyetnes thowowe the fleshe, enē the messengers of Satan to buffet me because I shulde not be exalted out of measure.
For this thyng besought I the Lord thysle, that it myght departe from me. And he sayd vnto me: my grace is sufficient for the. For my strength is made perfecte thowowe weakenes.
Certe gladye therefore wyll I reioyce of my weaknes, that the strength of Christ may dwell in me. Therefore haue I delectacion in infirmities, in rebukes, in necessities, in persecucions in anguyshes for Christes sake. For when I am weake, then am I stronge.

I am become a foole in boastyng my selfe.
Ye haue compelled me for I ought to haue bene commended of you. * For in nothyng was I inferior vnto the chiefe Apostles, though I be nothyng, yet the tokens of an Apostle were wrought amonge you wth all patience, and sygnes and wonders, and myghty dedes. For what is it, wherein ye were inferiours vnto other congrega-cions, excepte it be herein, that I was not chargeable vnto you. For geue me this wronge, behold: nowe the thyrde tyme I am ready to come vnto you, & yet wyll I not be chargeable vnto you. For I seke not poures, but you. For the chylde ought not to laye vpon the fathers and mothers, but the fathers and mothers for the chylde.

I wyll very gladye bestowe, and wyll be bestowed for youre soules, though the more I loue you, the lesse I am loued agayne. But be it, that I was not chargeable vnto you: neuerthelesse, when I was crafty, I toke you with gyle. Wd I yll you by any of them, whome I sente vnto you? I despised Titus, and wth hym I sente a brother. Wd Titus defraude you of any thyng walked we not in one sprete? walked we not in lyke stēppes? Agayne, thynke you that we excuse oure selues vnto you? we speake in Christe in the spght of God, but we do all thynges, dealy beloued, for your edifyenge. For I feare, lest it come to passe, that yf I come, I shal not fynd you suche as I wolde: and that I shal be founde vnto you such as ye wolde not: I feare lest there be amonge you * debytes, enuynges, wrathe, stryfes, bakbytēnges, whysperynges, swellynges.

lynges, and sedycions: and that when I come agayne, God bypnyngt me lowe amonge you, and I be costayned to be waple many of the, whych haue synned alreadye, and haue not repented of the * vncleannes, and fornicacye and wantonnes whych they haue committed.

The xiii. Chapter.

Che promysse to come vnto them, and exhorteth them to obeye them selues that be made synners perfect and of one mynde.

1. Cor. 13. 1. 2. Cor. 13. 1. 1. Cor. 13. 1.

Now come I the thyrde tyme vnto you: in þe mouth of two or thre wytnesses shal euery worde be stablyshed: I told you before, and tel you before: and as I sayd when I was present with you the seconde tyme, so wyte I now beynge absente, to them whych in tyme past haue synned, and to all other: that yf I come agayne, I wyll not spare, saynge that ye seeke experyence of Chryste * whych he speaketh in me, wyth amonge you is not weake, but is myghty in you. For though he be was crucifyed in weaknes, yet lyueth he thowowe the power of God. And we, no doubte, are weake in hym: but we shall lyue wyth hym: by the myght of God amonge you.

1. Cor. 13. 1.

Examen youre selues, whether ye are in the fapthe or not. Prove youre owne selues. Knowe ye not your owne selues, how that Iesus Chryste is in you: excepte ye be cast awayes, I truste ye shall knowe that we are not cast awayes. I despyre before God that ye do none euell, not that we shulde seme commendable, but that ye shuld do that whych is honest and let vs be counted as cast awayes. We can do nothyng agaynst the truthe, but for the truthe. We are glad when we are weake and ye stronge. Thys also we wyte for, euen youre perfectnes. Therefore wyte I these thynges, beynge absente, lest when I am present, I shulde vse sharpenesse, accordyng to the power * whych the Lorde hath geuen me to edifye, and not to destroye. Spynallye brethren, fare ye well, be perfect, be of good conforste, be of one mynde, lyue in peace, and the God of loue and peace shal be wyth you.

The Epistle of Saynt

Paule the Apostle to the Galatians.

The fyrst Chapter.

Paule rebuketh them, because they were fallen awaye from the Gospell, wherewith bys owne conuersacion magnifyeth his office and Apostolicke myght, and declareth hym self to be equal wyth the other Apostles.

Aule an Apostle, not of men, neyther by man but by Iesus Chryste, and by God the father, whyche rased hym vp from death: and all the brethren whych are wyth me.

Vnto the congregacions of Galacia. * Grace be wyth you, and peace fro God the father, and from oure Lorde Iesus Chryste, whyche gaue hym selfe for oure synnes to deliuer vs frome tps present euell worlde, accordyng to the wyl of God oure father, to whom be prayse for ever and ever. Amen.

I mercuaple, that ye are so soone turned (fro Chryste whiche called you by grace) vnto another Gospell whych is nothyng elles, but that ther be some whiche trouble you, and * intende to peruerste the Gospell of Chryste. Neuerthelesse, though we oure selues, or an Angell from heauen, preache anye other Gospell vnto you, then that whych we haue preached vnto you, let hym be acursed. As we sayde before, so saye I now agayne, yf any man preache any other Gospell vnto you the yf ye haue receaued, let hym be acursed. De I now perswade men, or God? Do they do I seeke to please men? * For yf I had be- ther do I seeke to please men, I were not the seruaunte of Chryste.

* I certefye you brethren, that the Gospell whych was preached of me, was not after the maner of men. For I neyther receaued it, nor learned it of man, but by the reuelacion of Iesus Chryste. For ye haue herde of my conuersacion in tyme past, in the Jewes waye, how that beyonde measure, * I persecuted the congregacyon of God and spoyled it, and preuapled in the Jewes waye aboue many of my companions in myne owne nacyon * beynge a verpe feruente mayntayner of the tradycions of the elders.

But when it pleased God, whyche separated me from my mothers wombe, * & called me here vnto by his grace, for to declare his sonne by me, that I shulde preache hym amonge the heathen immediatlye I communed not of the matter with * fleshe and blode neyther returned to Jerusalem, to them whych were Apostles before me, but wente my waye into Arabia, and came agayne vnto Damasco. Then after thre yeres, I returned to Jerusalem to se Peter, and abode wyth hym fyftene dayes. Other of the Apostles sawe I none, save James the Lorde's brother. The thynges therfore whych, I wyte vnto you: beholde, before God I lye not.

* After that I came into the coastes of Syria and Cilicia, and was vnkownen as touchyng my person vnto the congregacions of Jewye, whych were in Chryste. But thys they heard only that he whych persecuted vs in tyme past, nowe preadeth the fapth, whych before he destroyed. And they glorified God in me. Amen.

The ii. Chapter.

Che worth and verite of Peter in fapth, and proueth that the lawe and cyrcumcysion are not necessarye to saluacion.

When fourtene yeres thereafter, I wente vp agayne to Jerusalem * wyth Barnabas, and toke Titus wyth me. I went vp also by reuelacion, and communed wyth them of the Gospell whych I preache amonge the Gentyles but specpally wyth them whych were counted chese, leaste I shulde runne or had runne in vayne. Also Titus whych was wyth me, though he were a Greke, yet was not compelled to be circumcised: & that because of incōmers beyng false brethren, whych cam in p̄uently to spy out our libertye whych we haue in Christ Iesu, that they myght bynge vs into bondage. To who we gaue no rowme, no not for the time (by waye of subieccion) because that the truthe of the Gospell myght contynue wyth you.

25 Of them whych seemed to be somwhat, what they were in time passed it maketh no matter to me. * God loketh on the outwarde apperaunce of no mā. Neuertheles they whych seemed great, added nothyng to me. But contrariwise, whē they sawe y<sup>e</sup> the Gospell ouer the vncircumcysion was commytted vnto me, as the Gospell ouer y<sup>e</sup> circumcysion was commytted vnto Peter. For he y<sup>e</sup> was myghtye in Peter in the Apostleshipp ouer the circumcysion, the same was myghtye in me amonge the Gentyles. When they perceaued the grace that was geuen vnto me, then James, Cephas, and Iohn, whych seemed to be pyl-lers, gaue to me & Barnabas the ryght handes of that felowshyppe, that we shulde be a voilles amonge the heathen, & they in the circumcysion onely y<sup>e</sup> we shulde remember the poore. * Wherein also I was dysp̄gent to do the same.

C But when Peter was come to Antioche, I wythstode hym openly, because he was worthy to be blamed. For per y<sup>e</sup> certayne came from James, he dyd eate with the Gentyles. But when they were come, he withdrew, & separated hym selfe fro the, fearynge the whych were of the circumcysion. And the other Jewes dyssembled as well as he: in so much that Barnabas also was broughte into theyr simulacron. But when I sawe that they went not the ryghte waye after the truthe of the Gospell, I sayd vnto Peter before them all y<sup>e</sup> thou beyng a Jewe, lyuest after y<sup>e</sup> maner of the Gentyles, & not as do the Jewes whych causeste thou the Gentyles to lyue as do the Jewes: For he whych are * Jewes by nature, and not synners of the Gentyles, knowe that a man * is not iustified by the dedes of the lawe, but by the fayth of Iesus Christ. And we haue beleued on Iesus Christ, that we myght be iustified by the fayth of Christe, and not by the dedes of the lawe: because by the dedes of the lawe no fleshe shalbe iustified.

D yf whyle we seke to be made ryghteous by Christ, we our selues are founde synners, is then Christ the mynysker of synne? God forbid. For yf I buyde agayne the thynges whych I de-strope, then make I my selfe a trespasser. For I (thorowe the lawe) haue ben dead to the lawe that I myght lyue vnto Christ. I am crucified wyth Christ. Neuertheles I lyue: yet nowe not I, but Christ lyueth in me. The lyfe whych I nowe lyue in the fleshe, I lyue by the faythe of y<sup>e</sup> sonne of God, * whych loued me, and gaue hym selfe for me. I despyce not the grace of God. For * yf ryghteousnes come of the lawe, then Christ is dead in vayne.

The iii. Chapter.

C He rebuketh the vniuersallnes of the Galatians shewing the vniuersallnes of the lawe, and declaringe neuertheles that it was not geuen for nought.

C Resolvyng the Galathians: who haue be-wytched you, that ye shuld not beleue the truthe: To whome Iesus Christ was descrybed before y<sup>e</sup> eyes and amonge you crucified. This only wold I learne of you, whether ye receaued the sprete by the dedes of the lawe or by the preachinge of y<sup>e</sup> fayth: Are ye such fooles, that after ye haue begonne in the sprete, ye nowe ende in y<sup>e</sup> fleshe? So manye thynges ye haue suffered in vayne, yf it be also in vayne. Moreover he that mynysketh topon the sprete, & worketh myracles amonge you, doeth he it thorow the dedes of the lawe, or by preachinge of the fayth? * Euen as Abraham beleued God, & it was ascribed to hym for righteousnes. Ye knowe therfore, y<sup>e</sup> they whych are of fayth, y<sup>e</sup> same are y<sup>e</sup> childre of Abraham. For the scripture sayng aforehande, that God wold iustifye the heathen thorowe fayth, shewed before hande glad tydings vnto Abraham, sayenge: * In the shall al nations be blessed. So then, they whych be of fayth, are blessed with faithful Abraham. For as many as are of the dedes of the lawe, are subiecte to the curse. For it is wyrtten: * cursed be euery one that continueth not in all thynges whych are wyrtten in the booke of the lawe to fulfyl them. That nomā is iustified by the lawe in the syghte of God, it is euident. * For the iuste shall lyue by faythe. The lawe is not of fayth: * but the man that fulfilleth the thynges * (contayned in the lawe) shall lyue in hym. Christ hath deliuered vs from the curse of the lawe, in as much as he was made accursed for vs. For it is wyrtten: * cursed is euery one that hangeth on tree, that the blessinge of Abraham myght come on y<sup>e</sup> Gentyles thorowe Iesus Christ, that we myght receaue y<sup>e</sup> promes of the sprete thorowe fayth.

Brethren, I speake after the maner of men. Though it be but a mans testamente, yet yf it be allowed, no man despyseth it. or aduoceth any thyng thereto. * To Abraham and hys seede were the promyses made. He sayth not in thy seedes, as many but in thy seede as of one, whych is Christ. This I saye, y<sup>e</sup> the lawe which beganne afterwarde, beyond foure hundred and thyrty yeres, doeth not dysanull the testamente, that was confirmed afore of God vnto Christward to make the promes of none effecte. * For yf the inheritaunce come of the lawe, it cometh not nowe of promes. But God gaue it vnto Abraham by promes.

Wherfore then serueth the lawe? * It was added because of transgression tyll the seede came, to whom the promes was made: & it was ordeyned * by angels in the hand of a mediator. A mediator, is not a mediator of one, but God is one. * Is the lawe then against the promes of God? God forbid. For yf ther had bene a lawe geuen whych could haue geuen lyfe: then no doubte ryghteousnes shulde come by the lawe. But the scripture concluded al thynges vnder synne, that the promes by the fayth of Iesus Christ shulde be geuen vnto them that beleue. * But before that fayth came, we were kept vnder the lawe and were shut vp vnto the sayth whiche shulde afterwarde be declared. Wherefore p laue was our scolemaster vnto Christ, that we shoulde be iustified by sayth. But after that sayth is come we are no longer vnder the scolemaster. For ye are all childre of god, because ye beleue in Christ Iesu. For all ye that are baptised haue put on Christ. There is no Jewe, nether Gentyll: there is nether bonde nor fre: there is nether man, nor woman. For ye are all one in Christe Iesu. If ye be Christes, then are ye Abrahams seide, and hepyes accordynge to the promes.

Ephe. iiii. Chapter.

¶ Paule sheweth that thowhe Christ we be deliuered from the lawe, and redymed the unthankfulnes of the Maladyans.

And I saye, that the heyre (as longe as he is a chylde, dyffereth not fro a seruaunt, though he be Lorde of al, but is vnder tutors and gouernours vntyll the tyme þ the father hath appoynted. Eue so we also, when we were chyl- dren, were in bondage vnder the ordynaunces of the worlde. But when the tyme was full come, God sent hys sonne, made of a woman, & made bonde vnto p laue, to redeme them whiche were bode vnto p laue & we, thowhe electio, myght receaue the enherytaunce that belongeth vnto p naturall sonnes. Because ye are sonnes, God hath sent the sprete of hys sonne into our hertes, cryenge: Abba father. Wherefore now, thou art not a seruaunt but a sonne. If thou be a sonne, þ art also an heyre of God, thowhe Christ.

Notwithstandynge, when ye knewe not God ye dyd scrupce vnto the whiche by nature are no Goddes. But now after that ye haue knowen God (ye, rather are knowen of God) howe is it that ye tourne agayne vnto the weake and beggerlye ordynaunces, wherunto agayne ye despye afreshe to be in bondage? Ye obserue dayes, and monthes, and tymes, and yeares. I am in feare of you least I haue bestowed in you labour in vayne.

¶ Brethren, I beseech you be ye as I am: for I am as ye are. Ye haue not hurt me at all. Ye knowe howe thowhe unprompte of p fleshe I preached the Gospel vnto you at p first. And my tempta- tion whiche was in p fleshe, ye despyed not, ney- ther abhorred but receaued me as an angell of God: euen as Christ Iesus. What is then youre felyppte: for I beare your record, & if it had bene possible ye wolde haue plucked out your owne eyes, & haue geuen the to me. Am I therfore be- come your enemye, because I tell you the truth?

They are gelouse ouer you amysse. Yee, they intende to exclude you, that ye shulde be feruent to themwarde. It is good alwayes to be feruent in a good thyng, and not only when I am pre- sente wyth you.

¶ I ptell chyliden, of whome I trauayle in byrth agayne, vntyl Christ be fasthponed in you. I wolde I were with you now, & could chaunge my voyce: for I stande in a doubte of you. Tell me, ye that despye to be vnder the lawe, do ye not heare of the lawe? For it is wyrtten, that A- braham had two sonnes: the one by a bōdynge the other by a fre woman. Yee, & he whiche was borne of the bonde woman was borne after the fleshe but he whiche was of the fre woman, was borne by promes. Whiche thynges are spoken by an allegorye. For these are two testaments the one from the mount Syna, which gendzeth vnto bondage, which is Agar. For mount Syna is Agar in Arabia, and bozdyeth vpon the cp- tic whiche is now called Ierusalem, and is in bondage with her chyliden.

But Ierusalem, which is a bone, is fre: which is the mother of vs all. For it is wyrtten: We ioyce thou barren, þ bearest no chyliden: breake forth and cry, thou that trauaplest not. For the desolate hath many mo chyliden, then she which hath an husvande. Brethren we are after Isaac the chyliden of promes. But at then he that was borne after the fleshe, persecuted hym, that was borne after p sprete, euen so is it now. Ne uerhelesse, what sayeth the scripture: putte a wyfe the bonde woman and her sonne. For the sonne of the bonde woman shal not be heyre with the sonne of the fre woman. So then brethren we are not chyliden of the bonde woman but of the free.

Ephe. v. Chapter.

¶ He labourerth to b. an xthem aware from circumcysion & with them the falsapre bruyest the sprete and the fleshe and the truces of them both.

Sande fast therfore in the lybertye wherwyth Christ hath made vs fre and wrappe not youre selues again in the poche of bondage. Beholde, I Paule saye vnto you, & ye be circumcysed. Christ shal profyte you nothyng at all. Testifye agayne to every man which is circumcysed, that he is bound to kepe the whole lawe. Christe is become but in vayne vnto you. As many of you as are iustified by the lawe are fallen from grace. We loke for, and hope in the sprete to be iustified thowhe sayth. For in Christe Iesus, nether is circumcysion any thyng worth, nether yet vncircumcysion but sayth: which worketh by loue. Ye dyd runne wel. who was a let vnto you, that ye shuld not beleue the truth? (I consent vnto no man) Euen the counsell whiche came not of hym that calleth you. A lytel leue doth leuen the whole lomp of dowe.

¶ I haue trust toward you in the Lord, that ye shal be none other wyse mynded. But he that troubleth you, shal beare his iudgement, what soeuer he be. Brethren, yf I yet preach circum- cysion, why do I then yet suffre persecucion? When is the slaundre of p crosse ceased. I wolde to God, they were separated from you, whiche trouble you. Brethren ye were called into lyber- ty: only let not youre lybertye be an occasyon vnto the fleshe: but by loue (of the sprete) serue one another. For al the lawe is fulfilled in one worde, whiche is this: Thou shalte loue thy neyghboure as thy selfe. If ye byte and deuoure one another, take heed, lest ye be lyke wyse con- sumed one of another.

¶ I saye, walke in the sprete, & fulfyll not the lust of the fleshe. For the fleshe lusteth contrarpe to the sprete, and the sprete contrary to p fleshe. These

Personalizing the workplace is a key to productivity and profitability. It's the difference between a bland, impersonal environment and one that is vibrant, engaging, and inspiring. It's the difference between a workplace that is just a place to work and one that is a place you want to work. Personalizing the workplace is about creating a culture of ownership, where employees feel like they are part of something bigger than themselves. It's about creating a sense of community, where employees support each other and work together to achieve common goals. It's about creating a workplace that is a reflection of the company's values and mission. Personalizing the workplace is not just a nice-to-have, it's a must-have for any company that wants to succeed in the long run.

to vswarde whych beleue accordyng to the wor-wrought in Christ, when he rayled hym fro the dead, * & set hym on hys ryghte hande in heauentlynges, aboue * all rule and power, and myght, and dominion, and aboue every name þ is named, not in this world only, but also in the worlde to come: and * hath put all thynges vnder his fete, & hath made hym aboue all thynges * the head of the congregacyon, which is his body and the fulnes of hym, that fylleth all in all.

The.ii. Chapter.

¶ Paule sheweth them what maner of people they were before theys conuersion, and what they are now in Christ.

And you hath he quychened wher as ye were dead in trespasses & synnes, in the which * in tyme passed ye walked, accordyng to the course of this worlde, euen after the gouernour that ruleth in the ayre, the spyete that nowe worketh in the chyldren of vnbefele, * amonge whom we all had our conuersacion also in tyme past, in the lustes of our fleshe, and fulfilled the wyl of the fleshe and of the mynde: and were by nature the chyldren of wrath, euen as well as other. But God which is ryche in mercy (for hys great loue wher with he loued vs, euen when we were dead by synnes) quychened vs together in Christ (* by grace are ye saued) and rayled vs vp together wpth hym, and made vs spt together wpth hym amonge them of heauen in Christe Iesu.
That in tymes to come, he myght shewe the exceedyng ryche of hys grace, in kyndnes to vs ward thowowe Christe Iesu. For by grace are ye made safe thowowe faythe, and that not of poure selues. It is the gyfte of God, and cometh not of workes, least any man shulde boast hym selfe for we are his workemanship created in Christ Iesu vnto * good workes, which God ordeyned that we shulde walke in them.

¶ Wherfore, remember that ye beyng in tyme passed Gentyles in the fleshe, were called vncy-cumcyspon from that whiche is called * cyrcu-cyspon in the fleshe, whych cyrcumcysion is made by handes remember I saie, that at that tyme ye were wpthout Christ, beyng alpautes fro the comen wealthe of Israel, and strangers from the testaments of the promes, hauyng no hope, and beyng wpthout God in this worlde. But now by the meanes of Christ Jesu, ye whiche somtyme were farre of, are made nye, by the bloude of Christ.

For he is our peace, whych hathe made of both one, and hath broken downe the wall that was astoppe betwene vs, and hath also put awaye thowowe hys fleshe, the cause of hatred, euen the lawe of commandementes conteyned in the lawe wyrtten, for to make of twayne one newe man in hym selfe, so makynge peace, and to recōyle both vnto God in one body thowowe the crosse, and slewe hatred therby and cam, and preached peace to you which were as farre of, and to them that were nye. For thowowe hym we bothe haue an entraunce, in one spyryte vnto the father.

¶ Nowe therfore, ye are not strangers, and foreyners: but cyrcyspon wpth the sapntes and of the household of God and are buylt vpon the * foundacyon of the Apostles and Prophetes, I. Cor. iii. 11 * Iesus Christ hym selfe beyng the head corner stone, in who what buyldynge soeuer is coupled together, it groweth vnto an holy temple in the Lord, in who ye also are buyld together to be an habitacio of God thowowe the * holy, gooste. I.

The.iii. Chapter.

¶ He sheweth the cause of hys p̄sment, despyeth them not to saynte because of hys trouble: and prayeth God to make them gentill in hys spyete.

Of this cause, I Paule am a pre-soner of Iesu Christ, for you heathen: ¶ Ye haue herde of the mynystracyon of the grace of God * whiche is geuen me to p̄ward. For * by reuelacyon shewed he the mystery vnto me, as I wrote afore in fewe wordes, wher by when ye reade ye maye vnderstand my knowledge in the mystery of Christ, whych mystery in tymes passed was not opened vnto the sonnes of men, as it is now declared vnto hys holye Apostles and Prophetes by the spyete, that the Gentyles shulde be inherytours also, and of the same bo-dye, and partakers of hys promes in Christe, by the meanes of the Gospell, whereof I am made a mynister accordyng to the gyfte of the grace of God whych is geuen vnto me after the wor-lyng of hys power.

Vnto me the * least of al sayntes is this grace geuen, & I shulde preache amonge the Gentyles the vnsaycheable ryches of Christ, and to make all men se, what the felowshipp of the mystere is, whych is from the begynnynge of the worlde hath bene hyd in God, whych he made all thynges thowowe Iesus Christ to the intent, that now vnto the rulers and powers in heauely thynges myght be known by the congregacyon, the ma-nyfolde wysdome of God, accordyng to þ eter-nall purpose, whych he wrought in Christ Iesu our Lorde, by whom we haue boldnesse and entraunce wpth the confydence whych is by the fayth of hym. ¶ Wherfore I desyre, for saynte not because of my tribulacions * that I suffre for your sakes: whych is your prayse.

For this cause I bowe my knees vnto the father of our Lorde Iesus Christ, whych is father ouer al that is called father in heauen & in earth that he wolde graunt you accordyng to the ryches of hys glorie, that ye maye be strenghted w myghte by hys spyete, in the inner man, that Christ maye dwell in your hertes by fayth, that ye beyng rotes and grounded in loue, myght be able to comprehend wpth all sayntes, what is the breadth and length, depth and heygth, and to knowe þ excellent loue of þ knowledge of Christ þ ye myght be fulfilled with all fulnes, whych cometh of God. Vnto hym that is able to do exceedyng aboundantlye aboue all that we aske or thynke accordyng to the power þ worketh in vs, be prayse in the congregacyon by Christ Iesus, thowowe out all ages world wpth out ende. Amen. I.

maye be pure, and suche as offend: no man vntill the daye of Christe: beynge fylled with the frute of ryghteousnes, whych cometh by Iesus Christ vnto þe glorie and prayse of God. ¶

I wolde ye shulde vnderstande (brethren) that the thynges whiche happened vnto me chaunced vnto the grete furtheraunce of the Gospell: So that my bandes in Christe, are manifest thorowe oute all the iudgement hall and in all other places: In so moche that many of the brethren in the Lorde beynge encouraged thorowe my bandes, dare more boldly speake the word without feare. Some preache Christ of enuye and stryfe, & some of good wyll. The one parte preache Christ of stryfe and not syncerely, supposyng to adde more aduersyte to my bandes. Agayne the other parte preache of loue because they know that I am set to defende the Gospell. What then? So that Christ be preached any maner of waye, whether it be by occasyon, or of true meanynge, I am glad therof, ye and wyll be glad. For I knowe, that this shall chaunce to my saluacion, & thorowe your prayer & ministryng of the sprete of Iesu Christe, accordynge to my expectacion, and hope, that in nothyng I shalbe ashamed. but that wyth all boldnesse, (as alwayes euen so nowe also) Christe shalbe magnifyed in my body: whether it be thorowe lyfe, or thorowe death. For Christe is to me lyfe, and death is to me auantage. If it chaunce me to lyue in the fleshe, that thyng is to me frutefull for the worke, and what I shall chose I wote not. For I am constrained of those two thynges.

I desyre to be loosed, and to be wylde Christe which is muche and farre better. Neuerthelesse to abyde in the fleshe is more nedefull for you. And this am I sure of, that I shall abyde and continue wyth you all, for your furtheraunce and ioye of your fapth, that your reioysynge maye be the more aboundaunt thorowe Iesus Christ in me, by my companyng to you agayne.

¶ Onely let your conuersacion be, as it becometh the Gospell of Christe that whether I come and se you, or els be absent, I maye yet heare of your condicion, that ye continue in one sprete, and in one soule, labourynge as we do, to mayntayne the fapth of the Gospell, and in nothyng fearynge your aduersaries, whiche is to them a cause of perdyng, but to you of saluacion, and that of God: for vnto you it is gyuen for Christ that not only ye shulde beleue on hym: but also that ye shulde suffre for his sake, haupnge euen suche a tryght, as ye sawe in me, and nowe heare of me.

¶ The. ii. Chapter.

¶ He exhorted them to haue and brotherly loue and to beware of stryfe and bayne glorie. And for a sure ensample, he laeteth Christ be toye them.

¶ If there be therfore any consolacion in Christ, if ther be any confort of loue, yf ther be any felowshipp of þe sprete, yf ther be any cōpassion & mercy, fulfill ye my ioy, þe ye be lyke mynded, hauing one loue, beynge of one accord, & of one mynde, þe nothyng ye done thorowe stryfe, or of wayne glorie but in mekenes of minde, let euery man esteeme another better than him self. ¶ Take not ye euery man on his owne thynges, but euery man on the thynges that are other mens.

¶ Let the same mynde be in you whych was in Christe Iesu: whiche when he was in the shape of God, thought it not robbery to be equal with God. Neuerthelesse he made hym selfe of no reputacion, takynge on hym the shape of a seruaunt, and became lyke vnto men, and was founde in his apparell as a man. He humbled hym selfe, and became obedient vnto death euen the death of the crosse. Wherefore, god also hath exalted hym on hy and geuen hym a name whiche is aboue all names that in the name of Iesus curte knee shulde bow, both of thynges in heauen and thynges in earth and thynges vnder the earth, and that all tonges shuld confesse, that Iesus Christ is the Lorde, vnto the prayse of god þe father. ¶ Wherefore, my dearly beloued, as ye haue alwayes obeyed, not whē I was presente only, but nowe muche more in myne absence euen so worke oute your owne saluacion wyth feare and tremblynge. ¶ For it is god whiche worketh in you, bothe the wyll and also the dede, euen of good wyll.

¶ Do all thynges wythout murmurynge, and dysputynge, that ye maye be suche as no man can complaine on: and vnspayed sonnes of God wythout rebuke, in the myddes of a croked and peruerse nacyon: amonge whom se that ye shyne as lyghtes in þe worlde, holdynge fast the worde of lyfe, that I maye reioyce in the daye of Christ howe þe I haue not runne in vayne, nether haue laboured in vayne.

¶ See, and though I be offered vp vpon the offerynge & a sacrifice of your fapth: I reioyce and reioyce wyth you al. For the same cause also do ye reioyce, and reioyce with me.

I trust in the Lorde Iesus, for to sende Epaphroditus shortly vnto you, that I also maye be of good comforte, when I knowe what case ye stode in. For I haue no man that is so lyke minded to me, which wyth so pure affection wil care for your matters. For al other seke theyr owne and not the thynges which are Iesus Christes. Ye know the profe of hym, how that as a sonne wyth the father, so hath he wyth me bestowed his scrupce in the Gospell, hym therefore I hope to sende, as sone as I knowe howe it wyll go w me. I trust in the Lorde, that I also my self shal come shortly.

¶ But I supposed it necessarye to sende brother Epaphroditus vnto you, my companion in labour and felowe souldyer, your apostell whiche also mynystreth vnto me at nede. For he longed after you all, and was full of heynenes, because that ye hadde hearde saie, that he hadde bene sycke. And no doute he was sycke in so much þe he was ny vnto death. But god had mercy on hym: and not on hym only but on me also, lest I shuld haue sorow vpon sorow. I set hym therfore the more diligentely: þe when ye se hym, ye may reioyce agayne & þe I may be þe lesse sorowfull. Recceau hym therfore in the Lorde with

The.iii. Chapter.

He warneth them to beware of false teachers, whom he callith dogges and enemies of Christ, and reprooveth many of their unchristianlyte.

MY BRETHREN, (brethren) reioyce ye in the Lorde. It greueth me not to wyrtte one thyng often to you. For to you it is a sure thyng. Beware of dogges, beware of euil workers. Beware of dissension, * For we are circumcysed, whiche serue God * in the sperte, and reioyce in Christ Iesu, and haue no confidence in the fleshe: though I myght also reioyce in the fleshe. If any other man thynketh that he hath wherof he myghte truste in the fleshe I haue more: beynge circumsised the eyght daye, of the hundred of Israell, of the trybe of Ben Iamin * an Ebreue borne of the Ebreues * as concernyng the lawe, a Pharise: as concernyng seruente, I persecuted the congregacion, as touchyng the ryghteousnes whiche is in the lawe, I was vnbekykable.

Let vs therefore as many as be perfecte, be thus wyllyng mynded, and yf ye be otherwyllyng mynded, God shal open the same also vnto you. Furthermore, brethren, whatsoeuer thynges are true, whatsoeuer thynges are honest, whatsoeuer thynges are iuste, whatsoeuer thynges are pure, whatsoeuer thynges are conuenient, whatsoeuer thynges are of honest report yf there be anye vertue, yf there be anye praysse, if these things be in your mynde: whiche ye haue both learned and receaued, hearde also and sene in me: those thynges do: and the God of peace shal be wyth you. I reioyce in the Lord greatly, that nowe at the laste your care is renewed agayne for me in that wherin ye were also carefull, but ye lacked oportunitie. I speake not because of necessity. For I haue learned in whatsoeuer estate I am, * ther wyth to be contente. I knowe howe to be lowe and I knowe howe to excede. Notwithstandyng ye haue well done that ye bare parte with me in my tribulacion.

Ye of Philippios knowe also that in the begynnynge of the Gospel, when I departed from Macedonia, no congregacion bare parte with me, as concernyng geuyng and receauyng, but ye onely. For when I was in Thessalonica, ye sente once and afterwarde agayne vnto my necessity: not that I desyre gyftes, but I desyre aboundaunt frute on your parte. Acuertheles I receaued all, and haue plenty. I was euen fylled after that I receaued of Epaphroditus the thynges whiche were sente from you, an odoure of a swete smel a sacrifice accepted and pleasaunt to God. ## The Epistle of saynt

Paule the Apostle to the Collosians

The first Chapter.

The grete thanks unto God for chryf fapthe, loue and hope, prayeth for chryf increafe and wretch howe we are the bygnom of God optayned by Christ whiche is the head of the congregacyon.

Paul an Apostle of Jesu christ by the wyl of God, & brother Timotheus

To the sayntes whiche are at Colossa & brethren y beleue in Christ. Grace be vnto you and peace fro God our father, and from the lorde Jesu christ.

We geue thanks to God the father of oure lord Iesus christ alwayes for you in our pray- ers. For we haue herde of your fapth in Christ Jesu, and of the loue which ye beare to al sayn- tes, for the hopes sake which is layd vpon stone for; ou in heaue, of whiche hope, ye herde afore by the true worde of the Gospel, which is come vnto you euen as it is into al þ world, and it is fruteful. (and groweth) as it is also amonge you from the dape in the whiche ye herde of it, and had experience in the grace of God thowowe the trueth, as ye learned of Epaphra our deare fe- lowe seruaunt, whiche is for you a fapthful my- nyster of Christ whiche also declared vnto vs þoure loue whiche ye haue in the spyrte,

For this cause we also euer sence the dape we herde of it, haue not ceased to praye for you and to desyre, that ye myght be fulfilled w- the knowledge of hys wyl, in all wysedome & spirituall vnderstandyng, that ye myght walk worthy of the Lord, that in al thynges ye may please & beynge frutefull in all good workes, & encreasyng in the knowlege of God strenghted wyth all myght, thowowe hys glorious power, vnto all patience and longe sufferynge with sayfulnes. Geuyng thanks vnto the father which made vs mete to be partakers of the in- heritaunce of sayntes in lyght.

Whiche hath deliuered vs from the power of darkenes, and hath translated vs into the kingdome of hys deare sonne & by whome we haue redempcyon thowowe hys blood, euen the forgene- nes of synes, whiche is the ymage of the inuisi- ble god fyrst begotten of all creatures. For by him were all thynges created, that are in heaue and that are in earthe visibill and inuisibill, whe- ther they be maiestye or Lordeshippe, eyther rule or power. All thynges were created by hym and for hym, and he is before all thynges, and by hym all thynges haue theyr beynge.

And he is the head of the bodyc, euen of the congregacyon: he is the begynnyng and fyrste begotten of the dead, þ in all thynges he myghte haue the pycemynce. For it pleased þ father, that in hym shulde all fulnes dwell, and by hym to reconcytle al thynges vnto hym selfe, & to see at peace by hym thowowe the bloude of his crosse, both thynges in heaue and thynges in earth.

And you & whiche were somtyme farre of and enemyes, because your myndes were set in euill workes hath he now yet reconcyled in the bodyc of hys fleshe thowowe death, to make you holy, and blameable, an without faute in his owne sight, þ ye continue grounded and stablyf- shed in the fapth, and benot moued awaye from the hope of the Gospel, wherof ye haue hearde, howe that it is preached amonge all creatures whiche are vnder heaue, wherof I Paul am made a minister. Nowe tope I in my sufferynges for you, and fulfyll that which is beþynde of the passions of Christ in my fleshe, for his bo- dyes sake, which is in the congregacyon, wher- of I am made a minister, accordyng to the or- dinaunce of God, whiche ordinaunce was ge- uen me vnto you warde to fulfyll the worde of God, that mystery whiche hath ben hyd sence þ worlde began, and sence the begynnyng of ge- neracions, but nowe is opened to his sayntes, to whom God wolde make known what the glorious riches of this mystere is amonge the Gentyls, whiche riches is Christ in you, the hope of glory, whom we preach, warnyng all men, and teachyng all men in all wysedome, to make all men perfecte in Christe Jesu, wherin I also labour and stryue euen as farre forth as þis strenght worketh in me myghtely.

The ii. Chapter.

What grete care Paule toke for all congregacions. He reborteth to be bestad in Christ, to beware of false tea- chers & worship wyrdre, and stryue betw the false prophetes.

For I wolde þ ye knewe howe grete care that I haue for you and for them that are at Laodicea & for as many as haue not sene my persone in þ flesch, that theyr hertes myghte be comforted when they are kyt together in loue, and in all cyches of full vnderstandyng, for to knowe the my- sterpe of God the father & of Christ, in whome are hyd all the treasures of wysdom & knowledge. This I sape, lest any man shulde begyle you with entysyng wordes. For though I be absce in the fleshe, yet am I wyth you in the spyrte, ioyenge and beholdyng your order, and þoure stedfast fapth in Christe. As ye haue therfore receaued Christ Jesu the Lorde, euen so walke ye in hym, so that ye be rooted and buylte in hym, and stablyshed thowowe fapthe, as ye haue learned: and there in be plenteous with geuyng thanks.

Beware, lest any mā spoyl you thowowe philosophye and dyscratfull vanytie, after the tradycyon of men, & after the ordynaunces of the worlde, and not after Christ. For in him dwelleth dwelleth al the fulnes of the goodhead boldly. and ye are complet in him: which is the head of all rule and power, by whome also ye are * circumsced with circumsyō which is done without handes. for as muche as ye haue put of the spūfull body of the flesch thozowe the circumsyō that is in Christ, in that * ye are buried with hym thozow baptyme, in whome ye are also resen agayn thozow fapth, & is wroughte by the operacion of God, which rased him frō death.

* And ye when ye were dead thozowe spūne and thozow the vncircumsyō of poure flesch, hath he quenchēd with hym, and hath forgeuē vs all oure trespasses. And hath put out the bande wyteyng that was agaynst vs, cōtayne in the lawe wyttē, and that hath he taken out of the waye, & hath fastened it to his crosse, and hath * spoyled rule and power, and hath made a shewe of them openly and hath triumphed ouer them in his owne personne.

Let no man therfore trouble your conscience aboute meate and drynke or for a pece of an holy day: or of the new moone, or of the Sabbath dayes, * whiche are shadowes of thynges to come. but the body is in Christ. Lette no man make you shote at a wynged marke by the humblenes and holynes of aungels, in the thynges whiche he neuer sawe, beyng causeles puffed up with hys fleschlye mynde, and holdeth not the head, wherof all the body by ioyntes & couplings receaueth noursyment and is knet together, and encreaseth with the increasyng that cometh of God. Wherfore: yf ye be dead with Christ from the * ordinaunces of the worlde, why as though ye yet lyued in the worlde, are ye led with tradicions? Chouche not, tast not, handell not which all pertain thozowe the very abuse: after the commaundementes and doctrynes of men. Whiche thynges outwardly haue the semblance of the wysdome by supersticyon and humblenes of mynde, and by hurtynge of the bodye, and in that they do the flesche no wo: shyp vnto the nede therof.

The.iii. Chapter.

¶ He putteth them in remembrance of the spūtes: at resurrection, to lay asyde all maner of corrupte lyfynge, to be fructfull in all godlynes and vertue, and to wote all degrees therof due.

If ye be then resen agayne wyth Christe like those thynges whiche are aboue, where Christ siteth * on the ryght hande of God. Set your affeccyon on heauenly thynges, and not on earthy thynges. For ye are dead, and your lyfe is hyd wyth Christ in God. Whē so ever Christ (which is oure lyfe) shall shew him selfe, then shall ye also appere wyth hym in glorie. For mortifye therfore poure earthy members: fornicacyon, vncleannes, vnnaturall lust euell concupiscence: & couetousnes, whiche is worshyppynge of ydoles, for whiche thynges sake the wrath of God bleseth to come on the dysoberdynt chyldren * amonge whome ye walked somtyme, when ye lyued in them.

But now put ye also awaye frō you all suche thynges. wrath, fearnes, maliciousnes, cursed speakyng, fylthy cōmunicacion oute of your mouth. Lye not one to another, sayng that ye haue put of the olde man with hys workes, and haue * put on the newe man which is renewed in to the knowledge & ymage of hym that made hym, * where is nether Gentyl nor Jewe, circumsyō nor vncircumsyō, Barbarous or Sythian, bond or fre but Christ is al in al thynges. * Therfore as electe of god: holy and beloued put on tender mercye, kyndnes, humblenes of mynde, mekenes, longe suffryng for bearinge one another, and forgeuyng one another yf any haue a quarrel agaynst another: as Christ forgauē you: euen so do ye. Aboue all these thynges put on * loue whiche is the bonde of perfectnes And the peace of God rule in your hertes to the whiche peace ye are called in one body. And se that ye be thankfull. Let the worde of Christ dwell in you plenteously with all wysedome.

Teach and exhorde your owne selues * in psalmes and hymnes, and spiritual songes synging wyth grace in your hertes to the Lorde: And * whatsoeuer ye do (in worde or dede) do all in the name of the Lorde Jesu, geuyng thanks to God the father by hym. For * Ye wyues, submytte your selues vnto your owne husbandes, as it is comelpe in the Lorde. Ye husbandes, loue your wyues and be not better vnto them. * Ye chyldren, obey your fathers and mothers in all thynges, for that is well pleasynge vnto the Lorde. Ye fathers, prouoke not your chyldren * (to anger) lest they be of a debilitate mynde. * Ye seruauntes be obedyēt vnto them that are your bodely masters in all thynges. not with eye seruyce as men pleasers, but in singlenes of hert fearing God And what soeuer ye do, do it hertelpe, as though ye dyd it to the Lorde, and not vnto men, knowyng, that of the Lorde ye shall receaue the rewarde of inberitaunce, for ye serue the Lorde Christ, But he ydoth synne. What receaue for hys synne. * Repher is ther any respect of persones (wyth God)

The.iiii. Chapter.

¶ He exhorteeth them to be seruent in prayer to walke wysely vnto them that are not yet come to the true knowledge of Christ: and salueth them.

Masters do vnto your seruauntes * whiche is iust and equall, knowyng that ye also haue a master in heauen. * Continue in prayer, and watche in the same wyth thanks geuyng, prayenge also for vs: that God maye open vnto vs the doore of vteritaunce, that we may speake the mystery of Christ (wherfore I am alid in bondes) & I maye utter it, as it becometh me to speake. * Walke wysely toward them that are without, & lose no oportunitie Let your speach be alwayes wel sanored & powdered wth salt, that ye may know, how ye ought to answer euery mā

Of all my busynesse shall ye be certified by Tichicus, the beloued brother and fapthful mynister & fellow seruaunte in the Lorde, whome I haue sent vnto you for the same purpose that he mighte knowe what ye do and that he myghte comforte your hertes wyth one Onesimus a fapthful and beloued brother: whiche is one of you

¶ He sheweth how greatly he was reioysed, when Timothe tolde hym of theyr fayth and loue.

¶ Therfore, sence we coulde no longer forbeare, we thought it good to remayne at Athens alone, and sent Timothe oure brother and minister of God, and the helper forth of oure labour in the Gospell of Christ, to stablish you and to comfort you concernyng our fayth, that no man shuld be moued in these afflictions. For þe poure selues knowe, that we are euen appoynted threunto. For when we were with you, we tolde you before, that we shulde suffre tribulacion, euen as it came to passe, and as ye knowe. For this cause when I coulde no longer forbeare, I sente that I myghte haue knowledge of your fayth, lest by some meanes the tempter had tempted you, and lest oure labour had ben bestowed in vayne.

For now are we alpye yf ye stande stedfaste in the Lorde. For what thanks can we recompence to God agayne for you, ouer all the ioye, that we ioye for poure sake before our God: prayenge nyght & day exceedingly, that we myght se you presently, and myght fulfyll the thynges whiche are lackyng vnto your fayth.

¶ God hymselfe our father, & our Lorde Iesus Christe shall guyde our pourney vnto you: the Lorde also shal encrease you & make you flowe ouer in loue one toward another and toward al men, euen as we do toward you that we maye make your hertes stable & vnblymeable, in holynes before God oure father, at the commyng of our Lorde Iesus Christe with all saynctes.

The. iiii. Chapter.

¶ Furthermore, we beseeche you, brethren) and exhorthe you by the Lorde Iesus, that ye encrease more and more euen as ye haue receaued of vs, howe ye oughte to walke and to please God: For ye knowe, what commaundementes we gaue you by our Lorde Iesu Christe. For this is the wyll of God: euen your holynes, that I shuld abstayne from fornicacion, & that euery one of you shulde knowe howe to kepe bys vessel in holynes and honoure, and not in the luste of concupiscence: as do the hethen whiche knowe not God, that nomā oppresseth and defraude his brother in bargaynyng: because that the Lorde is the auenger of al suche thynges, as we tolde you before, and testifed. For God hath not called vs vnto clennes but vnto holynes. For he therfore that despyseth, despyseth not man, but god which hath sent his holy sperte amonge you.

¶ But as touchyng brotherlye & loue, ye neede not, that I wyte vnto you. For ye are taught of God to loue one another. See that thing verely ye do vnto al the brethren whiche are in al Macedonia. We beseeche you brethren, that ye encrease more and more, & that ye study to be quyet, & to medle with your owne busyness and to worke wyth your owne handes, as we commaunded you that ye maye behaue your selues honestly toward them that are wythoute: that nothyng be lackyng vnto you.

¶ I wolde not brethren that ye shuld be ignorant concernyng them whiche are fallen asleep, that ye sorowe not as other do, whiche haue no hope. For yf we beleue, þe Iesus dyed, & rose agayne euen so them also whiche slepe by Iesus, wyll God byyng agayne wyth him, for thus say we vnto you in the worde of the Lorde, that we whiche shall lyue, & shall remayne in the commyng of the Lorde, shall not come per they whiche slepe. For the Lorde hymselfe shall descende from heauen wyth a shoute and the voyce of the Archangell and trompe of God. And the dead in Christe shall aryse fyrste: then we whiche shall lyue (euen we whiche shall remayne, shal be caughte by wyth the also in the cloudes, to mete the Lorde in the ayer. And so shall we euer be wyth þe Lorde. Wherefore, comfort your selues one another wth these wordes.

We requyre you brethren by the name of our Lozde Iesu Chyrt & ye withdraue your selues from euery brother, & behaue hym selfe inordynatly, and not after the institutio, whych he receaued of vs. For ye your selues knowe, howe ye oughte to folowe vs. For we behaue not our selues inordynatly amonge you. Repether toke we bread of any man for nought: but wrought with labour & sweate nyght & daye because we wolde not be chargeable to any of you, not but so we had auctorite: but to make our selues an ensample vnto you to folowe vs. For when we were wyth you, thys we warned you of, that if any wolde not worke, the same shulde not eate.

* Grace, mercy, and peace fro God our father, and from the Lozde Iesu Chyrt our Lozde.

As I belought the to abyde styll at Ephesus (when I departed into Macedonia) the so do that thou commaunde some, that they folowe no straunge doctryne, neyther geue hede to falses and endles genealogyes, whych brede doubtis more than Godly edyfyng whych is by faythe for the ende of the commaundement is loue oute of a pure harte, and of a good conscience, and of fayth vnfayned from the whych thynges, because some haue erred, they are turned vnto vayne tangelyng, because they wolde be doctours of lawe & yet vnderstand not what they speake, neyther wherof they aspyme.

learne in silence wpth al subiectiō. But I suffre not a woman to teache, nether to vsurpe autho-ryte ouer the man but to be in seplece. For Adam

The. iij. Chapter.

What maner of man a byshoppe or preast ought to be.
The properties also requyred in a deacon or mynister.

I hys is a true sayenge: Yf a man de-lyre the offyce of a Byshoppe, he de-lyreth an honeste worke. A Byshop therfore must be blameles, the husbande of one wyfe, dysporent, sober, dyscrete, a keeper of hys spyalte: apte to teache: not geue to ouer much wyne, no fyghter, not gredy of fylthy lucre. but gentell, abhoryng fyghtyng, abhoryng conetousnes, one that ruleth well hys owne house, one that hath chyldren in subieccion wpth al reuerence. For yf a man can not rule hys owne house, howe shal he care for the congregaciō of God: he maye not be a yōge scoler, lest he swel and fall into the iudgemente of the euell speaker. He must also haue a good re-pōrte of them which are wpthout, lest he fall into rebuke, and snare of the euell speaker.

Actes. vi. 4.

I lyke wyl must the mynisters be * honeste not double tonged, not geuen vnto muche wyne nether greedy of fylthy lucre. but holdyng & imsterpe of the fapth wpth a pure conscience. And let them fyrst be proued, & then let the mynister so, that no man be able to reprove them.

Mat. xv. 2.

Euen so must their wyues be honest, not euell speakers, but sober and fapthfull in al thynges Let the deacons be the husbādes of one wyfe, and suche as rule the chyldren well, and the owne householdes. For * they that mynister wel get them selues a good degre & great lyberty in the fapth, whych is in Christ Iesu.

These thynges wyte I vnto the trustyng to come shortly vnto the. but and yf I tarpe longe that then thou mayst yet haue knowledg, how thou oughtest to behaue thy selfe in the house of God, whych is the congregaciō of the lypunge God, the pylle & grounde of truthe. And wpthout doubte great is that mystry of Godlynes: * God was thewed in the flesh, was iustfyed in the spyte, was sene amonge the aungels, was preached vnto the Gentyles, was beleued on in the worlde, and receaued vpon in glozpe.

The. iij. Chapter.

He prophesyeth of the latter dayes, and exhorteth Timothee to be diligent in studyng of the holye scripture.

he spyte speaketh evidently, that * in the latter tymes some shall * departe from the fapth, & shall geue hede vnto spytes of erreure, and deuly the doctrynes of the whych speake false thowwe ppocryspe, & haue theyr conscience marked wpth an boote yron, for byddyng to marpe, and com-mandyng to abstayne fro meates * whych God hath created to be receaued wpth geuyng than-the Apostle saynt Paule vnto Timothee.

The fyrst Chapter.

Paule exhorteth Timothee to steadfastnesse and patience in persecution, & to continue in the doctrine that he had taught hym, & commendation of Onesiphorus.

In an Apostle of Jesus Christe by the wyll of God, accordynge to the promyse of lyfe whiche is in Christe Jesu. To Timothee hys beloued sonne. Grace, mercy, and peace, from God & father, and from Jesu Christ our Lorde.

I thanke God, *whom I serue from myn elders wyth pure conscience, & wythout any cea-syng I make mencion of & in my prayers nyght and daye desyng to se the, in myndful of thy tea-res so that I am fylled wyth hope, wher I cal to remembraunce & vntapned fayth that is in the, whiche dwelt fyrst in thy grammaire mother Lois, and in thy mother Eunice. & I am assured that it dwelleth in the alle.

Wherfore I warne & that thou stee by the gryfte of God which is in the, & by the putting on of my handes. * For God hath not gyue to vs & spere of feare but of power, and of loue, and of sobrenes. * Be not thou therfore ashamed of the testimony of our Lord, neither be ashamed of me * whych am hys prisoner: but suffre thou aduersitye wth the Gospel, accordynge to the power of God, whych * saued vs, & called vs with an holy calling, not accordynge to our dedis, but accordynge to his owne purpose & grace: whych was geue vs thorow Christ Jesu, before the worlde begane but is now declared openly by the appearynge of our sauoure Jesu Christ, * whiche hath put awaye deathe, & hath brought lyfe and immortalite vnto lpghte thorow the Gospel: * wherunto I am appointed a preacher & Apostle, and a teacher of the Gentyls: for the which cause I also suffre these thynges. Neuerthelesse, I am not ashamed. For I knowe and am sure, that he, in whome I haue put my truste, is able to kepe that which I haue committed to his keppinge agaynst that daye.

* Se that thou haue & ensample of & polsom wordes, which & hast herde of me wyth fayth & loue that is in Christ Jesu. That good thyng which was committed to thy keppinge, hold fast thorow the holy goost, whych dwelleth in vs.
This & knowest, how that al they which are in Asia, be turned frome of which sorte are Phigelus & Hermogenes. The Lord gyue mercy vnto the housholde of Onesiphorus for he oft refreshed me, * & was not ashamed of my chaine: but when he was at Rome, he sought me out verie diligently, & found me. The Lord graunt vnto him that he may fynde mercy with & Lord at & day. And in how many thynges he ministered vnto me at Ephesus, thou knowest very well.

The ii. Chapter.

Paule exhorteth Timothee to here be exhorteth hym to be constant in trouble, to suffre manly, and to be fast in the holysome doctrine of our Lorde Jesus Christ.

Thou therfore my sone, be stronge Jesu) and in the thynges that & hast herde of me by many wytnesses. The same comyttee thou apte to teache other also. Thou therfore suffre afflictions as a good souldyer of Jesus Christe.

A man that warreth, entangleth hym selfe wth worldlye busynesse, and that bycause he maye please hym whych hath chosen hym to be a soul-dyer. And though a man stryue for a maystry, yet is he not crowned, excepte he stryue lawfully.
* The husbandman that laboureth, must byste recreant of the frutes. Consyder what I saye.
The Lorde gyue the vnderstandynge in al thyngges.

Remember that Jesus Christ * of the seide of Dauid, rose agayne from deathe accordynge to my Gospel, wherin I suffre trouble as an euell doer, even vnto bondes. But the worde of God was not bounde. Therfore * I suffre al thyngges, for the electes sakes, that they myght also obtaine the saluacion whych is in Christ Jesu, wyth eternal glorie. It is a true sayinge * for yf we be deade wyth hym, we shal also lyue wyth hym. * Yf we be patient, we shal also raygne wyth hym. * Yf we denye hym, he also shal de-nye vs. Yf we beleue not, yet abyderth he fayth-full. he can not denye hym selfe. Of these thyngges put them in remembraunce, and testifye before the Lord, that they folowe no contencions wordes whych are to no profyte, but to the pre-uertyng of the hearers.

Study to shew thy selfe laudable vnto God, butynge the worde of truth in sylpe. * As for vngodly vanities of vopces, passe thou ouer them For they wyll encrease vnto greater vngodly-nes, & theyr wordes shal fret euil as doth the disease of a cancre of whole nombze is * hymene-us & Philetus, which (as concernynge the truth) haue erred, sayeng: that the resurrection is past already, and do destroye the fayth of some. But the sure grounde of God standeth styll, and hath his seale * the Lord knoweth them that are his And let euery man that calleth on the name of Christ, departe from iniquitie. Not wythstan-dynge * in a great house are not only vessels of golde, and of syluer, but also of wood & of earth: some for honoure, and some vnto dishonoure.

Yf a man therfore pouрге hym selfe from suche men, he shalbe a vessel sanctified vnto honoure mete for the vles of the Lorde, and prepared vnto to all good workes.

Lutes of youth auoyde, but folow ryght wyfnes, fayth, loue, and peace, with them that cal on the Lord wyth a pure herte. * Foolys hand vn-learned questions put from the, knowynge, that they do but gedze stryfe. The seruaut of & Lord * Grace, mercy, & peace, from God the father and from the Lord Jesus Christ our Saviour.

For this cause left I the in Crete, & thou shalt best reforme the things that are vnperfect, and shouldest ordeine elders in euery cite, as I had appointed the. If any be blameles, the husband of one wife, hauing faithful children, which are not laundred of crime, neither are disobedient. * For a bishop must be blameles, as the steward of god: not stubborn, not angrie * not geuen to much wine, no fighter, not geuen to filthy lucre: but a keeper of hospitalite, one that loueth goodnes, & prudent, sobre, righteous, godly, temperat and such as cleueth to the true worde of doctrine that he may be able also to exhort by whol some learning and to improve them that saye agaynst it.

For there are many bnruly and talkers of vntutye, and discepuers of mindes, specially they are of the circumcysion, whose mouthes must be stopped * which peruert whole houses, teaching thinges which they ought not, because of filthy lucre. One of them selues (euen a prophete of theyr owne) sayd: The Cretians are alwayes lyars, euell bestes, slowe belyes. This witness is true, wherfor rebuke thou the sharply that they maye be sounde in ffaith, not takinge heed to Jewes fables and commaundementes of men that turne away the trueth * vnto f pure, are al thynge pure: but vnto them that are defyled and vnbelouynge, is nothynge pure: but euen the minde and conscience of them is defyled. They confesse that they knowe God: but wyth the dedes they deny hym saynge they are abhominable and disobedient, and vnwylle vnto euery good worke.

The ii. Chapter.

He telleth hym howe he shall teach all degrees to behaue them selues.

As thou speakest thou the thynges whiche be come whollome learning, that the elder men besober, sage, discrete, sound in the ffaith, in loue, in patience the elder * women like wyle, that they be in such rayment as becometh holynes, not beyng false accusars, not geuen to much wyne, but & they teach honest thynges, to make the younge women sobre mynded, to loue theyr husbandes, to loue theyr chyldre, to be discrete, chaste, busy, good, obedient vnto theyr husbandes, that the word of God be not euell spoken of. Charge men lykewyse exhort, that they be sobre mynded.

* In all thynges lette the thy self an ensample of good workes in the doctrine, with honesty, grauitie, and wyth the whollome worde which can not be rebuked. that he whiche wythstandeth, maye be ashamed, hauyng no euell thyng to say of you. * Exhorte seruautes, to be obedient vnto theyr owne masters, and to please them in all thynges, not aunswerynge agayne, neyther to be ppleers; but that they shewe all good ffaith.

Of these thynges I wyl that thou certifie, that they whiche beleue in God, myght be diligent to good forwarde in good workes. ## The Epistle of sayncte Paul vnto Philemon.

The Epistle of sayncte Paule the Apostle vnto the Hebrewes.

The i. Chapter.

¶ Paule desireth to haue of the sayncte and loue of Philemon, whom he desireth to forgive his seruante Onesimus, and longing to receyue hym agayne.

Paul prisoner of Iesu Christ and brother Timothe.

Vnto Philemon the beloued and our helper, and to the beloued Appia, and to Archippus our felowe labourer & to the congregation that is of thy house.

* Grace be vnto you & peace fro god our father, & fro the Lord Iesus Christ.

I thanke my God, makinge mention alwayes of the in my prayers, whē I heare of thy loue & faith, which thou hast toward the Lord Iesu, & toward al saynctes, so that the fellowshipp of thy faith is frutefull in knowledge of euery good which is in you toward Iesus Christ. For we haue greute ioye and consolacion in thy loue. because that by the brother, the saynctes hartes are comforted.

Wherefore, though I myght be bolde in Christ to commaunde the, whiche was thy duty to do yet for loues sake I rather beseeche the, though I be as I am, euen olde Paule, & now a prisoner of Iesu Christ. I beseeche the for my sonne * Onesimus who I haue begotten in my bondes, (whiche in tyme passed was to the vnprofitable but now profitabte both to the and to me, who I haue sent home agayne. Thou therfore receiue hym, that is to say myne owne bowels, whom I whiloe sayne haue retained w me, & in thy steade he myght haue ministered vnto me in the bondes of the Gospel. Neuer theles, without thy mynde wold I do nothing, & the good which thou doest wold not be as it were of necessity but willingly.

For hapely he therfore departed for a season & thou shouldest receiue him for euer not now as a seruant but aboue a seruant, euen a brother beloued specially to me, but howe muche more vnto the, both in the flesh, & also in the Lord. If thou count me therfore a felowe, receiue hym as my selfe. If he haue done the any hurt, or oweth the ought, that lay to my charge (I Paule haue wyrtten it wyth myne owne hande) I will recompence it so that I do not saye to the, howe that thou owest vnto me euen thine owne selfe also. Eue so brother, let me enioy the in the Lord. Comforte my bowels in the Lord. Trustynge in thy obedience. I wrote vnto the, knowynge, that thou wilt also do more then I saye: Moreouer prepare me lodgynge, for I truste that thou wilt be the helpe of your prayers, I shalbe geuen vnto you. There salute the, Epaphras my felowe prisoner in Christ Iesu, Marcus, Aristarcus, Demas, Lucas, my helpers. The grace of our Lord Iesu Christ be wyth your sprete. Amen.

Sent from Rome by Onesimus a seruante.

The spylle Chapter.

¶ How God deale longynge wyth them of the olde tyme, in sendynge them by prophetes, but muche more merce he hath shewed be in that he sent by his owne sonne. Of the most excellent glory of Iesu Christ whiche in al thynges is like to his father.

God in tyme past dyuerse & many wayes, spake vnto his father by prophetes: but in these laste daies he hath spoken vnto vs by his owne sonne, whom he hath made heire of all thynges, & by whom also he made the worlde.

* Which (sayncte) beynge the bygynnes of his glory, and the very ymage of his substance rulinge al thynges wyth the worde of his power, hath by his owne person purged our synnes, and sitteth on the right hande of the maiestie on hye: beynge so much more excellent then the angels, as he hath by inheritaunce obtayned a more excellent name then they.

For vnto which of the angels sayde he at any tyme: * Thou art my sonne, this daye haue I begotten the. And agayne, * I will be thy father, and he shalbe my sonne. And agayne, when he byngeth in the fyrste begotten sonne into the worlde, he sayth * And let all the angels of God worshippe hym. And vnto the angels he sayth: * He maketh his angels spretes, and his ministers a flamme of fyre. But vnto the sonne he sayth * Thy seate is God: Walbe for euer & euer. The sceptre of thy kyngdome is a ryght scepter. Thou hast loued ryghteousnes, & hated iniquitye. Wherefore, God, euen thy God hath anointed the w the oyle of gladnes aboue thy felowes.

* And thou Lord in the begynning hast layd the foundation of the earth, and the heauens are the workes of thy handes. They shall perishe, but thou endureste, and they all shall waxe olde also as dothe a garment, and as a vesture shalte thou chaunge them, & they shalbe chainged. But thou art euen the same, & thy peres shal not faile. Vnto whiche of the angels sayde he at any tyme * Sit on my right hand, tyl I make thine enemyes thy fote stole. Are they not all ministers & spretes, that are sent to minister, for their sakes whiche shalbe heires of saluacion.

The ii. Chapter.

¶ Heerby sheweth vs to be abidynge vnto the newe lawe whiche Christ hath geuen, & not to be bound at the olde lawe, & his degree of Christe, because it was necessary that for oure sake he shoulde take such a humble state vpon hym that he myght be like vnto his chylde.

Wherefore we ought to geue the more erneste hede to the thynges that are spoken vnto vs, leaste at any tyme we perishe. For if the worde whiche was spokē by angels was stedfast And euerye trasgression & disobedience receaued a iudgement.

a iuste recompence of rewarde, howe shal we escape, yf we despyse so great a saluacyon, whiche at the fyrste beganne to be preached of the Lord hym selfe, and was confirmed vnto vs warde, by them that heard it: * God bearyng wytnes thereto, both with signes and wonders also and wpth dyuerse myracles, and gyftes of the holy ghoost, accordyng to his owne wyll.

For vnto the Angels hath he not subdued the world to come, whereof we speake, but one in a certayne place wytnessed, sayinge. * What is man that thou art myndfull of hym? Or the sonne of man, that thou dyspsest hym? Thou madest hym a lytle lower then the Angels, thou hast crowned hym wpth honoure and glozre, and hast set hym aboue the workes of thy handes. Thou hast putte all thynges in subieccion vnder his feete. In that he putte all thynges vnder hym, he lefte nothyng that is not put vnder hym. Nevertheless, we se not yett all thynges subdued vnto hym, but him that was made lesse then the Angels, we se that it was Iesus which is crowned wpth glozre and honoure for the sufferynge of deathe: that he by the grace of God, shulde taste of deathe for all men.

For it became hym, for whome are all thynges and by whom are all thynges (after that he had brought many sonnes to glozre) yf he shulde make the Lord of theyr saluacyon perfect thowwe afflictions. For both he yf sanctifyeth and they whiche are sanctified, are all of one. For which causes sake he is not ashamed to cal them brethren, sayinge: I wyl declare thy name vnto my brethren, * in the myddes of thy congregacyon wyl I praise the. And agayne I wyl put my trust in hym. And agayne: beholde, here am I, & the chyldren whome God hath geuen me.

For as muche then as the chyldren are partakers of the fleshe and blode, he also him selfe lyke wyl take parte wpth them that, thowwe deathe, he myghte erue hym that had lordshipp ouer deathe, that is to saye the Deuel, and that he myghte deliuer them, whiche thowwe feare of deathe were all theyre lyfe tyme subdued vnto bondage. For he in no place taketh on hym the Angels, but the seede of Abraham taketh he on hym. Wherefore, in all thynges it became hym to be made lyke vnto his brethren, yf he myghte be mercyfull, and a faythfull hye preast in thynges concernyng God, for to pouge the peoples synnes. For in yf it fortuneth him selfe to be tempted, he is able to sucker them also yf are tempted.

The. iiii. Chapter.

Be requyred be to be obedyent vnto the worde of christ which is more worth then the eternall laboure of agoure. The punishment of such an wyll wyl be harden their hertes.

Wherefore holy brethren, partakers of the celestial callynge consider the ambassadour and hye preast of our professyon Christ Iesus, howe that he is faythfull vnto hym yf put hym in the offyce, euen as was Moles in al his house. For loke howe much honoure (he that hath builded a house) hath more then the house it selfe: so suche honoure he is counted worthy of more then Moles. For euery house is builded of some ma

But he that ordeyned all thynges is God. And Moles verely was faythfull in all hys house as a mynister, to beare wytnesse of those thynges which were to be spoken afterward. But Christ as a lone, hath rule ouer the house, whose house are we, yf we holde faste the confydence and the * reioysyng of that hope, vnto the ende.

Heb. vi. 12

Wherefore (as the holy goost sayth:) to daye yf ye wyl heare his voyce, harden not your hartes, as in the promokynge, in the daye of temptacyon in yf wyldernes, where your fathers tempted me, proued me, and sawe my workes, for ye feare. Wherefore I was greued with that generation, & sayde: They do alwaye erre in theyre hertes they verely haue not knowe my wayes, so that I sware in my wrath: they shall not enter into my reste. Take hede brethren, lest at any tyme there be in any of you a frowarde hert subiect vnto unbeliefe, yf he shulde departe from the luyng God but exhorde ye one another dayly, while it is called to day, lest eny of you wyl be hard herted thowwe the deceptfulnesse of synne.

We are made partakers of Christ, yf we kepe sure (vnto the ende) the begynnyng of the substance, so longe as it is sayde: to daye yf ye wyl heare his voyce, harden not your hartes, as in the promokynge, for some when they hearde dyd prouoke howebeit not all that came oute of Egypte by Moles. But with whom was he displeased for ye feares? Was he not displeased wpth them that hadde synned, whose carcases were ouerthrowen in the desert? To who sware he that they shoulde not enter into hys reste, but vnto them that were not obedyent? And we se, that they could not enter in, because of unbelief.

But it profyted not them, that they hearde the worde, because they whiche hearde it, coupled it not wpth fayth. For we whiche haue beleued do enter into his reste, as he sayde: Euen as I haue sworne in my wrath they shal not enter into my reste. And that spake he verely longe after that the workes were made: and the foundacyons of the world layde. For he spake in a certayn place of the seuenthy day, on theys wyse. * And God did rest the. vii. day fro all hys workes. And in this place agayne: They shall not enter into my reste.

For yf Iosua had geuen them rest, the world be not afterwarde haue spoken of another day. There remaineth therfore yet a reste to the people of God. ¶ He goeth forth with the charge that he beganne in the latter ende of the fiftie chapter, & exhorteth the not to saynt but to be iust and patient, to so much as God is sure in hys promise.

on of handes, and of refurreccyon frome deathe, * If God permitt. For it can not be that they which were once lyghted, and haue tasted of the heauenly gyfte, and were become partakers of the holy Ghoft, and haue tasted of the good worde of God, and the power of the world to come: * If

But that ground which beareth thornes and briars, is reprovēd, and is nye vnto cursynge whose ende is to be burned. Nevertheless, deare frendes, we truste to se better of you, and thynges whiche accompanye thaluacon though we thus speake. For God is not vnrigh teous * that he shoulde forgette your worke and laboure that proceedeth of loue, whiche loke ye shewe in hys name, whiche haue ministered vnto the sapntes and yet minister. Yee, and we desyre that euerye one of you shewe the same dil ygence to the full stabylsynge of hope, even vnto the ende that ye saynt not, but be folowers of them, which thozow sayth and pacyence receiue the inheritaunce of the promysse.

For when God made promises to Abraham, because he had no greater to swear by: he swore by hym selfe, sayinge. Surely I will blesse thee and multiply þe in dede. And so after that he had taryed patiently, he enioyed the promises. For me verely I sweare by him that is greater then them selues, and *an othe to consume the thyng is to them an ende of all strepe. So God willinge very abundantly to shewe vnto the heeres of promises, the stablenes of his counsel, added an othe: that by two immutable thynges (in whiche it was impossible that God shulde lye) we myght haue a strong consolation, which by theto haue fled. for to holde fast the hope that is set before vs which hope we boide as an ancre of þe soule both sure and stedfast, whiche hope also entereth in, into those thynges which are within þe vayne where the fore runner is for vs, entered euen Iesus that is made an * hye priest for ever after the order of Melchisedech.

Consydre what a man this was, vnto whome also the Patriarke Abraham gaue tythes of the spoyle. And verely * those chyldren of Leui, whiche receyue the offyce of the preastes, haue a commaundement to take (accoordinge to the lawe) tythes of the people, that is to say, of their brethren yea though they spronge out of the loynes of Abraham. But he whole kynned is not counted amonge them, receyued tythes of Abraham, & blessed him that had the promysse. And no man denyeth, but that he which is lesse, receyueyth blessing of him which is greater. And here men that by receyue tythes. But there he receyueyth tythes, of whom it is wyttnesed that he lyueyth. And to saye the truthe, Leui hym self also which vseth to receyue tythes, payed tythes to Abraham. And it is yet a more euident thyng, yf after the similitude of Melchisedech, there arys another preest, which is not made after the lawe of the carnal commaundement, but after the power of the endlesse lyfe. (For, after this maner doth he testifie: thou art a preest for euer, after the ordre of Melchisedech) Then the commaundement that went afore, is disannulled by cause of weaknesse & vnprofitablenesse. For * the lawe brought nothyng to perfection: but was an introduction to a better hope, by the whiche we drawe nye vnto God. The olde testament then had verely ordinaunces and seruynges of God and worldly holynes. For there was a fore tabernacle made, where in was the lyght, and the table and the shewbread which is called holy. But within the second vayne was there a tabernacle, which is called holpest of all: which had the golden censer, and the arke of testament overlaped rounde about with golde, wherein was the golden pot with manna, and a strong rodde, that sprang and the tables of the testament. Out the ark were the Cherubyns of glory, shadowyng the seate of grace. Of whiche thynges we can not now speake particularly.

When these thynges were thus ordeyned, the prestes went alwayes into the fyrst tabernacle which executed the seruyce of the holy thynges. But into the seconde went the hye prest alone, ones every yere: not without bloude, whiche he offered for hym selfe, and for the ignorances of the people. Wherewith the holy ghost this signified, that the way of holy thynges was not yet opened, while as yet the fyrst tabernacle was standyng, which was a similitude for the tyme then present, in which were offered gyftes and sacrifices that coulde not make the mynyste perfect as pertaynyng to the conscience, with only meates and drynkes and byuers washynges and iustifynges of the flesh, whiche were ordeyned vntill the tyme of reformation.

But Christ being an hye prest of good thynges to come, came by a greater and more perfect tabernacle, not made with handes: that is to say: not of this buyldyng, neyther by the bloude of gootes and calves: but by his owne bloude, he entred in ones into the holy place, and founde eternall redemption.

For of the bloude of oxen and of gootes, & the ashes of a yonge cowe when it was spynkled, purifyeth the uncleane as touching the purifying of the fleshe: how moche more shall the bloude of Christ (whiche thow we the eternall spyrte offered hym selfe without spot to God) to purge your conscience from deed wyorkes, for to serue the lynyng God?

And for this cause is he the mediatour of the newe testament, that thow woldst whiche chaunced, for the redemption of those transgressours that were vnder the fyrst testament they which are called myght receyue the p[ro]misse of eternall inheritance: For where as is a Testament, there must also (of necessity) be the death of him that maketh the Testament. For the Testament taketh auctorite whē men are deed: for it is yet of no value, as long as he y maketh it. Testament is a yne for whiche cause also neyther the fyrst testament was ordeyned without bloude. For when Moses had declared all the comāndement to all the people accordyng to the lawe he toke the bloude of calves and of gootes, with water and purple, wol and p[ur]p[ur]e, and spynkled both the booke and all the people, saying: this is the bloude of the Testament which God hath appointed vnto you: Moreover, he spynkled the tabernacle with bloude also, and all the mynistryng vessels. And almost all thynges are by the lawe purged with bloude, and without shedding of bloude is no remission.

It is nede then that the similitudes of heavenly thynges be purified with suche thynges, but that the heavenly thynges them selues be purified with better sacrifices then are those.

For Christ is not entred into the holy places which are made with handes (whiche are similitudes of true thynges) but is entred into very heauen for to appeare now in the lyght of God for us not to offer hym selfe often as the hye prest entreth into the holy place, every yere with strange bloude, for then must he haue often suffred syns the worlde beganne. But now in the ende of the worlde hath he appeared ones, to putte synne to flight by the offering vp of hym selfe.

And as it is appoynted vnto all men, that they shal ones dye, and then cometh the iudgement: euen so was Christ ones offered, to take awaye the synnes of many, and vnto them that loke for hym, shall he appeare agayne without synne vnto saluacyon.

The .x. Chapter.

The olde lawe had no more to cleanse awaye synne, but Christ and it with offeringe his body ones for all. An exhortation to receyue this goodwille of God thankfully with patience and stedfast faith.

Of the lawe hauyng the shadow of good thynges to come, and not the verye substance of the thynges them selues, can neuer with those sacrifices which they offer, yere by yere continually make the commers there vnto perfect. For wold not then those sacrifices haue ceased to haue bene offered, bycause that the offerers ones purged shoulde haue had no more conscience of synnes? Neuerthelesse, in those sacrifices, is there mencyon made of synnes every yere. For the bloude of oxen and of gootes can not take awaye synnes.

Wherefore, when he cometh into the worlde he sayeth: Sacrifice and offeringe thou wouldest not haue but a body hast thou ordeyned me. Vnto offeringes also for synne hast thou not allowed. Then sayd I lo, I am here. In the beginning of the booke it is writte of me that I shoulde do thy wyl, O God. About, when he sayeth: sacrifice and offeringe, burnt sacrifices and synne offerings thou wouldest not haue, acyther hast thou allowed them (whiche yet are offered by the lawe, then sayd he: lo, I am here to do thy wyl, O God: he taketh awaye the fyrste to stablysh the latter, by the which wyl we are made holpe, euen by the offeringe of the body of Iesu Christ ones for all.

And every prest is redy dayly mynistryng and offeringe often tymes one maner of oblation, whiche can neuer take awaye synnes. But this man after he hath offered one sacrifice for synnes, is set downe for euer on the ryght hand of God, and from hence forth he sauyth till he comes foodes be made hye fote it ole. For with one offering hath he made perfect for ever, the that are sanctified. The holy Ghost him selfe also beareth us recorde, even whē he tolde before. This is the testament that I wyl make vnto them: after those dayes, sayeth the Lorde) I wyl put my lawes in theyr hertes, and in theyr myndes wyl I wyte them, and their synnes and iniquities wyl I remēber nomore. And where remission of these thinges is, ther is nomore offering for synne. Sepng therfore vnto them, that by the meane of the bloude of Iesu* we haue lyberty to entre into y<sup>e</sup> holy place, by the newe & lyving way whiche he hath prepared for vs, through the dayle (that is to saye by hys fleshe) And eunge also that we haue an hye preast which is ruler ouer the house of God, let vs draw nye with a true hert in sure fayth, spynckled in our hertes and the euil consyence put a waye and washed in oure bodyes with pure water, let vs kepe the professyon of our houre, wpythoute waucering (for he is saythfull that promysed) and let vs consyder one another, to the intente that we maye prouoke vnto loue, and to good workes not forsakyng the felowshyppe that we haue amonge oure selues, as the maner of some is: but let vs exhort one another, & so muche the more because ye se that the daye draweth nye.

* For yf we synne wylfully after y<sup>e</sup> we haue receaued the knowlege of y<sup>e</sup> truth, there remaineth no more sacrifice for synnes but a fearful looking for Iudgement, and violent fyre, which shal deuoure the aduersaries. Ye that despyse, let y<sup>e</sup> Moyses law, dyeth wpythout mercy * vnder two or thre wpythelles, how much soer (suppose ye) shall he be punished whiche treadeth vnder fote the sonne of God: and counteth the bloude of the Testament, where wpyth he was sanctified, as an vnholpe thynge, and doth by contempte to the spyrte of grace. For we knowe him y<sup>e</sup> hath sayd

* It belongeth vnto me to take vengeance: I wyl recompence sayeth the Lorde: And agayne, the Lorde shal Iudge his people It is a fearful thing to fall into the handes of the liuing God

Call to remembraunce the dayes that are passed, in the which after ye had receaued lyght ye endured a greate sygh of aduersities, partly whyle alme wondred and gased at you for the shame and tribulacion that was done vnto you partly, whyle ye became companions of them which so passed their time. For ye became partakers also of the afflictions which happened thowtome my bondes, & toke in worth the spoyling of youre goodes, and that with gladnes, knowinge in your selues, howe that ye haue in heauē a better and an enduringe substance. Call not awaye therfore youre consyence, whiche hath a greate recompence of rewarde. For ye haue receaued of pacyence: that after ye haue done y<sup>e</sup> wyl of God, ye myght receaue the promys. For yet a verpe lytell whyle, and he that shal come wyl come and wyl not tary. But * the iust shal lyue by fayth, And yf he wythdrawe hym selfe, my soule shal haue no pleasure in him. It is not we y<sup>e</sup> wythdrawe our selues vnto dānacion, but we

Chapter.

What sayth he, and a commendacion of the same. The heade: sayth he of the fathers in olde tyme.

Fayth is a sure confidence of thynges which are hoped for, and a certayne tye of thynges whiche are not sene. For by it y<sup>e</sup> elders obtained a good reporte. Thowtome sayth we vnderstande, y<sup>e</sup> the world was ordeined by the word of God, and that thynges whiche are sene, were made of thynges * whiche were not sene. * By fayth Abel offered vnto God a more pleasant sacrifice then Cain: by whiche he obtained wpythnes that he was ryghteous. God testifyng of hys gyftes: by whiche also he beynge deade, yet speaketh.

By fayth was * Enoch translated, that he shulde not se death: neyther was he founde, for god had taken him awaye. For afore he was take away, he obtained a good reporte, that he pleased God. but wpythout fayth it can not be y<sup>e</sup> anye man shulde please hym. For he that cometh to God, muste beleue that God is, & that he is a rewarder of them that seke hym.

By fayth: Noe beynge warned of God, eschued the thynges whiche were as yet not sene, & prepared the Arke to y<sup>e</sup> sauyng of hys household thowtome the whiche Arke, he * condempned the world, and became heire of the ryghteousnes whiche is accordyng to fayth.

By fayth * Abraham, when he was called, obeyed, to go out into a place, whiche he shulde afterwarde receaue to inheritaunce: & he wente out, not knowyng whether he shulde go.

By fayth he remoued into the lande of promys, as into a straunge countre, when he hadde dwelt in tabernacles. and so dyd Isaac and Jacob heires wpyth hym of the same promys. For he looked for a cpyt haupng a foundacyō, whole buylder and maker is God.

* Thowtome sayth Sara also receaued strengthe to conceaue and be wpyth chylde, and was deliuered of a chylde when she was paste age, because she iudged hym saythfull whiche had promysed.

And therfore sprange therof one (euen of one which was as good as dead) * so many in multitude as are the starrs in the skye, & as y<sup>e</sup> sand the whiche is by the see shore innumerable.

These all dyed accordyng to fayth, when they had not receaued the promyses but * saw them as farre of, and beleued them, and saluted them, & confessed, * that they were straungers and pilgrims on y<sup>e</sup> earth. For they y<sup>e</sup> sawe such thinges declare, that they seke a countre. Also yf they had ben myndful of the countre, frō whēce they came oute, they had leasure to haue returned agayne: but now they desyre a better (that is to saye) a heauenlye. Wherefore God hym selfe is not ashamed * to be called they<sup>e</sup> god to y<sup>e</sup> he hath prepared for them a cpyt.

* By fayth Abraham offered by Isaac, whē he was proued, & he offered him beynng his only begotte sonne, in whō he had receaued y<sup>e</sup> promys

The Epylle

An exhortacion to be patient and constable in trouble and aduersite: vpon hope of euertlasting reward: & com-mencacion of the newe testament aboue the olde.

Wherefore, let vs also: scynge that we are compassed wth so great a multitude of wytnesses: & lape awape all that presseth downe, & the synne that hangeth so fast on, let vs runne with patience vnto the battell that is set before vs, lookinge vnto Iesus the captayne, and synner of al our faith, which for the love of was set before hym: abode the Crosse: and dyspyled the shame, and is set downe: on the righte hande of the throne of God. Consider therefore, how that he endured such speaking agaynst him of synners lest ye shulde be weryed and fainte in your mides. For ye haue not yet resisted vnto bloud streiming agaynst synne. And haue forgottē persecutio, which speaketh vnto you as vnto children: my sonne despyle not the chastenynge of the Lorde, neyther fayne when thou arte rebuked of him: for whom the Lorde loueth hym he chastenech thee, by scourge: heuery sonne he recealeth. If ye endure chastenynge, God offreth him selfe vnto you as vnto sonnes. What sonne is he whom the father chasteneth not? If ye be not vnder correccion: whereof all are partakers: then are ye bastards, & not sonnes. Therefore scynge we haue had fathers of our flesh which corrected vs & we gaue the reuerence: what we nowe not much rather be in subiection vnto the father of spytes and lpe: And they verely for a fewe dayes, nurtered vs after theyr owne pleasure. But he nurse-th vs for our profyte, to the intent that he may mynster of his holynes vnto vs. Nonanet chastelynge for the presente tyme seemeth to be torous, but greuous neuertheles afterward, it bryngeth the quyet frute of ryghteousnes vnto them whiche are exercised therein.

Stretch forth therefore the handes whiche were let downe, and the weake knees: and let ye haue strappe steppes vnto your fete, lest any halting turne you out of the waye: ye lette it rather be healed. Followe peace wth all men and holynes: wthoute the which no man shall see the Lorde. And loke that nomā be destitute of the grace of God: lest any roote of bytternes sprynge vp and trouble, and thereby many be defiled that ther be no fornicator, or vnclane person, as Esau: whiche for one meale of meate solde his byrthright. For ye knowe howe that afterward when he wolde by inheritaunce haue obtayned blessing, he was put by. For he soude no place of repentance, though he soughte it wth teares.

For ye are not come vnto the mount that is touched, and vnto burnynge fyre, nor vnto floure, and darknes, and tempestes of wether, and sounde of a trompe, and the voyce of wodes: which voyce, they (that heard it) wished awape, that the communicacion shulde not be spoken to them. For they could not abyde that whiche was commaunded.

If a beast touche the mountayne, it shall be stoned, or thrust thorow with a dart: so terrible was the syght whiche appeared. Moses sayde

les vnto hym it was sayde, in Isaac shall thy seed be called. for he consydered, that God was able to rayse vp agayne fro death. Therefore, re-ceaued he hym also for an ensample of resurrection.
* By sayth dyd Isaac blesse Jacob & Esau concernynge thynges to come.

* By sayth Jacob when he was a bynge, blesse both the sonnes of Joseph, & bowed hym selfe toward the toppe of his scepter.

* By sayth Joseph when he dyed, remembered the departynge of the chyldren of Israel: & gaue comaundement of his bones. * By sayth Moses when he was borne was byd thre monethes of his father and mother because they saw that he was a proper childe neyther feared they the kynge's commaundement.

* By sayth Moses when he was greute, refused to be called sonne of Pharaos daughter & chose rather to suffer aduersite with the people of God, then to enioye pleasures of synne for a season, and esteemed the rebuke of Christe greater rynges then treasures of Egypt. For he had respecte vnto the rewarde.

* By sayth he forsoke Egypte and feared not the fearlenes of the kynge. For he endured cruelty as though he had sene hi which is inuincible.

* Thozowe sayth he ordeyned the passe out and the effusion of bloude, lest he that destroyed the fyrste borne, shuld cutte them.

* By sayth they passed thozowe the red see as by drye lande: whiche when the Egypciens hadde assayed to do: they were drowned. * By sayth the walles of Jericho fel downe after they were compassed aboute seven dayes.

* By sayth the harlot Raab perswaded not wth them that were dysobedient, whē she had receaued the spyres to lodgyng peacably.

And what shall I moore saye for the tyme wyl be to shorte for me to tell of Sedon of Ba-rach, and of Sampson and of Jephthae, & of Dauid also: And Samuell. & of the prophetes which thozow sayth subdued kynge domes wrought ryghteousnes obtayned the promises stopped the mouthes of Lions: quēched the vyolence of fyre: & escaped the edge of the swerde oute of weakenes, were made strong wth pant in syghte: turned to syghte the armys of the alvantes: the women receaued theyr deade rapled to lyfe agayne.

Other were racked, and wolde not be deli-uered, that they myght enheret a better resurreccion. Agayne, other were tryed wth mockynge & scourgynges, mozeouer wth bondes & prison-ment: were stoned, where betwen a sunder, were tempted, were slayne with swerde, walked vp and downe in wepe skynnes & gootes. Skynnes beinge destitute, troubled and vered: which methe world was not worthy of, they wandred in wylbernes, and in solitarie, and in denes & caues of the earthe. And these al thozowe sayth obtayned good reporte, & receaued not the penynte, because God hadde promysed a better thyng for vs, that they wthout vs shuld not be made perfecte.

sayde I feare and quake. But ye are come vnto the mount Sion, and to the ctyte of the lyving God, the celestial Ierusalem: and to an innumerable spght of aungels, and vnto the congregacion of the spzite bozne sonnes, which are writ-ten in heauen and to god the iudge of all, and to the spzites of iust and perfect men, and to Iesus the mediator of the newe testament, and to the * spzynklyng of blood that speketh better then the bloude of Abel.

¶ Se that ye despyse not hym, that speaketh. For if they escaped not, which refused him that spake on earth muche more shall we not escape, if we turne awaye from hym that speaketh fro heauen: whose voyce then spake the earth, and now hath declared sayeng: yet once more wyl I shake, not the earth onely, but also heauen. Where as he sayeth yet once more, it spynkly-eth the remouyng awaye of those thynges which are shaken as of thynges which haue ended their course that the thynges which are not shaken, may remayne. Wherefore if we receaue þ king- dome whychecan not be moued, we haue grace wherby we may so serue god, and that we may please hym wth reuerence and godly feare. For our god is a consumyng fyre.

¶ The exhorteth vs vnto loue, to hope, to thynke vpon such as be in aduersyte, to mapntayne wellocke to a word of conuersione, to make miche of them that perche Gods worde, to beware of straunge leasure, to be con- sent to suffer rebuke with Christ, to be thankfull vnto God and obedient vnto such as be in auctorite.

Brotherlye loue contynue. * Be not forgetfull to lodge straungers. For therby haue dyuers men lodged aungels vnto us. Remembre the that are in bondes, even as though ye were bound wth your selues: Be myndful of them which are in aduersyte, as ye which are yet in the body. Wellocke is to be hadi honour amonge all men, and the bed vndeyle. As for whose keepers and aduocaters God shal iudge them. Let your conuersione be wythout con- tounes and be contente wth such thynges as ye haue all ready. For he hath sayd: I wyl not fayle the, neether forsake the, so þ we may boldly say the Lord is my helper: and I wyl not feare what man may do vnto me. Remembre the which haue the ouer spghte of you, which haue spoken vnto you þ word of god. Whose sayth se ye so low and consyder the ende of theyr conuersione.

Jesus Christ yesterdaye and to daye, and the same continueth for euer. ¶ Be not car-ried aboute wth dyuers and straunge lernynge. For it is a good thing that the herte be stably-shed wth grace, and not wth meates. whiche haue not profyted them that haue had theyr pa- styng in them. We haue an altar, wherof they maye not eate, whiche serue in the tabernacle. * For the bodies of those beastes whose bloude is brought into the holy place by the hys preste to poure synne, are burnt withoute the tentes. Wherefore Iesus also to sanctifye þ people wth hys owne bloude, suffered wthout the gate. Let vs go forth therfore vnto hym: oute of the tentes, and suffre rebuke wth hym. For heare haue we no contynuyng ctyte: but we seeke one to come. By him therfore do we offere sacryfice of laude alwayes to God: that is to say the frut of those lypyes which confesse his name. To do good & to dyscrybute, forget not, for with such sacryfices God is pleased. ¶ Hope them þ haue ouerspyght of you, and submyt your selues vnto them, for they watche for your soules, even as they that must geue accōptes: that they may do it wth joye, and not wth greife. For that is an vnprofytable thyng for you. Praye for vs for we trust we haue a good conscience among all men: and desyre to lyue honestly. But I de- syre you the moare, that ye so do, that I may be restored to you the sooner.

The God of peace that brought agayne from death our Lord Iesus * the great shepherde of the shepe, thow þ bloud of þ euerlastyng Ce- ramet, make you perfecte in all good workes to do hys wyl, & byng to passe that the thing whych ye do, maye be plesauce in hys syghte thow we Iesus Christe, To whome be prayse for euer whyle the worlde endureth. Amen.

I beseech you brethren, suffre the worde of ex- hortaciō, for we haue wyrtten vnto you in few wordes. Ye knowe our brother Tymothe, that he is at libertie with whome (if he come short- ly) I wil se you. Salute the that haue the ouer syght of you, and al the sayntes. They of Italy salute you. Grace be wth all Amen.

Wente from Italy by Tymotheus.

The Epistle of
of Saynte James.

The fyrst Chapter.

¶ The exhorteth to reioyce in trouble and thankfull to receiue the worde of god, to reioyce in the deuocion what it is.

James the seruaunt of God & of the Lord Iesus Christ sen- deth greetynge to the twelue trybes whiche are scatered a brode. ¶ My brethren, count it for an excedyng ioye whē ye fall into dyuers tempta- cions: knowynge this, þ the trypyng of youre fayth, genyeth pacence: and let pacence haue her perfecte worke, that ye may be perfecte and sound, lackynge no thyng.

If any of you lacke wysedome, let hym aske of hym that geueth it euen God, whych geueth to all men indifferently, & casteth no man in the teth, and it shal be geuen hym. But let hym aske in fayth, and wauer not. For he that doubteth, is lyke a waue of the see, whych is tost of the wyndes, and carryed wth vyolence. Neether let that man thynke, that he shal receaue any thing of the Lorde.

A wauerynge mynded man, is vnstable in all his wayes. Let the brother which is of lowe degre reioyce whē he is exalted agayne, let him that is rich, reioyce whē he is made lowe. * For euē as the flour of the grasse, whā he passe awaye for as the sunne ryseth with heate, & the grasse wythereth

Gene. xxi. 12

* Let no man saye when he is tempted, that he is tempted of God, for as God can not be tempted wyth euell, so neyther he him selfe tempteth anye man: But euery man is tempted, when he is drawen awaye, and entysed of his owne concupyscence. ## The ii. Chapter.

He forbyddeth to haue anye respecte of persons, and not to haue of sayth where no dedes are.

My brethre, esteeme not the sayth of oure Lorde Iesus Christ the Lorde of glorie wyth the respecte of persons.

Leuit. xix. 15

For if there come into poure compaignie a man wearynge a golden ringe, clothed in goodly apparell, and there come in also a poore man in vyle rayment, and ye haue a respect to him that weareth the gaye clothynge, and saye vnto him Spt thou heare in a good place: and saye vnto the poore stande thou there, or spt here vnder my fote stole: are ye not parcyal in your selues, and

If ye fulfyll the royall lawe, accordynge to the scripture. * (Thou shalt loue thyne neyghbour as thy selfe) ye do wel. But if ye regarde one person more then another, ye commyt synne and are rebuked of the lawe, as transgressours. Whosoener shal kepe the whole lawe, * and yet faile in one poynte, he is gyltye of all.

For he that sayde: Thou shalt not commyt aduortye: sayde also: thou shalt not kyl. Though thou do none aduortye, yet if thou kyl, thou art become a transgressour of the lawe.

So speake ye, and so do, as they that shalbe iudged by the lawe of liberty. For he shal haue iudgement wythout mercede: * that sheweth no mercede, and mercede reioysseth agaynst iudgement.

1. Cor. xiii. 12

What anapleteth it my breathren, though a man saye he hath the sayth, if he haue no dedes? Can sayth saue him? If a brother or a syster be naked and destitute of dayly fode, & one of you saye vnto them depart in peace, God sende you warmes and fode, not wythstandynge ye geue them not those thynges whych are nedefull to þ bodye, what shal it helpe? Euen so sayth, if it haue no dedes is deade in it selfe.

But some man wyl saye: thou hast a sayth, and I haue dedes shew me thy sayth by thy dedes and I wyl shewe the thy sayth by my dedes. Wleuest thou þ there is one God? Thou doest well. The deuels also beleue and tremble.

But wylte thou vnderstande, (O thou vayne man) that sayth wythoute dedes is deade? Was not Abraham oure father iustified thorow workes, when he had offered Isahac his sonne vpon the aulter?

1. Cor. xiii. 12

Thou seeste, howe that sayth wroughte wyth hys dedes, and through the dedes was the sayth made perfecte: and the scripture was fulfilled, which sayeth: * Abraham beleued God, and it was reputed vnto him for righteousnes, and he was called the frend of God. * Ye se the howe that of dedes a man is iustified, and not of sayth onely.

The iii. Chapter.

What good and euill cometh thorow the tonge, & the nature of lybe as he learned. & the byfference betwyte the mysedome of the Gospell, and the wysedome of the worlde.

My brethren * be not euery mā a master, knowynge howe that we shal receaue the greater dampnacyō: for in many thynges we synne all.

1. Cor. xiii. 12

* If a man synne not in worde,

1. Cor. xiii. 12

1. Cor. xiii. 12

the same is a perfect man, and able also to tame all the body. Beholde, we put byttes into þe horses' mouthes, that they maye obeye vs, and we turne about all the bodye of them. Behold also the shyppes, whiche though they be so greate, and are dyuen of feaste wyndes, yet are they turned about wth a veyr smal helme whytger soeuer the wyolence of the gouerner wyll. Euen so the tonge is a lytell meber also, and boasteth greate thynges.

Beholde, howe greate a thyng a lytell fyre kyndleth, and the tonge is fyre, euen a word of wyckednes. So is the tonge set amonge oure membes, that it defyleth the whole body, and setteth a fyre all that we haue of nature, and is it selfe set a fyre euery of hille.

All the natures of bestes, and of byrdes, and of serpentes, and thynges of the see are micked and tamed of the nature of man. But the tonge can noman tame. It is an vntylpe cuell, full of deadly popson. Ther wth blesse we God the father, and ther wth curse we men, * whiche are made after the symplitude of God.

Out of one mouth procedeþ blessinge and cursynge. My brethren, these thynges ought not so to be. Woth a fountayne sende forth at one place swete water & bytter also? Can the fygge tree (my brethren) beare olyue beries: ether a vine beare fygges? So can no fountayne geue bothe salt water and fresshe also. If any man be wyle, and endued wth knowledge amonge you, let hym shewe hymselfe wth good conuersation wth mekenes of wysdome.

But yf ye haue bytter enuyng and strife in your harte, reioyce not: neither be lyars against the trueth. For such wysdome descendeth not from aboue but is erthy, naturall and deuelysh. For where enuyng and strife is, ther is instableness, & all maner of cuell workes. But the wysdome that is from aboue, is first pure, then peasable, gentle, and easy to be entreated, full of mercy & good frutes, wthout iudgyng, wthout envulacyon: pee, and the frute of ryghte wysnes is sowne in peace, of them that maintayne peace.

The. lxxx. Chapter.

Warre and fyghtynge cometh of holuptuousnes. The friendship of the world is enmy to God. An enemy to the soule and the bodye of the soule.

From whence cometh warre, and fyghtynge amonge you: come they not here hence: euen of your lustes, that fight in your membes? Ye lust, and haue not. Ye enuye and haue in dygnacyon, and cannot obtayne. Ye fyght and warre, ye haue not because ye aske not. Ye aske and receaue not, because ye aske amysse: euen to consume it vpon your lustes. Ye aduouterers, & women that breake matrimonye: knowe ye not howe that the frendshipp of the world, is enmy to the God? whosoever therfore wyll be a frende of the world, is made the enemy of God. Eether do ye thynke þe scripture sayeth in:

bayne. The sperte that dwelleth in vs, lusteth euery contrarpe to enuye: but geueth more grace (wherfore he sayeth, god resisteth the pryde, but geueth grace vnto the lowlye)

Submyt your selues therfore to God: But resiste the deuell, and he wyll fyre frome you. Drawe nye to God, and he wyll drawe nye to you. Cense your handes ye synners, and pource your hertes ye waueryng mynded. Suffre afflyctions and mourne, and wepe. Let your laughter be turned to mourning, and your ioye to heuyness. * Humble yourselfe in the syght of the Lord, and he shall lyft you vp. Backbite not one another, brethren. He that backbiteth his brother, and he that iudgeth his brother, backbiteth the lawe, and iudgeth the law. But and yf thou iudge the lawe, thou art not an obsecrator of þe lawe: but a iudge. There is one lawe geuere (and iudge) whiche is able to saue and to destroye. * What art thou that iudgeth another? So to nowe ye that saye * to day and to morowe let vs go into such a cytle and contynue there a peare, and bye and sel, & wyne and yet cannot ye tell, what shall happen in the morowe. For what thyng is your lyf? It is euen a vapour, that appeareth for a lytell tyme: and then he vanysheth awaye: For ye ought to say * If the Lord wyll, and yf we lyue, let vs do this or that. But now ye reioyce in your boastynge. All such reioycynge is euell. Therfore to him þe knoweth howe to do good, and doeth it not, to hym it is synne.

The. lxxxi. Chapter.

Where the brethren the wretched men, whiche be vnto payens: to be aware of the synners: to knowe the synners: to as nother, one to pray for another and one to labour to synne and ther to the trueth.

To nowe ye ryche men, wepe and howle on your wretchednes that shall come vpon you. Your ryches are corrupte, your garmentes are motheaten. Your golde and syluer is cankered, and the rust of them shall be a witness vnto you, & shall eat your flesh as it were fyre.

Ye haue heaped treasure together (men wyte to your selues) in your last dayes. Behold * þe hye of labours which haue reaped down your selues (which hye is of you kept backe by fraude, cryeth and the cryes of the which haue reaped, are entred into the eares of the Lord Sabaoth. Ye haue lyued in pleasure on the earth, and bene wylton. Ye haue noryshed your hertes, as in a daye of slaughter. Ye haue condemned and kyllid the iust: & he hath not resisted you. * Repente therfore brethren vnto the commynge of the Lord. Beholde, the husbnde man wapyeth for the precyous frute of the earth, and bathe longe pacyence thereupon, vntyl he receaue the earlye and the later rayne. Be ye also pacyente therfore, and sette your hertes, for the commynge of the Lord draweth nye. Strudge not one agaynst another brethren, lest ye be damned. Beholde, the iudge standeth before of malicousnes, but euen as the seruauntes of God. * honoure all me Lowe brotherlye felowe.

Hyp feare God, honoure the kynge.

* Seruauntes obey your masters wpyth feare not only yf they be good and curteous: but also though they be froward * For it is thanke worthy, yf a man for conscience toward God endure greife, and suffer wronge vnderstanded. For what prayse is it, yf when ye be buffetted for your fautes, ye take it patiently. But yf when ye do well, ye suffer wronge and take it patientlye, then is there thanke wpyth God.

For herunto verelye were ye called: for * Chust also suffered for vs * leauynge vs an ensample y ye shulde folowe his steyppes, whych dyd no synne, neyther was there gyle founde in hys mouth: whych when he was reupled, reupled not agayne wht he suffered, he threatened not but committed the vengeance to hym that iudgeth ryghteouslye * whych he bys owne selfe bare our synnes in hys body on the tree, that we be-pyng bepyuered fro synne, shulde lyue vnto righ-teousnes. By whose stryppes ye were healed.
For ye were as shepe goynge astraye: but are nowe turned vnto the shepherde and byshoppe

Howe wyues ought to obeye them selues towards theyr theyr wyues. He exhorteth all men to vniuersall loue & pac-let the hyd man whych is in the hert be without all corrupcion, so that the sprete be at reste and quyet: whych sprete is before God a thing moche set by. For after this maner in the olde tyme dyd the holpe women, whych trusted in God, tye them selues, and were obedyente vnto theyr husbandes, euen as Sara obeyed Abraham, & called hym Lorde: whose daughters ed for any erreure.

B Lpke wylle ye men, dwell togeth them accordyng to knowledge: geuynge honoure vnto the wyse, as vnto the weaker vessel, and as vnto them that are hepyes also of the grace of lye, that poure prayers be not hyndered. In conclusyon, be ye all of one mynde, of one dette, loue

as brethren be pytyfull, be courteous, not redyng euell for euell, or rebuke for rebuke: but contrary wyse, blesse knowynge that ye are thereunto called, euen that ye shulde be hepyes of the blesynge. For he that doeth longe after lye, & loueth to se good dayes, let hym refrayne hym tounge from euell and bys lyppe that they speake no gyle. Let him eschue euell, & do good: let him seape peace, and ensue it. For the eyes of the Lord are ouer the ryghteous, and his eares (are open) vnto theyr prayers. Agayne: the face of the Lord is ouer them that do euell.

Moreouer, who is it that wyl harme you, yf ye folowe þ which is good: Pre happy are ye, yf any trouble happen vnto you for ryghteousnes sake. Be not ye afrayed for anye terroure of them, neether be ye troubled but sanctifye the Lord God in poure hertes. Be readye alwayes to geue an answer to euery man that asketh you a reason of the hope that is in you, and that wyth mekenes and feare, haupnge a good conscience, * that where as they backbite you as euell doers, they maye be ashamed, that falsely accuse your good conuersacyon in chryst.

For it is better (yf the wyl of God be so) þ ye suffer for well doynge, then for euell doynge.

For as moch as Chyste hath once suffered for synnes, the iuste for the vniust, to bypunge vs to God, and was kylled, as pertaynyng to the flesh, but was quykened in the spire.

In whiche spire he also went and preached vnto the spires that were in prison, whiche some tyme had bene dysobedient, when the longe suffering of God was once loked for in the dayes of Noe. Whyche the arke was a preparynge: wherin fewe, that is to saie, viii. soules, were saued by the water, lyke as * baptyme also now saueth vs, not the puttynge awaye of the fylthe of the flesh, but in that a good conscience cōsenteeth to God by the resurrectiō of Iesus Chyrt, which is on the ryght hande of God: And is gone into heauen, * angels, powers, and myghte subdued vnto him.

The. iiii. Chapter.

He exhorteth us to reasse from synne, and no man to say for as a. tuch doer, but as chrysten men.

As moch then as Chyrt hath suffered for vs in the flesh, arme ye poure selues likewise w the same mynde for he which suffereth in þ flesh, ceaseth fro synne þ he henceforwarde shulde lyue: as moch tyme as remaineth in þ fleshe not after þ lustes of men, but after the wyl of God. For it is sufficient for vs, that we haue spente þ tyme þ is past of the life, after the wyl of þ * Set tpls. walkynge in wantonnes, lustes, in excelle of wynges, in excelle of eatynge, in excelle of byphynge, in abhomyable ydolatre.

And it semeth to them an inconuenient thinge that ye runne not also wyth them vnto þe same excelle of rote, and therfore speake they euell of you, whiche shall gene accomptes to hym, that is ready to iudge quicke & dead. For vnto this purpose verely was the Gospell preached also vnto the dead, that they shulde be iudged lyke o- ther men in the flesh, but shulde lyue before God in the spire. The ende of all thynges is at hande.

Be ye therfore sober, and watch vnto praye. But aboue all thynges haue seruente loue amonge poure selues. For loue shall couer þ multitude of synnes. Be ye heretous one to another, * wythout grudgynge. As euery mā hath receaued the gyst, euen so mynister the same one to another, as good ministers of the manyfolde grace of God. If any man speake, let him talcke as the wordes of God. If any man mynister, let him do it as, of the abyltpe, which God mi- nistred vnto hym. That God in all thynges maye be glorified thozowe Iesus Chyrt, I to whome be prayse and dominyon for euer and euer. Amen.

Dearely beloued, maruayle not that ye are proued by fyre (whiche thyng is to trye you) as though some straunge thyng happened vnto you but reioyce, in as moch as ye are partakers of Chyrt's passyon: that when bys gloire appereth, ye maye be merce and glad. If ye be rayled vpo for the name of Chyrt happye are ye: For the gloire and the spire of God resteth vpo you. On theyr parte he is euell spoken of, but on poure parte he is glorified.

Se that none of you be punyshed as a murderer, or as a thefe, or an euell doer, or as a busybody in other mens matters. If any mā suffer as a Chyrt's man, let him not be ashamed: but let hym glorifye God on bys behalfe: For the tyme is come, that iudgement must begynne at þ house of God. If it fyrst begynne at vs, what shall the ende be of them whiche beleue not the Gospell of God? And * yf the ryghteous scarcely be saued: where shall the vngodlye and the synner appere? Wherfore, let them that are troubled accordynge to the wyl of God commit theyr soules to hym wyth wel doynge, as vnto a fapthfull creatour.

The. v. Chapter.

He exhorteth vs to submyt our selues to the elders, and euery one to loue another.

He elders whiche are amonge you, I exhorthe whiche am also an elder, & a wytnes of the aspecyōs of Chyrt & also a partaker of the gloire that shalbe opened. Fede ye Chyrt's flocke, as muche as lyeth in you, takynge þ ouer syght of them, not as compelled thereto, but wyl lonyly: Not for a vobyle soke, not for the desyre of filthp lucre but of a good mynde, not * as though ye were lordes ouer the parishes: but * that ye be an ensample to the flocke: And when the chefe shepherde shal appere ye shal receaue, * an incorruptible crowne of gloire. Lpke wylle ye pounger, submyt poure selues vnto the the elders. Submyt your selues every man, one to another: knet your selues together in lowly-nes of mynde. For God respyrth the proude, & geueth grace to the humble. Submyt your selues therfore vnder the mighty hande of God, that he maye exalte you, when the tyme is come.

The seconde Epistle of Saynt Peter.

The fyrste Chapter.

For as much as the power of God hath geuen by all thynges pertainynge vnto vs: he exhorteth vs to make oure callynge known by good workes and frutes of fayth. He maketh mencyon of hys owne biathe

Simon Peter a seruaunte, and an Apostle of Iesus Christe, to them whych haue obtained lyke precyous fayth with vs thorowe the ryghteousnes of oure God and saupour Iesus Christe.

I Pet. i. a

*Grace be vnto you, and peace be multiply-ed thorowe the knowledge of God and of Iesus oure Lorde. Accordynge as hys godly power hath geuen vnto vs all thynges that pertaine vnto life and godlynes, thorow the knowledge of hym that hath called vs by glorie, and ver-tue, by the whych are geuen vnto vs excellent and mooste grete promyses, that by the mea-nes thereof ye myghte be partakers of the Godly nature, yf ye shewe the corrupcyon of worldly luste.

Joh. i. c
Colo. iii. b

And hereunto geue all dyligence in your fayth minister vertue. In vertue knowledg in knowledg temperaunce in temperaunce paci-ence: in pacience godlynes: in godlynes brotherly kindnes, in brotherly kindnes loue. For yf these thynges be amonge you, and be plenteous, they wyl make you that ye neyther shalbe ydle nor unfruitful in the knowledg of oure Lorde Iesus Christe. But he that lacketh these thynges, is blynde and gropeth for the way wth his hade, and hath forgotten, that he was purged from hys olde synnes.

2 Pet. i. b
I. cor. vi. a

Wherefore brethren, geue the more dyligence, for to make your callynge and electyon sure (by good workes) for yf ye do suche thynges, ye shal neuer fall. Ye, and by thys meanes an en-tryng in shalbe mynistrd vnto you aboundatly into y euerlastynge kyngdom of oure Lorde and saupour Iesus Christe.

Wherefore, I wyl not be neglygent to put you allwayes in remembraunce of suche thynges, though ye knowe them your selues, and be stablyshed in the present trueth. Notwithstandynge I thinke it mete as longe as I am in this tabernacle, to sterc you vp by puttynge you in re-membraunce, for as moche as I am sure, that shortly I must put of thys my tabernacle, & euen as oure Lorde Iesus Christe shewed me, I wyl euer also geue my diligence, that ye maye haue wherewith to sterc vp the remembraunce of these thynges after my departynge.

II. cor. v. a

I. cor. xii. d

For we haue not folowed deceitfull fables, when we opened vnto you the power and commynge of oure Lorde Iesus Christe, but wth oure eyes we sawe hys mayestie: euen the verely when he receaued of God the father ho-noure and glorie, and when there came such a voyce to him fro the excellent glorie. *Thys is my dere beloued sonne, in whom I haue delvte.
This voyce we herde come from heauen, when we were wth hym in the holy mount.

We haue also a right sure worde of prophecy, whereunto yf ye take hede, as vnto a lyghte shyneth in a darcke place, ye do well, vntill the dape dawne, and the dape starre arys in your vertes. So that ye faste knowe this that no prophecy in the scripture hath any priuate interpretacyon. For the scripture came neuer by the wyl of man: but holy men of God spake, as they were moued by the holy goost.

The ii. Chapter.

Be wary of false teachers and shewe

Here were false Prophetes also amonge the people, euen as there shalbe false teachers amonge you:

nable sectes: cuen denyng y Lorde they with fayned wordes make marchaundysse of you, whose iudgement is nowe not farre of, and theyr damnacyon slepeth not.

B For yf God spared not the angels that sinned, but caste them downe into hell, & deliuered the into chaynes of darckenes (to be punished) to be kept vnto iudgement: neyther spared the olde worlde, but saued. * For the ryghte preacher of ryghteousnes, and brought in the floude vpon the worlde of the vngodly, and turned the ctyes of Sodom and Gomor into ashes: ouerthrew the, dampned them, and made on them an ensa- ple vnto those that after shoulde lyue vngodlye.

And iust * Lot vered wyth the vncleyn couer- sacion of the wycked, deliuered he. For he being ryghteous, and dwellinge amonge the in seing and hearynge, vered hys ryghteous soule from dape to dape with their vnlawful dedes. * The Lord knoweth how to deliuer the godly out of temptacyons, and to reserue the vniust vnto þ dape of iudgement for to be punished: but ches- ly them that walcke after the fleshe in the luste of vncleynnes, and bespyle aucthorite. Presump- tuous are they, & stubborne, whych feare not to speake euill of them that excell in worshyppe.

When the angels whych are greater both in power and myght, receaue not of the Lord rap- lyng iudgement agaynst the selues. But these as brut beastes, naturaly brought forth to be ta- ken and destroyed, spake euill of the thynges that they vnderstande not, and shall perishe in theyr owne destruccyon, and receaue the reward of vnyghtewelsnes.

They couete it pleasure to lyue despectously for a season. Spotes they are & fylthynges: whych lyue at pleatur in their owne discreuable wayes, feasting and scorning you: hauinge eyes full of aduoutyse, & that cannot cease fro synne breg- lyng vnstable soules. Hertes they haue cerryed wyth robbery. They are cursed chyldren whych haue forsake the ryght waye, & are gone astraye folowynge the * wape of Balaam the sonne of Besor whych loued the rewarde of in- rightwelsnes but was rebuked of his iniquyte.

The tame and domme beast, speaking w man- nes voyce, forbade the madnesse of the prophet.

* These are welles wythout water: cloudes that are carped wyth a tempeste, to whom the myst of darcknes is reserued for euer. For when they haue spoke the greates swelling wordes of vanity, they entyse to gorowe lustes in the volup- tuousnes of the flesch, them that were cleare e- scaped euill the that nowe lyue in erreure: while they promys them libertye, where as they them selues are the bonde seruauntes of corruption:

* For of whom a man is overcome, vnto þ same is he brought in bondage. * For yf they (after they haue escaped from the fylthynges of þ world thozowe the knowledge of the Lord and the sa- uour Jesu Christ) are yet tangled agayne ther in, and overcome: then is the latter ende worse wyth the then the begynnynge. For it had bene better for them, not to haue knowen the waye of ryghteousnes, the after they haue knowe it, to turne from the holpe comaundemente þ Douglas gent vnto them. But the same is happened vnto the that is vsed to be spoken by the true pro- uerbe. * The dogg is turned to his owne vomit agayne, and the sow that was washed is tur- ned agayne to her wallowynge in the myer.

The .iii. Chapter.

Of the dape of the Lord, whiche longe sarpente is saluacyon.

his is the secōde epistle that I now wryte vnto you dearlye beloued, wherwith I steepe vpon your sincere mynd, by puttyng you in remem- braunce, þ ye may be myndfull of the wordes (whiche were tolde before of the holy pro- phetes) and also the comaundement of vs whiche be Apostles of the Lord and saupoure.

* This fyrst vnderstande, that ther shal come in the laste dapes, mockers (in vntrewfulnesse) whych wyll walke after theyr owne lustes, and say: There is the promys of hys commynge: For sence the fathers dyed, al thynges continue in the same estate where in they were at the be- gynnynge. For this they knowe not: that wyll fully howe that the heauens a great whyle ago were, and the earthe out of the water appeared vpon thozowe the water, by the word of God: by the which thynges the world that then was, pe- rished beynge ouerrunned wth water. * But þ heauens & earth whiche are nowe, be kept by hys worde in store and reserued vnto fyre, agaynst the dape of iudgement and perdyccion of vngod- ly men. Dearlye beloued, be not ignorant of this one thyng, howe that * one dape is wyth the Lord as a thousande yere, and a thousande yere as one dape. The Lord that hath pro- mysed, is not slacke, as some men counte slack- nes but is patiente to vs warde for asmoch as he wolde haue no man losse, but wyll receaue all men to repentance.

Neuerthelesse the dape of the Lord will come as a thefe in the night, in the which dape, the hea- uens shal passe awaye in maner of a tempest, & the elementes shal melt wth heat the earth al so: the workes that are therein, shal burne. Se- pyng then that all these thynges shal perishe, what maner persons ought ye to be in holy con- uersacyon, and godlynes loyng for, & daynyng vnto the commynge of the dape of God, by whiche the heauens shal perishe wth fyre, and the elemē- tes shal melt wth heate. * Neuerthelesse, we (accorpyng to hys promys) loke for a newe hea- uen and a newe earth, wherein dweliethe ryghtewelsnes.

Wherefore dearlye beloued, sepyng that ye loke for such thynges, be diligente that ye maye be founde of hym in peace, wythout spotte & vn- defylde. And suppose that the longe sufferynge of the Lord is saluacyon, such as our dearlye be- loued brother Paule also (accorpyng to þ wyl- dome geuen vnto him) hath wrytten vnto you, pce, almoost in euery epylle, speakynge of such thynges: amenge whych are manye thynges herde to be vnderstande, whych they that are vnlearned and vnstable, peruerse, as they do al so the other scripturis, vnto theyr owne de- struccyon struccyon þe therfore beloued, (seing þe be warned afozehande) beware lest þe, with other men be also plucked awaye thozowe the errour of the wycked and fal frome youre owne stradfallines but growe in grace, and in the knowlege of our Lorde and Sauoure Iesus Chyrste. To whome be gloze both now and for euer. Amen.

The fyrste Epystle of Saynte John the Apostle.

The fyrst Chapter.

¶ True tokens of the euellapng wothe of God, The bloude of Chyrste is the purgacion from synne No man is wrythout synne.

What wyche was frome the beginnyng, wyche we haue hearde, wyche we haue sene wyth oure eyes, wyche we haue lokyd vpon and oure handes haue handled of the worde of lyfe. And the lyfe appeared, and we haue sene and beare wytnes and shewe vnto þou * that etenal lyfe wyche was wyth the father, and appered to vs. That wyche we haue sene and beare, declare we vnto þou, that þe also maye haue felow-shipp wyth vs, and þe our felowshipp may be wyth the father, and hys sonne Iesus Chyrst. And thys wypte we vnto þou, that (þe maye receyue, and that) þour ioye maye be full.

And thys is the tydynge wyche we haue bearde of hym and declare vnto þou, that God is lyghte, and in hym is no darckenes at all. If we saye that we haue felowshipp wyth hym, & walke in darckenes, we lye and do not þe truth. But and if we walke in lyghte euen as he is in lyghte, then haue we felowshipp wyth hym, and the bloud of Iesus Chyrst his sonne clenseth vs from al synne * If we saye that we haue no synne, we deceaue our selues, & the truth is not in vs: If we know lege our synnes, he is fapthfull, & wylt, to forgeue vs our synnes, and to clenche vs frome al vnrighteousnes. If we saye we haue not synned, we make hym a lyer, and hys worde is not in vs.

The ii. Chapter.

Chryst is our aduocate & true lorde, and howe it is tried þe lyle children these thynges wypte vnto þou, that þe synne not. And if any man synne, we haue an aduocate wyth the father, Iesus Chyrste the righteous: and he it is that obtay-neth grace for our synnes, not for our synnes ene lye, but also for the synnes of the worlde.

And herby we are sure that we knowe hym if we kepe hys commandementes: * He that sayeth I knowe hym, and kepyeth not his comma-ndementes is a lyer, and the verite is not in hym But whoso kepeth hys worde, in hym is the loue of God perfect in dede, herby knowe we that we are in hym, he þe sayeth he bydeth in hym ought to walke euen as he walked.

Brethren, I wypte no newe commandemente vnto þou: but þe olde commandement, wyche þe haue had from the begynnyng. The olde commandement is the worde wyche þe haue hearde from the begynnyng. Agayne, a newe commandement I wypte vnto þou, that is true in hym and the same is true also in þou: for the darcke-nesse is passe, and the true lyghte nowe shyneth: * He that sayeth, howe that he is in the lyghte, and yet hateth hys brother, is in darckenes euen vntill thys tyme. He that loueth hys brother, & bydeth in the lyght, and there is no occasyon of euell in hym. He that hateth hys brother is in darckenes: and walketh in darckenesse: and cannot tell whether he goeth, because that darckenes hath blynded hys eyes.

Babes I wypte vnto þou, þow that your synnes are forgeuen þou: for hys names sake. I wypte vnto þou fathers howe that þe haue knowen hym that is from the begynnyng, I wypte vnto þou yowngemen, þow that þe haue overcome the wycked. I wypte vnto þou lyle children, how that þe haue knowne þe father. I haue wrytten vnto þou fathers, þow that if þe haue knowne hym that is from the begynnyng. I haue wrytten vnto þou yowngemen, howe that þe are stronge, and the worde of God abydeþ in þou, and þe haue overcome the wycked.

Se that þe loue not the worlde, neythre the thynges that are in the worlde. If any man loue the worlde, the loue of the father is not in hym.
For all that is in the worlde, (as the luste of the fleshe, and the lust of the eyes, & the pryde of lyfe) is not of the father: but of þe worlde. And þe worlde passeþ awaye, as doth the lylt tyme of but he that ful-fylleth the wylle of God abydeþ for euer.

Lyle children, it is the laste tyme, and as þe haue heard þow that Antechryst shall come, eue nowe are there many begone to be Antechrystes nynete: wherby we knowe, that it is the laste tyme. They went oute ffrom vs, but they were not of vs. For if they had bene of vs, they wolde no doubte, haue continued wyth vs. But that it myght appere, that they were not of vs.

Neuerthelesse, þe haue an cōtemente of hym that is hely, and þe knowe al thynges. I haue not wrytten vnto þou, as though þe knewe not the truth, but as though þe knewe it (and knowe also) that no lye cometh of truth. Whoso is a ly-ar but he that denyeth that Iesus is Chyrste: the same is Antechryst, that denyeth the father and the sonne. Whosoever denyeth the sonne, the same hath not the father.

Let thecefore abyde in þou that same wyche þe bearde from the begynnyng. If that wyche þe bearde from the begynnyng shall remayne in þou, þe also shall contynue in the sonne and in the father. And thys is the promyse that he hath promised vs: euen etenal lyfe.

These thynges haue I wrytten vnto þou, concernyng them that dysceue þou. And the annonyng wyche þe haue receaued of hym that dwelleth in þou. And þe neede not, that any man teache þou: but as the anoyntinge teacheth þou of all thynges, and it is true, and no ly, and as þe hath taught, euen so byde therin. And nowe becomes abyde in hym: that when he shall appere we maye be helde, and not to be made abashed of hym at hys commynge. If ye knowe that he is ryghteous, knowe also that euerye one whiche dothe ryghteousnes, is borne of hym.

The.iii. Chapter

The singuler loue of God toward vs, and howe we as gayne ouer to loue one another.

Luke. 11. f.
John. 1. b.

Holde, what loue the Father hath shewed on vs, that we shulde be called * (and be in deede the) sonnes of God. For this cause the worlde knoweth you not, because it knoweth not hym. Derlye beloved, now we are we the sonnes of God & yet it doth not appere, what we shalbe. But we knowe that when it shall appere: we shalbe lyke hym. For we shall se hym as he is. And euery man hath this hope in hym, purgeth hym selfe, eue as he also is pure. Whosoever committeth synne, conuyncteth vnto ryghteousnes also, & synne is vnto ryghteousnes. And ye knowe that he appered, to take awaye oure synnes, & in hym is no synne. As many as byde in hym synne not, but whosoever sinneth hath not sene hym, neither knoweth hym.

Gen. 1. a.
Job. 1. f.

Babes, let no man dysceane you, he that doth ryghteousnes is ryghteous euen as he is ryghteous. He that committeth synne, is of the dyuell * for the dyuell synneth cause the begynnyng. For this purpose appeared the sone of God, to loose the workes of the dyuell. Whosoever is borne of God, synneth not for his seede remaineth in him & he cannot synne, because he is borne of God. In this are the chyldren of God knowne, & the chyldren of the dyuell, whosoever doth not ryghteousnes is not of God neyther he that loueth not his brother.

Gen. 1. b.

For this is the tynnyng, that ye hearde from the begynnyng, that ye shulde loue one another not as * Cayn whych was of the wycked, and slew his brother. And wherfore slew he him? Because his owne workes were euell, and his brotheres good. * Maruayle not my brethren though the worlde hate you. We knowe, y we are translated from death vnto lyfe, because we loue the brethren. * He that loueth not his brother, abydeeth in death. Whosoever hateth his brother, is a manslayer.

Leuit. 1. b.

And ye knowe that no manslayer, hath eternal lyfe abydynge in hym. Hereby perceaue we loue because he gaue his lyfe, for vs: & we ought to geue our lyues for the brethren. But who so hath this worldes good & seeth his brother haue dede, and shutteth vp his compassyon from hym, howe dwelleth he that loueth of God in hym? My babes: let vs not loue in wordes, neither in tong but in dede & in verite. Hereby we knowe, that we are of the verite & can quyet our hertes before him. For yf our hert condemne vs, Gods greater then our hert, and knoweth all thynges. Derlye beloved, yf our hert condemne vs not, then haue we truste to God.

Deut. 1. b.

Warde and whatsoeuer we aske we receaue of hym, because we kepe his commaundementes, & do those thynges whych are pleasaunt in his sight. And this is his commaundement, y we beleue on the name of his sone Jesus Christ, and loue one another, as he gaue a commaundement. And he that kepeth his commaundementes, dwelleth in hym, & he in him, & hereby we knowe y he abideth in vs euen by the sperte whych he hath geue vs.

and 1. f.

The.iiii. Chapter

The difference of spertes and howe the sperte of God maye be knowen from the sperte of erreure. Of the sone of God, and of oure neyghbours.

Euerlye beloved * beleue not euerye sperte. but proue the spertes, whether they are of God or not, for manye false prophetes are gone out into the worlde. Herby shal ye knowe y spert of God. Euery sperte that confesseth that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh, is of God. And euery spert that confesseth not that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh is not of God. And this is y spert of Antichrist, of whome ye haue hearde, howe y he shuld come & eue nowe already is he in y worlde.

Mat. 1. c.
Deut. 1. a.
and 1. f.
Iacob 1. a.
1. John. 1. c.
Job. 1. b.

Little chyldren, ye are of God, and haue overcome them for greater is he that is in you, then he that is in the worlde. They are of the worlde, therfore speake they of the worlde, and the worlde heareth them. We are of God. He that knoweth God, heareth vs: he that is not of God, heareth vs not. Hereby knowe we the sperte of verite and the sperte of erreure.

Derlye beloved * let vs loue one another for loue cometh of God. And euery one that loueth is borne of God, & knoweth God. He that loueth not knoweth not God for God is loue. In this appeared the loue of God, to vs warde: because that * God sent his onely begotten sone into y worlde, that we myghte lyue thow we hym. Here in is loue, not that we loued God, but that he loued vs, and sent his sone to be the agreement for oure synnes.

Job. 1. b.
1. John. 1. b.

Derlye beloved, yf God so loued vs, we ought also to loue one another, * Romā hath sene God at any tyme. If we loue one another, God dwelleth in vs, and his loue is perfecte in vs. Herby knowe we that we dwell in hym, and he in vs: because he hath geuen vs of his sperte. And we haue sene, and do testyfy, that the father sente y sone to be the sauour of the worlde. Whosoever confesseth that Jesus is the sone of God in him dwelleth God, and he in God. And we haue knowe and beleued y loue that God hath to vs. God is loue, and he that dwelleth in loue, dwelleth in God, and God in hym. Herein is y loue perfect in vs, that we shulde haue truste in the day of Judgement: for as he is, euen so are we in this worlde. There is no feare in loue, but perfect loue casteth out feare, for feare hath the paynfulnes. He that feareth, is not perfecte in loue.

Gen. 1. b.
Iacob. 1. c.
Deut. 1. b.
John. 1. c.
and 1. f.

We loue hym, for he loued vs fyrst. If a man saye I loue God, and yet hate his brother he is a lyar. For howe can he that loueth not his brother whome he hath sene, loue God whome he hath not sene? And this commaundement haue we of hym that he whiche loueth God, shuld loue his brother also.

The.v. Chapter

To loue God, is to kepe his commaundementes. For by ouer cometh the worlde. For lastyng lyfe is in the sone of God. Of synne vnto vs.

Who soeuer beleueth that Jesus is Christ, he is borne of God. And euery one that loueth hym whiche begatte, loueth hym.

Mat. 1. c.
Deut. 1. a.
and 1. f.
Iacob 1. a.
1. John. 1. c.
Job. 1. b.

Joh. vii. 1 hym also whyche was he gotten of hym. * Ep thys we know, that we loue the chyliden of God wher we loue God, & kepe hys commaundmentes. For thys is the loue of God, that we kepe hys commaundmentes, and * his commaundme-tes are not greuous. For all that is bozne of God, ouercommeth the worlde. And thys is the * bytorn that ouercommeth the worlde, even oune sayeth. Who is it that ouercommeth the worlde, but he which beleueth, that Iesus is the sonne of God. Thys Iesus Chyrist is he that came by water and bloude, not by water only: but by water and bloude. And it is the spete that beareth wytnesse, because the spete is true.

Mat. xxi. 1 For there are thye whyche beare recorde in heauen, the Father, the wynde, and the holpe & hope. And these thye are one.

1. Cor. xii. 13 And thye whyche beare recorde on (in) earth, the spete, and water, and bloude: and these thye are one. If we receaue the wytnes of men & wytnes of God is greater. For thys is & wytnes of God on (that is) greater) whyche he testyfyed of hys sonne.

1. Joh. v. 10 He that beleueth on the sonne of God hath the wytnes in him self: & he that beleueth not God hath made hym a lyar because he beleued not the recorde that God gaue of hys sonne. And thys is the recorde, howe that God hath geuen vnto vs eternal lyfe, and this lyfe is in hys sonne. He that hath the sonne, hath lyf, and he that hath not the sonne of God, hath not lyf. These thynges haue I wyrtten vnto you that beleue on the name of & sonne of God, that ye maye knowe howe that ye haue eternall lyfe, and that ye maye beleue on & name of the sonne of God. And thys is the truste

1. Joh. v. 14 that we haue in hym that: if we aske any thing accordyng to hys wyll, he heareth vs. And if we knowe that he heareth vs whatsoeuer we aske we knowe & we haue the petcyons, & we desyre of hym. If anye man se hys brother synne a synne not vnto death, let hym aske, & he shall geue hym lyfe for them that synne not vnto death. Ther is a synne vnto death, for whyche I saye I not that a man shulde praye. Al vntygheousnes is synne, & there is a synne not vnto death. We knowe that whosoever is borne of God, synneth not, but he that is begotten of God, keper hym selfe and & wycked toucheth hym not. We knowe that we are of God, and the worlde is all together set on wyckednes. We knowe that the sonne of God is come, and hath geuen vs a mynde to knowe hym whyche is true: and we are in hym that is true: through hys sonne Iesu Chyriste. Thys same is verp God, and eternall lyfe. Babes kepe poure selues from Images. Amen.

Beloued, when I gaue all to exhorte you, that ye shuld continually labour in the fapth, whych was once geue vnto the saynoure God vnto wantonnes, & deny God (whych

¶ My mynde is therefore to put you in reme-vngodly synners haue spoken agaynst hym.

These are murmurers, complayners, wal-

The .ii. Chapter

¶ He rebyleth foure congregacions to amende, and he wyte the rewarde of hym that ouercometh.

A To the messenger of the congregacyon of Ephesus wyte: these thynges saye I, that holdeth the seven starres in his ryght hande, and that walketh in the myddes of the seven golden candelstykes, I know thy workes, and thy labour, and thy payence, and howe thou canst not forbear them which are euil and haste raynyed them whiche saye they are Apostles, and are not: and haste founde them lyars, and haste suffred. And haste payence: for my names sake haste laboured, and haste not fainted. Nevertheless I haue some what agaynst the, because thou haste left thy first loue. Remember therefore from whence thou art fallen, repent, and do the firste workes. Or els I wyll come vnto the shortly, and wyll remoue thy candelstyk out of his place, except þe repent. But this þe haste because þe hatest the dedes of þe Nicolaitans, whiche dedes I also hate. Let hym that hath eares, heare what the sprete sayeth vnto þe congregacions. Be fapthfull vnto the death, and I wyll gyue the a crowne of lyfe. Let hym that hath eares, heare, what the sprete sayeth to the congregacions. Let hym that hath eares, heare, what the sprete sayeth vnto the congregacions, to hym that ouercometh, wyll I gyue to eate of the manna that ys hyd, and wyll gyue hym a whyte stone, and in the stone a newe man wyrtten, whiche no man knoweth, sayunge he that recepueth yt. And vnto the messenger of the congregacyon of Thyatira wyte. ### The v Chapter.

The fifth the lambe opening the boke, and therfore the foure beastes, the .xxiii. elders, and the angels praise the lambe and do hym worshyppe.

A And I sawe in the ryghte hande of hym that sat in the trone, a boke written within and on the bakside, sealed with seven scales. And I sawe a strong, Angell, whiche preached with a loude voyce: Who is worthy to open the boke, and to lose the scales therof. And noman in heauen nor in earth nether vnder the earth, was able to open the boke nether to loke thereon. And I wepte much, because no man was founde worthy to open and to reade the boke, nether to loke thereon.

23 And one of the elders sayd vnto me wepe not: Beholde, a lyon of þe trybe of Juda þat is of Dauid, hath obtayned to open the boke, and to lose the seven scales therof. And I behelde, & lo in the middes of the seate, and of the foure beastes, and in the myddes of the elders, stode a lambe as though he had ben kylled, hauing seven hornes, and seven eyes, whiche are the seven spretes of God sente into all the worlde. And he came, and toke the boke out of the ryghte hande of hym that sat vpon the seate. And when he had taken the boke, þe .iiii. beastes & .xxiii. elders fell down before þe lambe, hauing euery one of them, harpes & golden vialles full of odours, whiche are the prayers of saintes, & they song a new song, sayeng thou art worthy to take the boke, & to open þe scales therof for þu wast kylled, & hast redeemed vs by thy bloude out of all kinredes, and tonges, & people, & nations, & hast made vs vnto our God, kinges, & prestes, and we shall

C prayne on þe earth. And I behelde, & I herde þe voyce of many angels about þe trone, & about þe beast & the elders, & I hearde thousandes & thousandes, sayeng with a loude voyce: Worthy is the lambe þat wast kylled to receaue power, and riches, & wysdom, & strength, & honour, & gloire, and blessing. And al þe creatures which are in heauen, and on þe earth, & vnder þe earth, & in the see, and all þat are in the, herde I sayeng blessing, honour, gloire, & power be vnto hym þat sitteth vpon the seate, & vnto þe lambe for euermore. And þe foure beastes said: Amen. And þe .xxiii. elders fel vpon thei faces, and worshypped him that lyueth for euermore.

The vi Chapter.

The lambe openeth the scales, and many thynges folowe the opening therof.

A And I sawe, when the lambe opened one of the scales, and I herde one of the foure beastes saye, as it were the noyse of thonder come and se and I sawe.

And beholde there was a whyte horse and he þat sat on him hadde a bowe, and a crowne was geuen vnto hym, & he wet forth conquering and for to overcome. And when he had opened the second scale, I herde the second beast saye: come and se. And ther wente out another horse that was red & power was geue to hym þat sat thereon, to take peace from the earth, and that they shulde kyll one another. * And ther was geuen vnto hym a

23 great swearde. And when he had opened the thyrde scale I herde the thyrde beast saye: come & se. And I behelde, and lo, a blacke horse: and he that sat on hym had a payre of balaunces in hys hande. And I herd a voyce in the myddes of the foure beastes, saye a measure of wheate for a peny and thre measures of barley for a peny & oyle & wyne se þu hast not. And when he had opened þe fourth scale, I herde the voyce of the fourth beast saye come and se. * I lokyd, And behold a pale horse and hys name that satte on hym was death, & hel folowed after him, and power was geue vnto the our the fourth part of the earth, to kyll with swerde and wyth hunger, and wyth death, that cometh of vermen of the earth.

C And whē he had opened the fyfte scale, I sawe vnder the altare the soules of them that were kylled for the word of God, & for the testimony which they had, & they cryed wyth a loude voyce, sayeng how longe taryest thou Lorde, holy & true, to iudge & to auenge our bloud on them þat dwell on the earth. And longe whyte garmentes were geuen vnto euery one of them. And it was sayd vnto them, that they shulde rest yet for a lytle season vntyll the nombre of thei fellows, and brethern, & of them that shuld be kylled as they were, were fulfilled.

D And I behelde, whē he had opened the sytte scale and lo, ther was a great earthquake and the sunne was as blacke as sacke clothe made of bere. And the moone wexed alen as bloude, and the starres of heauen fel vnto the earth, euen as a fygge tree casteth from her vntymelye fygges, when she is shaken of a myghty wynd. And heauen banysht awaye, as a scroll when it is rolled together. And all mountaynes and yles, were moued oute of thei places. And the kynges of the earth, and the great men, and the ryche men and the chiefe captaynes, and the myghty men, and euery bondman, and euery free man hydd them selues in denes, and in rockes of the hylls. * and sayd to the hylls and rockes fall on vs and hyde vs from the presence of hym þat sitteth on the seate, and from the wrath of the lambe. for the great day of his wrath is come, and who is able to endure.

¶ The seventh gate is opened, there is silence in heaven, the four angels blow the trumpet, and great plagues follow upon the earth.

there was splence in heauen aboute all sayntes, ascēded vp before God out of the aun- 23 fyllēd it with fyre of the aulter, and castēd it in-drynges and lyghtenynges, and earthquakes.

And the seven aungels whychi had the seue

The fyrst aungel blew, & there was made hable were caste into the earthe and the thyrde parte þe secode aungel blew & as it were a great mou and, the thyrde parte of the see turned to bloude and the thyrde part of the creatures which had stroyed. And the thyrde aungel blew, & ther fel a great starre from heauen, burnyng as it were a lampe, & it fell into the thyrde parte of the ey uers, & into fountaines of waters & the name of the starre is called Wormwood. And the thyrde parte was turned to wormwood. And many me dyed of the waters, because they were made byt ter. And the fourth aungell blew, & the thyrde part of the sunne was smitten, & the thyrde part thyrde part of the was darkened. And the daye was smittē, þe thyrde part of it shuld not shyne

The seconde booke is paste, and beholde, the thyrde booke wyl come anone.

D And the seventh aungel blew, and ther were made great voyces in heauen, sayeng: þe kyngdomes of this worlde are oure Lordes, and his E chyltes, & he shal reigne for euer more. Amen. And the. xiiij. elders, whiche sate before God on theyr seates, fell vpon theyr faces, and worshipped God sayeng we geue the thanks O Lord God almyghty: which art & wast, and art to come, for thou haste receaued thy great myght, and hast raygned. And the naciōs were angry, and thy wrath is come, and the tyme of the deade þe they shulde be iudged and that thou shuldest geue rewarde vnto thy seruantes the prophetes and sayntes, and to the þe feare thy name small and great and shuldest destroy the, which destroy þe earth. And the temple of God was opened in heauen, and there were sene in his temple, þe ark of his testament, and there folowed lychtenynges, and voyces, and thondrynge, and earthquake, and moche hayle.

The. xii. Chapter.

The seventh aungel blew with his trumpet. There appeared in heauen a woman clothed with the sunne: and charrell froblech with the dragon, whiche persecuted the woman.

And there appeared a great wonder in heauen: A woman clothed with the sunne and þe mone vnder her fete, and vpon her head a crowne of. xii. starres. And she was with childe, and cryed trauelynge in byrth, and payned redy to be deliuered. And there appeared another wonder in heauen, for beholde, a great red dragon haupng. vii. heades and ten hornes and seuen crownes vpon his heades: and his tayle due the thyrde part of the starres. 23 and caste them to the earth. And the dragon stode before the woman which was ready to be deliuered, for to deuoure her chylde as soone as it were borne. And she brought forth a man chylde, whiche shulde rule all nacions with a rod of yron. And her sonne was taken vp vnto God, and to his seate. And the woman fledde into wyldernes, where she had a place, prepared of God, that they shulde fede her there a. 42 ii. hundred and. lx. dayes. And ther was a great battayll in heauen, Michael and his anngels fought with þe dragon, & the dragon fought and his aungels & preuailed not, neither was theyr place founde any more in heauen. And the great dragon, þe olde serpent, called the deuyl & Sathanas, was cast out. Which deceaueth al the world. And he was cast into þe earth & his aungels were cast out also. 24 And I heard a loud voyce, sayenge in heauen is now made salua-cyon & strengthe & the kyngdome of oure God, and the power of hys Christ. 25 For the accuser of our brethren, is cast downe which accused them before (our) God daie & night. And they overcame hym by the bloude of the Lamb, & by the worde of theyr testimonye, and they loued not theyr lyues vnto þe death. Therfore reioyce heuens, and ye þe dwell in them. 26 Wo to the inhabytors of the earth, and of the see for the deuyl is come downe vnto you whiche hath the great wrath, because he knoweth þe he hath but a shorte tyme.

And whē the dragon saw þe he was caste vnto the earth, he persecuted the woman, whiche brought forth the mā chylde. And to the woman were geuen two wynges of a great Eagle, that she myght flye into the wyldernes into her place, where she is nourished for a tyme, tymes, & halfe a tyme, fro the presence of the serpente. And the dragon cast out of hys mouth water after the woman as it had bene a ryuer, because she shulde beue ben caught of þe floude. And þe earth holpre the woman and þe earth opened her mouth & swallowed vp the ryuer, whych þe dragon cast out of his mouth. And the dragon was wrath with þe woman, and wente, and made warre wth the remaunt of her seede, whiche kepe the comaundmentes of God, & haue the testimony of Iesus Christ. And he stode on the see sand.

The. xiii. Chapter.

A beast riseth out of the see with seuen heades and ten hornes. Another beast cometh out of þe earth with two hornes.

And I sawe a beaste ryse out of the see, haupng seuen heades, and ten hornes, and vpon his hornes ten crownes, and vpon hys heade, the name of blasphemie. And the beast whych I saw, was lyke a catt of the mountayne, and hys fete were as the fete of a beare, & his mouth as þe mouth of a lyon. And the dragon gaue hym hys power and hys seate, and grete authorite: and I sawe one of hys heades as it were wounded to deathe, & his deadly wounde was healed. And al þe world wōdred at þe beast, & they worshipped the dragon, whych gaue power vnto the beast, and they worshipped the beast, sayeng. Who is lyke vnto the beaste? Who is able to warre wth hym?

And there was geuen vnto hym a mouth, that spake great thynges & blasphemies, & power was geue vnto hym, to do. 2 xlii. monethes. And he opened hys mouth vnto blasphemie agaynst God, to blaspheme his name and hys tabernacle, & them that dwell in heauen. And it was geue vnto him to make warre wth the sayntes, & to overcome them. And power was geuen him ouer al kyndred, and people, and tonge and naciō, and al þe dwell vpon the earth worshipped hym: whose names are not wrytē in the booke of lyfe of þe Lamb, whych was kylled fro the begynning of the world. 3 If any man haue an eare let hym heare. he that leadeth into captiuite shall go into captiuite: & he that kylleth wth a sword must be kylled wth a sword. out of the earth and had two hornes like a labe, and he spake as dyd the dragon. And he dyd al þe fyrst beste coude do in hys presence, and he caused the earthe, & them whych dwelt therein, to worshyp the fyrst beste whose dedlye wounde was healed. And he dyd great wonders, so that he made fyre come downe from heauē in þe sight of men. And deceaued the þe dwelt on the earthe, by the meanes of those spgnes whych he had power to do in the syght of the best, saying to the þe dwelt on the earth that they shulde make an ymage vnto the best, whych had the wounde of a swerde, and dyd lyue.

D And he had powre to geue a sperte vnto the ymage of the beste & that the ymage of the best shulde speake, and shuld cause that as many as wolde not worshyppe the ymage of the beste, shulde be kylled. And he made all, both smal and great, ryche and pore, fre and bonde, to receaue a marke in the right handes or in the foreheddes. And that no man might bye or sell, save he that had the marke or the name of the beste, other the nombre of hys name. Here is wysdom. Let him that hath wpt, count the nombre of the best. For it is the nombre of a man, and his nombre is fyre hundred, thre score and fyre.

The lambe stonde vpon the mount syon, & the hundred and fourty and six thousand were with him. The angel that had the seven vials of the wrath of God, and the seven angels of the wrath of God.

A And I looked & lo, a lambe stode on the mount syon, & with him an hundred and fourty thousand, hauing his name & the name of his fathers nan & witten in the foreheddes. And I herd a voyce from heauen, as þe sound of many waters, & as þe voyce of a great thonder. And I herd þe voyce of harpers harpyng wyth the harpes. And they songe as it were a newe songe, before the seat, and before the fourte bestes, and the elders & no man man coulde learne the songe, but the hundred and xliii. whych were redmed from the earthe. These are they, whych were not defyled wyth

B women, for they are vyrgyns. These follow the lambe wher soeuer he goeth. These were redmed fro nē, beyng fyrst frutes vnto God & to þe labe, & in the mouthes was found no gyle. For they are about spot before þe throne of God.

And I sawe another angel fye in the myddes of heauē hauinge þe euerglastyng Gospell, to preache vnto them that lye and dwel on þe earth, and to all nacions, kynredes, and tonges & people, saying wyth a loude voyce: * Feare God, & geue honour to hym, for þe houre of hys iudgement is come & worship hym þe made heauen and earth, the see, & fountaynes of water. And ther followed an other angel saying * Babilō is falle is fallen þe great cytie, for she made all nacions drynke of the wyne of her fornicacion.

And the thyrde angel followed them saying wyth a loude voyce: If anye man worshyp the best & hys ymage, & receaue hys mark in his forehead, or in his hand, the same shal drynke þe wyne of þe wrath of God, whych is powred in þe cup of hys wrath. And he shal be punished in fyre and byrmston, before the holy aungels, & before the lambe.

And the smoke of thepy torment ascendeth vpermore. And they haue no reste daye nor night, whych worshyp the best and hys ymage and whosoeuer receaucth the pynt of his name here is the pacience of saintes. Here are they þe kepe the commaundementes and the saythe of Jesu. And I herd a voyce from heauen sayeng vnto me, wyte. Blessed are the dead, whiche hereafter dye in the Lorde, euen so sayth the sperte: that they rest fro thepy labours, but they workes folowe them.

D And I looked, and beholde a whyte cloude and vpon the cloude one sytting lyke vnto the sonne of man, hauinge on hys heade a golden crowne, and in his hande a sharpe spykel. And an other angel came out of the temple cryenge w a loud voyce to hym ysat on the cloude. * Thrust in thy sickle & reape, for thy tyme is come to reape for the corne of the earth is ripe. And he ysate on the cloude thrust in his spykel on the earth, & the earth was reaped.

Joel. iii. c.

And another angel came out of the temple, whych is in heauen, hauinge also a sharpe spykle. And another angel came out from the auter, whiche had power ouer fyre, and cryed wyth a loud crye to hym that hadde the sharpe spykle, and sayd: thruste in thy sharpe spykle, & gather the clusters of the earthe, for her grapes are ripe. And the angel thruste in hys sharpe spykle on þe earth & cut down the grapes of the vynegarde of the earth and caste them into the greete wynefat of the wrath of God, and the wynefat was troden without the cytpe, & bloud came out of the fatt, euen vnto þe horse byddes, by þe space of a thousand, and vi, c. furlonges.

The xv. Chapter.

The seven seuen aungels: hauinge seven vials full of the wrath of God.

A And I sawe another sygne in heauen great and merueylous, seuen aungels, hauinge the seuen laste plagues, for in them is fulfilled the wrath of God. And I sawe as it were a glasse see, myngled wyth fyre, & them þe had gotten victory of the best, and hys ymage and of the nombre of hys name, stonde on the glasse see, hauinge the harpes of God and they songe the song of Moyses the seruaunte of God and the songe of the Lambe, saying. Great, and merueylous are thy workes. * Lorde God almighty, iuste and true are thy wayes, thou kynge of sayntes. Who shal not feare o Lorde, & glorifye thy name: for thou onely arte holy & al gentyles shal come and worshyp before the for thy iudgements are made manifest.

B And after that, I looked, and beholde, the temple of the tabernacle of testymonye was open in heauen, and the seuen aungels came oute of the temple whych hadde the seuen plagues, clothed in pure and byghte linnen, and hauinge thepy brestes girded wyth golden girdles. And one of the fourte bestes gaue vnto the seuen aungels seuen golden vialles full of the wrath of God, whych he lyuethe for euermore. And the temple was full of the smoke of the glory of God and of his power, and no man was able to entre into the temple, till the seven plagues of the seven aungels were fulfilled.

The xvi. Chapter.

The aungels poure out their vialles full of wrath.

And I herde a grete voyce out of the temple saying to the seven aungels: go your wayes, poure out your vialles of wrath upon the earth. And the first aungell wente and powred out his viall vpon the earth, & there fell a noy- some, and a soze botch vpon the men whych had the marke of the beaste, & vpon the whiche wor- shipped his ymage. And the secōde aungell shed out his viall vpon the see, & it turned as it were into the bloude of a dead man: and euery lyving thynge dyed in the see. And the thyrde aungell shed out his viall vpon the ryuers & fountaynes of waters, and they turned to bloude. And I herde an aungell say: Lord, whych art & wast, thou art ryghteous and holy, because thou hast geue- such iudgementes, for they shed out the bloude of sayntes, and prophetes, and therfore haste thou geuen them bloude to dryncke: for they are wor- thy. And I heard another say: euen so Lord God almyghty, true & ryghteous are thy iudgementes.

And the fourth aungell powred out his viall on the sunne, & power was geuen vnto hym to brenne men wth heat of fyre, & the men ragged in great heat: & spake euell of the name of God, whiche hath powre ouer those plagues, & they repen- ted not of their euell dedes, to geue him glorie. And the fyfte aungell powred out his viall vpon the seate of the beaste, & his kyngdō waxed darcke, & they gnawed their tonges for sorowe, & blasphem- ed the God of heauē for sorowe & payne of their sores, and repented not of their dedes.

And the syxte aungell poured out his viall vpon the grete ryuer Euphrates, & the water dried vp, that the wayes of the kynges of the east shuld be prepared. And I sawe there vncleane spretes lyke frogges come oute of the mouth of the dragon, and out of the mouth of the beaste, & out of the mouth of the false prophet. For they are the spretes of deuils workynge myracles to go out vnto the kynges of the earth & of the whole worlde, to gather them to the battayll of that great daye of God almyghty. * Beholde, I come as a thefe. Happy is he that watcheth, & kepeth his garmentes, lest he walke naked, & me- se lyke frithynges. And he gathered the together into a place called in the hebreue toge Armagedō.

And the seventh aungell powred out his viall into the ayre. And there came a grete voyce out of heauē fro the seate, sayinge: it is done. And there folowed voyces, thondrynges, and lygh- tenynges, & there was a great earthquake, such as was not sence men were vpon the earth, so mightye an earthquake and so great. And the great cytie was deuyded into thre partes, and the cy- ties of all nacions fel. And great Babilō came in remembraunce before God, to geue vnto her the cup of the wyne of the fiercenes of his wrath. Euery yll also fled awaye, and the mountay- nes were not founde.

And there fell a grete hayle (as it had bentales) out of heauen vpon the men, and the men blasphemed God: because of the plague of the hayle, for it was grete, and the plague of it, soze.

The xvii. Chapter.

The description of the woman sittynge vpon the beaste wth ten hornes.

And ther came one of the aungels, which had the seven vialles & tal- ked wth me, sayinge vnto me: come, I wyll shewe vnto the, the iudgement of the grete whore the sitteth vpon many waters, wth whom haue comytted fornicacion the kynges of the earth, & the inhabytors of the earth, are dronke wth the wyne of her fornicacyon. And the sprete carped me awaye into the wyldernes. And I sawe a woman syt vpon a roose colored beaste, full of names of blasphemye, whych had seven heades and ten hornes. And the woman was arrayed in purple and rose coloure, and dec- ked wth golde, precious stone, and pearles, & had a cup of golde in her hande, full of abhomi- nations and fylthynges of her fornicacion. And in her forehead was a name wyrtten, a mystery, great Babilon the mother of whordome & ab- hominations of the earth. And I sawe the wo- man droncken wth the bloude of sayntes, and wth the bloude of the wyrtelles of Iesu. And when I sawe her I wondred wth grete meruaile.

And the aungell sayd vnto me: wherfore mar- uylest thou? I wyll shewe the the mystery of the woman, & of the beaste the beareth her, whych hath seven heades and ten hornes. The beaste the thou seest, was, and is not, & shal ascende out of the bot- tomlesse ppyt, and shal go into perdition, & they that dwell on the earth shal wondre (whose na- mes are not wyrtten in the booke of lyfe frome the begynninge of the world) when they behold the beaste that was and is not. And here is a mynde that hath whordome.

The seven heades are seven mountaynes, on which the woman sitteth, they are also seven kynges. Some are falle, and one is, and another is not yet come. And when he cometh, he must contynue a shorte space. And the beaste the was, and is not, is euen the epyght, and is one of the se- uen, and shal go into destruction. And the ten hornes whych thou sawest are ten kynges whiche haue receaued no kyngdom as yet, but shal receaue power as kynges at one houre wth the beaste. These haue one mynde, & shal geue their power and strength vnto the beaste. These shal lyght wth the lambe, and the lambe shal ouer- come them. * For he is Lord of lordes, & kyng of kynges, and they that are on his syde, are called, and cholen, and faythfull.

And he said vnto me the waters which thou sawest, wher the whore sitteth, are people & folke, and nacions, & toges. And the ten hornes, whiche thou sawest vpon the beaste, are they that shal hate the whore, & shal make her desolate & na- ked, and shal eat her flesh, & burne her wyte.

And he shall rule them with a rod of yron, and he trode the wyne press of fearnes and wrath of almyghty God. And hath on his vesture & on hys thigh a name wrytten: Kyng of kynges, and Lorde of Lordes. And I sawe an aungel stande in þe sonne and he cryed wpth a loude voyce, sayenge. to all the foules that flye by the myddes of heauen: come and gather poure selues together vnto þe supper of the grete God, that ye maye cate flesch of kynges, and the fleshe of the hye captaynes, and the fleshe of myghty men, and the fleshe of horses, and of them that spt on them, & the fleshe of all free men and bonde men and of small and grete. And I sawe the beste, and the kynges of the earth, and theyr warriers gathered together to make batell agaynst him þe sat on þe horse and agaynst his soundpays. And the beste was taken, & wth hym þe false prophete þe wrought myracles befoze hym, wpth whiche he deceaued them that receaued the bestes marke, and them that worshypped hys ymage. These both were cast quicke into a ponde of fyre burnyng wpth byrm stone: and the remnaunte were slayne wpth the swerde of hym that sat upon the horse, whiche swerde proceded out of hys mouth, and all the foules were fulfylled wpth theyr fleshe.

The xx. Chapter.

The dragon is bounde for a. thousand yeres. The dead arysse, and receaue iudgements.

I sawe an aungell come downe from heauen, hauinge the keye of the bottomlesse pyt, and a great chayne in hys hand. And he toke the dragon that olde serpent, which is the deuyl and Satan, & he bounde hym a thousand yeres: and cast hym into a bottomlesse pyt and he shut hym vp, and set a seale on hym that he shulde deceaue the people nomore, til the thousand yeres were fulfilled. And after that he must be loosed for a lytel season. And I sawe seates, and they sat upon them, and iudgement was geuen vnto them: and I sawe the soules of they were beheaded for the wytnes of Jesu, & for the worde of God: and whych had not worshypped the beste nether hys ymage nether had taken hys marke vpon theyr forhedes, or in their handes: and they lyued, & raygned wpth Christ a. thousand yere: but the other of the deed men lyued not agayne, vntill the thousand yere were fulfilled. This is that fyrste resurreccyon, Blessed & holy is he, þe hath part in the fyrste resurreccyon. For on such shall the second death haue no power but they shalbe the Priestes of God & of Christ, & shal raygne wpth hym a thousand yere. * And when the thousand yeres are expired, Satan shalbe loosed oute of hys prysyn, & shal go oute to disceane the people, which are in the thre quarters of the earth, Gog & Magog, to gather them together to battel, whose nombre is as the sand of the see: & they went in the playne of the earth: and compassed the tentes of the sayntes aboute, and the beloued cty. And fyre came downe fro God out of heauen, & deuoured them: & the deuyl þe deceaued them, was cast into a lake of fyre & byrm stone, where the beste & the false prophetes shal be tormented daye and nyghte for evermore.

And I sawe a great white seate, & hym þe sat on it, fro whose face fled away both fere & haue & the place was nomore founde. And I sawe the dead, both great & small stande befoze God. And the booke was opened, & another booke was opened, whiche is the booke of lyfe, and the dead were iudged of those thynges which were wrytten in the booke accordyng to theyr dedes, and the see gaue vp the dead whych were in her, and death, & hell deliuered vp the dead, whych were in them: and they were iudged every man accordyng to hys dedes. And death and hell were cast into the lake of fyre. This is the seconde death. And whosoever was not founde wrytten in the booke of lyfe, was cast into the lake of fyre.

The xxi. Chapter.

In this chapter is descrybed the newe and spirituall Ierusalem.

I sawe a newe heauen & a newe earth. For the fyrste heauen and the fyrste earth were vanyshed away: & there was nomore see. * And I sawe the holpe ctye, newe Ierusalem come downe from God out of heauen prepared as a wyfe garnished for her husband. And I hearde a grete voyce out of heauen saying beholde the tabernacle of God is wth me and he wyll dwell wth them. And they shalbe hys people, and God hym self shalbe wth them and be theyr God. * And God shal wype away all teares from theyr eyes. And ther shalbe nomore death, nether sorowe, nether cryng, nether shal ther be any more pain, for the olde thynges are gone. And he that sat upon the seate, sayde * Beholde, I make all thynges newe. * And he sayd vnto me: wryte, for these wordes are fapthfull and true.

And he said vnto me: it is done, I am Alpha and Omega, the begynnyng & the ende I wyll geue to hym that is athyrst, of the well of the water of lyfe, fre. he þe ouercommeth shal enheret all thynges, and I wyll be his God, and he shalbe my sonne. But the fearfull and vnbeleuyng, & the abhominable, & murtherers, and whoremongers & forcerers, and ydolaters and all theyr kindes shal haue theyr parte in the lake which burneth wth fyre and byrm stone, which is the seconde death.

And there

And there cam vnto me one of the seven ang-gels which had the seven vyalles full of the seuen laste plages: and talked with me sayenge: come hither, I wpll shewe the the byrde, the lambes wyse. And he carped me awaye in the spete to a greate and an hye mountayne, & he shewed me the great citie holy Jerusalem, descendynge out of heauen from God: haupng the byrghtenes of God. And her shynng was lyke vnto a stone most precious, even lyke a Iasper cleare as Cristall: and had walles greate and hye, and had .xii. gates and at the gates .xii. angels: and names written, which are the names of .p. xii. trybes of Israell: on the East part .iii. gates, and on y Northpart .iii. gates, and to-wardes y South .iii. gates, and fro the West .iii. gates, & the wal of y citie had .xii. fundacions: and in the .p. xii. names of the lambes .xii. Apostles.

And he that talked with me, had a golden rede to measure the citie withall and y gates ther of and y wall therof. And the citie was built .iiii. square, and y length was as large as the bredth, and he measured y citie with the (golden) rede xii. M. furlonges, and y length and the bredth, and the heygth of it, were equall. And he measured the wal therof: an. C. lxxv. cubits: the measure y the aungell had, was after the measure that man vsyth. And the buldng, of the wall of it was Iasper. And the citie was pure golde lyke vnto clere glasse, and the foundacions of the wall of the cytie were garnysht with all maner of precious stones. The fyrst foundation was Iaspis, the second Saphyre, the thyrde a Calcedony, the fourth an Emeralde, the fyfte Sardonix, the syxt Sardoos, the seventh Chrisolphte, the eyght Berall, the .ix. a Topas, the tenth a Crisoloprasos, the eleventh a Iacinte, the twelue an Amatist. The twelue gates were twelue pearles, every gate was of one pearle, and the strete of the citie was pure gold as tho-rowe shynng glasse. And I sawe no temple therin. For the Lorde God almyghty and the labe are y temple of it. * And the citie hath no nede of the sonne, nether of y mone to lighten it.
For the byrghtnes of God ddy light it, and the labe was the lyght of it. And the people which are saued shall walke in the lyght of it. And the kynge of the earth shall byngge theyr gloze and (honor) vnto it. * And the gates of it are not shut by day. For ther shalbe no nyght ther.

And into it shall they byngge the gloze and honor of the nations. And there shall enter into it none vncleane thing, nether whatsoever worketh ab-hemination or maketh lyen: but they onely whiche are written in the lambes boke of lyfe.

The xii. Chapter.

¶ The .xii. chapter of the water of lyfe, the fruitfulness and lyght of the cytye of God. The Lorde geueth mer his seruautes warnng of thynges to come the aungell wpll not be worshipped. To the worde of God maye nothyng be added, nor mynyshed.

And he shewed me a pure ryuer of water of lyfe, cleare as Crystall: procedynge oute of the seate of God, and the lambe.
In the myddes of the strete of it, & of ether syde at the ryuer, was ther wod of lyfe: whiche bare twelue maner of frutes: and gaue frute euerye monethe: and the leues of the wode serued to heale the people wythall. And there shalbe no more curse, but the seate of God and the lambe shalbe in it: and hys seruautes shall serue him.

And they shal se his face, and his name shalbe in theyr forheddes. * And ther shalbe no nyght there, and they nede no candle, nether lyghte of the sonne: for the Lorde God geueth them lyght and they shall reygne for evermore

And he sayde vnto me: these sayenges are saythfull and true. And the Lorde God of the ho-lye Prophetes sent hys Aungell to shewe vnto hys seruautes, the thynges whych must shortly ly befulfyll. Beholde I, come shortly. * Happy is he y kepeth the sayeng of the prophete of thys boke. I am John, whych saw these thynges and herd them. And whan I had herde & sen * I fell downe to worshyppe before the fete of the aungell, whiche shewed me these thynges.
And he sayd vnto me: se thou do it not, for I am thy felow seruaunt of thy byethren the Prophetes, and of them whiche kepe the sayenges of the prophete of thys boke. But worship God.

And he sayd vnto me: seale not the sayenges of the prophete of thys boke. For the tyme is at hande. he that doeth euell, let hym do euell styl: and he whych is fylth, let hym be fylth styl: & he that is ryghteous, let hym be more ryghteous and he that is holy, let hym be more holy. And beholde, I come shortly, and my reward is with me, to geue every man accordynge as his dedes shalbe. I am Alpha & Omega, the begynnynge and the ende: the fyrst and the laste. Blessed are they that do hys commaundementes, that they power maye be in the tree of lyfe, and maye entre in thorowe the gates into the cytie. * For wythoute shalbe dogges and inchaunters, and whormongers, and murtherers, and ydolaters, and whosoever loueth or maketh leasynge.

I Iesus sent myne aungell, to testyfy vnto you these thynges in the congregacions. I am the roote and the generation of Dauid, and the bryght mornynge starre. And the spete and the byrde saye: come. And let him that heareth, saye also come. * And let hym that is a thyrt: come.
And let whosoever wyl, take of y water of lyfe, fre. I testyfy vnto every man that heareth the wordes of the prophete of thys boke: * yf any man shall adde vnto these thynges, God shall adde vnto hym y plages that are wyrtten in this boke. And yf any man shal mynysh of the wor-des of the boke of thys prophete, God shal take awaye hys parte oute of the boke of lyfe, & oute of the holy cytie, and from the thynges whiche are wyrtten in thys boke. he whiche testyfyeth these thynges sayth: be it. I come quickly. Amen.

Even so come Lorde Iesu. The grace of our Lorde Iesu Christ be wyth you all. Amen.
